RESOLUTION

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 1.

Introduced by Warner, 25th District; Hartnett, 45th District;
L. Johnson, 15th District.

WHEREAS, federal courts have ordered various petroleum producers to refund to consumers of petroleum products overcharges they made to the consumers on petroleum products sold during the period of time federal price controls on such products were in effect;

WHEREAS, these refunds have been allocated by the federal courts to the State of Nebraska on behalf of the petroleum consumers within the state for distribution for energy conservation and restitutionary purposes;

WHEREAS, the Legislature acknowledges that through the federal court orders various restrictions and conditions have been placed on the allowable uses of these overcharge funds, including approval by the federal court or United States Department of Energy of proposed uses;

WHEREAS, although initial plans for uses of some of these overcharge funds have been submitted to the United States Department of Energy for approval, final approval and assurances have not yet been received from the department;

WHEREAS, the Legislature acknowledges the existence of time constraints on the state's determination of how these funds should be used and consequently the need for prompt completion by the state of this responsibility;

WHEREAS, the Legislature acknowledges that selection of the projects for which the overcharge funds may be used rests initially and primarily with the Governor and his or her designee;

WHEREAS, however, the Legislature as representatives of the people of the State of Nebraska has a legitimate interest in how the proposed uses of these overcharge funds would best benefit the public and provide restitution to petroleum consumers;

WHEREAS, the Legislature as sole appropriating authority of these funds in the state treasury has a legitimate interest in considering possible future fiscal impacts to the state that may result from proposed uses of these funds;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETIETH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Legislature has a responsibility to ensure that there is public accountability for determination of the uses of these energy overcharge funds;

2. That the Legislature respectfully requests that the Governor and Attorney General of the State of Nebraska not approve the disbursement of any of these energy overcharge funds until the Legislature has had an opportunity to promptly consider appropriate legislation to establish a procedure and policy for the state's determination and selection of the uses, and the Legislature's appropriation, of these funds.

Laid over.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONSOpinion No. 86081

DATE: December 8, 1986

SUBJECT: State Employees Appointment to State Agency Boards

REQUESTED BY: Senator Rex Haberman

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
Linda L. Willard, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested an opinion of this office regarding the constitutionality of proposed legislation prohibiting the appointment of persons to state agency boards when those persons are either employees or under contract with the particular state agency. We have determined that there is no constitutional problem with excluding state employees and those under contract with state agencies from appointment to state agency boards as long as it does not unreasonably restrict the Governor's right to appoint.

In Wittler v. Baumgartner, 180 Neb. 446, 144 N.W.2d 62 (1966), the Nebraska Supreme Court held:

The right of the Legislature to prescribe reasonable qualifications of one to be appointed to office is not disputed. But the Legislature is prohibited by constitutional provision from appointing officers whose offices are created by law, either directly or indirectly. The provisions of the Act which limit the appointment of grid system directors by the Governor to a certain unnamed individual or to a limited few, is an encroachment by the Legislature upon the powers of the Governor and is void as violative of Article IV, section 10, of the Constitution of Nebraska.

As long as a prohibition on appointment of specific classes of individuals does not unduly restrict the field of individuals from whom the Governor may appoint, we see no constitutional problems with such a restriction. The Governor's right to appoint individuals to offices and committees is in the Constitution of the State of Nebraska and in state statutes and the legislative role is to set the qualifications and, where required by the Constitution or state statute, to approve the Governor's appointment. The Legislature cannot make the appointments by so restricting the Governor's selection that he has no real choice in his selection. The Legislature cannot do indirectly what it cannot do directly. Gaffney v. State Department of Education, 192 Neb. 358, 220 N.W.2d 550 (1974). As long as the qualifications placed on an appointee do not unduly restrict the Governor's power of selection and appointment, they would not be unconstitutional.

Passage of the type of legislation you have suggested would necessarily require coordination with other statutes currently existing which require agency representation on the advisory board for the various state agencies.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

Opinion No. 87001

DATE: January 6, 1987

SUBJECT: Energy Overcharge Funds

REQUESTED BY: Senator Jerome Warner/Senator Lowell Johnson
Nebraska State Legislature - Appropriations Committee

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
A. Eugene Crump, Deputy Attorney General

You have requested our legal opinion on issues dealing with the receipt and use of monies received as the result of court awards in various energy overcharge cases. Specifically, you have asked about the Exxon, Stripper Well, and Diamond Shamrock cases.

These cases involve suits which were brought on behalf of consumers of petroleum products against various petroleum producers for overcharges to the consumers in the 1970s. The federal courts awarded refunds and ordered distribution to the various states on behalf of individual consumers. Amounts paid to each state were based upon the apparent number of consumers within the state.

We respond to each of your questions individually.

I. Legislative Appropriations of the Overcharge Funds.

A. What is the status of these overcharge funds? Are they state funds or public funds? Are they trust funds?

Nebraska case law and the Nebraska statutes do not define either "state funds" or "public funds." In addition, these overcharge funds do not fit within commonly accepted statutory definitions of trust funds involving trust accounts, trust certificates or trust companies. As a result, the exact status of these overcharge funds is not clear.

However, the weight of authority from other jurisdictions indicates that the fact that monies are deposited within a state treasury does not in itself make them state funds. There also is authority which indicates that only monies raised by operation of some general state law become state funds. The Navajo Tribe v. Arizona Department of Administration, 111 Ariz. 279, 528 P.2d 623 (1975); 81A CJS States §224. There also is authority that federal money deposited in a state treasury pursuant to a federal grant program is held in trust for a specific purpose and retains its original legal character. Application of State ex rel. Department of Transportation, 646 P.2d 605 (Oklahoma 1982). Such custodial funds are not state monies. MacManus v. Love, 499 P.2d 609 (Colo. 1972).

On the basis of this general authority, we conclude that these overcharge funds did not become "state funds" simply because they were placed in the state treasury. Rather, these funds should be characterized as custodial funds held for a specific purpose. As such, these overcharge funds are not state monies.

These overcharge funds were labeled as the "Energy Overcharge Trust Fund" in the 1986 Appropriations Bill. (LB 1251, §87, 1986 Session). The labeling of these funds as a trust fund was apparently done as a matter of accounting procedure based upon practices of the legislative fiscal office. This does not make the overcharge funds trust funds within the definitions previously discussed.

B. What is the criteria for or definition of a "trust" fund held by the state?

The definitions of "trust" appear in the sections of the state statutes relating to trust accounts in general, trust certificates, or trust companies. There are no definitions of "trust" fund in the Nebraska statutes in relation to "state trust funds." The only reference to trust funds in relation to the funds held by the state appears to be in the procedures and definitions in use by the legislative appropriations committee for purposes of labeling appropriated funds.

C. Is a legislative appropriation necessary for the expenditure or granting of these overcharge funds (or for any "trust" fund)? Yes, for the following reasons.

Article III, Section 25, of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska provides, in part, "No money shall be drawn from the treasury except in pursuance of a specific appropriation made by law, and on the presentation of a warrant issued as the Legislature may direct, . . ."

Also, Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-2406 (Reissue 1981) provides: ". . . No warrants shall be drawn for any claim until an appropriation shall have been made therefore. . . ." It is our opinion that a legislative appropriation is necessary for the expenditure or granting of the overcharge funds. LB 1251 of the 1986 legislative session indicates that the energy overcharge funds were appropriated to the Governor's Office as the "Energy Overcharge Trust Fund."

D. If a legislative appropriation is not necessary, may the Legislature still direct the use of these funds (consistent with the terms of the court order) by way of either appropriations or statutory directive?

As indicated above, it is our opinion that legislative appropriations are necessary before the funds may be expended. The terms of the court orders involved in this case do call for public input. If public input has been received on prior energy overcharge cases, it is not necessary that the state hold additional hearings. A series of public meetings was held across the state in the spring of 1986 requesting input from the public as to use of the energy funds. This would meet the requirements of the various court orders that require public input.

The Legislature may direct the use of these funds (consistent with the court order) to the same extent and in the same manner that it directs use of any other appropriated funds received from sources outside of general tax revenues and other fees associated with the general operation of state government.

The Legislature has plenary or absolute power over appropriations. It may make them upon such conditions and with such restrictions as it pleases within constitutional limits. There is one thing, however, which it cannot do, and this is inherent in Article II, section 1, Constitution of Nebraska. It cannot through the power of appropriation exercise or invade the constitutional rights and powers of the executive branch of government. It cannot administer the appropriation once it has been made. When the appropriation is made, its work is complete and the executive authority takes over to administer the appropriation to accomplish its purpose, subject to the limitations imposed.

State v. State Board of Equalization and Assessment, 185 Neb. 490, 499-500, 176 N.W.2d 920, 926 (1970).

II. State Energy Office Administration of Overcharge Funds.

A. The Exxon decree ordered that the Exxon funds not be used for administrative costs. When these funds are accepted by the state and distributed by the Energy Office, is the Legislature then obligated to appropriate out of state tax funds the necessary funds to pay any administrative costs the Energy Office may incur? No, for the following reasons.

The Legislature shall make all appropriations for the expenses of the government. The Constitution of the State of Nebraska, Article III, Section 22. Additional appropriations may be implied only from constitutional provisions. Additionally, Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-1601 provides in part: "The director {of the state Energy Office} may employ such assistance, professional staff, and other employees as may be deemed necessary to effectively carry out the provisions of sections 81-1601 to 81-1605 within such appropriations as the Legislature may provide."

The Energy Office does not have the power to commit the funds of the State of Nebraska beyond the amount already appropriated for salaries to hire additional staff in order to carry out the provisions of the Exxon energy overcharge funds. It would be within the power and discretion of the Legislature whether or not to appropriate additional funds to pay for any administrative costs which the Energy Office may incur in supervising these funds. Otherwise, the Energy Office would have to allocate those funds already appropriated to it or to be appropriated, in such a way as to absorb the administrative costs which may be incurred.

III. "Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc."

A. What is the status of this corporation? Is it merely a private guarantee or could it be construed to be functioning as a part of state government?

The Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc., is incorporated under the Nebraska laws of incorporation as a private corporation. It will be seeking nonprofit status. As a private corporation, the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc., would not be functioning as any part of the Nebraska state government but as a separate and distinct entity.

B. Once the overcharge money has been granted to this corporation, may a state agency, using either state tax funds or part of the Stripper Well funds retained by the state, use state resources to assist the corporation (such as by providing administrative or clerical support)?

Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution, states, in pertinent part, "the credit of the state shall never be given or loaned in aid of any individual, association or corporation, . . .” In essence, this constitutional provision states the fundamental principle that public monies may not be used for essentially private purposes. State ex rel. Beck v. City of York, 164 Neb. 223, 82 N.W.2d 269 (1957). Therefore, in the instance which you have described in this question, the legitimacy of the use of state resources to assist the private corporation would turn on whether the activities of the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc. involve a public or a private purpose.

Before engaging in an analysis of the nature of the activities referenced in this question, we would note that we have previously indicated that Stripper Well settlement funds which were received by the state do not appear to be state funds or state monies since they were received in a custodial capacity by the state and not generated as a part of general state tax revenues. As a result, Stripper Well funds could be used for administrative costs of the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc. to the extent that the federal court order awarding those funds to the State of Nebraska makes allowance for such administrative costs. Our opinion in this regard is supported by the case of Application of State ex rel. Department of Transportation, supra, where the Supreme Court of Oklahoma rejected the notion that federal funds deposited in the Oklahoma State Treasury became state funds subject to a provision of the Oklahoma Constitution which provided “the credit of the state shall not be given, pledged, or loaned to any individual, company, corporation, or association . . .”

The issue of whether state tax funds may be used to assist the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc. presents a separate question. Recent cases from our Supreme Court have evidenced a somewhat more flexible interpretation of the public purpose doctrine in relation to the expenditure of state monies, and have indicated that the purpose involved in the use of state funds controls over the entities selected for the receipt of those funds. State ex rel. Douglas v. Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund, 204 Neb. 445, 283 N.W.2d 12 (1979); State ex rel. Douglas v. Thone, 204 Neb. 836, 286 N.W.2d 249 (1979). In particular, in the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund case, the court stated,

What is a public purpose is primarily for the Legislature to determine. . . . Each case must be decided with reference to the object sought to be accomplished and to the degree and manner in which that object affects the public welfare. . . . It is the province of the Legislature to determine matters of policy and appropriate the public funds.

204 Neb. at 457-458, 283 N.W.2d at 21. We conclude that use of state monies to assist in the administrative costs of the Nebraska Energy

Fund, Inc. could constitute a proper public purpose. However, while these energy overcharge funds were appropriated to the Governor's Office as the "energy overcharge trust fund," there is no statement in the appropriation or in its legislative history as to the purpose of the funds, and no direction provided to the authorizing agency for the use of the funds. Consequently, since there was no statement of public purpose in connection with the appropriation of the overcharge monies, we conclude that use of state tax revenues to assist the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc. in the distribution of overcharge monies would violate Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution. Should the Legislature at some point choose to make a more complete statement of the public purpose in connection with the distribution of the oil overcharge monies, this constitutional concern could be removed.

C. If there is a certain amount of state involvement (such as administrative or clerical support) with the functioning of this corporation, is there any possibility of state liability for the corporation's actions? Or state liability to restore to the federal court or federal government any money which may be found to be used by the corporation contrary to the terms of the court order? The answer to both of these questions is yes.

State liability for actions of the corporation would be defined by Nebraska's Tort Liability Act, Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-8, 209 et.seq. (Reissue 1981). Therefore, the state's liability would be to the extent that an injury or loss was caused by the negligence of a state employee.

The federal court in each energy overcharge case has distributed the overcharge funds to the state for the benefit of the consumers within the state. The state is accountable to the court for any use or misuse of these funds. If the corporation were to misuse the energy overcharge funds, the court could still hold the state liable for the misuse and could demand repayment, stop further payments, or provide other appropriate sanctions against the state. However, if the corporation were involved with or responsible for the misuse of funds, the state would have a case against the corporation and possibly the members of its board for reimbursement of those funds lost or ordered to be repaid to the court.

IV. Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution.

A. Are these overcharge funds subject to the restrictions on the expenditure of funds contained in the Nebraska Constitution, particularly Article XIII, Section 3?

As discussed above, Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution prohibits extending the credit of the state to any private individual or corporation, or, in essence, prohibits the use of state funds for essentially private purposes. As is also discussed above, we have concluded that the oil overcharge monies in the present case are not state funds in the general sense that they were accumulated by taxation for the general purposes of state government. Rather, the oil overcharge monies are more closely akin to federal funds or custodial funds which the state holds for consumers who were initially damaged by the overcharge. Since these oil overcharge monies do not appear to be state funds, it is our view that they are not subject to the restrictions on expenditure of funds contained in the Nebraska Constitution, particularly those contained in Article XIII, Section 3. However, because they have been placed in our state treasury, they are subject to those constitutional provisions dealing with appropriations and the issuance of warrants as were previously discussed.

B. If so, could the state's disbursement of these funds to the "Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc.," for the purpose of making loans to individuals be construed as violating Article XIII, Section 3?

As indicated above, it is our view that the oil overcharge monies are not subject to Article XIII, Section 3 of our state constitution.

C. If Article XIII, Section 3, is relevant, could there be possible constitutional problems if the state contracts with or otherwise is involved in a significant way with the "Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc." in its use of these overcharge funds to make loans to individuals--such as, if a state or state agency contracts with the corporation to approve a disbursement of funds by a corporation?

As noted above, we do not believe that Article XIII, Section 3 of our state constitution is relevant to the expenditure of the oil overcharge monies.

Oil Overcharge Monies Explanatory Statement

Background Information

Nebraska has received approximately $21 million from several lawsuits for overcharges illegally made to Nebraska customers over 10 years ago. A federal court ordered these payments to Nebraska along with similar payments to other states. Because of the practical impossibility of identifying individual users who were overcharged the court did not reimburse users. Rather, it distributed the money to the states with the requirement that the states use the restitutionary money for energy purposes.

The money received by Nebraska is subject to the federal court requirement that the Governor use it for energy programs which meet detailed guidelines. These monies are being held in a separate state trust fund until used for the purposes ordered by the court.

The Governor has proposed programs for the use of these funds. One of these programs is a grant of $5 million to the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc., a nonprofit private corporation which intends to contract with the Nebraska Department of Energy to provide energy conservation loans to individuals and other services.

Summary of Attorney General's Opinion on Legal Issues

The legal questions asked by the Governor, Senator Warner and others about these funds deal with the Nebraska Constitutional and statutory requirements for their use. In short, what are the legal procedures which must be followed in the actual expenditure of these funds?

Today my office has issued a detailed legal opinion answering certain specific legal questions asked by Senator Warner. These questions are most appropriate for the obvious reason that use and expenditure of these funds must be accomplished as provided by law. This means that there must be precise legal accountability for their use. In summary, here is what our legal opinion says:

1. The Nebraska Constitution prohibits the giving or lending of the credit of the state to aid private persons or associations. We conclude that these overcharge monies are not state funds subject to this constitutional prohibition. And so there is no constitutional barrier to the granting of these funds to the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc.

2. No regular state funds (tax monies, for example) could be used for the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc. unless the Legislature specifically determines that the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc. serves a public purpose. The Legislature has not done this.

3. Although these are not normal state funds, they are held by the state and so are subject to appropriation by legislative action. The Legislature has made the necessary appropriation to a separate fund which can be distributed pursuant to the federal court order guidelines.

Related Legal Aspects

The federal court order requires prior court approval before overcharge monies actually are expended. This federal court approval is based upon approval by the federal Department of Energy. The federal Department of Energy has not yet given a final approval to the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc.'s proposal. Thus, no funds should actually be transferred from the separate state fund to the Nebraska Energy Fund, Inc. until this approval is obtained (and the authenticity of such federal Department of Energy and court approval is approved by my office).

The legal questions here are complex. There are no easy answers. Reasonable people may differ with the legal conclusions reached in our opinion. The underlying factor is simply that of public accountability. This means (a) accountability of the State of Nebraska (through the office of the Governor) to expend the funds constructively in keeping with the federal court agreement, and (b) accountability of the State Constitutional Officers and Legislature to assure that the Nebraska Constitution and laws are followed precisely in administering the funds.

The Legislature may wish to review and consider the effectiveness of Nebraska laws concerning monies of this nature and related issues. If so, my office is available to assist the Legislature in any way the Legislature may request.

CEREMONIES

A presentation celebrating the 50th Anniversary of the Unicameral Legislature was given, and the following address, which was delivered to the first Unicameral Legislature by Senator George W. Norris on January 5, 1937, was read to the members.

ADDRESS BY SENATOR GEORGE W. NORRIS

Mr. President and Members of the Legislature:

I congratulate you on being members of the first unicameral legislature. The opportunities that will come to you officially to better the conditions of our people by the improvement of the legislative machinery are very great. Your work will attract the attention, not only of the people of our great commonwealth, but of the entire country. Upon you, and your work, will be focused the eyes of all students of government all over the nation.

Every professional lobbyist, every professional politician, and every representative of greed and monopoly is hoping and praying that your work will be a failure. Everything that special interests can do to embarrass you, and to misinterpret your action, will be attempted. On the other hand, every lover of his fellow man, every person who wants to place our State on a higher standard of efficiency, every person who is anxious to bring about improvement in our State affairs, every patriot who wants to place our government on a higher level for good, every lover of human liberty and equal justice, and every believer in the business administration of state affairs as distinguished from political machine control, is hoping, praying and believing that your official work will be crowned with unlimited success and to the satisfaction and approval of believers in good government everywhere.

The unicameral legislative amendment was adopted by an overwhelming majority of our people. The adoption of the amendment was opposed by lobbyists, by professional politicians of all parties, and by every person or corporation who expected to get an advantage, financial or otherwise, in securing the passage of legislation favorable to their ideas. Many honest people voted against the adoption of the amendment for one reason or another which appeared adequate and sufficient to them but all such people are earnestly desiring that the new amendment be given a fair and honest test.

You are members of the first legislature of Nebraska to hold your positions without any partisan political obligation to any machine, to any boss, or to any alleged political leader. Your constituents do not expect perfection. They know that it is human to err but they do expect, and have the right to expect, absolute honesty, unlimited courage, and a reasonable degree of efficiency and wisdom. The people of Nebraska will not condemn you even if they do not agree with all of your official actions. We realize that honest men, patriotic men, and wise men do not always agree. In fact, disagreement on things which are not fundamental is an evidence of courage and independence. We expect an economical and efficient administration and, above all, an honest administration free from any partisan, bias, political prejudice, or improper motives.

You have an opportunity to render a service to your fellow citizens that no other legislature has ever had. I believe you will meet your responsibilities with courage and ability. From now on Nebraska has a right to expect a business administration. Your work will be watched to a greater extent than the work of any legislature in the past. When you carry out the theory and the principles of the new amendment, it will be easy to observe everything you do. Publicity to all your acts will help to reward the faithful and to punish those who do not follow the true spirit of the new amendment.

That your work may be successful and that it may receive the approval of all honest-minded citizens is not only my personal wish but I believe it is the hope and desire of a great majority of the loyal citizens of Nebraska.

INAUGURAL CEREMONIES

MOTION - Escort Committees

Mr. Chizek moved that a series of committees be appointed to escort the various state and constitutional officers for the purpose of administering their oaths of office.

The motion prevailed.

Chief Justice Norman Krivosha administered the Oath of Office to the newly elected State officials.

Governor Orr delivered the following Inaugural Address:

Mr. Chief Justice, reverend clergy, Mr. Speaker, members of the Legislature, distinguished guests--my fellow Nebraskans:

I am more honored than I can adequately express, to assume office as the 36th governor of our state. I am filled with gratitude for the unique opportunity to serve the people of Nebraska at this time in our proud history. I take this oath with a deep sense of humility, and somber awareness of the heavy responsibility it imposes.

That oath is a covenant with the citizens of Nebraska. In exchange for the trust and the confidence you have reposed in me, I am bound to provide four years of leadership...honest, able and compassionate leadership. Citizens of Nebraska...I accept this covenant with pride and appreciation.

Today, I bring you a message of optimism, tempered with realism; a message of hope, leavened by pragmatism.

