talking about a specific kind which will ultimately result in the production of a full-fledged human being, so with that in mind, wouldn't it be true that human life must begin prior to conception or you couldn't even have conception?

SENATOR DIERKS: I suppose that goes back to the question, which came first, the chicken or the egg, doesn't it?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And now it begins to show how difficult it is for us to be precise and how the deeper we go in discussing these matters, the more fluid and uncertain and indefinite things become and we've got to fall back on a religious concept which is based on faith and not reason, nor the study of embryology or genetics because to study that would compel us to arrive at a conclusion which is contrary to what religion says, and that conclusion is that human life must begin prior to conception.

SPEAKER BAACK: Time.

SENATOR DIERKS: That is your definition, Senator.

SPEAKER BAACK: Time. The next speaker I have is Senator Hefner. Did you wish to speak on this?

SENATOR HEFNER: Question.

SPEAKER BAACK: We have a call of the question. Do I see five hands? I do. We will now proceed to vote on ceasing debate. All those in favor vote aye, opposed vote no. We are voting on ceasing debate, have you all voted? We are voting on ceasing debate, have you all voted? Senator Hefner.

SENATOR HEFNER: Mr. President, I'd ask for a call of the house.

SPEAKER BAACK: We have a request for a call of the house. All those in favor vote aye, opposed no.

SENATOR HEFNER: Call in votes.

SPEAKER BAACK: Record, Mr. Clerk.

CLERK: 16 ayes, 0 nays to go under call, Mr. President.

SPEAKER BAACK: The house is under call. All members report to
