January 29, 2004 LB 172

the student's particular situation. Providing these materials shall not be grounds for termination of such an employee's employment with a school district. Now, this is not a perfect amendment, because you're going to have at least one, maybe two or three, designated people in the school, however many that school deems should have it. Not all students will have a good relationship with this one person or these two people or three people. Maybe every teacher should be required to have it, but I didn't go that far. But I think at least there is somebody in the school system who will provide, who shall provide that information to the student. And I rather suspect that that is already happening in some schools. I think this suggestion actually came from one of my constituents, who thought that we had a point in the discussion up here on the floor, and that there ought to be some way that these students could get the information. And I e-mailed that constituent back and basically told them that I was open to their ideas, and that I appreciated the input. And I will continue to say that. I am open to ideas, and I appreciate the input, and I hope that we can find something that the body can find some agreement on. So with that, Mr. President and members...or, Mr. President, I turn the rest of my time back to the Chair.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Chambers, you're recognized to open on your amendment to the Schimek amendment.