My optimism is based on an abiding faith in the inherent strength and resilience of Nebraska's people. It is based upon the twelve decades of our history as a state...a state carved out of the vast Louisiana Purchase...a state peopled by westward-facing travelers who crossed the Missouri River to settle along the overland routes of the Oregon and Mormon Trails.

Those were hardy people -- those pioneers -- and we are their rightful heirs, with a rich legacy of fortitude in the face of adversity, and self-confidence in our ability to manage and control our own destiny.

My optimism is based on the objective assessment of our strengths as a state, and as a people.

Consider this:

- * Nebraska's per capita personal income of the past two years is the highest in our history.

- * Unemployment statistics show the Nebraska jobless rate is two full percentage points below the national figure and, it is lower than it was one year ago.

- * The consumer price index, or cost-of-living measurement, is three to six percent below the national average.

- * Our children are among the best-educated in America.

- * Our high school graduation rate of 86 percent, is the second highest in the nation--some 15 percentage points above the national average. Nebraska high school seniors scored six percent higher than the national average on their S-A-T college entrance tests and 15 percent better on their A-C-T tests.

* One study even ranked Nebraska third among the 48 contiguous states for its general manufacturing climate.

* We enjoy a bountiful supply of inexpensive power. Only five states have lower average industrial power costs, making Nebraska rates 37 percent lower than those of the nation as a whole.

I could cite any number of additional advantages we enjoy and too often overlook. But most special of all are Nebraska's people, hard-working and resourceful, highly literate, industrious and dependable. It is because of them that the value-added rate per dollar of production payroll is twelve percent higher than the national average.

It is time that we confront our problems, not with reluctance, but with resolve...not with despair, but with daring.

It is time to apply to our own state what Franklin Delano Roosevelt said of wartime America:

"This great nation will endure, as it has endured...will revive, and will prosper."

And so too, will our state endure and prosper.

Yes..we have encountered economic difficulties, particularly on our farms and ranches. But if we recognize the substantial structural changes that have occurred in agriculture, and are willing to be a part of that change by adapting to it and working constructively toward the future, then we can secure the future.

Today, I want to address three principal concerns that I know we all share: quality education for our children, fairness in our tax system, and jobs for Nebraskans.

Yes, there will be other critical issues which will come before us. But these will be the areas in which many of our energies will be concentrated.

No aspect of state government is of more critical importance than the provision of a quality education to our young people. My purpose during the next four years will be to accord education at all levels the highest affordable priority of my administration.

Under our system, the state shares with local school districts the cost of providing education for elementary and secondary students. While the state, through its appropriations to the University of Nebraska, the state, and other colleges, bears the primary burden of post-secondary training.

In all, state government's support of education amounts to 47.3 percent of total state spending in this fiscal year. That's about three times the amount expended on highways, social services, and state institutions combined.

So we have demonstrated a commitment; a financial commitment and a moral commitment to education.

But as we observed in the most recent special session of the Legislature, funding for many programs, including education, had to be reduced...and that is regrettable.

Even though those cuts were necessary, and while they do not in and of themselves, entirely solve the problems facing us for the coming fiscal year, they do help to alleviate them.

The challenge that confronts us in the coming weeks is to find a way to provide the necessary funds to improve the level of excellence now found in our public schools, while staying within available revenue resources.

We must discover how we can get more value for our educational dollar. A meaningful response to that issue will require the best efforts of educators, school board members, legislators and other taxpayers.

Nebraskans have told us many times that we must manage government without increasing their taxes. Elected officials throughout the state, were elected to office on a similar pledge. I, as your governor, promise that I will not raise taxes.

At the same time we must plan and budget our resources in a way that will avoid mid-year cuts in state appropriations. Such cuts are disruptive and inefficient at the local level, and perhaps even more so when applied to education. Moreover, they tend to send the wrong signals...signals that seem to say that we have somehow weakened in our commitment to our children and to our future.

We have heard over the past several years that state aid to education would bring about decreases in local property taxes. Yet the unhappy fact is that in the past increases in state aid have gone for increased spending -- not property tax relief. That's not a proud record of property tax relief, given the limits on the number of tax dollars which we can devote to education.

It may be time to consider whether there may be other resources available to us in the private sector. I believe this is an area well worth exploration and discussion. Many of the corporate citizens of our state have a keen interest in the education and training of our young people, and many private individuals share that interest.

We all know that personal and corporate contributions of time, talent, and money can be of significant help in supplementing the work of tax dollars.

This, then -- the fairness of our tax system -- is the second concern that I wish to address today, and it is one of the most pressing issues confronting the legislature, as you begin your new session...to adjust the state individual income tax to accommodate the drastic changes enacted by the Congress in the Tax Reform Act of 1986.

That law, the most sweeping tax reform bill of the past 40 years, affects virtually every area of tax law. For individuals, it reduces federal taxes by an average 6.1 percent, cutting the top rate from 50 to 28 percent, while eliminating or reducing many deductions. Estimates by the Nebraska Department of Revenue show that unless we modify Nebraska's tax system, our income will automatically drop by as much as $24 million in the 1987-88 fiscal year, and by $36 million the following year.

Whatever adjustment is made in reaction to the change in the federal law, it must be crafted in such a way that the new system will produce substantially the same amount of revenue as the former method did, based on the old law.

Early in this session, I will present to the Legislature my own proposals for accomplishing the necessary adjustment. The changes that I propose to you will meet the following criteria:

- * No additional tax dollars will be collected by the State of Nebraska.

- * The system will be fair, stable and predictable.

- * The system will retain the simplicity of Nebraska's current system.

Furthermore, I will veto any tax plan that does not meet those essential criteria.

I trust that the Legislature will address this matter expeditiously. Unless your action is prompt, the state will face a serious cash-flow problem in the early part of this calendar year. You may be assured that my staff and I will work cooperatively with you in the development of a sound and efficient tax policy... a policy which gives full credit to the elements of fairness, equity and stability.

A major focus of our attention over the next four years must be placed on how we can more effectively harness and direct Nebraska's efforts to provide jobs. This is the third and final concern that I will address today.

We must bring together the broad range of governmental activities, as well as the civic and community resources in this field, and to establish priorities, exchange technical know-how and develop integrated plans for the creation of new and better jobs for our people.

Each of these entities has a contribution to make, but they require strong leadership and direction. We need cooperation and coordination among our economic development organizations, tying together, for example:

The Nebraska Research and Development Authority, the Nebraska Business Development Center, the Nebraska Investment Finance Authority, the University of Nebraska and local chambers of commerce as well as other members of the development community.

Supplementing this coordination effort will be the Nebraska Job Creation Council, composed of individuals who have been successful in creating jobs.

To further this purpose, I propose to convene in the early spring an "economic summit" meeting, including leaders of business and labor. These, together with a broad range of those working in the field of economic development, will share information and expertise.

The aim of the summit conference will be to outline programs whose main thrust will be to yield sound, down-to-earth, practical results. We aren't looking for pie-in-the-sky proposals.

Too many states and communities have pursued such opportunities, only to discover that they paid a very high price, in terms of tax abatements and other incentives, for just such recruitment. Rather, we should be looking for common-sense solutions to the problems of job creation, including a tax policy which emphasizes assistance to local companies, particularly small business, which is our greatest source of job growth here in Nebraska.

In any appraisal and evaluation of our development efforts, we must take into account the rapidly-changing nature of our state's economy. Our's is an economy in a state of transition, characterized more and more as a service economy...less and less as a goods-producing one.

That is not to say that agriculture doesn't remain the basic industry of our state. In 1984, cash receipts from agricultural commodities produced in Nebraska, amounted to more than $7 billion, ranking it fourth among the fifty states.

What can be said though, is that Nebraska's economy is no longer the one-dimensional phenomenon that it was throughout most of the state's history. We now have a multi-faceted economy with strong and growing components in transportation and communications, utilities, finance and insurance. It is within these service fields that a great deal of economic opportunity lies...opportunities that can be realized by a properly-educated citizenry.

A further imperative for the creation of more and better jobs in our state is to make it possible for those young men and women graduating from our colleges and universities to remain in Nebraska, and to provide them with meaningful and rewarding careers. We must not delude ourselves into thinking that some of our graduates won't seek their fortunes outside the state, but we can and we must do a better job of providing them with incentives to stay here.

We face many other challenges and opportunities in the months and years ahead. Today I have introduced you to the major agenda items for my administration. Within a few weeks I will deliver my budget message, including more details on these and other critical matters. I am absolutely convinced that with good will, tolerance, and a generous respect for each other's views, we can meet and overcome all obstacles.

My optimism rests upon the conviction that men and women dedicated to public service, as are the members of this legislature, possess not only the ability, but the will to fulfill their responsibilities to the citizens they serve.

I pledge to you my full cooperation. I invite and will welcome your suggestions as well as your criticisms. We must be able to put aside whatever divides us politically, in order to serve the greater good. Even when we disagree -- and disagree we will -- let's do it with civility and good humor.

Throughout our history, Nebraskans have been risk-takers. We have always reached for a new spirit, and sought a higher goal. Is there anyone among us who can say that we no longer possess that spirit?...that we have lost our nerve and are unworthy of the challenge? I think not. I believe that you share with me a vision...a vision of a better future. Not just in the years ahead, but for well into the twenty-first century.

I earnestly ask your help today, and the help of each citizen of this state, to bring that vision to reality. We can do it...you and I and the good people of Nebraska...by working together.

And we can do it, by the grace of the Almighty. I ask that you join with me in Harry Emerson Fosdick's prayer, taken from the stirring hymn, "God of Grace and God of Glory:"

"Grant us wisdom, grant us courage, for the facing of this hour. Grant us wisdom, grant us courage, for the living of these days."

Thank you.

The Governor, Chief Justice, associate Justices, newly elected state officials, Congressional delegation, and families were escorted from the Chamber.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87002

DATE: January 7, 1987

SUBJECT: Constitutionality of Requiring Payments in Lieu of Taxes by Cities and Villages Owning Real Property Outside Their Own County Used for Water Supply Purposes.

REQUESTED BY: Senator Emil E. Beyer, Jr.
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
L. Jay Bartel, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested our opinion concerning the constitutionality of legislation requiring cities and villages to make payments in lieu of taxes on real property located outside of their own county which is used for water supply purposes. Upon examination of this issue, it is our conclusion that imposing such a requirement by legislative act would be unconstitutional.

Article VIII, Section 2, of the Nebraska Constitution, provides, in pertinent part: "The property of the state and its governmental subdivisions shall be exempt from taxation." This constitutional provision exempts from taxation the property of all governmental subdivisions, including property owned by cities, villages, and municipalities. City of Omaha v. Douglas County, 96 Neb. 865, 148 N.W. 938 (1914) (municipally owned water works exempt from general state and county taxes); See, Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District v. County of Lincoln, 144 Neb. 584, 14 N.W.2d 202 (1944).

The plain language of Article VIII, Section 2, prohibits the imposition of any direct tax on property owned by governmental subdivisions of the State of Nebraska, which would include cities, villages, and municipalities. The question which remains is whether legislation may nevertheless be enacted to require such governmental subdivisions to make payments in lieu of taxes on real property owned under the circumstances previously described.

In analyzing this issue, we believe it is significant to note that the Nebraska Constitution contains a specific provision requiring public corporations and political subdivisions providing electricity to make payments in lieu of taxes on property held for such purpose. Neb. Const. Art. VIII, Section 11. The effect of this constitutional provision was discussed by the Nebraska Supreme Court in Nebraska Public Power District v. Hershey School District, 207 Neb. 412, 299 N.W.2d 514 (1980). In this case, the court held that payments required by statute to be made by a public power district to offset the expense of educating the children of persons employed in the construction of electrical generating facilities constituted taxes or payments in lieu of taxes in addition to those payments authorized under the Constitution, and that the statute in question therefore violated the provisions of Article VIII, Section 11. In reaching this conclusion, the court discussed the historical background behind the adoption in 1958 of the payments "in lieu of taxes" mandated by Article VIII, Section 11, as follows:

The original enabling act providing for the creation and operation of public power districts in Nebraska was enacted in 1933. Thereafter, protests arose over the loss of tax revenue which would be sustained by the state and its various governmental subdivisions if tax exempt public power districts acquired the taxable properties of privately owned electrical facilities. The Legislature then enacted statutes which required any public power district which acquired property of an existing privately owned utility to make payments "in lieu of taxes" to the various taxing entities in amounts equal to those paid by the private utility in the year immediately preceding the purchase or acquisition. Payments in lieu of taxes on real property purchased from other than a private utility were required on the same basis for the year of acquisition, but for subsequent years the appropriate county board of equalization was to determine the amount to be paid in lieu of taxes on such real estate "as equity and justice may require." See Neb.Rev.Stat. §§70-651 and 652 (Reissue 1985) (repealed 1959).

In the years that followed, case law in Nebraska and elsewhere raised substantial questions as to whether mandatory payments in lieu of taxes constituted an indirect attempt to tax public property which was otherwise exempt from taxation under the Constitution. In order to settle the issues, an amendment to the Constitution was proposed and adopted in 1958. That is the amendment involved here.

(Emphasis added). Id. at 414-15, 299 N.W.2d at 516.

Robb v. Nielson, 71 Idaho 222, 229 P.2d 981 (1951), involved the constitutionality of a statute requiring payments in lieu of taxes on lands owned by the Idaho Fish and Game Department. Article VII, Section 4 of the Idaho Constitution, provided: "The property of the United States, except when taxation thereof is authorized by the United States, the state, counties, towns, cities, villages, school districts, and other municipal corporations and public libraries shall be exempt from taxation." In holding the statute requiring payments in lieu of taxes unconstitutional, the court stated:

Chapter 85 appears to be an effort to provide by indirection for taxation by the counties of state lands. It seeks to accomplish the same result as taxation.

* * *

What cannot be done directly because of constitutional restriction cannot be accomplished indirectly by legislation which accomplishes the same result.

* * *

Under our constitutional provisions, the legislature cannot, either directly or indirectly, tax or authorize the taxation of public property, or provide for the same result, and cannot waive the exemption provided for in the constitution and voluntarily pay taxes on public property.

We are constrained to hold that said Chapter 85 indirectly provides for taxation of state lands by authorizing payments which accomplish the same result as taxation, and that it is void because of conflict with Article VII, Section 4 of the constitution.

Id. at 226, 228, 229 P.2d at 983, 984-85.

It is fundamental that the Legislature may not circumvent an express provision of the constitution by attempting to do indirectly what it may not do directly. Nebraska Public Power District v. Hershey School District, supra. Based on the historical background surrounding the adoption of Article VIII, Section 11, of our constitution, and the decision in Robb v. Nielson, supra, it is our opinion that legislation requiring cities or villages to make payments in lieu of taxes on real property owned by such entities would be viewed as an attempt to indirectly tax property of such governmental subdivisions, in contravention of the exemption from taxation of such property provided under Article VIII, Section 2. Any attempt to impose such a requirement should be accomplished by virtue of a constitutional amendment, similar in nature to the provisions of Article VIII, Section 11, rather than through the enactment of legislation.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

The White House
Washington

December 24, 1986

I am delighted to send greetings to all who have gathered for the Inauguration of Kay Orr as Governor of Nebraska. I would be remiss if I did not note the historic significance of this event. Kay Orr is the first Republican woman to be sworn in as governor of this or any state of our great nation.

In recent years, Americans have acquired a renewed appreciation of the importance of State and local governments. After decades of looking to Washington for resources and direction, our people have learned anew that government, closer to home, is less cumbersome and more responsive to their needs and aspirations. The people of Nebraska have always had a strong appreciation for our traditions of independence and self-governance, and the Inauguration you celebrate marks the determination of your State to move forward on these principles to achieve new heights of prosperity and opportunity for all of your citizens.

The people of Nebraska could not have selected a more capable individual for these challenging times than Kay Orr. Kay has shown herself to be a leader of vision and courage, who places the interests and well-being of the people of Nebraska, first and foremost.

Nancy joins me in sending our warm congratulations, and in wishing Kay and the State of Nebraska great success in the days ahead.

(Signed) Ronald Reagan

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87008

DATE: January 16, 1987

SUBJECT: Constitutionality of proposed legislation which would prohibit a court from sentencing a defendant convicted of a felony to serve a term of probation or imprisonment in a municipal or county owned intermediate care facility or a state owned Veteran's Home.

REQUESTED BY: Senator Marge Higgins

WRITTEN BY: Lynne R. Fritz, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding the constitutionality of certain proposed legislation which provides as follows:

An individual convicted of a felony, under §§28-101 to 28-1348 of the Nebraska Criminal Code, shall not be ordered to serve a sentence of probation or imprisonment, under any circumstances, in a municipal or county owned intermediate care facility, or a state owned Veterans' Home operated by the Department of Public Institutions.

Pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §28-105 (Reissue 1985), sentences to imprisonment upon conviction of a felony are served in institutions under the jurisdiction of the Department of Correctional Services unless the sentence is less than one year in which case the term of imprisonment may under some circumstances be served in the county jail. Pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §83-1380 (Reissue 1981), and consistent with Eighth Amendment guarantees, the Department of Correctional Services may transfer a prisoner to health care facilities when medically necessary, however the proposed legislation which solely addresses sentencing orders would not, in our opinion, modify this grant of authority. Thus, the proposed legislation would appear to have no effect on sentences to imprisonment currently imposed for adult felony convictions.

However, Neb.Rev.Stat. §29-2260 (Cum.Supp. 1986) authorizes a court to withhold a sentence of imprisonment under specified circumstances and impose instead a sentence to probation. Further, Neb.Rev.Stat. §29-2262 (Cum.Supp. 1986) enumerates conditions which the court may in its discretion attach to the grant of probation to try to insure that the offender will lead a law abiding life. One such condition which may be imposed is a requirement that the offender " . . . undergo medical or psychiatric treatment and to enter and remain in a specified institution for such purpose." Neb.Rev.Stat. §29-2262(e) (Cum.Supp. 1986). The above quoted proposed legislation would withdraw the named institutions as possible location for court ordered treatment as a condition of a felony probationary period.

It is well established in this jurisdiction that the legislature is clothed with the power of defining crimes and fixing their punishment; and its discretion in this respect, exercised within constitutional limits, is not subject to review by the courts. State v. Stratton, 220 Neb. 854, 374 N.W.2d 31 (1985); State ex rel Nelson v. Smith, 114 Neb. 653, 209 N.W. 328 (1926). The nature and scope of penal sanctions, including conditions of probation, are for determination by the Legislature; a court has no power to impose a condition of probation which is not authorized by statute. State v. Nuss, 190 Neb. 755, 212 N.W.2d 565 (1973).

Because of the broad legislative authority to determine the penalties which attach upon conviction of a felony, we perceive no constitutional impediment to the proposed legislation on its face. We do, however, have reservations about the proposed legislation as applied in a hypothetical situation involving an indigent defendant who may be an appropriate candidate for probation but for the potential unavailability of an adequate treatment facility. While our court has recognized that no defendant is entitled to probation as a matter of law, there is a long line of cases which prohibit discriminatory treatment based solely on a defendant's indigency as violative of the equal protection clause. Griffin v. Illinois, 351 U.S. 12 (1955); State v. Goodpasture, 215 Neb. 341, 347, 338 N.W.2d 446 (1983).

In summary, it is our opinion that the legislature may generally limit the institutions to which a court may order a felon for treatment as a condition of probation, unless as applied in a particular factual situation said limitation operates to discriminate on the basis of indigency.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 22CA.

Introduced by Hefner, 19th District.

A Resolution to propose an amendment to Article III, section 22, of the Constitution of Nebraska.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETIETH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

Section 1. That at the general election in November 1988 there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to Article III, section 22, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

CIII-22 "Each Legislature shall make appropriations for the expenses of the Government. And whenever it is deemed necessary to make further appropriations for deficiencies, the same shall require a two-thirds vote of all the members elected to the Legislature. Bills making appropriations for the pay of members and officers of the Legislature, and for the salaries of the officers of the Government, shall contain no provision on any other subject.

After January 1, 1989, if the Legislature requires that any new program or service be provided by any municipality, county, or other political subdivision or if the Legislature requires the expansion of or a change in any existing program or service, which creation, expansion, or change will result in an increased expenditure of funds by the affected political subdivision, the Legislature shall appropriate the necessary funds for the benefit of the affected political subdivision each and every year during which the program or service is required to continue, except that if any municipality, county, or other political subdivision requests the Legislature to create, expand, or change any program or service, the Legislature shall not be required to appropriate the funds necessary to fund the created, expanded, or changed program or service.

After January 1, 1989, if the Legislature removes property from the tax base of any political subdivision or reduces the taxing allowance or authority of any political subdivision, the Legislature shall appropriate funds to the affected political subdivision in an amount equivalent to the revenue lost to such political subdivision as a result of such removal or reduction each and every year during which the removal or reduction remains in effect."

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 23CA.

Introduced by Hall, 7th District.

A Resolution to propose an amendment to Article VII, section 10, of the Constitution of Nebraska.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETIETH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

Section 1. That at the general election in November 1988 there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to Article VII, section 10, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

CVII-10 "(1) The general government of the University of Nebraska shall, under the direction of the Legislature, be vested in a board of not less than six nor more than eight regents to be designated the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska, who shall be elected from and by districts as herein provided and, pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, three students of the University of Nebraska, ~~who shall serve as nonvoting members.~~ Such ~~nonvoting~~ student members shall consist of the student body president of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, the student body president of the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and the student body president of the University of Nebraska Medical Center. The terms of office of elected members shall be for six years each. The terms of office of student members shall be for the period of service as student body president. Their duties and powers shall be prescribed by law, <sup>1</sup> and they shall receive no compensation, but may be reimbursed their actual expenses incurred in the discharge of their duties.

(2) The University of Nebraska, with its three campuses, serves the educational needs of thousands of people who have chosen the university to continue their education. It is the duty of the university and the desire of its administration to meet the needs of its students by providing the best education within the most positive environment possible. The student members of the Board of Regents appointed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section provide the elected regents with direct access to the university's campuses and are in a position to have first-hand knowledge of the students' most urgent needs. Although the student members are not elected, do not serve six-year terms, and do not each have a vote on matters presented to the Board of Regents, the student members do represent a constituency of students on their campuses and in their positions as students and student leaders warrant a vote on matters affecting their constituency. Each year the student members of the Board of Regents shall choose, by majority vote, one of such student members to serve as a voting member of the board, except that no university campus shall be represented by a voting student member more than once every three years.

