is no extra money. We will be lucky to get through because of the talk of recession and everything else and it is a conservative budget. So I want the Legislature, the executive branch and other constitutional officers to remember this discussion and this debate, because one of the reasons we put this up here today was to test the credibility of the executive and this Legislature on our monies, income and revenues, that this is accurate, there is no fat in it and we are going to have to live on a very frugal base. So next November, fellow Senators, let's watch the Board of Equalization, let's watch what they do to see whether or not they are going to play the game with us one more time. Thank you.

SPEAKER MARVEL: Senator Sieck, do you wish to talk on the Keyes amendment?

SENATOR SIECK: Mr. President, I will call for the question.

SPEAKER MARVEL: The question has been called for. Do I see five hands? The question is, shall debate cease? All those in favor of ceasing debate vote aye, opposed no. Have you all voted? Record.

CLERK: 27 ayes, 2 nays to cease debate, Mr. President.

SPEAKER MARVEL: Debate is ceased. The Chair recognizes Senator Keyes to close on his amendment.

SENATOR KEYES: Well, Mr. Speaker and fellow Senators, it bothers me no little to see my good friend, Senator Lewis, willing to push property taxes once more down the throats of the people at home to finance education. It bothers me no little to see Senator Warner, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, who will admit that there is $10 million in this, unless we enter a recession, it bothers me no little to see Senator Warner, Senator Lewis, Senator Koch and Senator Keyes who have been some of the advocates of state aid to education ever since we have been here, have voted against no state aid bill, no matter how large or how small. I want you to know that in the last two weeks I have four books at home that have to do with the economy of this nation. Three of them give us a high rating that the economy is going to go into an inflationary period, one says less, one says that the price of gold will go to $150 to $135 an ounce. If that happens, corn will drop something like 35¢ a bushel. The other three advocate the price of gold will go anywheres up to $250 to $350 an ounce. If gold goes to $350 an ounce, I will tell you this much, friends, that corn will go to $3.25 to $3.50 a bushel, wheat
