SENATOR STAMMER: Mr. President, I would quickly like to echo the words of Senator Lewis. I have seen millions of dollars go to the tube and the foyers I've been here because of the delay of building projects. If this department would save 1% of what I think it could save, I think it will more than pay for itself.

PRESIDENT: Senator Fred Carstens.

SENATOR FRED CARSTENS: I'd like to know if somebody could answer this question, whether or not I'd be qualified to fill this job as building commissioner. If so, I want to announce my reluctant willingness. But I will sacrifice myself to accept this job. If it is available.

PRESIDENT: Better than advertising in the Journal. Senator Anderson ... Senator Anderson.

SENATOR ANDERSON: Mr. President, and members of the Legislature. I'd just like to add that in addition to the other things that have been spoken of concerning this bill. It does give the state government capability of dealing with the serious parking problem which is arising around the capital also. And this is another reason why I think it should be passed.

PRESIDENT: Senator Clark.

SENATOR CLARK: I would think to answer Senator Mahoney. That this is not set up as a separate bureauarcy. It merely adds to the bureauarcy that we already have. It strengthens it. Gives them some authority to do what they should be doing. And Senator Stahmer touched on it, is the fact that these building are started they are not expedited. It's costing about 1% a month to do these particular buildings because they do not expedite it. They are not capable of it for some reason or other, and this will give this authority to whoever has to do it.

PRESIDENT: Senator Marsh, you may close.