(3) The Legislature shall divide the state, along county lines, into as many compact regent districts, as there are regents provided by the Legislature, of approximately equal population, which shall be numbered consecutively. The Legislature shall redistrict the state after each federal decennial census. Such districts shall not be changed except upon the concurrence of a majority of the members of the Legislature. In any such redistricting, county lines shall be followed whenever practicable, but other established lines may be followed at the discretion of the Legislature. Whenever the state is so redistricted the members elected prior to the redistricting shall continue in office, and the law providing for such redistricting shall where necessary specify the newly established district which they shall represent for the balance of their term.”.

Sec. 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the manner prescribed by Article XVI, section 1, of the Constitution of Nebraska. The proposition for the submission of the proposed amendment shall be placed upon the ballot in the following form:

“A constitutional amendment to provide that each year a student member of the Board of Regents shall be entitled to vote on matters voted upon by the Board of Regents.

For

Against”.

Sec. 3. That the proposed amendment, if adopted, shall be in force and take effect immediately upon the completion of the canvass of the votes, at which time it shall be the duty of the Governor to proclaim it as a part of the Constitution of Nebraska.

Referred to the Reference Committee.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 24.

Introduced by Withem, 14th District.

WHEREAS, A Nation Prepared: Teachers for the 21st Century, also known as the Carnegie Report, endorses the idea of a national board for professional teaching standards; and

WHEREAS, such national standards should be incorporated into state standards and with the full involvement of the state's teachers; and

WHEREAS, Time For Results, the Governors' 1991 Report on Education, calls for the creation of a national board to define teacher standards with a membership majority being teachers, elected by their peers; and

WHEREAS, the Governors' 1991 Report on Education refers to a national board of professional teacher standards as an opportunity to strengthen the quality of their profession and thus the same improved quality would be found in a state board of professional standards; and

WHEREAS, education is defined as a profession in section 79-1280, and educators should have authority over who enters and who is retained in the profession as do the members of other professions; and

WHEREAS, the Center for the Study of the Teaching Profession at the Rand Corporation in Washington, D.C. advocates that each state should create a board for professional teaching standards because regulation of a profession by itself achieves results for society that cannot be achieved in any other way; and

WHEREAS, a Spring 1986 Gallup Poll indicates that the public would like to see teachers actively involved in the state boards that certify teachers.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETIETH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Legislature recognizes the necessity of providing quality teachers to insure quality education.

2. That the Legislature's Education Committee conduct an interim study on the possible creation of an autonomous state standards and practices board for Nebraska's classroom teachers and school administrators.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87009

DATE: January 23, 1987
 SUBJECT: Constitutionality of LB Request No. 784.
 REQUESTED BY: Senator Timothy J. Hall
 Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
L. Jay Bartel, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested our opinion regarding the constitutionality of proposed legislation which would create a sales tax on services and, in addition, would include a reduction in the state individual and corporate income tax rates. Your specific question concerns whether such legislation would violate the constitutional requirement that "No bill shall contain more than one subject." Neb.Const., Art. III, Section 14.

The Nebraska Supreme Court has adopted a liberal construction with respect to this constitutional requirement. In Midwest Popcorn Co. v. Johnson, 152 Neb. 867, 872, 43 N.W.2d 174, 178 (1950), the court stated:

An act, no matter how comprehensive, is valid as containing but one subject if a single main purpose is within its purview and nothing is included within it except that which is naturally connected with and incidental to that main purpose.

The legislation in question relates to the broad subject of "revenue and taxation". The amendments proposed under the bill are all clearly related to and are naturally connected with the subject of revenue and taxation, as they relate to proposed changes in the sales and income tax statutes. In passing, we note that, when the Nebraska Revenue Act of 1967 was adopted, the original sales and income tax provisions enacted were combined within the same legislation. 1967 Neb.Laws., c.487, LB 377.

On the basis of the foregoing, it is our opinion that the proposed legislation does not contain more than one subject and, therefore, does not violate Article III, Section 14 of the Nebraska Constitution.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87010

DATE: January 26, 1987

SUBJECT: State Chartered Savings and Loan Associations

REQUESTED BY: Senator Gary E. Hannibal

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General

LeRoy W. Sievers, Assistant Attorney General

QUESTION: Is legislation necessary for state chartered savings and loan associations to operate in states other than Nebraska?

CONCLUSION: No.

In your letter you attached the draft of proposed legislation which would have the effect of allowing state chartered savings and loan associations to operate in states outside of Nebraska. You asked if current law prohibits such institutions from operating in other states and if not, is the proposed legislation necessary.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §8-355 (Cum.Supp. 1986) provides in part: Notwithstanding any of the provisions of Chapter 8, article 3, or any other Nebraska statute, any association incorporated under the laws of the State of Nebraska and organized under the provisions of such article shall have all the rights, powers, privileges, benefits, and immunities which may be exercised as of July 17, 1986, by a federal savings and loan association doing business in Nebraska. . . .

As of July 17, 1986, federal savings and loan associations doing business in Nebraska were permitted to operate outside of Nebraska if they met certain qualifications. Such operation was authorized by 12 U.S.C. §1464(r) and 12 C.F.R. Part 556.5(a)(3)(i)(a)(1). Moreover, no specific prohibition is apparent in the statutes governing state chartered savings and loan associations. However, in order to operate outside of Nebraska such institutions would have to comply with any applicable federal and/or the laws of the other state in which it seeks to operate. Also, the association would also have to obtain permission from the Nebraska Department of Banking and Finance to operate in another state. This is required whether the association seeks to operate a branch, merge, acquire another financial institution, or in some other manner operate in another state.

In First Federal Savings and Loan Association v. Department of Banking, 187 Neb. 562, 192 N.W.2d 736 (1971), the Nebraska Supreme Court determined that opening a branch of state chartered savings and loan required a due process opportunity for notice and hearing and that the institution meet the criteria for the opening of an institution of that type. This requirement existed despite the lack of specific language to that effect in the statutes because:

We hold that a reasonable interpretation of §8-331, R.R.S. 1943, and other statutes dealing with regulation and control of savings and loan associations necessarily implies the power of the Department of Banking to approve or disapprove the establishment and operation of branch offices of savings and loan associations chartered and operating under the laws of this State.

We also hold that legislative standards for the granting of an application for initial establishment of a savings and loan association operation under §8-331 R.R.S. 1943, also apply to an application to establish a branch office.

Id. at 566-7. The supreme court has thus indicated that the Department of Banking and Finance's implied authority to require an application is based upon the legislative intent to protect the public and guard against economically destructive competition. That intent would not disappear simply because the branch happened to be located outside of Nebraska. The harm to state chartered savings and loan associations and the public that the legislature has sought to prevent could occur if a state chartered savings and loan sought to operate in a location outside of Nebraska. Therefore, by analogy from the reasoning used by the court in the above-mentioned case, the savings and loan would need to obtain permission from the Department of Banking and Finance to operate outside of Nebraska and would only be entitled to do so if it could demonstrate compliance with the statutes authorizing an initial establishment.

However, just as there was no need for a specific statute authorizing branch operations, there is no need for a specific statute authorizing operation outside of Nebraska so long as state chartered savings and loan associations comply with current statutes designed to protect the public and guard against economically destructive competition.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

WHEREAS, the First Congress of the United States of America in New York, New York, on September 25, 1789, proposed an amendment to the Constitution of the United States by a resolution which reads as follows:

“RESOLVED by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, two thirds of both Houses concurring, that the following (Article) be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States,...which (Article), when ratified by three fourths of the said Legislatures, to be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of the said Constitution, viz.:

“(An ARTICLE) in addition to, and Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America, proposed by Congress, and ratified by the Legislatures of the several States, pursuant to the fifth Article of the original Constitution.

- 1           1. Strike the original sections and insert
- 2     the following new sections:
- 3           "Section 1. That section 77-2753, Reissue
- 4     Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read
- 5     as follows:
- 6           77-2753. (1) Every employer and payor
- 7     maintaining an office or transacting business within
- 8     this state and making payment of any wages or other
- 9     payments as defined in subsection (4) of this section
- 10    which are taxable under the provisions of the Nebraska
- 11    Revenue Act of 1967 to a resident or nonresident
- 12    individual shall deduct and withhold from such wages for
- 13    each payroll period and from such payments ~~a tax~~
- 14    ~~computed~~ paid on or after March 1, 1987, an amount equal
- 15    to twenty-one per cent of the amount of federal
- 16    withholding until such withholding rate is changed by
- 17    rule and regulation adopted and promulgated by the Tax
- 18    Commissioner. In determining the withholding rate, the
- 19    Tax Commissioner shall compute the rate in such manner
- 20    as to result, so far as practicable, in withholding from
- 21    the employee's wages and payments to the payee during
- 1     each calendar year an amount substantially equivalent to
- 2     the tax reasonably estimated to be due from the employee
- 3     or payee under the provisions of such act with respect
- 4     to the amount of such wages and payments included in his
- 5     or her taxable income during the calendar year. The
- 6     method of determining the amount to be withheld shall be
- 7     prescribed by regulations of the Tax Commissioner.
- 8           (2) For purposes of this section, an employee
- 9     or payee shall be entitled to the same number of
- 10    withholding exemptions as the number of withholding
- 11    exemptions to which he or she is entitled for federal
- 12    income tax withholding purposes. An employer or payor
- 13    may rely upon the number of federal withholding
- 14    exemptions claimed by the employee.
- 15           (3) The Tax Commissioner may enter into
- 16    agreements with the tax departments of other states,
- 17    which require income tax to be withheld from the payment
- 18    of wages, salaries, and such other payments, so as to
- 19    govern the amounts to be withheld from the wages and

20 salaries of and other payments to residents of such 21 states. Such agreements may provide for recognition of 22 anticipated tax credits in determining the amounts to be 23 withheld and, under regulations prescribed by the Tax
24 Commissioner, may relieve employers and payors in this
1 state from withholding income tax on wages, salaries,
2 and such other payments paid to nonresident employees
3 and payees. The agreements authorized by this 4 subsection shall be subject to the condition that the 5 tax department of such other states grant similar 6 treatment to residents of this state.

7 (4) Wages and other payments subject to 8 withholding shall mean payments that are subject to 9 withholding under the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as 10 amended, and are (a) payments made by employers to 11 employees, except such payments subject to 26 U.S.C.
12 section 3405 or 3406, (b) payments of gambling winnings,
13 or (c) pension or annuity payments when the recipient
14 has requested the payor to withhold from such payments.

15 Sec. 2. That original section 77-2753,
16 Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, is repealed.

MOTION - Escort Governor

Mr. Barrett moved that a committee of five be appointed to escort the Governor to the Chamber to deliver the State of the State and Budget Message.

The motion prevailed.

The Chair appointed Mr. Beyer, Mesdames Marsh, Langford, Labedz, and Ms. Scofield to serve on said Committee.

The Committee returned and escorted Governor Kay Orr to the Rostrum where she delivered the following State of the State and Budget Address:

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the Legislature, my fellow Nebraskans:

I am here today in fulfillment of the Governor's responsibility under Article IV, Section 7 of the Nebraska Constitution to present "a complete itemized budget of the financial requirements of all departments, institutions and agencies of the state and a budget bill to be introduced by the Speaker of the Legislature at the request of the Governor."

The legislative history of this provision in our Constitution makes it abundantly clear that the budget bill proposed by the Governor is to be used by the Legislature throughout the legislative process.

I respectfully ask that you comply with that intent.

That is not to suggest that this is a take-it-or-leave-it proposal. I am well aware of the proposition that the Governor proposes and the Legislature disposes; however, the clear purpose of this constitutional provision is to allow the tax-paying citizens to compare the Governor's budget with the actions of the Legislature. I am prepared to work with the Legislature cooperatively throughout your consideration of the budget.

In addition, the budget I present today is in compliance with the provisions of LB 258 which the Legislature passed last year requiring the submission of biennial, rather than annual, budgets. Thus, we return to the procedure used prior to 1971 when the Legislature began its current practice of meeting each year. I support the objective of LB 258 because it restores a sense of stability to the budget process.

And stability is what this budget is all about.

For too long in Nebraska we have witnessed erratic swings in the fiscal affairs of state government--a kind of economic rollercoaster ride that in the past six years resulted in four special sessions to cut budgets in mid-year. The effect has been to create doubt and uncertainty, certainly for those responsible for administration of the programs funded by the budget, but for the public at large as well.

The disruptions and inefficiencies created by this unstable budgeting process have cost us more than dollars and cents. They have exacted a high price. These practices have weakened the public's confidence in the ability of elected officials to manage the state's affairs.

We need to restore confidence by putting forth a budget and a revenue system that generates stability, not just for the next two years, but for well into the future.

In my inaugural remarks, I noted the great debt Nebraskans owe to our ancestors, those hardy pioneers who persevered against great odds with honesty, frugality and integrity. But, in our turn, we will one day ourselves be ancestors and we have a responsibility to the following generations to see that the legacy left them is equally worthy.

Two days ago I announced my tax package, the first change in the Nebraska tax system in 20 years. A proposal that meets the essential criteria of fairness, stability, simplicity, and revenue neutrality.

By basing our state taxes on the federal adjusted gross income we retain all the advantages of our current system, without having to endure the wild swings generated by changes in the federal tax code.

Using an average income tax rate of 3.47 percent, our total tax system will generate the $898 million necessary to fund my budget without a tax increase.

There is also good news for corporations in my tax plan. By phasing in changes in the unitary formula to base corporate taxes only on sales in Nebraska, we gain significant competitive edge over surrounding states in the battle for jobs through economic development.

It is expected that the effect of the corporate tax change will be offset by increases generated by more jobs and more investment dollars in Nebraska.

After adjusting for the Nebraska tax proposal; providing for a minimum of 3 percent reserve; and factoring in estimated balances, lapses, and deficits, the maximum funds available for budgeting amount to $862 million the first year and $907 million the second year.

The budget I place before you today proposes a General Fund appropriation for the next fiscal year of just under $862 million. After adjustment for the reductions made in the December special session, that figure represents an increase of 3 1/2 percent over this year.

Were it not for the deficits, the increases in my budget would be 1.7 percent.

For the second year of the biennium, I am recommending a figure of just over $876 million, an increase of 1.7 percent over my 1987-88 proposal. The overall increase for Fiscal 1987-1988, including a 3 percent salary adjustment package, and $2.8 million for "A" bills is roughly $29 million or 3.5 percent. This provides for a $9.9 million or 4.8 percent increase to state operations; $5.7 million or 2.6 percent increase to higher education; and $15.3 million or 3.8 percent increase to state aid.

My budget proposal provides for a 3 percent reserve for the first year and a 6.6 percent reserve for the second year.

This budget fulfills my commitment of no tax increase.

This is a transitional budget, one tailored to reflect the economic realities of 1987 and 1988, but also one which lays a firm foundation for growth and development in the future.

In just over a dozen years, we'll enter the 21st Century. Long before then, I am convinced that with devotion and dedication, we can bring about a significant upturn in the state's economy and this budget will position Nebraska to realize the benefits of that improvement. Our exercise today of prudence in our stewardship of scarce financial resources will serve us well as we stand on the threshold of a new millenium.

When I took office, I faced budget requests from state agencies of $1.9 billion.....$956 million for the first year of the biennium and $985 million for the second year. These amounts did not include any salary adjustment. They would have represented an increase of almost 15 percent over the current appropriations. These numbers represent the collective judgment of agencies of state government as necessary to carry out the existing mandates of the Legislature in delivering current services and programs, but we must live within our means.

My budget recommendation for the first year represents almost $100 million less than was requested.

We are currently faced with $17.9 million in deficit requests. Included are $6.5 million for Special Education; $1 million for Homestead Exemption; $1.6 million for AFDC; $2.3 million for child welfare-state wards; $1.5 million for the Bassett transmission tower; almost $2 million for Wastewater Treatment; and $1 million for the Department of Corrections; as well as many other smaller requests. Most of these requests represent entitlement programs for which little or no discretion is available.

In addition, under existing revenue projections no reserve will be available on June 30, 1987.

Faced with that sobering picture, and after long--and often painful personal--hours spent in an agency-by-agency, line-by-line review and appraisal of state government activities, I have concluded that what is required is a reordering of priorities in a manner calculated to produce the most cost-effective result.

To achieve that a number of decisions were reached:

During the Special Session last December, the Legislature cut $6.5 million out of the current fiscal year. It is imperative that we "annualize" the reductions made in the special session, that is, carry them forward into the next two years. This will reduce appropriations for the coming year by $11.1 million.

Other reductions in existing programs are necessary in order to meet our commitments to ongoing entitlement programs, to provide for salary increases for state employees and to move forward on other limited initiatives.

I support the revisions of the Homestead Exemption program that will save $5,270,000.

This budget calls for the elimination of certain optional medicaid services and will require other cost-saving measures in this growing program.

I am recommending a phaseout of General Fund support for the so called advocacy agencies. This phaseout period will provide time for them to secure alternate sources of funding and to that end I pledge my full support.

I am recommending that the Liquor Control Commission be abolished. With local licensing, and the transfer of enforcement to the Nebraska State Patrol, it simply makes good sense to transfer the only remaining functions--principally tax collection--to the Department of Revenue.

We must look to the future and education provides the promise of tomorrow. Education is a sacred trust inscribed in our Constitution and places a heavy responsibility on the state to ensure quality education for our young citizens. We must also meet the changing educational requirements of our technological society. Over the years we have provided a variety of programs to address the funding needs of select components of the educational system. This disjunctured approach has resulted in a patchwork mentality rather than a unified focus on quality education for all our citizens. It is the total system that needs our attention now.

As a beginning step toward a more logical funding approach, I am prepared to restore the annualized cuts made to state aid to education in the amount of $3.8 million. In exchange for this action I am proposing that local school districts pay the educational costs of wards of the court. My recommendations for special education include an increase of $4.8 million for the first year of the biennium and $8.8 million for the second year. Special education continues to be one of our fastest growing programs. It must be viewed in the context of overall aid to education and I am prepared to work with you in developing better ways to meet the needs of our educational system.

Our Technical Community College System and the State College System fill an important function in meeting the needs in the area of higher education. Too often they are viewed as the step-sisters of our university system. They must be seen in the larger context as an integral part of higher education. At the same time we must recognize that the independent colleges are an integral part of that overall education system, and we must cooperate with them in fashioning a plan of action in the higher education field.

My recommendations for the state colleges include $736,000 for the first year and $517,000 in the second year to provide for critically needed administrative computing capabilities. My recommendation also includes $226,000 for each of the two fiscal years to provide for a 7 percent retirement contribution as a matter of equity.

A special role that higher education must fill as an essential partner is the economic revitalization of this state.

University of Nebraska President Ronald Roskens has spoken forcefully of the need for change, and directed the university community toward a future that requires commitment, compassion, and planning. His vision of a renewed university, streamlined and strengthened to better meet its substantial obligations, is one that I commend to all Nebraskans. The spirit of his remarks reflected a vigor that will serve us well as we advance confidently toward the future.

Consistent with this perspective, I am including within my budget recommendations $1,150,000 for the biennium for university research and technical assistance to enhance our economy. The funds will be allocated to the Universitywide administration and distributed pursuant to guidelines that they develop. It is, however, my expectation that the funds will be used to create and foster intercampus, interdisciplinary projects that address this state's most pressing needs. In particular, the university should work closely with state government and the private sector to fashion new partnerships designed to revitalize this state.

Entrepreneurs and venture capitalists should be able to turn to the university for answers to the complex questions that arise when creative ideas are transformed into vibrant businesses. In our highly competitive and intensely regulated economy, it is not enough simply to have good ideas. We will accomplish little if our next breakthrough in biotechnology cannot be licensed or marketed. We will not prosper if small businesses and entrepreneurs cannot survive, or are unable to exploit engineering breakthroughs, or expand franchises to meet their true potential.

I am including funding for veterinary student contracts and operating costs for the veterinary clinic at the Meat Animal Research Center. I am including $500,000 for the first year and $750,000 for the second year for biotechnology and food processing. Also included is funding for the Small Business Development Center at UNO in the amount of $150,000 for the first year and $250,000 for the second year. Extension and Research are important responsibilities of the University mission and I have provided an additional $373,000 for each of the two fiscal years for these activities.

In addition to those economic development programs associated with the university, my budget contains a continuation of funding for the Research and Development Authority by providing an additional $2 million for each of two years of the biennium. I am also providing $500,000 each year to the Department of Economic Development for additional job creation activities. My recommendation includes $100,000 for the first year and $150,000 for the second year for technical college job training programs.

Over the two-year period, the budget provides $3.7 million in increases for agriculture and natural resource activities, including additional funds for agricultural promotion, $2 million for the Resource Development Fund and $672,000 more for wastewater treatment. In that regard, I am proposing that the state create a revolving fund to finance wastewater treatment facilities. As you know, federal grants for such facilities are being phased out and the Clean Water Act requires a 20 percent match by the state. My recommendation includes funding to pay off the cash flow obligations for the existing state grants and provides for $500,000 the first year and $2 million the second year to establish a revolving fund to match with federal funds under the phaseout plan.

In the area of human services we have an obligation to meet the critical basic human dignity needs of our fellow citizens who are less fortunate. We are of course faced with many ongoing entitlement programs. My recommendations include over $6 million in the first year and $13.7 million in the second year for increased Medicaid costs. Included for the biennium are increases of $2.8 million for child welfare; $2.8 million for AFDC; $2.2 million for Title XX (twenty); $1.4 million for Job Support; $850,000 for Veterans Home operations; and $1.0 million for BSDC/Regional Center operations.

In the area of Justice and Law Enforcement, I have included items necessitated by increased demands. For the Supreme Court I am providing $195,000 each year for reclassification of County Court Employees and $128,000 each year for additional probation staff. For the Department of Corrections I am proposing $2.7 million for population increases and $2.2 million for Hastings Correctional Facilities operations.

I am continuing the funding plan for the purchase of repeaters and mobile radios for the Nebraska State Patrol. This will provide much needed two-way communications for the women and men who work long and stressful hours and who are asked to put their life on the line day-in and day-out for our protection.

