is more extravagant than even Mr. King was able to do with a $14,000 salary.

SENATOR MOORE: That $200,000 is incorrect.

SENATOR SCHMIT: Well, that is the first mistake.

SENATOR MOORE: It is 20,000.

SENATOR SCHMIT: Twenty thousand, well, that is not bad, just one zero.

SENATOR MOORE: Of taxable equity.

SENATOR SCHMIT: A zero doesn't mean much.

SENATOR MOORE: Neither you or I write the World-Herald, as we wish we did sometimes.

SENATOR SCHMIT: Is there any way that we can get the accurate figures here, Senator, because, first of all, there...

SPEAKER BARRETT: Time.

SENATOR SCHMIT: ...isn't any way in the world that $30,000 gross income on a farm could support even the taxes on that farm, let alone any amount of motor vehicles. I don't know, if that 200,000 is an error, are there other errors in this article or not, or have you read it?

SPEAKER BARRETT: Time has expired. Senator Moore, would you like to answer the question.

SENATOR MOORE: Well, there are some other errors in assumptions in that article, too, we could talk about, but the $200,000 is acknowledged as incorrect as one extra zero is on there.

SENATOR SCHMIT: Thank you very much.

SPEAKER BARRETT: Senator Dierks, further discussion.

SENATOR DIERKS: Yes, Mr. Speaker, and members of the body, only very briefly, I just wanted to second Senator Baack's accolades. I think that Senator Withem has done yeoman work on this piece of legislation. I know that there were times when frustration
