

I'll go get an abortion. By the way, and I want butter on my toast this morning. And it's in that kind of context that it's being discussed. So she's singing, or whistling, "Whistle While You Work." And she skips down to the abortion clinic and says, I want to get an abortion. And the doctor says, you can't get one unless you notify your parents. Oh, okay. That's crazy! That is wrong! I have children and I know how I feel about my children. And I know what my children should not have to face and what I don't want them to face. And I don't want them facing a set of circumstances where the Legislature tricks them and withholds information from them, and then they get into a very difficult situation, and then they're laughed at and we say, ha, ha, good enough for you. And all of this stuff being talked is supposed to be based on how we care about these young women? Who are we hurting by giving them this information? What principle of morality are we violating?

SENATOR MORRISSEY: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: If that Jesus, that you claim to worship, and you all don't even want to see the crucifix treated in a disrespectful way, well how about the real one you say you believe in who was hanging on it? You think your approach is what his approach would be? That he would say, let her go down there in ignorance and be hurt again. I don't understand it. I am glad that I haven't got a religious corpuscle in my body, because I feel it would make me as hard-hearted, as cold, uncaring, and unfeeling for these young women as some of the people are on this floor. This amendment is reasonable. It does not hurt anything that the bill purports to be doing, unless those who have told us what they want this bill to do have not been telling us the truth. It's an anti young woman bill. I hope you will support this amendment and prove me wrong.

SENATOR MORRISSEY: Time. Motion on the desk, Mr. Clerk.

CLERK: Mr. President, Senator Smith would move to amend Senator Chambers' amendment. (Smith amendment appears on page 1849 of the Legislative Journal.)

SENATOR MORRISSEY: Senator Smith, on the amendment to the amendment.

SENATOR SMITH: Yes, Mr. President, members of the body, you've