The budget for Capitol Construction totals $21.4 million in the first year and $29.6 million in the second year from all fund sources.

Due to financial constraints and prior commitments, we are limited to very few new project starts. My recommendations for the biennium provide for continuation of funding for the major projects that have been previously authorized. Those reaffirmations include bond payments for building renovation and land acquisition at the university and state colleges and the Nebraska Law Enforcement Training Center in Grand Island. Also included in ongoing funding for the Lied Performing Arts Center, Animal Science, and Clinical Facility at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln and Lab Science at the University of Nebraska at Omaha. I am recommending that the Department of Public Institutions, the Department of Correctional Services, the state colleges, and the university be authorized funds to carry out various projects dealing with fire and life/safety and miscellaneous renovation of existing facilities, such as substandard classroom and teaching lab improvements and remodeling.

For the Game and Parks Commission, I am proposing the construction of a fish hatchery at the Calamus Reservoir. This project will be funded from cash funds, federal funds, and private donations.

I am recommending $2.5 million per year for the 309 Task Force. This program is directly linked to saving the state money over the long term. The Legislature is to be commended for establishing this innovative program.

The past eight years that I have spent in this capitol building, first as a member of the Governor's staff and then as State Treasurer, have convinced me that we are more fortunate than most of us realize to have in our service dedicated and conscientious women and men who day in and day out perform their jobs with skill and efficiency. They deserve compensation that is fair and commensurate with their considerable contribution to good government.

I have set aside $12.8 million to be used for a 3 percent salary and benefit adjustment for the coming fiscal year and have proposed a spending level for the second year of the biennium which will accommodate additional adjustments.

As you know, we are entering a critical period in the history of labor-management relations. I have convened a task force of labor and management leaders to review collective bargaining and to recommend a plan of action to implement that process in a manner fair and equitable to all parties including the taxpayer. In order that this process may go forward unencumbered, I am recommending that the Commission on Industrial Relations embargo be extended for an additional year to allow government and its employees time to reach agreement through good faith bargaining.

If government is to perform its function in an efficient and effective manner, it must be able to reward those who perform in a superior manner. Accordingly, I am preparing an incentive pay plan which will allow for performance-based compensation.

It is fair, I think, to observe that not everyone will agree with my priorities as expressed in this budget. Throughout this process, I have had the advice of many sincere and well-meaning women and men urging that there be increased funding for this program or that department.

While I listened carefully and sympathetically, I found that, in good conscience, I had to rely on the admonition we have been hearing in another context: "Just say no." As we move through the legislative consideration of this budget, you may find that advice useful. Saying no when one would like to say yes is not easy; it requires political courage and personal character.

It is fitting to reflect that when the first Unicameral met in this chamber 50 years ago, it was the realization of George Norris' dream of a body of independent lawmakers who could say no to the special pleaders, citizen-legislators who would be more directly accountable to their constituencies. It was a dream that grew out of Senator Norris' frustration in Washington where he saw bills on which he held strong convictions killed in committee or fatally weakened by compromise because his colleagues submitted to pressures from outside the Senate.

I would like to think that, confronted as we are with severe constraints on our fiscal resources, George Norris would view this budget with understanding favor; that he would agree that our responsibility--yours and mine--is to do what we perceive is best for all Nebraskans.

In these difficult days, I suggest that what is best is to follow a policy of restraint, to undertake to restore stability, to insure that we are investing our citizens' taxes in the most efficient and productive ways we can devise.

This is a particularly critical time for those of us charged with governance of our state. We have the opportunity to respond to our constituencies' calls for restraint in taxation and spending during a time of economic distress, or we can listen to those who believe we must take on an even heavier financial burden.

Whichever course we take, the implications for the remaining years of this century are profound.

The direction I suggest is that we maintain those necessary functions which serve our people, work hard at improving the economy and seek patience and forbearance from those who disagree.

The challenge we confront is imposing. Ours is a formidable task. It is a time to remember the words of Phillips Brooks, the 19th century poet who counseled, "Do not pray for tasks equal to your powers. Pray for powers equal to your tasks."

Thank you.

The Committee escorted Governor Orr from the Chamber.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONOpinion No. 87013

DATE: January 30, 1987

SUBJECT: Does LB 166 of the Ninetieth Legislature, First Session, conflict with so much of Neb.Rev.Stat. §43-601 (Reissue 1984) which states "education of children from birth until completion of a suitable program of education but not to exceed twenty-one years of age. . .?"

REQUESTED BY: Senator Dennis Baack
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
Harold Mosher, Assistant Attorney General

The cited statutes pertain to the time frame during which certain services are to be offered to certain types of handicapped children by different entities. Neb.Rev.Stat. §43-601 (Reissue 1984) provides that the State Board of Education shall make provisions for the care and education of certain children "from birth until completion of a suitable program of education but not to exceed twenty-one years of age, who are both deaf and visually handicapped or otherwise multi-handicapped as defined in section 43-629 and for whom there is no other provision in Nebraska law for education and training". If it were to become operative law, LB 166 would amend Neb.Rev.Stat. §43-646 (Reissue 1984) to provide "This act shall apply to a child from the date of diagnosis or the date of notification of the resident school district to the end of the school year following the child's twenty-first birthday." It is to be noted that the words "This act" in Neb.Rev.Stat. §43-646 (Reissue 1984) and in LB 166 does not include Neb.Rev.Stat. §43-646 (Reissue 1984). See, the note in Neb.Rev.Stat. §43-646 (Reissue 1984). In other words, Neb.Rev.Stat. §43-646 (Reissue 1984) is one of a group of statutes which imposes certain duties on school districts whereas Neb.Rev.Stat. §43-601 (Reissue 1984) imposes certain duties on the State Board of Education. Thus we are of the opinion that LB 166 does not conflict with Neb.Rev.Stat. §43-601 (Reissue 1984). You may, however, wish to harmonize the time frames in each statute.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87015

DATE: February 2, 1987

SUBJECT: Credit Reporting Limitations by State Law

REQUESTED BY: Senator Dan C. Lynch

District 13

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
Lisa D. Martin-Price, Assistant Attorney General

QUESTION:

1. Whether a state is precluded from enacting legislation limiting the information that a credit reporting agency may release regarding an individual who has filed for bankruptcy by virtue of federal legislation in this area?

CONCLUSION:

1. No. Our analysis of 15 U.S.C.A. §1681t indicates that a state may enact its own legislation regarding credit reporting.

QUESTION:

2. If so, whether federal statutes preclude a state from legislatively setting a shorter time frame within which an individual's bankruptcy history may be reported?

CONCLUSION:

2. Yes. The federal statutes prohibit a state from setting a shorter time frame. Although there is little case law on this issue, the legislative history of this Act indicates that Congress intended there to be a set time period of 10 years, after which a credit reporting agency may not report an individual's bankruptcy history. Therefore, our analysis of the legislative history and case law indicates that a lesser time period would violate the federal Act.

Congress has enacted federal statutes which regulate credit reporting agencies. Specifically, 15 U.S.C.A. §1681t provides in part that a credit reporting agency is prohibited from disclosing information regarding an individual's bankruptcy beyond ten years. However, as to whether or not a state may legislate in this area, 15 U.S.C.A. §1681t expressly provides:

This subchapter does not annul, alter, affect, or exempt any person subject to the provisions of this subchapter from complying with the laws of any State with respect to the collection, distribution, or use of any information on consumers, except to the extent that those laws are inconsistent with any provision of this subchapter, and then only to the extent of the inconsistency.

(Emphasis added.) Clearly, states are not preempted from enacting legislation in this area by the federal Act (supremacy clause of Article VI of the United States Constitution).

Section 1681t is a manifestation of the Congressional intent to leave some regulatory power to the states in this area. As to how much power the states have, the key question relates to whether a provision in a state act prohibiting disclosure of information concerning a bankruptcy to under 10 years is inconsistent with the provision of the federal Act limiting disclosure to 10 years. Because there is little case law dealing with this provision, its language is difficult to interpret.

Looking at the "inconsistency" language in Section 1681t as a whole, "to the extent that those laws are inconsistent with any provision of this subchapter, and then only to the extent of the inconsistency" (emphasis added), it suggests that Congress intended that any state legislation in this area should closely resemble the federal Act. In other words, if a provision in a state act is inconsistent with the federal Act, that portion which is inconsistent will be stricken. Thus, the state act may not vary greatly or significantly from the federal Act or it will not be upheld. Keeping this in mind, we will discuss the pertinent legislative history of the Act.

The Congressional legislative history discloses that the overall purpose of the federal Act is:

The new title attempts to balance the need by those who extend credit, insurance, or employment to know the facts necessary to make a sound decision, and the consumer's right to know of adverse information being disseminated about him, and the right to correct any erroneous information so disseminated. The requirements of the legislation permit the free flow of information about a consumer, while providing the consumer at the same time the ability to rectify any errors causing his unwarranted difficulties.

116 Cong.Rec. 36572 (1970) (emphasis added). From this language, it is clear that Congress intended to protect both consumers and creditors, etc., and not just consumers. Therefore, any state laws which require additional duties in favor of consumers are not necessarily "consistent" with the federal Act.

The issue of whether a state law is inconsistent with the federal Act has appeared in few cases. However, standards for preemption and for defining when an inconsistency exists between state and federal law were promulgated by Mr. Justice Marshall in Jones v. Rath Packing Co., 430 U.S. 519, 97 S.Ct. 1305, 51 L.Ed.2d 604 (1977). One standard, as Justice Marshall outlined it, is whether the state law "stands as an obstacle to the accomplishment and execution of the full purposes and objectives of the Congress." The other standard is whether or not it would be possible to comply with the state act without triggering a federal enforcement action on the ground that the state act is inconsistent with federal law. 430 U.S. at 540-41, 97 S.Ct. at 1317.

To determine whether or not an enforcement action would ensue, we must examine whether the proposed state legislation is consistent with the purposes and objectives of Congress in enacting a 10-year time period. As discussed previously, the congressional intent was clearly to balance consumers' and creditors' interests and protections. Each group must be treated fairly. The language of Section 1681c very clearly states:

(a) Except as authorized under subsection (b) of this section, no consumer reporting agency may make any consumer report containing any of the following items of information:

(1) Cases under Title II or under the Bankruptcy Act that, from the date of entry of the order for relief or the date of adjudication, as the case may be, antedate the report by more than 10 years (emphasis added).

Thus, it appears that Congress intended to provide a set guideline of 10 years. This interpretation is supported by the following language from the congressional record when the Federal Fair Credit Reporting Act was amended.

Section 312 of the House Amendment contains a technical amendment in light of amendments made to the Consumer Credit Protection Act and represents a compromise between the House bill and Senate amendment in permitting a bankruptcy to antedate a credit report by not more than 10 years in lieu of the 14 years contained in present law, and 7 years contained in the House bill (emphasis added).

Clearly, although a lesser time period was proposed by the House bill, a compromise of 10 years was reached in the Senate amendment. The rationale behind this compromise is, more than likely, a reflection of the congressional intent to balance the protections afforded to consumers and creditors.

It is now necessary to turn to the second standard outlined by Justice Marshall, whether or not it would be possible to comply with the state act without triggering a federal enforcement action. It appears that, considering the statutory language and congressional intent, because a state provision lessening the time frame after which a person's bankruptcy history may be reported is contrary to the purposes and objectives of Congress in enacting a 10 year period, a federal enforcement action would ensue. It would be illogical to assume that it would not violate the federal Act, since there is clear language showing that a lesser time frame was considered and rejected when the Fair Credit Reporting Act was amended in 1978.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

Introduced by Nelson, 35th District; Miller, 37th District; R. Johnson, 34th District; Higgins, 9th District; Ashford, 6th District; Coordsen, 32nd District; Baack, 47th District; Scofield, 49th District; Harris, 27th District; Landis, 46th District; Smith, 33rd District; Morehead, 30th District; Schellpeper, 18th District; Rupp, 22nd District; Dierks, 40th District; Hannibal, 4th District.

WHEREAS, the present federal administration is planning to move twenty-eight million six hundred thousand dollars from the United States Department of Agriculture food program, the Temporary Emergency Food Program, to cover part of a three per cent, two hundred fifty-five million dollar federal employee pay raise; and

WHEREAS, this proposed move would affect fifty-seven per cent of the funds for the food program, the total budget of which is fifty million dollars this year. Rejection of this move would in no way affect the federal pay raise that took effect January 3, 1987, but would force Congress to find other means of financing the raise; and

WHEREAS, this proposed move would mean a cut of over sixty per cent in Nebraska's food distribution program from two hundred seventy-eight thousand dollars down to one hundred ten thousand dollars; and

WHEREAS, this proposed move would mean that Nebraska may have to totally eliminate its distribution of commodities such as cheese, dry milk, butter, honey, flour, rice, and corn meal to the poor; and

WHEREAS, this food program is currently a shining example of the volunteer spirit with contributions of time worth one hundred sixty thousand dollars and distribution of food worth over five million dollars in Nebraska alone; and

WHEREAS, the Temporary Emergency Food Program provides a mechanism of reducing surplus food products often in the price support programs and thereby assists the agricultural industry of Nebraska; and

WHEREAS, a Senate committee has already refused to allow this move by an amendment to the emergency appropriation for the homeless; and

WHEREAS, this measure will be back before the House of Representatives later in the month to be reconsidered in HJ Rev 102.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETIETH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Legislature strongly urges the Congress of the United States to block any attempt to reduce the Temporary Emergency Food Program budget by shifting funding to another program.

2. That copies of this resolution be sent to Nebraska's elected representatives in the United States Senate and the House of Representatives.

This is in response to your request for an opinion dated January 14, 1987. You have requested our opinion regarding the constitutionality of LB 48, a bill proposing to amend certain provisions of the Minor in possession statute, Neb.Rev.Stat. §53-180.05 (Cumulative Supplement 1986). Specifically, you asked whether the legislature has the constitutional authority to enact a law which grants immunity from prosecution to a person who has committed a crime if that person will identify other persons who have committed a criminal act. The Nebraska Legislature has the constitutional authority to enact a law which grants immunity from prosecution to a person who has committed a crime if that person will identify other persons who have committed a criminal act.

The Nebraska Supreme Court has discussed the constitutionality of the Legislature's authority in Lenstrom v. Thone, 209 Neb. 783, 311 N.W.2d 884 (1981), as follows:

Certain fundamental constitutional principles must guide, and always have guided, us when the constitutional bounds of legislative power are questioned. The first principle is the Legislature has plenary legislative authority limited only by the state and federal Constitutions. Swanson v. State, 132 Neb. 82, 271 N.W. 264 (1937); Swyer v. Omaha-Douglas Public Building Commission, 188 Neb. 30, 195 N.W.2d 236 (1972); Orleans Education Assn. v. School Dist. of Orleans, 193 Neb. 675, 229 N.W.2d 172 (1975). The Nebraska Constitution is not a grant but, rather, a restriction on legislative power, and the Legislature may legislate on any subject not inhibited by the Constitution. State ex rel. Meyer v. County of Lancaster, 173 Neb. 195, 113 N.W.2d 63 (1962).

The current Nebraska statute pertaining to immunity in part provides:

Whenever a witness refuses, on the basis of the privilege against self-incrimination, to testify or to provide other information in a criminal proceeding before a court or grand jury, the court, on motion of the county attorney or other prosecuting attorney, may order the witness to testify or to provide other information. The witness may not refuse to comply with such an order of the court on the basis of the privilege against self-incrimination, but no testimony or other information compelled under the court's order, or any information directly or indirectly derived from such testimony or other information, may be used against the witness in any criminal case, except in a prosecution for perjury, giving a false statement, or failing to comply with the order of the court.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §29-2011.02 (Reissue 1985).

The Nebraska Supreme Court discussed Neb.Rev.Stat. §29-2011.02 (Reissue 1985) in State v. Jones, 213 Neb. 1, 328 N.W.2d 166 (1982), in regard to the constitutionality of immunity statutes, as follows:

It is clear that immunity statutes are designed to serve as substitutes for the fifth amendment right not to incriminate oneself, without such statutes no person in a criminal case can constitutionally be compelled to testify. It is also clear that the only true test of the constitutionality of an immunity statute is whether the result under such a statute is the same as if the witness retained his fifth amendment right and did not testify. Id. at 13, 14.

The proposed amendment in LB 48 will permit the violator's privilege against self-incrimination to be coextensive with the protection provided by the grant of immunity, thereby not conflicting with the Nebraska or United States Constitution.

In State v. Worgull, 128 Wis.2d 1, 381 N.W.2d 547 (1986), the court stated in Matter of Grant, 83 Wis.2d 77, 264 N.W.2d 587, that "the power to grant immunity is a legislative power and not an inherent power of either the prosecutor or the court." Id. at 89. The power to grant immunity is a legislative power.

The United States Supreme Court has upheld the constitutionality of immunity statutes ever since Brown v. Walker, 161 U.S. 591, 16 S.Ct. 644, 40 L.Ed. 819 (1896), and Ullmann v. United States, 350 U.S. 422, 76 S.Ct. 497, 100 L.Ed. 511 (1956). United States Supreme Court Justice Frankfurter observed, speaking for the court, in Ullmann, supra, that such statutes have "become part of our constitutional fabric . . ." Id. at 438. Immunity statutes seek a rational accommodation between the imperatives of the fifth amendment privilege and the legitimate demands of the government to compel citizens to testify. "The existence of these statutes reflects the importance of testimony, and the fact that many offenses are of such a character that the only persons capable of giving useful testimony are those implicated in the crime." Kastigar v. United States, 406 U.S. 441, 446, 92 S.Ct. 1653, 1657, 32 L.Ed.2d 212, 218 (1972), reh. denied, 408 U.S. 931, 92 S.Ct. 2478, 33 L.Ed.2d 345 (1972). Not only has the United States Supreme Court recognized the importance of immunity statutes, but the Nebraska Supreme Court has also found immunity statutes essential to the effective enforcement of various criminal statutes. State v. McCown, 189 Neb.

495, 203 N.W.2d 445 (1973), and State v. Ammons, 208 Neb. 812, 305 N.W.2d 812 (1981).

The Nebraska Supreme Court in McCown, supra, stated that immunity statutes are an essential investigative tool. Without them it would virtually be impossible to enforce some of our criminal statutes. "Immunity statutes are intended for those offenses where the only persons capable of giving useful testimony are those implicated in the crime. Immunity has historically been a governmental investigative tool for offenses which could not be investigated or proved otherwise. It is solely a governmental prerogative." Id. at 502.

Therefore, it is our opinion, that as long as the grant of immunity is as broad as the constitutional protections against self-incrimination for which it is a substitute, then it's constitutional. The amendment proposed in LB 48 satisfies the constitutionality test as stated by the Nebraska Supreme Court in Jones, supra. The Nebraska Legislature does have the constitutional authority to grant immunity.

Sincerely,

ROBERT M. SPIRE

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONOpinion No. 87018

DATE: February 9, 1987

SUBJECT: Constitutionality of LB 148

REQUESTED BY: Senator Rod Johnson
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
L. Jay Bartel, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested our opinion regarding the constitutionality of proposed legislation pertaining to natural resources districts. The legislation in question, LB 148, includes provisions relating to changes in the membership of such districts, and also increases the maximum tax rate which a natural resources district may levy. Your specific question is whether the inclusion of these provisions within the same bill violates the constitutional requirement that "No bill shall contain more than one subject. . . ." Neb.Const., Art. III, §14.

As we have noted in previous opinions, the Nebraska Supreme Court has adopted a liberal construction with respect to the interpretation of this constitutional requirement. Attorney General Opinion No. 87009, January 23, 1987; Attorney General Opinion No. 86029, March 6, 1986. The general rule with regard to this requirement is stated in Midwest Popcorn Co. v. Johnson, 152 Neb. 867, 872, 43 N.W.2d 174, 178 (1950), as follows:

An act, no matter how comprehensive, is valid as containing but one subject if a single main purpose is within its purview and nothing is included within it except that which is naturally connected with and incidental to that main purpose.

Similarly, in Anderson v. Tiemann, 182 Neb. 393, 408-09, 155 N.W.2d 322, 332 (1967), the court stated: "If an act has but one general object, no matter how broad that object may be, and contains no matter not germane thereto, and the title fairly expresses the subject of the bill, it does not violate Article III, section 14, of the Constitution." Applying this principle in that particular case, the court held that the inclusion of provisions relating to sales tax, use tax, income tax, and a franchise tax, within the single bill establishing the Nebraska Revenue Act of 1967, did not violate this constitutional provision, as the bill contained “. . . but one general subject, taxation. . . .” Id. at 409, 155 N.W.2d at 332.

LB 148 relates to the general subject of natural resources districts. The amendments proposed under the bill are all related to and naturally connected with this general subject. Based on the broad and liberal interpretation of Article III, section 14, adopted by the Nebraska Supreme Court, it is our opinion that LB 148 does not contain more than one subject, and, therefore, does not violate this constitutional requirement.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 31.

Introduced by V. Johnson, 8th District; Chambers, 11th District; Hartnett, 45th District; Lynch, 13th District; Landis, 46th District; Marsh, 29th District; Pappas, 42nd District; Labedz, 5th District; Korshoj, 16th District.

