

African states, to send an athlete to do the work of a diplomat after the UN representative from America was fired because certain people in certain parts of the world were upset with things that he did. If we get upset here today I want you all to know that I am very upset, which you probably do, but here is an advertisement for the sale of Krugerrands. For those who say that Krugerrands are merely currency, it says, "small investors strike gold." Krugerrands are not made of South African products is another brick in the structure of their government. Apartheid or segregation is not just a social system in South Africa, it is a complex legal structure undergirded by the government and all of the forces that the government can bring to bear. People like me cannot even belong to a union that is recognized in South Africa. The rate of deaths in the gold mines where they say we are fortunate to be able to work is three per shift and unless you are one of the despised people who are treated in this fashion, you probably can not appreciate the magnitude of these kinds of things but for the University of Nebraska who states as its intention to produce complete and full human beings, to deal with an issue which has moral tones throughout the world and say that it is strictly a matter of money is, I think, the grossest hypocrisy and a denial of the intent and purpose of a University. You cannot do these types of things and reduce it to a mere investment of a million dollars which will produce interest to be used by the University. It is difficult to be in this body day after day and know the attitudes that are entertained toward me by people in this state. Our young students are over on that University campus needing some models, some examples of black men who will stand for what is right, for the dignity that they are not accorded, regardless of the odds, regardless of the hostility or whatever else. This country wants to go along and misuse and abuse us as during the Olympics in Mexico when to protest the racism in this country, two young black athletes who were all right to run and jump for this country raised a black-gloved fist as a protest to the racism suffered by their people in this country and they were universally condemned because you shouldn't put politics in athletics and look what President Carter is doing right now with the entire Olympic program. So whenever it is convenient or expedient to change all of the rules of the game, to change the principles that the students are taught about in the classroom, then if enough money is involved, then
