

several towns that don't have doctors. When are we going to start living up to that? Start doing something about. If you want to talk about good medical practice, that's what it is. So, Senator Kristensen, I will be waiting for your data. Did you hear me Senator Kristensen? Senator Kristensen, Senator Kristensen, did you hear me? I will be waiting for your information. Okay, shake your head then, if you don't want my vote. I will be waiting for your information on those more liberal states that have had all of these disasters. I would really like to see them. I think the body should be able to see them. If not, I think it is a bunch of hot air then. But I think we should...I think it ought to be proven to us that those other states that have a more liberal policy, that have a more liberal policy, there's been a lot of medical disasters. I think we should know that, and like Dr. Kristensen says over there, he names these few isolated cases. I don't know, maybe there are more, but we should know since we are not medical people. So I will be waiting for Dr. Kristensen's...and he is a doctor, he is a Doctor of Law, so I am not saying it to demean him as far as his medical experience. Thank you.

SPEAKER BAACK: Thank you, Senator Robinson. Senator Hall.

SENATOR HALL: Thank you, Mr. President and members. Senator Moore, would you respond to a question, and I don't know if...

SPEAKER BAACK: Senator Moore.

SENATOR HALL: ...you are the appropriate person to ask, and I hate to engage in this discussion so late in the day, but the committee amendments, and maybe it should be better posed to Senator Wesely, but excludes steroids for purposes of types of medications that can be given, what is the purpose behind that? And here is the reason for my question. Are we excluding that, I guess, and I'm concerned not about the...either one of these sides in this, as you called it, a turf battle, we talk about cost of medical care but really all we are talking about here is whose bottom line goes up and whose bottom line goes down. The costs are only...they show up in the form of income for one or the other of these...this side of the fight. By excluding steroids, what do you do to the patient? Do you, in effect, then have the patient have to, when they go to the optometrist thinking that because of the passage of this bill that they are going to be able to get full extent of care in this area, do you then limit the...I guess their ability to be treated? In