WHEREAS, Congress enacted the Brown-Stephens Act in 1916 which made Winnebago trust allotments subject to taxation under Nebraska law and which authorized the Secretary of the Interior to pay over taxes assessed to Thurston County on behalf of Winnebago allottees; and

WHEREAS, the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals, in the case of Thurston County v. Andrus, 586 F.2d 1212 (8th Cir. 1978), cert. denied, 441 U.S. 952 (1979), ruled that Winnebago allottees have a property right to hold their allotted trust land free of taxes and that the Secretary of the Interior could pay over individual Indian funds only when the allottee had consented; and

WHEREAS, as a result of the Eighth Circuit case of Thurston County v. Andrus, certain Winnebago allottees or their heirs have cognizable claims for the back taxes in the amount of at least

$951,051.44 plus interest for a total claim presently between the amount of approximately $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 for the years between 1916 and 1972, inclusive; and

WHEREAS, the Winnebago Tribe on behalf of its members, having the choice of resolving this matter through litigation or legislation, actively supports a federal legislative solution; and

WHEREAS, the Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska has requested the Ninetieth Legislature of Nebraska, First Session, to endorse federal legislation to resolve the Brown-Stephens Act issue affecting Winnebago Indians; and

WHEREAS, the United States Department of the Interior supports a federal legislative solution to this matter; and

WHEREAS, the federal legislation to be proposed by the Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska in conjunction with the United States Department of the Interior would provide for federal payment of the Winnebago tax claims and interest and for a corresponding full discharge and release of any obligation Thurston County or the State of Nebraska and the United States may have for such tax claims and interest; and

WHEREAS, litigation would be time consuming and expensive; and

WHEREAS, litigation could relieve the United States of its responsibility for these claims and interest; and

WHEREAS, the Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska, the Thurston County Board of Supervisors, and the Village of Winnebago Board have all passed resolutions endorsing the enactment of federal legislation to resolve this matter; and

WHEREAS, a federal legislative solution is a matter of fundamental fairness in the best interests of all concerned.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETIETH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Ninetieth Legislature, First Session, of the State of Nebraska, assembled, hereby endorses federal legislation providing for the federal payment of all Winnebago claims for back taxes, plus interest, assessed and collected on trust allotments by Thurston County pursuant to the Brown-Stephens Act, and that such payment shall constitute a discharge and release of respective claims and any corresponding obligation which Thurston County, the State of Nebraska, or the United States may have arising from the assessment and collection of taxes on Winnebago trust allotments pursuant to the Brown-Stephens Act, 39 Stat. 865.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 32.

Introduced by Remmers, 1st District; Rupp, 22nd District.

WHEREAS, Genevive Margrave has graciously conveyed to the Nebraska Game and Parks Foundation, property located in Richardson County, Nebraska holding great habitat development potential as a wildlife management area; and

WHEREAS, the Game and Parks Commission has the general authority to acquire real estate with the consent of the Governor by gift; and

WHEREAS, in the interest of promoting wildlife habitat for Nebraskans, the Legislature wishes to grant approval for the Game and Parks Commission to obtain title to all or any part of such land presently held in trust by the Nebraska Game and Parks Foundation; and

WHEREAS, The Margrave tract is fifty-eight acres of high quality habitat land located in southeast Nebraska near Rulo, an area of the state that is significantly lacking in public hunting lands. Mrs. Genevive Margrave has donated this land as a memorial to her late husband who was an avid hunter and outdoorsman.

The tract is situated along the Big Nemaha River and offers riverbank access to fisherman, boaters, and hunters on the river. The vegetation is a mix of habitat types ranging from riparian timber, to grassland, and to wetland. The area offers excellent quail hunting in addition to pheasant and deer hunting. Excellent opportunities for the taking of furbearers such as beaver, muskrat, mink, and raccoon also exist.

There also exists on the area several large plant colonies of sweetflag or calamus. Historically, sweetflag was widely distributed in Nebraska and was greatly prized by the Indians and early pioneers for its many uses. Due to loss of habitat from agricultural pressures it is now quite uncommon in the state.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETIETH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Legislature approves the gift from the Nebraska Game and Parks Foundation to the Game and Parks Commission of all of the real estate described as follows:

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 87021

DATE: February 11, 1987

SUBJECT: County's share of highway allocation funds.

REQUESTED BY: Senator Howard Lamb
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
Warren D. Lichty, Jr., Assistant Attorney General

Your inquiry of January 22, 1987, relative to Nebraska Revised Statutes, Chapter 39, Article 25, indicates you are considering legislation to address the question of a township's interest in county allocations of funds from the State Highway Allocation Fund. Your specific question is whether sections 39-2501 to 39-2510 require an allocation to township roads by the county, or whether more specific statutory language is required.

The answer to the first part of that question is no. These particular sections only have only to do with the manner in which the county share allocated by section 39-2402 is divided among the counties.

To get a better idea of the relationship between counties and constituent townships, one should refer sections 39-1519 to 39-1524, 23-108, 39-1402, Chapter 23, Article 2, and Chapter 39, Article 21; especially, section 39-2105.

These sections make several things clear, and some of those things conflict. For example, the county board is clearly in charge of all roads in the county. Yet, the township has responsibility to build, repair and maintain township roads. The bridges on all roads, county and township, however, are the responsibility of the county.

Section 39-2105(2) allocating functional classifications between governmental entities states that the counties have responsibility for the design, construction, reconstruction, maintenance, and operation of all rural roads under the various classifications which make them county roads rather than State highways. Also, the statutes provide that townships may petition counties for financial assistance with certain large projects. It is presumed that discretion in responding to such petitions rests with the county board.

In answer to the broader question--"Is there any statute which requires counties to share their allocation funds with constituent townships?"--we believe the answer is no. The most logical place to expect such a requirement would be in Chapter 23, Article 2, or sections 39-1519 to 39-1524, inclusive. No such blanket requirement is to be found.

Of course, §39-1521 does require the county to build, maintain and repair all bridges, and 39-1522 requires the county to pay for all right-of-way costs, services of the county highway superintendent, and other persons engaged in locating, establishing or altering any public road. Section 39-1524 is the section which provides for a township petitioning the county for funds to assist with large projects.

While counties are required to be responsible for certain expenditures on township roads which may vary from county to county, there is no statutory language requiring them to specifically share funds they receive from the Highway Allocation Fund.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

Clerk of the Legislature

Opinion No. 87022

DATE: February 12, 1987
SUBJECT: Constitutionality of LB 318
REQUESTED BY: Senator Richard Peterson
Nebraska State Legislature
WRITTEN BY: Melvin K. Kammerlohr,
Deputy Attorney General

You have requested our opinion regarding LB 318. Specifically you asked if the proposed additional aggravating circumstances are unambiguous enough to sufficiently guide and focus a sentencing panel in determining whether it can impose a sentence of death so as to be constitutional.

The Supreme Court of the United States in Gregg v. Georgia, 428 U.S. 153, discussing its previous case of Furman v. Georgia, stated, "Furman mandates that where discretion is afforded a sentencing body on a matter so grave as the determination of whether a human life should be taken or spared, that discretion must be suitably directed and limited so as to minimize the risk of wholly, arbitrary and capricious action."

We are satisfied that the proposed aggravating circumstances in LB 318 are, thus, "suitably directed and limited," as above stated, so as to be found constitutional.

You may wish to include the singular "human being" at the end of proposed (i) and (j) to go along with the plural which is already there if that is your desire.

As a practical suggestion, there is an overlapping between the present aggravating circumstance (f) and the proposed (i) and (j); to prevent needless litigation because a sentencing court included both (f) and either (i) or (j), you may wish to limit the use of (f) when either (i) or (j) are used.

Sincerely,

COMMUNICATION

February 17, 1987

Mr. Patrick O'Donnell
Clerk of the Legislature
Room 2018
State Capitol
Lincoln, NE 68509

Dear Mr. O'Donnell:

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 85-404 and 85-408 Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska 1943, as amended, the plans for construction, financing and use of existing surplus funds as outlined below for construction of a new campus recreation/athletic facility on the UNL campus are herewith submitted.

FACILITY CONSTRUCTED:

The facility being constructed is a new campus recreation/athletic facility on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln city campus. This facility will provide a center for indoor recreation, an athletic practice field and renovated space for academic and research components of the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation (HPER). A program statement for the project has been adopted by the Board of Regents.

This project combines a renovation of the existing Coliseum building with additions to that structure of approximately 136,000 square feet. The renovated and newly constructed space will contain a campus recreation center; an indoor football practice field; offices, labs and storage for HPER; general purpose classrooms; space for the women's intercollegiate volleyball program and locker facilities for the men's and women's tennis teams.

UN-L recreation facilities are inadequate in quantity and quality. This situation has worsened in the past few years because of continued deterioration of the Men's P.E. Building and the closing of the Coliseum basement pool by the State Health Department pending substantial repairs. Other indoor areas used for recreation activities must share available time with HPER classes or Athletic Department users. The new facility will provide indoor recreation facilities which students, faculty and staff can use almost any time of the day to improve their physical condition and well-being.

Current intercollegiate football activities span the entire year. Climatic conditions in Nebraska often inhibit outdoor football practice and conditioning activities. The football coaching staff and administration of the Athletic Department believe that the addition of an indoor practice football field, jogging track and a meeting room for the football program is needed if the UN-L football programs is to improve its quality and maintain a competitive edge.

HPER currently uses 23,500 square feet in the Coliseum for its academic programs and is the major user of three general purpose classrooms (approximately 3,600 square feet) in the Coliseum basement. The quality of Coliseum space is very poor, impeding HPER teaching, research and service. This project will enhance the teaching and research programs of HPER.

FINANCING PLANS:

Construction costs for the campus recreation/athletic facility will not exceed $16,626,000. The costs of construction are proposed to be financed from three sources: private donations to the University Foundation, expending a portion (not to exceed $3,500,000) of existing surplus funds in the University of Nebraska Student Fees and Facilities Revenue Bond accounts, and an issue of University of Nebraska Student Fees and Facilities Revenue Bonds under the Board's 1964 Revenue Bond Resolution. It is anticipated that the borrowed surplus funds and the new Bonds will be repaid from future football ticket revenues.

The contemplated bond issue would not exceed $9,840,000 in amount, with $9,626,000 committed to construction and the balance to cover the costs of issuance. Although these bonds will carry a stated maturity of 14 years, it is anticipated that they will be redeemed in less than 10 years. The 1964 Revenue Bond Resolution is proposed as a financing vehicle since it should result in lowest interest costs.

Football revenues will be supplemented from their current level by a $5.00 per game capital facilities assessment on all tickets, excluding those tickets currently discounted for individual faculty, staff and students. All revenues from this assessment will be pledged together with other facilities pledged under the 1964 Resolution toward payment of the borrowed surplus funds and the new bonds. Operating and maintenance costs will be funded from student fees and from faculty/staff user fees.

Should the Legislature require additional information in this matter, please contact UNL Chancellor Martin Massengale or his staff, 201 Admin., City Campus 68588-0419, phone 472-2116.

Respectfully submitted.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87020

DATE: February 17, 1987

SUBJECT:                   Constitutionality of LB 304 - Amendments to Definition of "Engaged in Business in this State"
                                Within the Nebraska Sales and Use Tax Statutes

                                Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY:     Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
                                L. Jay Bartel, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested our opinion concerning the constitutionality of LB 304. Generally, LB 304 proposes to amend the definition of "engaged in business in this state" contained in Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-2702(21) (Reissue 1986) by expanding the definition of this term within the sales and use tax statutes to reach transactions involving tangible personal property sold by mail order retailers, or retailers soliciting sales by certain advertising conducted in the state. Your specific question concerns whether the imposition of an obligation to collect and remit sales and use tax on out-of-state sellers under these circumstances violates the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution, and imposes an impermissible burden on interstate commerce under Article I, Section 8, Cl. 3 of the Constitution.

Sales and use taxes, while both constituting excise or privilege taxes, are nevertheless considered to be distinct forms of taxation. Generally, "... the sales tax is imposed on sales occurring within the state, while the use tax applies to goods purchased outside the state." 68 AM.Jur.2d Sales and Use Taxes, §173 (1973). The use tax is correlative of, and complementary to, the sales tax, and is designed to prevent loss of tax revenues through evasion of the sales tax. Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1953). Although the sales and use tax often bring about the same result and serve complementary purposes, they are different in conception, and different standards may apply with respect to the determination of their constitutionality. McLeod v. J. E. Dilworth Co., 322 U.S. 327 (1944).

With respect to the constitutionality of imposing a sales tax on property delivered from outside the state, the United States Supreme Court, in McGoldrick v. Berwind-White Coal Mining Co., 309 U.S. 33 (1940), held a sales tax imposed under these conditions was constitutionally permissible where transfer of title and possession to the purchaser occurred within the taxing state. In a subsequent case, however, the Court held unconstitutional on commerce clause grounds the application of an Arkansas sales tax where transfer and title to the goods occurred outside the taxing state upon delivery to a common carrier. McLeod v. J. E. Dilworth Co., supra. Thus, in determining questions regarding the constitutionality of imposing sales tax liability, the Court has focused on the legal incidents of the sale, focusing upon the transfer of ownership and possession of the property in question within the taxing jurisdiction.

While the Court has had only limited occasion to address the constitutionality of imposing sales tax liability on transactions involving out-of-state sellers, the Court has addressed on several occasions the level of in-state activity necessary to justify the imposition of use tax collection obligations on an interstate business. The initial U.S. Supreme Court decision in this area was Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1953). Miller Brothers involved a Delaware retailer which made only direct sales to customers at its store in Delaware. Residents of the neighboring state of Maryland made purchases at Miller Brothers' store, and occasionally Miller Brothers would arrange for delivery into Maryland of items purchased, either by common carrier or in its own delivery truck. Miller Brothers had no resident agent or retail outlets in Maryland, and did not advertise in the Maryland media, although its advertisements in the Delaware media were received by Maryland residents. The State of Maryland sought to impose upon Miller Brothers the duty to collect and remit use tax from Maryland residents who purchased goods at their Delaware store. Id. at 341-42.

The Supreme Court held that Maryland could not constitutionally impose a use tax obligation on Miller Brothers under these factual circumstances. In reaching this conclusion, the Court stated that, for a state to satisfy the due process requirement necessary to justify imposing a collection obligation of this nature on an out-of-state seller, there must be "some definite link, some minimum connection, between a state and the person, property or transaction it seeks to tax." Id. at 344-45.

The next use tax obligation case before the Supreme Court was Scripto, Inc. v. Carson, 362 U.S. 207 (1960). Scripto involved a Georgia merchandising corporation which solicited orders in Florida for its products through the use of ten resident "jobbers", who would forward the orders to Georgia for shipment of the goods. Scripto had no offices, property or employees in Florida. The Court applied the nexus test adopted in Miller Brothers, and held the requisite minimum contacts with Florida were present to justify imposing the use tax obligation on Scripto, even though the jobbers were independent contractors. Id. at 209-212.

The next case in the series, National Bellas Hess, Inc. v. Department of Revenue, 386 U.S. 753 (1967), involved an attempt by the State of Illinois to impose a use tax obligation on a Missouri based mail order house that had no property or sales representatives in the taxing state, and did not engage in local deliveries or local advertising. National's only contacts with Illinois occurred through the mailing of catalogues to Illinois residents, and the delivery of goods by common carrier. A majority of six justices held the imposition of a use tax collection obligation unconstitutional under these circumstances, stating that ". . . the Court has never held that a State may impose the duty of use tax collection and payment upon a seller whose only connection with customers in the State is by common carrier or the United States mail." Id. at 758. In a dissenting opinion, however, three members of the Court objected to the majority opinion on the ground that the ". . . large-scale, systematic, continuous solicitation and exploitation of the Illinois consumer market" constituted adequate nexus to justify the requirement for collection of use taxes. Id. at 761-62 (Fortas, J., Black, J., and Douglas, J., dissenting).

The most recent Supreme Court decision in this area is National Geographic Society v. California Board of Equalization, 430 U.S. 551 (1977). In that case, California sought to require the Society to collect use taxes owed by its customers who purchased maps, books, atlases and globes through its interstate mail order business. The Society maintained two offices in California, but these offices performed no activities related to the society's interstate mail order business.

Finding that the burdens imposed on interstate commerce are less in requiring a seller to collect a use tax, as opposed to requiring payment of a sales tax, the Court held the nexus required between the taxing state and the person, property, or transaction sought to be taxed is lesser in the use tax situation than in the sales tax situation. Id. at 557-58. Compare McLeod v. J. E. Dilworth Co., supra, with Scripto, Inc. v. Carson, supra. Stating that the key inquiry in determining whether sufficient nexus exists to impose a use tax collection obligation is ". . . whether the out-of-state seller enjoys services of the taxing state", the Court held the Society's presence within the state and activities conducted therein, although unconnected to its mail order business, were sufficient to supply the requisite nexus to impose a use tax collection obligation under the circumstances. 430 U.S. at 558, 562.

Upon review of the series of Supreme Court decisions in this area, it is apparent that the determination of whether sufficient nexus exists to justify imposition on an out-of-state seller of the obligation to act as the state's tax collection agent is a question answered primarily on a case-by-case basis. The Court has not pronounced a definitive standard by which to determine whether an out-of-state seller has engaged in the requisite level of local activity, but has instead chosen to consider each case on its particular facts. Nevertheless, one court has sought to find certain common threads running through the cases in this area, summarizing their holdings as follows:

First, it seems clear that the nexus requirement for sales taxes and use taxes is different, and that a lesser nature or extent of connections will pass constitutional muster in the latter case. Second, the "presence" of the out-of-state seller within the taxing state must be more than occasional deliveries by company truck as in Miller Brothers, but perhaps less than the degree of "presence" established by ten jobbers soliciting orders within the state in Scripto. Third, the requisite nexus can be found in the case of a mail order seller with retail outlets, solicitors or property within the taxing state as in National Geographic, but cannot be found where the out-of-state seller merely communicates with customers in the taxing state by mail or common carrier as in National Bellas Hess.

Rowe-Genereux, Inc. v. Vermont Department of Taxes, 138 Vt. 130, 137, 411 A.2d 1345, 1349 (1980).

In summary, the relevant inquiry in analyzing the constitutionality of the sales tax focuses on the significant aspects of the sale within the taxing jurisdiction, and the legal incidents respecting the transfer of ownership and possession. In the use tax area, the analysis centers on the local activities of the out-of-state seller, not necessarily related to the sale, but rather focusing on the physical presence of the seller in the taxing jurisdiction so as to make it reasonable to impose the collection duty.

Applying these principles to the proposed expansion of the definition of "engaged in business in this state" contained in LB 304, we believe certain aspects of the amendment pose serious constitutional difficulties under the standards enunciated by the Supreme Court. With respect to the proposal to expand the definition to reach the solicitation of retail sales through advertising broadcast from a transmitter in the state, or distributed from a location in the state, these facts alone would appear to be insufficient to justify either sales or use tax collection obligations on out-of-state sellers. The Supreme Court has never held that mere advertising alone is sufficient to satisfy the due process requirement based upon the connection between the state and the person or property or transaction it is seeking to tax. Similarly, as there is no controlling precedent as to the sufficiency of the contacts pertaining to the proposed amendments to include within the definition "Being owned or controlled by the same interests which own or control any retailer engaged in business in the same or similar line of business in this state", or "Maintaining or having a franchisee or licensee operating under the retailer's trade name in this state. . .", these provisions may also be constitutionally suspect as to the adequacy of the nexus existing under such circumstances.

The final provision of LB 304 seeks to expand the definition of "engaged in business in this state" to cover the solicitation of orders from Nebraska residents by mail, if done on a "continuous, regular, seasonal, or systematic" basis, and ". . . if the retailer benefits from any banking, financing, debt collection, or marketing activities occurring in this state or benefits from the location in this state of authorized installation, servicing, or repair facilities." As to the imposition of sales tax liability under these circumstances, we believe this provision is not drawn with the specificity required to fall within the standards for constitutional purposes set forth by the Supreme Court in this area. As to the imposition of a use tax collection obligation under these circumstances, we believe this particular provision would survive constitutional attack, as it appears to require contact with the state beyond mere solicitation and mailing of orders into the state, as involved in National Bellas Hess, Inc., supra, by requiring that the seller also receive certain tangible benefits from the taxing jurisdiction in order to trigger the obligation to collect and remit use taxes from purchasers. It must be remembered, however, that the validity of the application of such a requirement depends primarily on the facts involved in a particular situation, and that the court decisions in this area do not provide a broad, definitive standard which would permit the application of a "bright-line" test as to the constitutionality of legislation of this nature.

Dear Mr. O'Donnell:

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 85-408, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska 1943, as amended, the State College Board of Trustees is submitting to the Legislature for consideration, a resolution authorizing the expenditure of $310,000 in Revenue Bond Surplus Funds by Kearney State College to acquire property adjacent to their present location. This parcel of land has been part of their long-range land and facilities planning and will provide temporary student housing to meet campus needs.

It should be noted that Revenue Bond Surplus Funds are generated from fees paid by students for their room and board services. Section 85-408 (RRS) requires that the Legislature must approve any expenditure from Surplus Funds of over $100,000 and this submittal is responding to that directive.

Should the Legislature require additional information on this matter, please contact the Board Office, phone 1-2505.

Respectfully submitted,

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

February 20, 1987

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker
and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I am returning LB 387 without my signature and with my objections.

LB 387 creates the State Employee Wellness Act. Although I strongly support the Department of Health's Wellness Program and encourage all state employees to participate in it, I do not think it is necessary to put it into law. There are enough laws on the books, and we should not add more if they are not absolutely needed.

I urge you to sustain my veto.

Sincerely,

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker
and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I am returning LB 392 without my signature and with my objections.

We have followed the progress of this bill carefully each step in the process and have attempted to reflect the legitimate concerns of a number of Senators in the revised office closing proposal. During the process we have attempted to communicate our position that this appropriation if made would not result in additional offices remaining open. Yet from comments made both on and off the floor of the Legislature before and after the passage of this bill it appears that some confusion remains. Lest any Senator feel that they have been in some fashion mislead, I am giving you the opportunity to reconsider your vote. With or without this appropriation, the 23 offices slated for closure in the revised plan will be closed.

Likewise it seems as though some members of the Legislature see this bill as the first step towards an undoing of the actions taken in the December Special Session. That somehow the state has emerged from the fiscal problems that faced us two months ago. I assure you that is not the case. Many difficult decisions will be required before this Legislative Session is concluded. It is obvious that this $100,000 appropriation by itself will not make or break the budget for the next two fiscal years. It should be just as obvious, however, that if this is not an isolated adjustment but rather the first of many decisions that, when taken as group, lead us incrementally to a total budget that is beyond our means, it is a step that should not be taken.

For these reasons I am respectfully returning LB 392 to you and asking for your thoughtful and careful consideration. However, I would remind you that time is of the essence and ask that you not delay in your deliberations of this issue.

Sincerely,
(Signed) KAY A. ORR
Governor

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

Mr. Chambers asked unanimous consent to print the following in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

The Honorable Robert Spire
Attorney General
Lincoln, NE 68508

Re: Whether Kearney State College imposes a "religious test" on employees

Dear Mr. Spire,

Kearney State College requires "faculty and administrative personnel" to attend commencement ceremonies at which prayers are offered by "graduating students".

