into this process. Would it be all right if there was a rooster slipped in there somewhere along the line, or would that ruin the bill?

SENATOR ENGEL: Well, as long as that wouldn't spoil the broth, I suppose it would be all right.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Thank you. I do...I am aware of what the problem is here and Senator Kremer touched on that. At one time there was a processing plant in Fremont and I believe it was Campbell's soup or Swanson's or one of the two, and all of the old laying hens were sent to that processing plant and, yes, they did...it did go into soup. But apparently they're using some of the fryers and so on at the present time, and there's no need for them. And this sounds like a good bill and it's a way to handle those carcasses a lot better than trying to ship them live to a processing plant. So I will be in support of the bill. Thank you.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Thank you, Senator Janssen. Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you. Mr. President, members of the Legislature, I support Senator Engel's amendment and I will support the bill. Senator Engel, if I understood you correctly, the way the bill is drafted now, the process will be that they grind up the birds, then they put them in a vat. And take it from there what happens, Senator Engel.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Engel.

SENATOR ENGEL: Then it goes to the rendering facility for further processing, the way I understand it.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And when it turns into that soupy substance, what is that called?

SENATOR ENGEL: Slurry, I believe.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: If you put a ribbon on top of it could you call it the slurry with the fringe on top?
