

PRESIDENT MOUL: Senator Bohlke.

SENATOR BOHLKE: Yes.

SENATOR LINDSAY: Senator Bohlke, can you tell me in your amendment what is the enforcement mechanism to be certain that this information is given?

SENATOR BOHLKE: That a woman certifies that.

SENATOR LINDSAY: And if the physician fails to even ask the woman for the certification, what happens?

SENATOR BOHLKE: I'm as...the clinics would have the form for the woman to certify.

SENATOR LINDSAY: And if the clinic refuses to even offer that form for the woman to sign, what happens?

SENATOR BOHLKE: Well it's by statute that the woman has to certify or sign. I would think that would have to be a step before the procedure could go on.

SENATOR LINDSAY: But if they refuse to do it, what...

SENATOR BOHLKE: Well, then she wouldn't...

SENATOR LINDSAY: ..(inaudible) blatantly (inaudible).

SENATOR BOHLKE: ..then she wouldn't qualify for the procedure.

SENATOR LINDSAY: But if they perform the procedure anyway.

SENATOR BOHLKE: Then I would assume that the woman could be sued, just as anyone else, with a common...what do you...with a cause of action.

SENATOR LINDSAY: Thank you.

SENATOR BOHLKE: I'm getting out of my area, I think.

SENATOR LINDSAY: (Laugh.) My biggest objection to this is that this, instead of requiring information be given, it makes a suggestion that you think about maybe the woman ought to be