Enclosed are copies of two letters, each dated October 30, 1986 and addressed to Dr. Vern Plambeck, signed by William R. Nester,

President of the College. The one bearing Roman numeral "I" at the lower right hand corner, contains a direct quote from the Policy Guides of 1986 and emphasizes that attendance is required. The other letter ("II") offers explanations and rationalizations for the practice.

Despite good intentions and reference to the value of attendance at these ceremonies, a violation of the Nebraska Constitution may be involved, namely, Article I, section 4:

"No religious test shall be required as a qualification of office."

Although a faculty or administrative position may not be an "office" in the narrow sense of a political office, I believe the thrust of the constitutional provision is to guard against any person being deprived of any opportunity offered or made available by the State, because of any type of "religious test" whatsoever. Nor should a person be required to make any affirmative declaration that he or she would prefer not to participate in any activity involving religious offerings -- regardless of how bland (for such characterizations are subjective in the extreme and usually tendered by those attempting to compel participation). Nor does it matter who delivers such prayers nor any type of "honor" or "recognition" which may attach to being the pray-er. Other means of honor and recognition are available.

Because faculty and administrative personnel are state employees of a state college, it would appear that requiring attendance at functions where prayers are an integral part, erects a "religious test" as a condition to continued employment by the state.

President Nester's allusion to "prayers at the opening sessions of the United States Congress" has no relevance because Members of Congress are not required to attend such things, and the vast majority do not. As a matter of fact, the voluntariness of attendance is the only thing that has saved such prayers from being ruled violative of the Constitution. (See his letter labeled "II".)

Please review this case and give me your response.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87023

DATE: February 25, 1987

SUBJECT: Constitutionality of Kearney State College Requirement That Faculty Members Attend Graduation Ceremonies When Prayers Are Given

REQUESTED BY: Senator Ernest Chambers
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General

Dear Senator Chambers:

Kearney State College requires faculty and administration personnel to attend College commencement ceremonies at which prayers are offered. The procedure is this:

(1) The prayers are an invocation and benediction. They are prepared and given by students, not clergy. The students are not restricted in any way as to the scope, content, or religious or non-religious character of what they present.

Some deliver poems, general readings or other recitations which have little or no religious character. Others recite traditional prayers in widely varying forms. These invocations and benedictions are brief portions of the total commencement ceremonies.

(2) The graduation attendance requirement is a general policy. A faculty member will be excused upon request without disclosing any reason for not wanting to attend. Actual attendance or non-attendance at the graduation ceremonies is not recorded. There is no sanction for non-attendance.

(3) The College has these goals in mind:

(a) The College wants the faculty to attend graduation ceremonies out of respect for the graduating students, their families and friends. The College prides itself upon having a faculty that genuinely cares about the students. Attendance at graduation, a major event in the lives of the students, is tangible evidence of a faculty member's personal interest in the students he or she teaches.

(b) The offering of the prayers serves two purposes:

(1) Students selected to give the prayers are chosen for their outstanding work at the College. Having a student give an invocation or benediction is a way for the College to recognize publicly that student's achievements.

(2) The offering of prayers as a part of public functions is a common practice nationwide. Doing so is both popular and traditional. The College believes that these invocations and benedictions add a worthwhile dimension to the graduation ceremonies.

I. Does this procedure violate either the First Amendment to the United States Constitution or Article I, Section 4 of the Nebraska Constitution? No, in my judgment.

I believe the College has developed a reasonable and legally supportable compromise between the demands of its educational policy goals and First Amendment separation of church and state requirements. But it is a close case. There are conflicting legal authorities. An explanation is warranted.

(1) The pertinent Constitutional provisions are these:

(a) The First Amendment to the United States Constitution:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; . . ."

(b) Article I, Section 4 of the Nebraska Constitution:

"All persons have a natural and inalienable right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences. No person shall be compelled to attend, erect or support any place of worship against his consent, and no preference shall be given by law to any religious society, nor shall any interference with the rights of conscience be permitted. No religious test shall be required as a qualification for office, . . ."

I will discuss the issues here in relation to the First Amendment. The same reasoning and conclusions apply to Article I, Section 4 of the Nebraska Constitution.

(2) For several years there has been much litigation about the validity of prayers at public school functions. Two recent federal court cases are instructive:

(a) Graham v. Central School District of Decatur, 608 F.Supp. 531 (1985-Iowa): This case challenged the constitutionality of Christian prayers offered by a Christian minister at a high school graduation. The challenge was made by a graduating student who was not required to attend in order to receive her diploma. The court held that the offering of these prayers did violate the "establishment" clause of the First Amendment.

The Court found that the prayers (a) served a "Christian religious purpose, not a secular purpose," and (b) "have as their primary effect the advancement of the Christian religion." In short, the case holds that almost any religious invocation at a school ceremony is a violation of the First Amendment whether or not an objector is required to attend.

(b) Stein v. Plainview Community School, 610 F.Supp. 43 (1985-Michigan): The facts here were similar to the Graham case except that the prayers were given by honor students, not clergy. The Court came to an opposite conclusion than Graham and ruled that there was no First Amendment Violation.

The Court found that all prayers were not inherently religious, but could serve both religious and ceremonial functions. It found that the prayers here were essentially ceremonial and served secular rather than religious purposes. It concluded that the prayers were motivated by secular purposes and "did not have the primary effect of advancing religion." The Court also indicated that voluntary attendance was of some significance.

(3) Most of the recent cases dealing with this issue refer to Lemon v. Kurtzman, 403 U.S. 602 (1971), a famous United States Supreme Court decision which held this: for a governmental act which has any religious characteristics to be constitutional, it must pass these three tests:

- (a) reflect a clearly secular purpose;
- (b) have a primary effect (as distinguished from an incidental effect) that neither advances nor inhibits religion; and
- (c) avoid excessive government entanglement with religion.

Individual judges often view the same fact situation in different ways when applying these three Lemon case tests. What is a "clearly secular" purpose? What precisely neither "advances nor inhibits" religion? What is "excessive entanglement" between government and religion?

These are difficult determinations. Under our system of law they are made on a case by case basis. Drawing the line between government neutrality toward religion and government support of religion is a matter of degree.

(4) I conclude that the Kearney State College procedure does not violate the First Amendment because:

- (a) The prayers given have both a ceremonial and religious aspect. But they are primarily ceremonial. They are given by outstanding students as a means of recognizing those students, not as a means of promoting religion. They are of widely varying content, and frequently are not prayers in a traditional sense. They are a very brief part of the graduation program. Therefore, presenting the prayers does not by itself violate the First Amendment.
- (b) If a faculty member who objects for religious reasons must either attend or single himself or herself out as a dissenter from the practice, I believe there would be a First Amendment violation. Such a faculty member might be (1) of a religion which objects to a particular prayer, or (2) not believe in any religion at all and thus be offended by any prayer.

This singling-out process could have a chilling effect upon the dissenting faculty member. How? By requiring the dissenter, as a condition for respecting his individual religious or non-religious views, to identify himself as being different from other faculty members. He must announce that on religious matters "he marches to the beat of a different drummer." I believe that the First Amendment is designed to protect his integrity and privacy on such a religious issue. This is fundamental to the Jeffersonian concept of a "wall of separation between church and state."

However, although the faculty member may identify himself as a non-believer, he need not do so. He may be excused without stating any reason. And no faculty attendance record is kept at graduation. Therefore, I conclude that the College procedure is sufficiently voluntary to be acceptable constitutionally.

From a constitutional point of view, the answer would be much easier if faculty attendance at graduation was, as a matter of policy, completely voluntary. In such case the constitutionality would be clearer. However, making it so easy to be excused (with no requirement for any religious belief or non-belief statement) and not taking attendance gives the procedure sufficient voluntariness to pass constitutional muster in my judgment.

I readily acknowledge that I may be "dancing on the head of a pin" here. Knowledgeable constitutional scholars wiser than I am can have varying views of a case of this nature. This issue would qualify as sufficiently nerve-racking to be a Law School examination question. It is thought-provoking, important, not easily answerable and would keep a student humble.

II. Is this an issue in which the law has a ready answer? Clearly no. A look at history tells us that anything as important or as delicate as religious liberty is different to define. Let us look at some of this history:

(1) Our nation's Founding Fathers considered freedom of religion to be a fundamental personal right. Why? Because many of those who initially settled our country came here primarily because they had been denied the right freely to exercise their religious convictions. And so the First Amendment requires that government must keep its hands off religion, religious groups and the various religious practices.

Consider the well-known biblical passage from Matthew 22:21: "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's." Let's not confuse who God is and who Caesar is.

(2) The Constitution requires neutrality toward religion, not a complete banning of religious thought from the public arena. This neutrality needs to recognize both (a) an appropriate balance between majority and non-majority interests and (b) a person's need for knowledge of other religions to be a constructive member of our pluralistic society. For example:

(a) Some exposure to another's religion is informative and teaches respect for the beliefs and customs of others.

(b) In our need to accommodate non-majority beliefs and sensitivities, we should not completely ignore the majority. The majority has sensitivities also. Primarily ceremonial invocations and benedictions may have meaning for the majority, a meaning which deserves some respect so long as non-majority beliefs are not abused in the process.

(3) Defining this concept of neutrality is exceedingly difficult. Certainly the First Amendment "establishment" clause does not require an insensitive indifference to religion in public life. For example, "The First Amendment mandates governmental neutrality between religion and religion, and between religion and nonreligion." The United States Supreme Court said this in 1968 when it struck down an Arkansas law that banned the teaching of evolution in public schools.

This is still an accurate statement of the law today. But this rule of neutrality is much easier to state than to apply. Stuart Taylor, Jr. writing in the New York Times December 14, 1986, said:

"Religious beliefs and the ethical values historically associated with them are so interwoven with the fabric of the nation's public life that no consensus is ever likely on the exact coordinates of what Jefferson called the 'wall of separation between church and state'. . . .

Nor is there a consensus that the First Amendment requires a 'wall of separation' at all. In a 1985 dissenting opinion that has been endorsed by Attorney General Edwin Meese 3d, Associate Justice William H. Rehnquist, now Chief Justice, called for abandoning 'Jefferson's misleading metaphor.' He said the First Amendment was not designed to 'require Government neutrality between religion and irreligion.'

Many who do not share this view agree that the Court's meandering interpretation of the First Amendment's religion clauses--'Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof'--has not forged predictable rules as to how government can accommodate the free exercise of belief while avoiding any hint of sponsorship."

And so government must "accommodate" religion, but it cannot "sponsor" it. In addressing its educational mission Kearney State College recognizes that just the accumulation of facts is not the goal of education. Other goals are (1) knowledge of and respect for others, (2) the ability to think and reason and (3) the development of wisdom and goodness, however defined. When analyzing this Kearney State College situation how do we draw the line? We simply try to balance the two competing interests here: (1) the state's interest in promoting sound education through policies such as those of Kearney State College, and (2) the rights of dissenters from majority religious views.

Thus the law struggles with the concept of neutrality. Don't "sponsor," but be sure you "accommodate." The authors of the First Amendment intentionally drafted it in broad general terms. They knew it would be an impossible task to set out answers to specific situations. They demonstrated their confidence in later generations to apply the fundamental guarantees of the First Amendment to specific situations. That is what we are about here.

(4) Perhaps world history teaches us more than law here. For world history teaches us that you either have freedom for all religions or for none. You respect a person's right to practice a religion of his or her choice, or to practice no religion at all. To do otherwise puts the authority and power of government behind religious or non-religious belief. Either alternative would stifle an essential right which is sacred to free men and women.

Thank God for the First Amendment. It lets us believe in God as we see fit, or not at all if that is our choice. Such is the character of democratic respect for individual dignity.

Most sincerely yours,

12 can be relied upon for employment or disciplinary

19 least one hundred twenty days;

20 (4) A written record of the chain of custody

Opinion No. 87024

DATE: February 25, 1987

SUBJECT: Trapping on County Road Right of Ways

REQUESTED BY: Senator Jerome Warner

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
Linda L. Willard, Assistant Attorney General

QUESTION: Is a county, either as owner of or easement holder for a county road right of way, required to give consent before anyone may trap on a county road right of way pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §37-510 (Reissue 1984)?

CONCLUSION: No, not when the county holds title to the land in question.

Pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §39-1701 et seq. (Reissue 1984), the county board may take and appropriate property, temporarily or permanently, in fee simple or any lesser degree and in such width as is deemed necessary by the county board. Therefore, the title held by the county to road property and the extent of that title may well vary from county to county and even from road to road within the same county. Property held by the county in a possessory interest would become public property unless restrictions are placed on the use of the property by the county board. That property deemed public property could be accessed by the public at large for any purpose not inconsistent with its primary public purpose. The county board, however, could limit the purpose for which land is used through zoning regulations or other regulations not inconsistent with state statutes.

An individual who places traps on a public right of way could subject him or herself to possible liability for any harm which might befall any other person validly within the same area. Thus, a child travelling along the county road on his or her way to public school who accidentally steps in a trap could sue the individual for placing the trap in an area where it presented a danger.

Also, a trapper who places a trap along the general right of way of the county road or any other area used for either foot travel or for general maintenance could be cited for criminal assault if an injury occurred therefrom or for criminal mischief.

QUESTION: In situations where the title description of the land shows actual ownership by a private landowner to the center of the road with the county holding an easement for the right of way for road purposes, is either the record owner of the land, the county as easement holder for the right of way, or both required to give consent before trapping may occur on the right of way?

CONCLUSION: Consent must be obtained from the record owner of the land.

An easement is a liberty, privilege, or advantage without profit, which the owner of one parcel of land may have in the lands of another. 28 C.J.S. 619. It is not the complete ownership of land with the right to use it for all lawful purposes perpetually and throughout its entire extent, but it is a right only to one or more particular uses. 28 C.J.S. 621. An easement for a county road exists for the purpose of transportation across the property of the dominant land owner. The public has a right to enter onto the land for the purpose of crossing on the county road. The county also has a right to enter onto the land for purposes of maintenance of the road and any necessary right of way.

The county would have no specific interest in the profits of a land, including the harvesting of fur-bearing animals, unless it is specifically set out in an easement agreement as a right to profits or profits a prendre. In the absence of such an easement agreement, the right to the profits of fur-bearing animals would remain with the record owner of the land and anyone seeking to harvest such animals would have to receive the consent of the record owner of the land pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §37-510 (Reissue 1984). Again, however, anyone seeking to trap along a county road may be subject to the potential civil and criminal liabilities mentioned above.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

Opinion No. 87026

DATE: February 26, 1987

SUBJECT: Life Insurance Policy and Annuity Benefits
Exempt from Legal Process

REQUESTED BY: Senator R. Wiley Remmers, Chairman
Banking, Commerce & Insurance Committee

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
Fredrick F. Neid, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested an opinion of this office concerning proposed legislation which provides for exemption of certain life insurance policy and annuity benefits from attachment, garnishment, or other process of law. Generally, LB 335 would serve to amend Neb.Rev.Stat. §§44-371 (Reissue 1984) and 44-1089 (Supp. 1986) to increase the exemption from $5,000.00 to $7,500.00 for these types of benefits from attachment, garnishment, or other legal process.

The first question is whether the legislation is constitutional in its application to the proceeds, value, or benefits of an annuity contract which accrue prior to the effective date of the legislation. It is our opinion that the proposed legislation is constitutional in its application to proceeds, cash value, or benefits which may accrue prior to the effective date of the legislation.

It appears that the amendment provided by LB 335 is intended to harmonize state law with exemptions permitted by other federal laws in the context of the Federal Bankruptcy Code. In Nebraska, a debtor is permitted the exemptions available under state law and those available under other federal law. This is a constitutionally permissible change and would serve to eliminate a dollar amount difference between exemptions available under other federal and state law.

Your second question concerns the effect of the legislation on the proceeds, cash value, or benefits of an annuity contract prior to or after the effective date of the proposed legislation. Upon passage of the bill into law (effective date), $7,500.00 of the cumulative value of benefits of an annuity contract would be exempt from attachment, garnishment, or other legal process regardless of whether the value accrued prior to or after the effective date.

The "two-year provision" of the bill addresses cash values accruing to matured or unmatured life insurance and annuity contracts in the context of the Federal Bankruptcy Code only. This provision is intended to preclude exemption of cash values accruing during the preceding two years for bankruptcy purposes. It is our opinion that, after passage of the bill into law, the two years would be measured from the date of a filing in bankruptcy by the debtor.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

ANNOUNCEMENT

COMMUNICATION

February 27, 1987

Mr. Patrick O'Donnell
Clerk of the Legislature
Room 2018
State Capitol
Lincoln, NE 68509

Dear Mr. O'Donnell:

This letter is intended to provide a formal revision of our letter of February 17, 1987, relating to the proposed recreation/athletic facility at UNL. This revision has resulted from the desire of members of the Board of Regents to have the University Administration further review this project in terms of cost, financing and construction phasing. The changes which have resulted from this review include a substantial reduction in cost which is reflected under the heading of "Financing Plans" on page two.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 85-404 and 85-408, Reissue Revised Statutes, 1943 (R.S. Supp., 1986), the plans for construction, financing and use of existing surplus funds as outlined below for construction of a new campus recreation/athletic facility on the UNL campus are herewith submitted.

FACILITY CONSTRUCTED:

The facility being constructed is a new campus recreation/athletic facility on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln city campus. This facility will provide a center for indoor recreation, an athletic practice field and renovated space for academic and research components of the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation (HPER). A program statement for the project has been adopted by the Board of Regents.

This project involves a renovation of the existing Coliseum building and additions to that structure of approximately 136,000 square feet. The renovated and newly constructed space will contain a campus recreation center; an indoor football practice field; a team meeting room for the football program; offices, labs and storage for HPER; general purpose classrooms; space for the women's intercollegiate volleyball program and locker facilities for the men's and women's tennis teams.

UNL recreation facilities are grossly inadequate in both quantity and quality. This situation has worsened in the past few years because of continued deterioration of the Men's P.E. Building and the closing of the Coliseum basement pool by the State Health Department pending substantial repairs. Other indoor areas used for recreation activities must share available time with HPER classes or Athletic Department users. The new facility will provide indoor recreation facilities which students, faculty and staff can use almost any time of the day to improve their physical condition and well-being.

Current intercollegiate football activities span the entire year. Climatic conditions in Nebraska often inhibit outdoor football practice and conditioning activities. The football coaching staff and administration of the Athletic Department believe that the addition of an indoor practice football field, jogging track and a meeting room for the football program is needed if the UNL football program is to improve its quality and maintain a competitive edge.

HPER currently uses 23,500 square feet in the Coliseum for its academic programs and is the major user of three general purpose classrooms (approximately 3,600 square feet) in the Coliseum basement. The quality of Coliseum space is very poor, impeding HPER teaching, research and service. This project will enhance the teaching and research programs of HPER.

FINANCING PLANS:

Revised construction costs for the entire campus recreation/athletic facility are now estimated at $14,900,000. It is now proposed that construction be accomplished in three phases. Phase I (estimated cost $9,000,000) will include the indoor practice football field, an addition to the east of the Coliseum and renovation work on the Coliseum swimming pool, stage and fly loft areas. Phase II (estimated cost $800,000) will complete renovation of the Coliseum stage and fly loft areas, add a running track in the east addition to the Coliseum, and provide a meeting room for the football program. Phase III will complete the renovation of the Coliseum. The scope of Phase III work is currently estimated to cost $5,100,000. Due to construction complications and time delays from phasing construction, the actual costs of Phase III may exceed this current estimate, but are not determinable at this time. A reevaluation initiated by the office of the UNL Chancellor will take place close to the completion of Phases I and II to determine the most appropriate means to accomplish Phase III, subject to review and approval by the Board of Regents.

The costs of construction for this project are proposed to be financed from three sources: (1) $5,000,000 from private donations to the University and to the University Foundation, (2) expending a portion (not to exceed $3,500,000) of existing surplus funds in the University of Nebraska Student Fees and Facilities Revenue Bond accounts, and (3) revenues from a capital facilities assessment on certain home football game admissions. A $3.50 per home game capital facilities assessment will be levied on each admission sold, excluding those admissions currently discounted for individual faculty, staff and students. It is anticipated that the borrowed surplus funds will be repaid at the rate of at least $100,000 per year from this assessment. It is the intent of the Board of Regents to continue a capital facilities assessment on football admissions until the costs of the project have been fully funded, and to pledge the revenues realized therefrom as may be necessary to finance all phases of the project. Operating and maintenance costs of the recreation/athletic facility will be funded from student fees and from faculty/staff user fees.

Pursuant to Section 85-404, Reissue Revised Statutes, 1943 (R.S., Supp., 1986), the Board of Regents respectfully requests approval of the plans for this project, including the revised financing plans submitted herewith.

Further, pursuant to Section 85-408, Reissue Revised Statutes, 1943 (R.S. Supp., 1986), the Board of Regents respectfully requests approval of expenditure of not more than $3,500,000 of existing surplus funds in the University of Nebraska Student Fees and Facilities Revenue Bond accounts in accordance with the revised financing plans submitted herewith.

Should the Legislature require additional information in this matter, please contact UNL Chancellor Martin Massengale or his staff, 201 Admin., City Campus 68588-0419, phone 472-2116.

Respectfully submitted:

12 made pursuant to the Ethanol Authority and Development
13 Act by the owner or operator of an ethanol plant or 14 facility, upon receipt by a city, county, or village,
15 shall be remitted to the State Treasurer and shall be 16 placed in the Ethanol Authority and Development Cash
17 Fund.

18       Sec. 5. The Legislature hereby finds and 19 declares that carbon monoxide levels in certain cities
20 of Nebraska exceed allowable standards of the federal 21 Environmental Protection Agency. The Legislature also 22 finds that air quality is of vital concern to the 23 citizens of the State of Nebraska because of its affects 24 on health and quality of life. Since exhaust emissions
1 from motor vehicles, especially carbon monoxide,
2 directly impact the irreplaceable resource of clean air,
3 it is the intent of the Legislature to study, develop,
4 and promote the utilization of motor vehicle fuels, such 5 as oxygenated fuels, which have been shown to 6 effectively lower carbon monoxide exhaust emissions.

