

The comparisons was between pigs and Senators.

PRESIDENT: Senator Carpenter.

SENATOR CARPENTER: You are comparing us to pigs, is that it? How much corn have you eaten since you have been down here?

PRESIDENT: Senator DeCamp, did you care to respond?

SENATOR DE CAMP: Yes, I would care to respond. Do you wish to know exactly how much corn I have eaten or what is this particular question, I'll be happy to answer it.

PRESIDENT: Senator Carpenter, do you want to ask the question directly?

SENATOR CARPENTER: I asked if you were talking about Senator eating corn, and I presume you are talking about yourself, and how much have you devoured?

SENATOR DE CAMP: Senator Carpenter, since you have answered the question, I used the principle that you have used here many times, which is an analogy or a story to tell or illustrate a point. The pigs in the story took something for nothing and thought that they were getting something but they were giving up their freedom. Now I hate to repeat it and explain it in such simple terms, but since it was confused, I think that it is important that I do that. PRESIDENT: Senator Carpenter, just a minute....

SENATOR CARPENTER: You are entitled to your opinion and I am entitled to mine. I don't think that you have a basis to make the statement that you just made. I don't think that you are reflecting your own opinion you are reflecting that of others who are trying to stimulate for you to do what they can't do themselves. Now in 851 you have a bill there that allows the increase of the usery rates. In that case you are attempting to take care of the big hogs and now you are trying...

PRESIDENT: Senator Carpenter...

SENATOR CARPENTER: YOU ARE trying to crush the small children. I think that you ought to be held accountable for it.

PRESIDENT: Next to speak is Senator Cavanaugh, Syas, Keyes.

SENATOR CAVANAUGH: Mr. President, what is 972 about?

PRESIDENT: (no response)

SENATOR CAVANAUGH: I think that as I indicated this morning if we got back into this debate it wouldn't serve any useful purpose and it hasn't and I think that the only productive comment made here was by Senator Nore, when it was indicated that Senator DeCamp has HORse Sense. I think that that is exactly the kind of sense that Senator DeCamp has and we ought
