

this club and some people don't want me to make use of the system as is allowed. It reminds me of the arguments people give against dissidents in this country when those dissidents want to exercise their right to free speech. Those conservatives and others who are opposed to the right to free speech being exercised when the one speaking is not saying what they desire will always say, well, why don't you go to Russia? In Russia you couldn't speak like that. Then they will turn around and boast about the fact that there is free speech here. They like free speech until somebody exercises it. The Legislature adopted these rules under which I am operating but then they don't like the rules to be followed unless it is to benefit Ak-Sar-Ben; then rule or no rule Ak-Sar-Ben will get what Ak-Sar-Ben wants. I didn't hear everything Senator DeCamp said this morning about Terry Carpenter's comments regarding Ak-Sar-Ben taking seriously all their kings and queens, and so forth, but the reason they take it seriously, Senator DeCamp, is because when the king raises the scepter and pops a few heads in this Legislature, they fall down like lackeys and do the will of the king so that he is justified in feeling...oh, that is what you said. Oh, Senator DeCamp said that already so let me just add a heartfelt "Amen" to what Senator DeCamp said earlier that I didn't hear, but he was right. I have to applaud those lobbyists for Ak-Sar-Ben. I admire anybody who does well what it is they do. I admire what Senator DeCamp...I would admire...wait a minute, I got to get this correct. Senator DeCamp does well what he does and although I disagree a lot of times with what he does, I have to admire the way he is able to get things done here. I don't really begrudge him that. He worked hard to put himself in a position to do it. He just shouldn't be so hard on his...Senator John Gulliver, you shouldn't be so hard on the Lilliputians. Lilliputians know they are small. They know they are weak. They know they are helpless. They realize that if you would raise that large foot and set it on them with all your weight, they would be flattened. You ought to be nice to them and just let them slide out from under this. But to be honest, if I were in Senator John Gulliver's position, maybe I would do the same thing, maybe I would. But then again maybe I wouldn't. But I am enjoying observing the activity of some of these conservatives and other strait-laced people on the floor of this Legislature on this issue. I am asking that the Legislature return this bill to any committee of its choice for public hearing and that is what my motion is. I have three more minutes