7       As used in this section and section 6 of this 8 act, oxygenated fuels shall mean gasolines blended with 9 a component or components containing oxygen.

10       Sec. 6. (1) The Legislature directs the 11 Department of Environmental Control to study the effects
12 of motor vehicle exhaust emissions on the quality of air
13 in selected areas of Nebraska, and to determine the 14 effectiveness of the utilization of oxygenated fuels on 15 reducing harmful motor vehicle exhaust emissions, such 16 as carbon monoxide.

17       (2) The department may cooperate with other 18 federal, state, and local entities, both public and 19 private, in conducting the study required by this 20 section and section 5 of this act.

21       (3) The department shall report its findings
22 to the Legislature no later than December 31, 1987.

23       Sec. 7. That original sections 66-1307,
24 66-1317, 66-1323, and 66-1324, Reissue Revised Statutes
1 of Nebraska, 1943, and also section 66-1318, Reissue

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87027

DATE: February 25, 1987

SUBJECT: Rural mailboxes

REQUESTED BY: Senator Howard Lamb
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
Warren D. Lichty, Jr., Assistant Attorney General

Your inquiry regarding LB 299 which is pending, together with amendment AM0152 which is also under consideration, is whether the legislature has the power to make the requirements contained in amendment 0152. The first question asks whether section 1(2) of the amendment is within the authority of the legislature. It, in effect, requires that no mailbox may be removed by departmental rule and regulation except in connection with a federal-aid highway construction or reconstruction project.

Whether this is within the authority of the legislature depends on whether the requirement is constitutional. If unreasonable classifications are established, then it would be deemed special legislation. We believe this section does create unreasonable classifications and is therefore unconstitutional.

Starting with a general class consisting of all rural mailboxes, we find that general class split into two classifications. According to the amendment, it applies to any State highway on which construction or reconstruction financed by federal funds occurs after January 1, 1987. It does not apply to any State highways on which construction or reconstruction occurs after that date if financed solely by State funds. Therefore, we do have two classifications.

The next question then is whether there is a rational or reasonable basis for distinguishing between Landowner A who lives on a State highway on which a federal aid project is constructed and Landowner B who lives on a State highway on which a State-funded project is constructed. In other words, is there any State purpose in allowing Landowner B to keep his decorator mailbox while Landowner A loses his. We are unable to see any difference between Mr. A and Mr. B which would justify putting them into separate classifications.

A review of the cases indicates that legislative acts of a similar nature have been held unconstitutional as improper classifications. The motor vehicle inspection law was held unconstitutional as requiring some roadable vehicles to be inspected while others were exempted. State v. Edmunds, 211 Neb. 380, 318 N.W.2d 859 (1982). A former Installments Sales Act which set different interest rates for automobiles, based on their age was held unconstitutional, and the court said:

The age of a motor vehicle affords no reasonable classification for the fixing of maximum rates of interest...

We conclude that the classification of property...for the purpose of fixing maximum rates of interest...is unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious, and in violation of Article III, section 18, Constitution of Nebraska, prohibiting special legislation. The class does not operate uniformly on the persons and property in the class sought to be regulated. Elder v. Doerr, 175 Neb. 483, 494-495, 122 N.W.2d 528 (1963).

In Axberg v. City of Lincoln, 141 Neb. 55, 64, 2 N.W.2d 613 (1942), a statute requiring all cities of the metropolitan and first class which maintained paid firemen to provide pensions was amended to exclude home rule cities from this requirement. The court said:

We think that (the) section...is not only void as local and special legislation in its application, but it is violative of section 18, art. III of the Constitution, in that it is not uniform as to class. There is no sufficient reason advanced why one city of the first class should be exempted from the special obligations and burdens of the firemen's pension law, while others in the same class are required to submit to such obligations and burdens. The attempt of the legislature, by the enactment of (the) section...constitutes arbitrary action, and the contentions of appellees to the contrary are without merit.

Your second question is whether section 2 of the amendment may exempt from liability under the Tort Claims Act, the State or any political subdivision in regard to mailboxes. First, we must point out that section 2 does not accomplish this stated purpose. Section 2 amends a portion of the Political Subdivisions Tort Claims Act by making this exception. The State is governed by the State Tort Claims Act, which the amendment does not purport to amend. Therefore, amendment AM0152 would clearly not exempt the State from such liability. Since section 1 refers only to the Department of Roads and State highways, it would appear that the drafters did not really intend to amend Section 23-2410. If it was intended to exempt the State from liability for nonconforming mailboxes, it would appear that section 2 should amend Section 81-8219.

As to that part of your second question which asks if the legislature has authority to enact such an exemption, we believe that it has. Prior to enactment of the State Tort Claims Act, the State was exempt from all such suits under the doctrine of sovereign immunity. The effect of the State Tort Claims Act, as stated in Section 81-8209, was to continue sovereign immunity with certain exceptions, and it is under the exceptions that the State may be sued. Pursuant thereto, however, section 81-8219 lists certain types of claims which may not be brought. Thus, subsection 2 of section 2 of the amendment, if placed in Section 81-8219, would only add another exception to those already listed. This, we believe, the legislature has every right to do.

Sincerely,

ROBERT M. SPIRE

COMMUNICATION

March 11, 1987

Mr. Patrick J. O'Donnell
Clerk of the Legislature
P.O. Box 94604
Lincoln, NE 68509-4604

Dear Mr. O'Donnell:

By this letter the University is requesting that the Appropriations Committee defer action relative to the UNL Recreation/Athletic Facility. First, will be the issuance of an amendment to the Request for Proposal for this project. Second, the University will review the legal issue which has been raised concerning the design/build concept of construction for the indoor practice facility.

Attached is a news release announcing that the University will change the competitive bidding requirements for the indoor practice facility portion of the UNL Recreation/Athletic Facility to remove any consideration of contributions from contractors.

Further, we are reviewing the legality of the design/build concept for construction of this facility in light of an unreported 1977 decision of the District Court of Lancaster County which struck down a design/build construction project of Southeast Technical Community College.

The University in the past has used the design/build process for competitively bid construction projects on the UNL and UNMC campuses to erect buildings where expedited construction was desired. Further, in light of the different types of building systems which are available for a building such as the proposed indoor practice facility, we believe that the design/build concept will stimulate competitive bidding from potential contractors.

It is our intention to forward to the Appropriations Committee the results of our review along with a request that a resolution be sent to the floor of the Legislature for action. Thank you for your consideration of this matter.

Sincerely,
John W. Goebel
Vice Chancellor for
Business and Finance

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

Mr. Schmit asked unanimous consent to print the following amendment to LB 146 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

AM0572

1           1. Strike original sections 1 and 2 and
2 insert the following new sections:
3           “Section 1. The Legislature finds that 4 Nebraska ground water and surface water are currently 5 being transferred from the land to which they are 6 appurtenant to users both within and outside the state
7 without compensation. Such transfers are likely to 8 increase as other regions of the state and nation
9 continue to experience shortages in local water
10 supplies.

11           The Legislature further finds that Nebraska
12 enjoys abundant supplies of water, and that certain
13 areas of the state suffer from a chronic overabundance
14 of water, resulting in drainage problems and flooding,
15 which cause damage to homes, businesses, roads, crops,
16 and livestock.

17           It is a proper and necessary function of state
18 government to provide mechanisms for the orderly
19 transfer of water and water rights from areas of surplus
20 to areas of shortage, to establish a means whereby 21 individual landowners and the public in general are 1 compensated for such transfers, and to ensure that the 2 rights of individual landowners and the welfare of the 3 citizens of this state are balanced against the free
4 market forces that compel the dedication of water to its 5 highest and best use.

6           Sec. 2. The Legislature hereby directs the 7 Water Management Board, in consultation with the Natural 8 Resources Commission, to:

9           (1) Identify and address current legal,
10 statutory, physical, social, environmental, and economic 11 impediments to transfers of ground water and surface
12 water;

13           (2) Develop a statutory framework to permit
14 such transfers, while protecting the rights of 15 landowners, the general public, and others directly

16 affected by such transfers;

17 (3) Develop a statutory framework to provide 18 compensation for such transfers to landowners, water
19 right holders, persons directly and adversely affected
20 by such transfers, and the State of Nebraska on behalf
21 of the general public;

22 (4) Identify potential users of and markets
23 for water and water rights transfers;

24 (5) Identify potential locations and methods
1 for surface water diversion and ground water withdrawals
2 of sufficient scale to be economically sound; and

3 (6) Identify and develop the appropriate state
4 role as a facilitator of such water and water rights
5 transfers.

Mr. Chizek asked unanimous consent to print the following amendment to LB 270 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

AM0573

6 and sections 3 and 4 of this act shall be known and may 7 be cited as the Employment Expansion and Investment
8 Incentive Act.

9 Sec. 3. (1) The credit allowed under section
10 77-27,188 may be used to obtain a refund of sales and 11 use taxes paid or against the income tax liability of 12 the taxpayer.

13 (2) A claim for the credit may be filed
14 quarterly for refund of the sales and use taxes paid, 15 either directly or indirectly, after the filing of the 16 income tax return for the taxable year in which the 17 credit was first allowed.

18 (3) The credit may be used to obtain a refund
19 of sales and use taxes paid before the end of the 20 taxable year for which the credit was allowed, except 21 that the amount refunded under this subsection shall not
1 exceed the amount of the sales and use taxes paid,
2 either directly or indirectly, by the taxpayer on the 3 qualifying investment.

4 (4) For the purposes of subsections (2) and

5 (3) of this section, the taxpayer shall be deemed to 19 taxpayer. The credit shall be applied before any 20 refundable credits are applied. The amount of the 21 credit that may be used in any taxable year shall not 22 exceed the income tax liability of the taxpayer reduced

23 by all other nonrefundable credits.

24 (5) The credit that is not used against 1 liabilities incurred in the taxable year in which such 2 credit was first allowable may be carried over and used
3 against the liabilities incurred in the five immediately
4 succeeding taxable years. The credits carried over
5 shall be used in the order in which they were first
6 allowed and before any additional credit allowable in a
7 current taxable year may be used.

8 Sec. 4. If the taxpayer does not maintain the 9 level of investment and employment that created the 10 credit for at least two years after the year for which 11 the credit was first allowed:

12 (1) The taxpayer shall not be entitled to any 13 further carryovers of unused credits; and

14 (2) The taxpayer shall repay to the state
15 one-third of the amount of the credit used for each 16 subsequent year that the taxpayer has not maintained the 17 required level of investment and employment.

18 Sec. 5. That section 77-27,189, Reissue
19 Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read

3 business in which eighty per cent or more of the total
4 sales are sales to the ultimate consumer of tangible
5 personal property which is not (1) assembled,
6 fabricated, manufactured, or processed by the taxpayer
7 or (2) used by the purchaser in any of the following
8 activities:

9 (a) The assembly, fabrication, manufacture, or

15 (2) The average number of Nebraska employees
16 for a taxable year shall be determined by averaging the 17 number of Nebraska employees on (a) the last day of the

19 calendar quarter within the current taxable year, and 20 (c) the last day of the current taxable year.

21 (3) If the taxpayer has part-time Nebraska

1 including that particular day into a number of 2 equivalent full-time jobs.

3 (4) The number of hours comprising a full-time
4 job shall be the business hours the taxpayer uses for

8 under the Employment Expansion and Investment Incentive

14 (6) The hours worked by any person considered
15 an independent contractor or the employee of another
16 taxpayer shall not be used in the computation of any

18 Sec. 7. That section 77-27,191, Reissue
19 Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read
20 as follows:

2 (2) The average investment in this state shall 3 be the average of the value of all property used or 4 available for use on the first day of the taxable year
5 and the last day of the taxable year. To determine the

7 before allowance for depreciation shall be used. To 8 determine the value of property rented by the taxpayer,
9 the annual rent of the property shall be multiplied by 10 eight.

11 (3) Only investment in improvements to real 12 property and tangible personal property that are

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

March 11, 1987

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker
and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I am returning LB 148 without my signature and with my objections.

One of the provisions of LB 148 allows the taxing authority of Natural Resource Districts to increase from 3.5 cents per $100 of valuation to 4.5 cents per $100 valuation. I cannot support this provision.

The existing law provides a means for a NRD to increase its levy if it needs to do so. That means is through a vote of the people. If property taxes need to be increased to raise revenue, they should be increased by the people taxed. They should not be increased through the action of the Legislature.

NRDs were created to keep natural resource management on the local level. Allowing property taxes to increase without a vote of the people goes against this policy of local control. I therefore urge you to sustain my veto of LB 148.

Sincerely,

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 87035

DATE: March 11, 1987

SUBJECT: Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Act

REQUESTED BY: Senator Loran Schmit, Chairman
Committee on Natural Resources

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
Linda L. Willard, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested our opinion regarding the legality of LB 426 and LB 427 in relation to the Central Interstate Low-Level Radioactive Waste Compact (Compact) and other federal provisions. We will attempt to address each of your concerns separately.

We will address your concerns about LB 426 first. With regard to Section 2, Page 4, Line 17-22, there does appear to be a conflict with the Compact. LB 426 states that the Act shall be applicable to only one site. The Compact provides, "There shall be provided within the region one or more regional facilities." (emphasis added.) By placing a limitation of only one site, the bill is potentially in conflict with the previously approved Compact. If only one site is chosen within the state, no conflict would arise. However, if two sites are chosen within the state, there would be a definite conflict with the Compact. By attempting to limit the number of sites to only one, the Act appears to be restricting the authority of the Compact members for selection of a site or sites.

Section 5 does not appear to create a conflict with the Radiation Control Act. However, it may create a problem of being unreasonably vague. Section 5 provides for a definition of "facility" that is the same as that contained within the Compact. However, where the Compact also contains the definition of "management" in relation to the management of waste, neither LB 426 nor the statutes involved here provide a definition of "management." This leaves open the possibility of misinterpretation of the term management and the claim of being unconstitutionally vague. A facility having some contact with low-level radioactive waste may not know whether it is encompassed by the statute since there is no definition of management.

Section 7 of LB 426, Page 8, Line 8-12, states that the Department of Environmental Control shall have the powers and duties to require proper operation and maintenance of a facility, including, but not limited to, the prevention of releases which cause or contribute to air, water, or land pollution and the prevention of exposure. Article VI of the Compact provides that no party shall pass or enforce any law or regulation which is inconsistent with the Compact. The Rules and Regulations promulgated by the federal government under the Atomic Energy Act state as one purpose for licenses under the Atomic Energy Act that they should "make every reasonable effort to maintain radiation exposures and releases of radioactive materials in effluents to unrestricted areas, as low as is reasonably achievable. The term 'as low as is reasonably achievable' means as low as is reasonably achievable taking into account the state of technology, and the economics of improvements in relation to benefits to the public health and safety, and other societal and socioeconomic considerations, and in relation to the utilization of atomic energy in the public interest." 10 C.F.R. §20.1.

Section 7(9) of LB 426 is potentially in conflict with federal regulations which provides for keeping radioactive exposure as low as is reasonably achievable. This could result in the state not being eligible as a host site under the Compact and thus in violation of the Compact. Even if the state removes itself from the Compact, it still must have a waste disposal facility.

Lines 13-20 on page 8 of LB 426 relate to the licensees maintaining records. While there is no real conflict with other state statutes in this area, it does appear to be a duplication of the efforts by the State Department of Health under the Radiation Control Act. It would appear to be a better use of state resources to provide for only one department to require the record keeping and to review the record keeping.

Section 8 does not appear to be in conflict with the Compact or the licensing authority of the Department of Environmental Control. It does, however, seem to duplicate any licensing efforts of the Department since the Legislature is required to also take action on the proposed facility and thus appears to be "licensing" the facility also. There are no standards set out for the legislative approval or disapproval of a facility. If the Legislature is to use some criteria other than that established by the DEC under the authority given to them by the Legislature, a potential licensee may have an argument that the Legislature is arbitrary and capricious in its denial having established no standards for the potential licensee. If, however, the Legislature adopts the standards promulgated by the Department of Environmental Control, there would be a question as to whether the Department of Environmental Control is creating the standards for the Legislature. If the Department of Environmental Control creates standards to be applied by the Legislature, it would appear to be unlawful delegation of the Legislature's authority to establish its own standards.

Section 10 does not appear to be in conflict with the regulatory authority of the Department of Environmental Control. It does remove the DEC's authority to promulgate and adopt Rules and Regulations regarding funding for long term site surveillance and care. Section 8 of the proposed bill, Page 9, Lines 8-11, requires that the funding arrangements be revealed. By removing the authority for adopting Rules and Regulations regarding these funding arrangements, the Legislature will be removing any control which the state or the Department may have over these funding arrangements.

Section 12 deletes wording relative to the Low-level Radioactive Waste Disposal Act superseding local ordinances. Deletion of this wording may create unnecessary problems and lead to litigation. A recent case in the Eighth Circuit, Ensco, Inc v. Dumas, 807 F.2d 743 (1986), dealt with the conflict between federal statutes and local legislation in relation to storage treatment or disposal of hazardous waste. Although the federal law was determined to pre-empt the local law, there is no surety that the same result would be obtained in a case involving the Nebraska statutes versus a local law. Deletion of wording that already exists would be an indication that the Legislature did not mean for state law to supersede local law. If such is the case, any effort by the state to establish statewide regulations or to establish a disposal site could be defeated by the passage of local legislation establishing local regulations and prohibiting placement of a waste disposal site at that location. In effect, Nebraska might well end up with a state law relating to low-level radioactive waste disposal with no authority to implement the statute because it would be superseded by local regulations prohibiting low-level radioactive waste disposal.

In relation to the added language requiring insurance in Section 12, we see no conflict with current statutes or the Compact although there may be practical problems in obtaining the insurance required.

LB 427 presents several serious conflicts with the Compact. The legislative bill provides that when the state is designated as a host state, the Governor shall initiate the process of withdrawing by notifying the Legislature of the designation and that the withdrawal shall be effective 90 days from the date of designation unless the Legislature approves the designation. The Compact provides that withdrawal may be accomplished by enacting a statute to repeal the same and the withdrawal shall be effective five years after the Governor notifies, in writing, the Governors of the other party states.

While the Governor may initiate the process of informing the Legislature, withdrawal can only be accomplished by the action of the Legislature taking steps to pass legislation to withdraw. It may not be accomplished through inaction of the Legislature in failing to approve the designation. Also, the effective date for termination contained in LB 427 is in direct conflict with the Compact.

Article VI(c) of the Compact states, "All laws and regulations or parts thereof of any party state which are inconsistent with this Compact are hereby declared null and void for purposes of this Compact...." Therefore, pursuant to the Compact entered into by this state, LB 427 would become null and void at the time of its passage as being inconsistent with the Compact itself. The Compact clearly outlines a method for withdrawal from the Compact and only this method, entered into by all of the party states, including Nebraska, would be valid in the state's withdrawal from the Compact.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

Opinion No. 87036

DATE: March 12, 1987

SUBJECT: Proposed Grasslands Protection Act, LB 124

REQUESTED BY: Loran Schmit
State Senator

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire
Attorney General
LeRoy W. Sievers
Assistant Attorney General

QUESTION 1: Is LB 124, the Grasslands Protection Act, unconstitutional because it effects an unlawful taking of property without just compensation?

CONCLUSION: No.

QUESTION 2: Does LB 124 contain an unconstitutional delegation of legislative powers in contravention of the Nebraska Constitution, Article II, Section 1?

CONCLUSION: No.

QUESTION 3: Does LB 124 violate the due process clause of the state and federal constitutions?

CONCLUSION: No.

DISCUSSION

The Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution and Article I, Section 21 of the Nebraska Constitution provide in essence that private property cannot be taken or damaged for public use without just compensation. LB 124, the Grasslands Protection Act, would prohibit converting highly erodible native grasslands without first obtaining a permit from a natural resources district. In cases in which the land is classified VI, VII, or VIII by the United States Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, the district may deny the application. The act further provides that the district may deny the application on any other land if it finds that the landowner does not agree to implement a conservation plan that would limit soil erosion to within specified limits or that the landowner does not agree to a reasonable revegetation plan as a condition of the permit. The act thus contains land use restrictions.

The United States Supreme Court has addressed the question of when land use regulations amount to a taking without just compensation which is prohibited under the federal constitution. In U.S. v. Riverside Bayview Homes, Inc., 474 U.S. ___, 88 L.Ed.2d 419, 106 S.Ct. ___ (1985). The court said:

We have frequently suggested that governmental land-use regulations may under extreme circumstances amount to a "taking" of the affected property. . . . We have never precisely defined those circumstances, . . . but our general approach was summed up in Agins v. Tiburon, 447 U.S. 255, 260, 65 L.Ed.2d 106, 100 S.Ct. 2138 (1980), where we stated that the application of land-use regulations to a particular piece of property is a taking only "if the ordinance does not substantially advance legitimate state interests . . . or denies an owner economically viable use of his land." Moreover, we have made it quite clear that the mere assertion of regulatory jurisdiction by a governmental body does not constitute a regulatory taking. . . . The reasons are obvious. A requirement that a person obtain a permit before engaging in a certain use of his or her property does not itself "take" the property in any sense: after all, the very existence of the permit system implies that permission may be granted, leaving the landowner free to use the property as desired. Moreover, even if the permit is denied, there may be other viable uses available to the owner. Only when a permit is denied and the effect of the denial is to prevent "economically viable" use of the land in question can it be said that a taking has occurred. 88 L.Ed. at 426.

In this instance the Grasslands Protection Act advances legitimate state interests as is specified in some detail in the opening sections of the act. Additionally, it does not appear as though the act will necessarily deny owners "economically viable" use of their land. As is indicated in the cited case, the permit may be issued in many instances thus allowing the use of the land as desired by the permit applicant. Moreover, even though the application may be denied does not necessarily mean that the only economically viable use for the land would be prohibited. Certainly currently existing uses of the land may be economically viable and other alternative uses other than those requiring a permit may be possible. As a consequence, the

The Grasslands Protection Act specifies that natural resource districts may adopt or promulgate rules and regulations that more fully develop the permit process by which applicants may obtain a permit to cultivate highly erodible native grasslands. Natural resource districts are political subdivisions for the state. Neb.Rev.Stat. 22-3213 (Cum.Supp. 1986). A question that arises is whether this delegation violates the separation of powers provisions found in Article II, Section 1 of the Nebraska State Constitution.

