Effects of the Support Provided Under the Program

The DPFS Program provides state-funded assistance to individuals who meet specific income and disability criteria. The effects of the support available through the DPFS program allow individuals to remain living within their homes while preserving the family unit and provide the opportunity to seek employment or continue employment if the client elects.

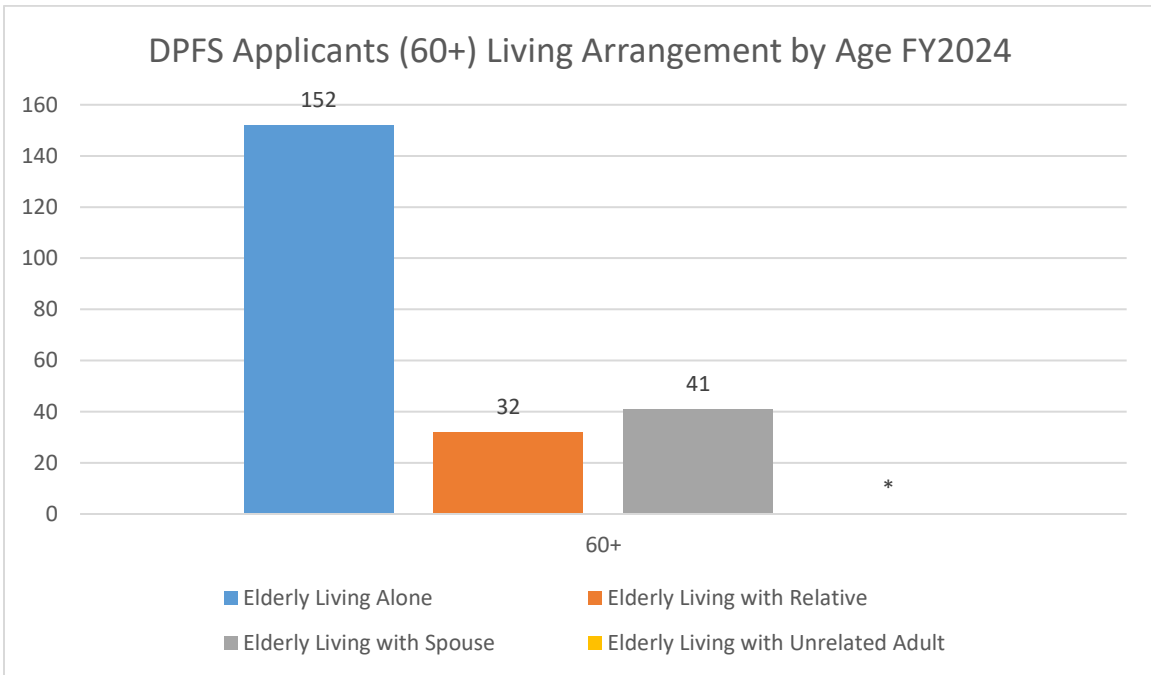

The data below shows the effects of the support available via the program’s authorized services based on living arrangements in alignment with Neb. Rev. Stat. § 68-1502, which prevents out-of-home placement and allows individuals to remain independently within their home, residing with their families or living with an unrelated caregiver. The table shows the living arrangements of all DPFS applicants, regardless of eligibility determination, by age category.
