where they were located, for example, maybe the types of burial goods would identify as a particular tribe, and things of that sort, but there would have to be a way to identify the remains as associated with the tribe, or under this bill, they wouldn't have to go back.

SENATOR SMITH: All right.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And there is going to be an amendment offered that would set up the Ombudsman's Office as the one who would resolve some of these types of disputes should some arise.

SENATOR SMITH: All right. Thank you very much.

PRESIDENT: Thank   you.   Senator Wesely, please, followed by Senator Chambers, then Senator Elmer.

SENATOR WESELY: Thank you.   Mr. President and members, I, obviously, feel that the committee amendments ought to be adopted and that we ought to look at other amendments as well, but that we need to proceed in dealing with this important issue, and Senator Chambers' comments about the injustice to our Indian ancestors throughout our history brings back a lot of unpleasant memories for many of us about what we did to those people, and I think we are trying to do some things today to correct some of those injustices, but at the same time, we also have to be very careful and cautious as we craft a piece of legislation, and I would like t. ask Senator Baack a few questions in following up on some of the handouts that he has had, if he would yield.

PRESIDENT: Senator Baack, would you...Senator Baack. (Gavel.) Senator Baack, would you respond to some questions, please.

SENATOR BAACK: Certainly.

SENATOR WESELY: Thank you.   Senator Baack, in one of the handouts that you have distributed in the one set of materials that you have, the one sheet with the Indian representatives define burial goods bill, I believe that is the one, it does talk about the different interpretation of these committee amendments, so before we adopt them, and I know you went through this to some degree, but to help me clarify and perhaps for the record clarify, the question seems to be, you are trying to distinguish between all burial goods going back and those that
