work sheet to the agenda where the bills will be heard. I have no idea which bill will come first at the moment. You asked me the question as to whether the three would be bunched together.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: How long are we to go before recessing this morning?

SPEAKER MARVEL: An hour.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator DeCamp, may I ask you a question? Do you promise, and you are able to make that promise because you have control and these are your soldiers, will you guarantee that your soldiers are going to be in line with their marching orders and the bill will be worked out over the noon hour and tomorrow it can slide on through without taking a lot of time with scrambling eggs, hurting feelings, stepping on people's toes and whatnot?

SENATOR DeCAMP: Is that a question?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Yes.

SENATOR DeCAMP: Then I ask a point of personal privilege.

SPEAKER MARVEL: State your point to the Chair.

SENATOR DeCAMP: Mr. President, members of the Legislature, that was not a question. That was a intentional personal insult. That nature of thing, it is not fitting for the floor. It is not fitting for the issue. I have no more control than Ernie or anybody else and everybody knows that. The issue is a complicated issue. It has got a lot of emotion in it. It has got to have 33 votes, as I pointed out, and I don't think that because I am trying to work out a solution and trying to bring pieces together to put the 33 votes there that that is some kind of terrible shenanigan or offense or whatever the blazes you want to call it. So, no, I don't guarantee you a goldarn thing. I guarantee the body only one thing, that I will try to work to try to solve the problem which is why I suggested we delay it for awhile.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Then, Mr. Chairman, then I presume that was not marked against my time since he spoke on a point of personal privilege.

SPEAKER MARVEL: Do you want a point of personal privilege?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: No, I don't need a point. I still have a
