February 5, 2002 LB 429, 824, 891

is such an easy bill to discuss. We can talk about so many issues that are of substance, even though the bill itself lacks sufficient substance to justify the time we've put on it already. But we can talk about the issue of social justice, the attitude of this society toward people who, through no...no fault of their own, must reach out for help. I think the term "social" carries with it the notion or the idea that the strong ought to help bear the infirmities of the weak. Those who have much should share with those who have little or nothing. Obviously, that philosophy does not reign in this state. It is a subject worthy of extended discussion. I, for one, am willing to discuss it for an extended period of time. I'm willing to discuss the economic conditions confronted by small grocers, small business people in whatever area. I can't wait to sink my claws into those...those farmers, Senator Janssen, who are getting hundreds of thousands of dollars in government subsidies. I want to talk about that too, because maybe we can look at some votes and see if the people who are getting that welfare from the federal government because they're in farming are willing to see other people who are unfortunate receive assistance from the government, or if they're going to...

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...take their largess and run and be cruel and mean toward those who are not situated as they are. All of those things are worthy of discussion and I'm willing to take as much time as the body is willing to give to discuss them. Thank you. Mr. President.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Mr. Clerk, item for the record.

CLERK: Mr. President, your Committee on Enrollment and Review reports they've engrossed LB 824 and find the same correctly engrossed. Natural Resources reports LB 891 to General File
