

Kings. The tombs there were only for men. Then they discovered a tomb for this woman. Even in the days of ancient Egypt, when there was supposed to be so much knowledge, understanding, and enlightenment, there was the antifemale attitude, and that is what we are seeing in this bill today. No matter what abilities a woman has, no matter what height she achieves, she does it as an individual, and it does not redound to the benefit of women as a whole. So as a result, we have these kind of bills which impose additional burdens on women, and they are offered with a vengeance. Senator Labeledz sounds actually angry and threatening when she says if this amendment passes, I am going to do this, that, or the other. If we are trying to help these women, and that is our real concern, why is there the need to show such a bitter attitude toward these women? I'd like to ask Senator Horgan a question, if he is in the Chamber.

SPEAKER BAACK: Senator Horgan.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Maybe he is not. Oh!

SPEAKER BAACK: There he is. Senator Horgan, would you respond, please?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Horgan, are you aware that this amendment does not require counseling or referral of anybody to an abortion clinic, but rather merely information about what the law says? Or did you think the amendment went further than just giving information about what the law says?

SENATOR HORGAN: Well, I guess, Senator, I don't know that I see a lot of difference between informing a minor of what the law is and, indeed, some counseling would be involved in that.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Are you in favor of the language that you all put in the law being in the law?

SENATOR HORGAN: Which language?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: The language that I am trying to have the counselor or the nurse inform the young lady about. I want the counselor or nurse to inform the young lady about the language that you all put in your law. Now are you in favor of the language you all have in your existing law?

SENATOR HORGAN: Yes, I am.
