versus resolutions, two completely different animals, completely different than the rules we originally envisioned, amendments that have never been printed in the Journal, I guess I wonder just how far anybody on the outside whether they be business or industry or whether they be in the corner of the Capitol over there, how far they think we can be played for suckers. And that is what is occurring. You are being played for suckers. If somebody says we need taxes increased to finance the operations of the state, have the belly to say it, or have the belly to cut whether it be the University or increases in salaries, or whatever, but quit playing games with clandestine amendments that change the statutes and authority and the whole system. Quit calling resolutions statutes. It is getting weary. I think the original rule said we are going to deal with a resolution for a target figure. Fine, let's deal with it. This is a whole different animal.

SENATOR CLARK: I remember Senator...Lt. Governor Marsh used to say, you are between a rock and a hard place. Now I see what he means. I have got five lights on. I don't know who wants to talk on the Warner amendment to the amendment, and if you would hold up your hand, I might be able to get it better. Senator Haberman.

SENATOR HABERMAN: Mr. President and members of the Legislature, I take offense to the remarks made by Senator Vickers. Senator Vickers stood up and said it is now time to be a statesman and not a politician. I don't understand what he means, now is the time to be a statesman or a politician. What is he alluding to? How does he know whether we need the 16 percent, because we haven't adopted the budget yet? So I take offense to somebody trying to turn this into a political thing. We are talking about the budget. We are talking about facts. Being a statesman or being a politician, I would like to ask, what are you, Senator Vickers, a statesman or a politician? I think we can be both. We have been accused of being both, more politicians than statesmen, I will tell you that. But by the way we are maneuvering and the way we are squirming, and the can of worms we have got here, we are not being very good statesmen. We are being poor politicians. So I think you have got the horse before the cart or the cart before the horse, one or the other. You will have to decide which one you have. Thank you, Mr. President.

SENATOR CLARK: The question before the House is the adoption of the Warner amendment to the amendment. All those
