LB 980 amends provisions related to the death penalty, specifically modifying regulations about who can be present at an execution. It outlines the allowable attendees, including a clergy member, individuals chosen by the convicted person, representatives of the victim(s), designated legislators, and certain others, including media professionals.

Additionally, the bill stipulates the continuous witnessing of the execution process by certain individuals and addresses the concealment of identities for those administering the execution.

Expenditures:
 No fiscal impact.