In Lincoln Dairy Company v. Finigan, 170 Neb. 777, 104 N.W.2d 227 (1960), the Nebraska Supreme Court said:

It is fundamental that the Legislature may not delegate legislative power to administrative or executive authority. . . . The Legislature does have power to authorize an administrative or executive department to make rules and regulations to carry out an expressed legislative purpose, or for the complete operation and enforcement of a law within designated limitations.

Id. at 780.

Additionally, in Anderson v. Tiemann, 182 Neb. 393, 155 N.W.2d 322 (1967), the court said, Delegation of legislative power is most commonly indicated where the relations to be regulated are highly technical and where regulation requires a course of continuous decision . . . . Where the Legislature has settled the guiding principles and standards of policy, and has provided the precision and due process which can obviously not be fully obtained in the basic legislation, the act should be upheld.

Id. at 401-2.

Finally, the court has recently said:

The question of how far the Legislature should go in filling in the details of the standards which an administrative agency is to apply raises large issues of policy in which the Legislature has a wide discretion, and the court should be reluctant to interfere with such discretion. Such standards in conferring such discretionary power upon an administrative agency must be reasonably adequate, sufficient, and definite for the guidance of the agency in the exercise of the power conferred upon it and must also be sufficient to enable those affected to know their rights and obligations. . . . The modern tendency is to be more liberal in permitting grants of discretion to an administrative agency in order to facilitate the administration of laws as the complexity of economic and governmental conditions increase. . . . This is particularly true where, as here, the violation of any such regulation does not constitute a criminal act.

State ex rel. Douglas v. Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund, 204 Neb. 445, 465, 283 N.W.2d 12 (1979).

Although it is not without dispute, an examination of the act indicates that the bill contains sufficiently specific standards identifying under which circumstances a permit may be issued. Moreover, violations of the act do not constitute violations of the criminal law. Consequently, it is more likely that a court would uphold the act as not an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power.

The final question you raise is whether the Grasslands Protection Act, LB 124, violates the due process clause of the state and federal constitutions by being arbitrary. To determine whether or not a legislative enactment is so arbitrary that it violates the constitution, the courts have devised differing tests. For instance in Motors Acceptance Corp. v. McLain, 154 Neb. 254, 47 N.W.2d 919 (1951), the Nebraska Supreme Court said as follows:

It is not always necessary that statutes and ordinances prescribe a specific rule of action. This is particularly true in those situations where it is difficult or impractical to declare a definite, comprehensive rule, or where the discretion to be exercised by an administrative officer relates to a regulation imposed for the protection of public morals, health, safety and general welfare. . . .

. . . Such provisions are not violative of constitutional provisions as conferring arbitrary powers where an adequate appeal to the courts is provided. . . . They are not arbitrary or discriminatory if they bear a reasonable relation to the accomplishment of a proper legislative purpose.

Id. at 358-9.

Thus, the act is not unconstitutional if there is an adequate appeal to the courts and the permitting provisions bear a reasonable relation to the accomplishment of a proper legislative purpose. In Section 8 of the act, there is a provision that if any party is aggrieved of a final decision made by a natural resources district pursuant to the act that party may appeal the decision to a court. Thus, the legislation contains an adequate appeal provision. Additionally the permit provisions constitute a means by which the Legislature is undertaking to control erosion of the native grasslands of the State of Nebraska. The act acknowledges that those native grasslands are a valuable resource of the state. The act also acknowledges that if cropping is discontinued on converted native grasslands, revegetation can be difficult and a costly burden to society. The Grasslands Protection Act is one means by which the Legislature is acting in an effort to prevent such serious problems from occurring in the future. As a consequence, the legislation appears to bear a reasonable relation to the accomplishment of the proper legislative purpose of limiting soil erosion in the future.

Very truly yours,

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87029

DATE: March 4, 1987

SUBJECT: Constitutionality of Those Portions of LB 661 and LB 71 Dealing With Arbitration

Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
Dale A. Comer, Assistant Attorney General

You have posed several questions concerning arbitration in Nebraska and the constitutionality of portions of LB 661 and LB 71 dealing with arbitration. We have completed our analysis of the issues which you raised, and our views as to your questions concerning arbitration are set out in detail below. We will deal with your questions in the order in which you presented them.

LB 661 is the State Employees Collective Bargaining Act. The Act would establish various procedures for collective bargaining between state agencies and their employees. Among other things, the Act provides for the appointment of a special master as a fact-finder in certain types of labor negotiations. The act also provides for binding arbitration of certain types of employee grievances.

LB 71 is the Uniform Arbitration Act. LB 71 provides that an agreement to submit an existing controversy to arbitration or a contractual provision providing for arbitration of future disputes is valid and enforceable. The Uniform Act would establish procedures for arbitration including standards for the judicial review of decisions by arbitrators. The standards for judicial review of decisions by arbitrators in LB 71 are identical to the standards for judicial review of arbitration involving employee grievances set out in LB 661.

Your first question involves the special master procedures included in LB 661. That bill provides that a special master shall decide all unresolved negotiable issues at impasse between management and state employees. While the special master's decision is binding, LB 661 does provide for a limited appeal to the Commission of Industrial Relations (hereinafter CIR) and, subsequently, to the Nebraska Supreme Court. You ask, if this decision by the special master is considered a form of arbitration, is it constitutional under our Nebraska Constitution?

In a series of cases beginning in 1889, our Supreme Court has consistently held that binding arbitration agreements, entered into before a dispute arises, are contrary to public policy and not enforceable. City of Lincoln v. Soukup, 215 Neb. 732, 340 N.W.2d 420 (1983); Heisner v. Jones, 184 Neb. 602, 169 N.W.2d 606 (1969); Wilson & Company, Inc. v. Fremont Cake & Meal Company, 153 Neb. 160, 43 N.W.2d 657 (1950); German-American Insurance Company v. Etherton, 25 Neb. 505, 41 N.W. 406 (1889). The most recent pronouncement of this rule came in Overland Constructors v. Millard School District, 220 Neb. 220, 369 N.W.2d 69, 73 (1985) where the court stated:

While this court is supportive of parties resolving their differences through arbitration, if possible, we have consistently held that an arbitration agreement entered into before a dispute arises, denying to the parties their right to seek the assistance of the courts, is contrary to public policy and is not enforceable.

As a part of this rule, our Supreme Court has also stated on several occasions that exhaustion of contractual arbitration procedures is not required prior to submission of disputes to the District Court.

Poppert v. Brotherhood of Railroad Train Men, 187 Neb. 297, 189 N.W.2d 469 (1971); Rentschler v. Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, 126 Neb. 493, 253 N.W. 694 (1934). This rule which prohibits arbitration agreements that are binding without significant recourse to the courts appears to be based upon the notion that our courts may not be ousted of their jurisdiction. Such an ouster would violate Article I, Section 13 of our state constitution which requires the availability of open courts.

However, the Nebraska Rule against arbitration does not appear to be a blanket prohibition against all forms of that remedy. For example, an agreement to arbitrate an existing dispute is permissible. Overland Constructors v. Millard School District, supra. Likewise, an arbitration agreement which would allow a full review of the arbitrator's decision on the merits by the District Court would seem acceptable. Therefore, the special master procedure set out in LB 661 which is the subject of your first question is not unconstitutional simply because it may involve arbitration.

The constitutionality of the special master provisions contained in LB 661 actually turns on the adequacy of the standards given the special master to resolve disputed issues at impasse. Setting the compensation of governmental employees and determining the conditions of their employment involve legislative powers and functions. Orleans Education Association v. the School District of Orleans, 193 Neb. 675, 229 N.W.2d 172 (1975). As a result, the CIR, which heretofore has reviewed these matters and which would hear appeals from the special master under LB 661, is an administrative agency performing a legislative function. Transport Workers of America Local 223 v. Transit Authority of the City of Omaha, 205 Neb. 26, 286 N.W.2d 102 (1979); Orleans Education Association v. School District of Orleans, supra. In a similar fashion, a special master deciding a dispute involving state employees under LB 661 would also perform a legislative function. When the Legislature delegates authority to perform a legislative function, that authority must be limited to the expressed purpose and administered under sufficient basic standards prescribed in the legislative act. Orleans Education Association v. School District of Orleans, supra. Consequently, LB 661 is constitutional if it gives the special master sufficient statutory standards to complete the arbitration process.

Section 14 (3) of LB 661 provides:

The special master shall choose the most reasonable final offer on each issue in dispute. He or she may consider, but shall not limited to, evidence regarding comparable rates of pay and conditions of employment as described in §48-818. (Emphasis added).

The Nebraska Supreme Court has indicated that the standards provided for the CIR under Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-818 are constitutionally sufficient for that body, and we assume that those standards would also be sufficient for the special master. However, the portion of Section 14(3) of LB 661 emphasized above allows the special master to go considerably beyond the standards set out in Section 48-818 in the determination of disputes. Indeed, it is our view that the portion of Section 14(3) of LB 661 emphasized above, in effect, sets no standards for the special master at all. Therefore, we believe that LB 661, as it is presently drafted, establishes unconstitutional arbitration procedures involving the special master since there are insufficient standards for the delegation of legislative authority. That constitutional impediment can obviously be corrected by more detailed standards.

You next ask, are the arbitration procedures for grievances under LB 661 and the general arbitration procedures under LB 71 permitted by the Nebraska Constitution? Our answer must be "No".

Section 18 of LB 661 provides that collective bargaining agreements involving state employees may include provisions for binding arbitration of employee grievances. A decision by an arbitrator involving such a grievance would be appealable to the District Court. Under Section 21 of LB 661, a district court could vacate the arbitration award only when:

- (a) The award was procured by corruption, fraud, or other undue means; (b) there was evident partiality by an arbitrator appointed as a neutral or corruption in any of the arbitrators or misconduct prejudicing the rights of any parties; (c) the arbitrators exceeded their powers; (d) the arbitrators refused to postpone an arbitration hearing upon sufficient cause being shown therefore, refused to hear evidence material to the controversy, or otherwise so conducted the hearing as to prejudice substantially the rights of a party; or (e) there was no arbitration agreement and the party did not participate in the arbitration hearing without raising the objection.

Section 12 of LB 71 establishes an identical standard for District Court review of an arbitrator's decision under the Uniform Arbitration Act.

As discussed above, arbitration which involves agreements made before a dispute arises and which denies parties their right to seek assistance of the courts is unconstitutional under Article I, Section 13 of our state constitution. Under the standards for judicial review set out above, a District Court reviewing an arbitration decision under LB 661 or under LB 71 could in no way consider the merits of the controversy, and would be limited, in great part, to questions concerning fraud or partiality. In our view, those standards are so narrow as to effectively deny parties to the arbitration the assistance of the courts. Therefore, we believe that the portion of LB 661 which provides for the arbitration of grievances together with the general arbitration provisions of LB 71 are unconstitutional. We would note, however, that LB 71 would be constitutional to the extent that it is applied to agreements for arbitration of existing controversies under Section 2 of that bill.

Your third question involves the statutory authority for a state agreement to use arbitration procedures. You ask whether the state could agree to binding arbitration procedures of any kind in a contract with an employee bargaining unit without specific statutory authority to do so.

In general, a state administrative body has no power or authority other than that specifically conferred upon it by statute or by construction necessary to accomplish the plain purposes of the act. Nebraska Association of Public Employees, Game & Parks Chapter v. Game & Parks Commission, 220 Neb. 883, 374 N.W.2d 46 (1985). Absent specific statutory authority for the use of arbitration procedures, it is our view that state agencies could not agree to use binding arbitration procedures with an employee bargaining unit.

Finally, you inquire as to whether a grievance arbitration procedure in a labor contract would mean that the State Personnel Board would not hear grievances of employees covered under such a contract. It seems to us that the answer to that question would turn on the provisions of the labor contract involved and on the provisions of the statute which authorizes the arbitration. The State Personnel Board was created by the Legislature, and its duties and authority may be altered by that body. Therefore, the Legislature could provide that proper and constitutional forms of arbitration could take the place of grievance proceedings before the State Personnel Board.

Sincerely,
ROBERT M. SPIRE

Dale A. Comer

Dear Mr. O'Donnell:

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln staff has completed the tasks outlined in the letter to you dated March 11, 1987 and formally requests by this letter that you seek from the Appropriations Committee the introduction of such resolution as is necessary to have the matter of the UNL Recreation/Athletic Facility considered by the Legislature.

Attached to this letter you will find two items relating to this subject. First is the addendum to the RFP for the Indoor Practice Facility which was disseminated to all potential bidders on March 19, 1987. It is clearly the intent of this item to remove from consideration in this RFP any and all mention of gifts and contributions in the bidding process. Second, is the memorandum of law from the General Counsel of the University concluding that the design/build process used by the University in conjunction with the construction of the Indoor Practice Facility portion of the project is permissible under Nebraska law.

We respectfully urge that the Legislature proceed to approve this project as revised. Thank you for your prompt attention to this matter.

Sincerely,
(Signed) John W. Goebel

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87039

DATE: March 18, 1987

SUBJECT: Interpretation of Neb.Rev.Stat. §85-404 (Supp. 1986); At what point in time does the 30 day time period for legislative approval of plans under §85-404 begin when an initial plan is "revised?"

REQUESTED BY: Senator Jerome Warner
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
Dale A. Comer, Assistant Attorney General

Neb.Rev.Stat. §85-404 (Supp. 1986) requires the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska to submit plans for the construction of certain campus facilities, including financing plans, to the Legislature for its approval prior to proceeding with such construction. That statute provides that the Board of Regents may proceed with the construction of the facilities "unless the Legislature has by resolution or motion disapproved such plans within 30 days after the same have been so submitted."

On February 18, 1987, the Clerk of the Nebraska Legislature received a letter dated February 17, 1987, from the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska which submitted certain plans for the construction of a recreational center to the Legislature for its approval pursuant to §84-404. On March 2, 1987, the Clerk of the Legislature received a "formal revision" of the earlier letter from the Board of Regents which altered certain portions of the financing proposal for construction of the recreational center. The initial portion of the second letter from the Board of Regents stated:

This letter is intended to provide a formal revision of our letter of February 17, 1987, relating to the proposed recreation/athletic facility at UNL. This revision has resulted from the desire of members of the Board of Regents to have the University Administration further review this project in terms of cost, financing and construction phasing. The changes which have resulted from this review include a substantial reduction in cost which is reflected under the heading of "Financing Plans" on page two.

You now ask, when does the 30 day period for review of the second letter by the Legislature begin, and what effect does that second letter have upon the initial proposal submitted on February 18?

In considering the meaning of a statute, courts should, if possible, discover legislative intent in the language of an act and give it effect. Mitchell v. Douglas County, 213 Neb. 355, 329 N.W.2d 112 (1983). In addition, our courts will, if possible, try to avoid a statutory construction which leads to an absurd, unjust or unconscionable result. Sorenson v. Meyer, 220 Neb. 457, 370 N.W.2d 173 (1985). In construing a statute, our Supreme Court looks to the objects to be accomplished, the evils and mischiefs sought to be remedied, or purposes to be served, and places upon the statute a reasonable or liberal interpretation which will best effect its purpose rather than one which will defeat it. NC + Hybrids v. Growers Seed Association, 219 Neb. 296, 363 N.W.2d 362 (1985).

In light of the cases cited above, the portion of §85-404 which provides for a 30 day review period for the Legislature should be read in such a way as to give effect to the intent of the Legislature, to prohibit an absurd result, and to best bring about the purpose of that statute. It seems obvious to us that the purpose of the 30 day review period in §85-404 is to allow the Legislature an adequate time period to review potentially complex plans for the construction of campus facilities by the Board of Regents. Our analysis of that purpose is supported by the statement of intent for LB995, the most recent revision of §85-404 which became effective in July, 1986. LB995 was submitted to remove approval authority from the Legislature's Executive Board since that Board was handicapped in making a thorough review of proposed plans within restricted time frames. See, Introducer's Statement of Intent, LB995, 89th Legislature, Second Session, Dated February 12, 1986.

If the Legislature was concerned that there be adequate time for review of a proposal by the Board of Regents, it necessarily follows that a construction of §85-404 which would unnecessarily shorten the 30 day limit would not comport with the intent of that statute.

Consequently, it seems to us that the 30 day approval period for the second letter received from the Board of Regents should start as of the date of receipt of that letter, or on March 2, 1987. A construction which would relate back to the approval period for the first letter and shorten the 30 day period for review of the second letter would be contrary to the obvious intent of the Legislature.

Assuming that the Legislature does have 30 days from receipt of the second "formal revision" letter from the Board of Regents to review that document, the question still remains as to what effect the second letter from the Board of Regents has upon the first letter. As indicated above, the second letter states that it is a formal revision of the initial letter which includes substantial changes from the initial proposal. The term "revision" means to correct or amend, to examine, with a view to making a change or changes. State ex rel. Taylor v. Scofield, 184 Wash. 250, 50 P.2d 896 (1935). In light of the language of the second letter from the Board of Regents together with the substantial alteration in the facility construction plans proposed by that letter, it is our view that the second letter rescinds the proposal set out in the first letter. As a result, the Legislature need not review or respond to the initial proposal from the Board of Regents dated February 17, 1987.

In summary, it appears to us that the second proposal by the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska rescinded the initial proposal. The 30 day period for review of the second proposal by the Legislature began upon its receipt of that proposal, or March 2, 1987. In light of these conclusions, it is unnecessary for us to respond to various further opinion requests set out in your correspondence.

Sincerely yours,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

DATE: March 20, 1987

SUBJECT: LB 71

REQUESTED BY: Senator Wesely

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
A. Eugene Crump, Deputy Attorney General

This letter is in response to your correspondence of March 17, 1987, in which you asked us to examine LB71 in its final reading form and to determine whether the bill in that form imposes arbitration provisions on private employers or employees without their prior mutual consent. We have reviewed LB71 in its final reading (2nd) form. Section 2 of the bill provides that an arbitration agreement is enforceable if it "is entered into voluntarily and willingly." That language together with the continued references to a written arbitration agreement in LB71 persuades us that the arbitration provisions contained in LB71 would apply only to agreements to arbitrate entered into voluntarily by the parties.

Sincerely yours,
ROBERT M. SPIRE
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87038

DATE: March 17, 1987

SUBJECT: Taxation of Alcoholic Liquors and Beer Sold to Federal Military Installations in Nebraska

REQUESTED BY: Senator D. Paul Hartnett

WRITTEN BY: Robert M. Spire, Attorney General
Susan M. Ugai, Assistant Attorney General

QUESTION: Does the Department of Defense Appropriation Act, Pub. L. No. 99-190, §8099, 99 Stat. 1185 (1985), specifically authorize the State of Nebraska to begin collection of excise taxes from sales to federal military facilities in Nebraska?

ANSWER: No.

QUESTION: Can legislation be enacted to enable the State of Nebraska to collect excise taxes from breweries and alcoholic liquor wholesalers on alcoholic liquors and beer being sold to federal military facilities in Nebraska?

ANSWER: Yes.

The Department of Defense Appropriation Act, Pub. L. No. 99-190, §8099, 99 Stat. 1185 (1985), required the Department of Defense to procure alcoholic beverages from the states in which defense installations are located. The legislative history of that section did not indicate any Congressional intent to permit state taxation of the sale of those beverages to the Department of Defense or any federal installation. Indeed, during the Senate debate, Senator John Glenn of Ohio was concerned that:

. . . Each of the 32 States where State-licensed, commercial distributors serve as wholesalers would be able to collect alcohol beverage taxes from the military--and the Federal Government--on an indirect basis. But there are 18 States where the States themselves are the alcoholic beverage wholesalers and where the prices charged directly to the military cannot include State taxes because this would amount to illegal direct taxation of the Federal Government. These 18 "monopoly" States would not be able to share in the windfall tax collections that would be enjoyed by the 32 "license" States.

131 Cong. Rec. §17313 (1985). (Emphasis added.)

The language of the Senate debate and H.R.Rep. No. 450, 99th Cong., 1st Sess. 270 (1985), is sufficiently clear to indicate that the legislative intent was to require the Department of Defense to make local purchases of alcoholic beverages. There is nothing in the legislative history which expressly waives the immunity of the Federal Government to state taxation.

In 1986, the Department of Defense Appropriation Act, Pub. L. No. 99-190, §8099, 99 Stat. 1185 (1985), was revised by Pub. L. No. 99-591, §9090 (1986), and Pub. L. No. 99-661, §313 (1986). These new provisions allow military installations in the 48 contiguous states to purchase their distilled spirits from the most economical source, be it in-state or out-state. Purchases of wine and malt beverages by military installations in the 48 contiguous states are still limited to in-state wholesalers.

The principle that a state government may not indirectly tax the Federal Government or an "instrumentality" of the Federal Government was clearly established by the United States Supreme Court in United States v. State Tax Commission of Mississippi (Tax Commission II), 421 U.S. 599 (1975). The Court held that a Mississippi Tax Commission regulation which required out-of-state distillers and suppliers to collect a state tax in the form of a wholesale markup from the sale of liquor to federal military installations in Mississippi was unconstitutional because it was a tax imposed on the United States and its instrumentalities. The Court declared, ". . . that where a State requires its sales tax be passed on to the purchaser and collected by the vendor from him, this establishes as a matter of law that the legal incidence of the tax falls upon the purchaser. . . ." Id. at 608. (Emphasis added.)

Neb.Rev.Stat. §53-160.01 (1986 Cum. Supp.) specifically prohibits the imposition of excise taxes, either directly or indirectly, on instrumentalities of the armed forces of the United States. As a result, breweries and wholesalers of alcoholic liquors are presently given a tax credit for the tax paid on the sale of beer and liquor to federal military installations in Nebraska. Simply requiring that such installations located in Nebraska make their beer and wine purchases within the state in no way interferes with the operation of the state statute. If the present state statutes were modified so as to eliminate the tax credit which is given to the breweries and wholesalers, it appears that no conflict with federal statutes would exist so long as the breweries or wholesalers were not required to collect the state excise tax from the federal military purchaser.
