

FOLEY: Good morning. Welcome to the George W. Norris Legislative Chamber for the first day of the One Hundred Seventh Legislature, Second Session. Our chaplain for today is Senator Williams. Please rise.

WILLIAMS: Good morning, everyone, and-- and welcome back. It was just 11 days ago we were celebrating Christmas. And leading up to that, how many times were you asked, are you ready for Christmas? Christmas is that special time with preparation and expectations and hope. But I bet everyone in this room was asked more often, are you ready for the session? I know I was. And as we think about that and as we pray together, my question for all of us is, are we prepared, have we measured our expectations, and will we do it with a-- hope-filled hearts and minds? Please join me in prayer. Dear Lord, we thank you for today and we thank you for all days. Today is a day of new beginnings. Help us maintain the excitement and the anticipation, not letting it fade. Encourage us to dream big and take action to make our dreams become reality. Please bring an epiphany to each one of us. Let something simple or striking bring on a new discovery for new solutions. We thank you for the many talents and gifts you have entrusted in us. We ask that you help us use these talents and gifts when making public policy for our state. We ask for your guidance and strength, not only for the senators, but for all of our staff and the many other support people that serve our state. Help each of us to be ready to work for the common good, be ready to work for the universal good, be ready to work for your true good. Guide us, Lord, with every move we make and strengthen us with every breath we take. Let us use our combined wisdom, our independent imagination, and our abundant compassion to find opportunities in the obstacles we face and solution for the challenges on the horizon. With your help, Lord, we are ready. Amen.

FOLEY: Thank you, Senator Williams. We'll now have the presentation of the colors from the Nebraska State Patrol Headquarters Troop Honor Guard. Please remain standing. Senator Sanders, if I could ask you to please lead us in the Pledge of Allegiance.

SANDERS: Please join me. I pledge allegiance [RECORDER MALFUNCTION]

FOLEY: Thank you, Senator Sanders. Pursuant to the provisions of Article III, Section 10, of the Constitution of Nebraska, the One Hundred Seventh Legislature, Second Session of the Legislature of Nebraska, assembled in the George W. Norris Legislative Chamber of the State Capitol at the hour of 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday, January 5, 2022, is now called to order. Senators, please record your presence. Roll call. Mr. Clerk, please record.

CLERK: I have a quorum present, Mr. President.

FOLEY: Thank you, Mr. Clerk. Members, Senator Clements would like us to recognize Dr. Dale Michels of Walton, Nebraska, serving as today's family physician of the day. I'm informed that Dr. Michels actually founded this program some years ago. Dr. Michels is with us under the north balcony. Doctor, if could you please rise, like to welcome you to the Nebraska Legislature. Mr. Clerk, are there any messages, reports or announcements?

CLERK: There are, Mr. President. First of all, the roster is-- is prepared, certified by the Secretary of State, with respect to the membership for the One Hundred Seventh Legislature, Second Session. Series of appointment letters received Sep-- September 30, appointments to the Emergency Management Agency, the Child Abuse Prevention Fund Board, Commission for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing, Foster Care Advi-- [RECORDER MALFUNCTION], the Crime Victim's Reparations Committee, and the State Personnel Board. Those will be referred to the Reference Committee, along with appointment to the Ethanol Board and the Nebraska Brand Committee. I've received a survey-- series of Attorney General's Opinion, one to Senator Blood [re LB635]; a second opinion to Senator Murman [re LB670]; a third to Senator Erdman; and a fourth to Senator Hilkemann. Those will all be inserted in the Legislative Journal. Mr. President, communication received from the state of Ill-- state of Arizona with respect to a resolution adopted by that state, acknowledgment as received. A communication from the Nebraska State Auditor regarding a report of the Annual Convent-- Comprehensive Financial Audit Report. That'll be inserted in the Journal. And finally, Mr. President, a priority bill designation: Senator Halloran has selected LR14 as his personal priority bill for this session. That's all that I have.

FOLEY: Thank you, Mr. Clerk. Members, if you have new bills for introduction that you want in the record today, please bring them forward to the Clerk's desk. Mr. Clerk, at your convenience, you may read bills into the record at your convenience. Senator McCollister, for what purpose do you rise?

McCOLLISTER: Point of personal privilege, sir.

FOLEY: I understand this is an announcement, Senator McCollister?

McCOLLISTER: Yeah. May I have a gavel, Mr. President?

FOLEY: Senator McCollister, you're recognized for an announcement.

