

really like to see it in, but because I was going to speak against overruling the Chair, if you didn't overrule, I would have won, too, and I was going to tell you both of these things. Then you could have decided what you wanted to do, if my feeling would bear on your judgement one way or the other, which it probably wouldn't have in that context. But for this purpose, I hope you will vote aye on this motion.

PRESIDENT: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator DeCamp. Senator DeCamp, you're next in the speaking order.

SENATOR DECAMP: I respectfully call the question.

PRESIDENT: The question...Senator DeCamp calls the question. Do I see five hands? I do, all in a row. The question is, shall the debate cease? All those in favor vote aye, opposed vote nay. The motion is to cease debate on the Chambers motion to bracket until June 10th. Do you wish to record your vote? The motion is to cease debate. Please record your vote if you wish to vote. Have you all voted? The Clerk will record.

CLERK: 26 ayes, 0 nays to cease debate, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT: The motion prevails and the debate is closed. Senator Chambers, you may again have the floor.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Mr. Chairman, in the spirit of camaraderie I'll accept that vote as the vote on my motion.

PRESIDENT: (Microphone not turned on immediately)...I see.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay. I'm trying to practice what John teaches around here. Maybe the motion that I made to bracket this bill until June 10th is too long a period of time for us to consider bracketing the bill, putting it off, but I had to test the water. If you test the water and you find out by sticking the toe in that it's too cold, then you either grit your teeth and jump on in and be ready for that shock to your system, or you back away and wait till the water warms up or you do something to try to warm it up. Something is going to happen here this evening before we leave. It's in the air. After I finish with my motions, something is going to happen here. You know how you can tell there are barometers. If a person wants to know
