and that we as a legislator are duty bound to our citizenry, to our public, to our voters, to future generations to do what we can to stop the continued growth of corporate America. Now corporate America is not all bad but it depends in the end on who really has the control, who has the last word, and it is important that every one of us have the last word. We cannot do that if we continue to allow this trend to run through our country. Senator Burrows got up here a few weeks ago and talked from the bottom of his heart about corporate farming and I know what Senator Burrows was talking about. He was talking simply about the fact that more and more of our land is coming under the influence of larger and larger economic units, and I know what he was trying to deal with. We should have people in here talking about how more and more of our news media, our basic disseminators of information are coming under more and more single owner influence. We cannot speak with one voice. We need to speak with many voices.

SPEAKER MARVEL: One minute.

SENATOR JOHNSON: We need to fight this trend as best we can. Now I am going to pass out, as I sit down, some figures which contrasts the State of Arizona with the State of Nebraska with respect to the multibank holding company issue. Now I want you to look at those figures and I want you to ask yourself who controls the financial wealth in Arizona and compare that with Nebraska.

SPEAKER MARVEL: Thirty seconds.

SENATOR JOHNSON: And I want you to ask yourself whether we want to become another Arizona in terms of the control of wealth and power or instead we choose to remain the land of the free, people who can control their own destiny, people who in turn are not dependent upon others for essential decision making and livelihood. Thank you.

SPEAKER MARVEL: Before we introduce the next speaker, who will be Senator Schmit, in the North balcony from Senator Brennan's District, it is my pleasure to introduce 50 eighth grade students and four teachers from Lady of Lourdes, Omaha, Nebraska, and where are you located? Okay, where is Mary Francis. Mary Francis, where are you? Senator Brennan's daughter is in the group. Where is Mary Francis? Stand up and raise your hand. Well, Mary Francis is up there anyway. She is a member of the class. In the South balcony from Senator Cope's District, 51 twelfth grade students, two teachers of a Government Class from Gibbon,