McCOLLISTER: Morning, colleagues, and thank you, Mr. President. Eighty-five years ago, at noon on Tuesday, January 5, in the year of 1937, Lieutenant Governor Walter H. Jurgensen called to order the Fifty-Second Session of the Nebraska Legislature in this very Chamber. On that day, the very first day of this state's great Unicameral legislative history, before any business was conducted, a man that needed no introduction was recognized for his life's work that was immensely important to Nebraska, as well as the entire country. Known as the father of the nonpartisan Nebraska Unicameral, George W. Norris served in Congress for 10 years and as a U.S. senator for 30 years. He was a key supporter of the Rural Electrification Act, bringing electrical service to the rural areas across the country. He also sponsored the Tennessee Valley Authority Act, improving the lives of people in the southern states during the Depression. He proposed and helped pass the 20th Amendment to the United States Constitution, which set January 20 as the date a new President takes office. He also helped craft the Norris-La Guardia Act, which is a great boon to working men and women across the nation. Presidents Franklin Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy had great respect for Norris, and he was featured in Kennedy's Profiles in Courage, published in 1956. The book focused on individuals displaying integrity, usefulness, courage and consistency, what Kennedy called the four measures of greatness. I've distributed a copy of Norris's remarks given on January 5, 1937, to each of you, but I want you to read-- I want to read a couple excerpts from these remarks here this morning: Your work will attract the attention of not only people of our great commonwealth, but of the entire country. Upon you and upon your work will be focused the eyes of all students of government all over the nation. Continuing: Your constituents do not expect perfection. They know that it is human to err, but they do expect and have a right to expect absolute honesty, unlimited courage, and a reasonable degree of efficiency and wisdom. The people of Nebraska will not condemn you if you-- even if they do not agree with all of your official actions. We realize that honest man, patriotic men, and wise men do not always agree. In fact, disagreement on things which are not fundamental is an evidence of courage and independence. We expect an economical and efficient administration and above all, an honest administration free from partisan bias, political prejudice, or improper motives. Continuing:

You have an opportunity to render a service to your fellow citizens that no other Legislature has ever had. I believe you will meet your responsibility with courage and ability. From now on, Nebraska has a right to expect a business administration. Your works and works will be watched to a greater extent than the work of any Legislature in the past. That your work may be successful and that may receive the approval of all honest-minded-- minded citizens is not only my personal wish, but I believe it is the hope and desire of a great majority of the loyal citizens of Nebraska. Not part of that 1937 speech, but he also stated: The voters selected us, in short, because they had confidence in our judgment and our ability to exercise that judgment from a position that we could determine what were their own best interests as a part of the nation's interests, that we may and-- on occasion lead-- we-- this may mean that we must on occasion lead and form correct, and sometimes even ignore the constituent opinion, if we are to exercise fully that judgment for which we were elected. Let us rise now in honor of this great man, George W. Norris, the father of the Unicameral.

FOLEY: Thank you, Senator McCollister. Speaker Hilgers, you're recognized.

HILGERS: Thank you, Mr. President. Good morning, colleagues. Welcome back to the Legislature. It's exciting to be with you all again for day one of our short session. I don't have much in the way of updates today, but I want to give you a little bit of a preview over the next ten days, and I will have a more fulsome update tomorrow, and then I've got one additional scheduling update at the end of this. So just briefly, tomorrow morning, I will have an update. We'll be sending out memos on the schedule for next week. As a reminder, next week we're going to knock the rust off right away. We're going to be in all-day floor debate next-- starting next week before committee hearings start. And the precise timing of our schedule when we start next week will be released tomorrow morning. In addition, I'll be releasing a memo that will include our-- our procedures for floor motions that will largely, but not entirely, look like it did last year, just to preview that for you as well. Tomorrow morning, we will be doing bill introduction, tomorrow and Friday, and then going into floor debate next week. There are a number of really important briefings this week, so I do want to underline those. I know Senator Arch has got one. Senator Lathrop has got one. There may be another one that I'm missing. Those are at the end of this week, so I encourage everyone to attend those. And the last thing I would have to announce is tomorrow morning there's-- the Legislature has redone the leather doors that-- and you-- some of you, including myself, have actually never seen closed on the-- on this side of the Norris Chamber. And so tomorrow morning at 10:30, there will be a short ceremony for the rededication, I guess, of those, those doors. And so I would invite all of you to be able to attend. That's at 10:30 tomorrow morning. And with that, we'll have more to say tomorrow in terms of what we'll be debating next week. But we have a lot to do this session. I look forward to working with you all on a successful session this year. Thank you, Mr. President.
