

public value is there for our school employees or for any of our local employees having a published listing of their name and salary by it. I know that...and I'm struggling with how to vote on this issue. That's why I'm asking these questions. I know we did that with like DPI high salaried individuals and there was some purpose there because we found out psychiatrists were paid a heck of a lot of money in state tax dollars. And there can be some virtue, but that can be done without requiring a notification. If a newspaper found a particular interest, for instance, where is the top dollar going in a school district or where is the top dollar going to a city? They could find that information out and so I see some virtue. But I wonder if that virtue can't be achieved without the requirement that's included that would be amended by Senator Will.

PRESIDENT MOUL: One minute.

SENATOR WESELY: But I look forward to the further discussion on this issue and appreciate the answer to my questions. Thank you.

PRESIDENT MOUL: Thank you, Senator Wesely. Senator Peterson.

SENATOR PETERSON: Madam President and members, I rise also to oppose the motion to bring this bill back. It's very interesting that on February 13th, I believe it was, Senator Will amended his LB 1105 into my bill which I thoroughly agreed with and it's been sitting there all this time, until now it comes up after it got through all the other stuff on the agenda, we're on Final Reading and just in the last few days the news media has come out and says, hey, we...we don't like this. It was explained thoroughly at the hearing step by step on both bills and the news media was fine. And now, all of a sudden, we're hearing an uproar from the news media. In a letter I got today, I think they are trying to get away from the point. It says stopping 415 will save the cities money because present law doesn't require publication or job descriptions. I think they should have put in job titles because that's what we're talking about. The amendment states in there correctly. If we put in job description, we take...job description may take two or three pages along to put it in to publish. And I know in an instance in my...my county where Battle Creek, which is about ten miles west of...of Norfolk, the lady...their city lady administrator came in and testified in regards to their nursing home that had been built and a boom to their economy. And, however, the first
