

you'd go straight to hell, and you'd knock sparks a mile high. I look at what people go through in order to arrive at their decisions, and not just at what the ultimate decision is. Judgements are based not just on the ultimate outcome, but the way the person who is engaging in the conduct perceives the conduct in which they're engaging. Senator Lindsay knows that there are a lot of young ladies who, under this bill, would get the you know what beat out of them because of this bill. And he doesn't like it, and he's not comfortable with it, and he wishes there were some way out, but there is no way out, and he knows it. He knows it, I know it, Senator Labeledz knows it, and the people in the lobby know it. The difference between Senator Lindsay and his colleagues is that he cares, and they don't. Not one of these other people is undergoing any mental turmoil, there's no struggle for them. These young bitches got pregnant and by God let them suffer the pangs of hell forever, and let's give 'em a good start right now in the name of the father, the son, and the holy ghost. We gonna get a bill, by God, that's going to punish 'em, and we're gonna fill the role of God and show them what we think God is with a vengeance on the other side, cause we gonna give 'em a taste of it right here. Yeah, your daddy made you pregnant, now you got to go to him to get permission for an abortion. When you go to the doctor you gotta tell the doctor that this man, with whom you're going to have to live, made you pregnant. And you know what I hear? I hear grown women come before the Judiciary Committee answering the question why a woman will not leave an abusive husband, because she's got no place to go. And that's trying to justify and rationalize grown women staying with these abusive men. Then they want to take these young girls that they have identified and defined as immature and say they should have more maturity and more alternatives than these grown, experienced women. And that is the irrationality, that is the hellishness, that is the damnable attitude of these holy people who want to put this kind of stuff on these young women. I am so glad that I...

PRESIDENT MOUL: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...am not religious. I don't know what to do. And, if heaven is going to be full of these people, I don't want to go to heaven. If I would have to go to heaven and be with people like this, and the only way I can go to hell is to die, I say, death, where is thy sting? It's bad enough having to deal with them down here in this Legislature. Heaven is supposed to be forever. Good God, heaven like that would be
