cap, some insignia, or other items that would let somebody know you were a cop?

SENATOR MOSSEY: Correct, unless I was unfortunate enough to run into somebody that knew me.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay. Now how many times did you draw that weapon?

SENATOR MOSSEY: Oh, when I carried it concealed?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Yes.

SENATOR MOSSEY: Like I said, I never had to use it once.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And nobody threatened...

SENATOR MOSSEY: Or pull it out once.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...and nobody threatened you enough to make you feel you had to pull it?

SENATOR MOSSEY: No.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Yet you were an officer whose job it is to enforce the law, is that true?

SENATOR MOSSEY: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Did you go around bad people, misbehaving people, those who might even violate the law?

SENATOR MOSSEY: I'm sorry, the first part.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Bad people, did you go around bad people?

SENATOR MOSSEY: I drove through a lot of bad parts of town, yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Did you deal with people who might resort to violence?
