

cancer and other ailments in other types of legislation, then support a bill that these sellers of death want us to pass. I am opposed to the bill. I will attempt to amend Senator Baack's amendment, when it will be adopted, because this Legislature has not the strength of character nor the hardness of spine to stand against the biggest dealer of death in this country.

PRESIDENT MOUL: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Hall. Senator Chambers, would you like to speak again?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Madam Chair, I want to tell you something, and, Senator Hefner, about this filthy product. You know when you put this stuff in your mouth, then there is something that is produced when you chew it. Your saliva mixes with this nasty slimy product. So in order not to have it dribbling down your chin onto your shirt, which if you have a necktie, you can wipe it off and turn the necktie over and conceal it, they have what they call spittoons. These are items with openings, and usually the opening is large at the top. It kind of tapers to the middle. Then spreads out again into a bowl at the bottom, and you try to skeet that juice into the opening. Well, there were two fellows who came into this bar, and there was a spittoon there and one made a bet to the other one, and here was the bet. He said I will bet you $10 I can turn that spittoon up and drink everything in it. So the guy said, this I have got to see. And I am sure you all would be anxious to see it, too, if you are at the bar drinking various things that are sold there. So this guy took the spittoon and then he turned it up and he began to actually drink. And because this substance is not as thin as water and flows in a smooth motion, it began to spread out around the rim of the spittoon and run down his cheeks. And he is standing there with...a tobacco-jawed wolf, Senator Hall, drinking this, and he began to have trouble swallowing, but he did not stop. Finally, he put the spittoon down and belched, and the other man gave him his $10. He said I have never seen that done in my life, how did you do it? He said, well, after the first swallow I wanted to stop. He said, why didn't you? He said because it came out in one long string. Now the next time you all are eating lunch, next time you all turn up a cup of coffee, don't think about spittoons, don't think, Senator Jacky Smith, about a spittoon. And if you do think about it, don't think about one long string. If you do, I guarantee you that you will be able to embark upon a diet and lose a bit of weight without too much trouble. Now that is the product that Senator Baack wants us to make available to people at no cost,
