to offer a clean amendment of a different type that could fit, that would be a thing reasonable people could talk about. But this one just doesn't fit. Thank you.

SENATOR BAKER PRESIDING

SENATOR BAKER: Thank you, Senator Beutler. Senator Chambers, next to speak.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Legislature. Rather than ask Senator "Pilate" Cunningham a question, I'm going to analogize. Why did I use the term "Pilate," P-i-l-a-t-e? But each person has to conduct his affairs in the way he sees fit. There was a play called A Man for All Seasons, about Thomas More, a Catholic who was made a saint, and he lost his head for his beliefs. There was a young man who wanted to sell out Sir Thomas More because he wouldn't say what the king and other minions of the king and some of the hypocrites around the king, the little jackals, wanted him to say. So if you're going to be worshiping the one who has an impact on your life, you ought to be praying to these CEOs. You ought to be praying to Union Pacific, Warren Buffett, and all these who you do honor, respect, and fall down before and worship. But, no, you're hypocrites. You make this Jesus bleed again. That's what they teach the little children. When you sin, you open his wounds afresh, great gouts of blood spurt from that wound in his side because you were disrespecting him. And you know what you all
