

SENATOR GOODRICH: They can lift the license of the offending person.

SENATOR CLARK: They just get another broker then?

SENATOR GOODRICH: If the Real Estate Commission went along with that, sure.

SENATOR CLARK: Okay, thank you.

PRESIDENT: Senator Chambers, did you wish to speak to this?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Yes, I'm going to speak to this and not to Senator Goodrich. That was an attempt at being funny, Senator Goodrich. Members of the Legislature, even if you had a broker in charge of this school, and the broker was a crook, dress a crook as you will, a crook is a crook still. So I don't even know what Senator Goodrich is trying to do here, other than clutter up the bill. Senator Stoney is talking about schools which are functioning adequately now. Senator Goodrich, when he talked about a school under 41 indictments, he was talking about a cosmetology school. He's talking about a situation where Mr. Higley, with the Health Department, knew about it and, because of some political pressures in Omaha, did not do anything about it. He's talking about a situation where Mr. Higley came before the Government and Military Affairs Committee and, in response to some questions I asked him, gave some false information. Senator Goodrich, I promise you and Mr. Higley that I'm going to run all that to the ground. If I find out that Mr. Higley deliberately fabricated in this instance, I'm going to talk to whoever his boss might be. But I think that particular subject is totally separate from the amendment Senator Stoney offered. As Senator Stoney heard me say to him earlier today, we don't often get a chance to be together on an issue. Now, that I'm so 100 percent with him on this one, I want to make the most of it. Senator Goodrich, I have to oppose your amendment, or whatever it is that you are back there doing right now, and say that the purpose of this bill, when it was originally drafted I'm sure, was not to exclude any groups of people who are adequately and properly functioning now. Since you did not see fit to offer these kind of requirements, prior to the introduction of this bill, since you haven't mentioned any pressing needs for what you are trying to do, I would suggest that we, the rest of us in the Legislature, look at what Senator Stoney's amendment was. It is merely saying that what is may be allowed to remain as it is. Since nobody has shown that that is improper, I would suggest we deal with his amendment as it is. If Senator Goodrich insists on trying to do something, let his be separate from this meritorious and worthwhile amendment of Senator Stoney.

PRESIDENT: That amendment to the amendment of Senator Goodrich's is on the desk. Senator Goodrich did move the adoption of that. That is what are considering. Senator Mills, do you wish to speak? But not to Senator Goodrich's amendment. Senator Koch.

SENATOR KOCH: Mr. President, members of the body, I rise to oppose Senator Goodrich's amendment. It appears to me that the Commission can, indeed, oversee a proprietary school in relation to the courses offered, and the kinds of staffing without bringing in the amendment under a licensed broker's sniggle. I fully support Senator Stoney's intent, which is to
