

might be an ophthalmologist.

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: I passed out a list of where the ophthalmologists...

SENATOR CROSBY: Yeah, I have that.

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: ...go into rural Nebraska.

SENATOR CROSBY: I just thought we should make that clear, Senator Schellpeper.

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: So they are available, but you are definitely right, they do.

SENATOR CROSBY: And that kind of thing is what we are talking about aside from the glaucoma.

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: When you're going to be in the medicine field,...

SENATOR CROSBY: Yeah.

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: ...we're saying you should be under the Board of Medicine.

SENATOR CROSBY: Aside from...

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: When you're in the optometric, then you could be under the Board of Optometry.

SENATOR CROSBY: Aside from the glaucoma, the other thing, that not all optometrists have the same education.

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: Oh, definitely.

SENATOR CROSBY: Am I correct?

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: Definitely, there's...there's some very well trained ones.

SENATOR CROSBY: So there is a little grey area. And I see why Senator Moore is right, Senator Baack is right. So I'm not going to say any more, I'll let Senator Robinson have the rest of my time. Thank you.
