LB 553 amends section 29-901.03, and provides for automatic review of bail and conditions of relief after twenty-one continuous days in custody for a misdemeanor offense or violation of city or village ordinance.

Expenditures:

The Supreme Court states that there could be an indeterminate fiscal impact, which would vary by judicial district. The impact could be significant in some judicial districts.

Explanation of Estimate:

Judicial workload will increase, particularly because of the requirement for a bond hearing after every 21 continuous day period. At this time, a reasonable estimate of the impact on workload, and therefore, the need for judicial resources, cannot be determined, however, it could be significant in some judicial districts. If additional information regarding judicial resources can be provided at a later date, this fiscal note will be revised. Minor fiscal impact to provide judicial education.

TOTAL FUNDS	=====	=====	=====	=====

Explanation of Estimate:

LB 553 provides for automatic review of bail and conditions of relief after twenty-one continuous days in custody for a misdemeanor offense or violation of city or village ordinance. This would assist in potentially reducing the days of stay for defendants; therefore, reducing the costs incurred for lodging of defendants.

Conversely, there may be additional costs in the event transportation to a courtroom is required.
