

on the committee felt that we should review this issue again in three years as opposed to five. Vote however you feel on that. There are...some of the things Senator Schmit brought up are very, very important, something we need to address in the future; water testing, groundwater testing, well water testing, and the mandated tests the feds are putting on us, of course, without any funding to back it up. Something we're going to be looking at a lot in the future. This is simply that we have a unique circumstance down in this area, seems to be working well right now, and we, on the committee, felt it would be better to review it again in three years. I'd ask you to support the committee amendments.
