

go back on. My amendment says, no, we're going to treat it all alike, we're going to put it back on the tax rolls as well.

SENATOR SCHMIT: Does the bill carry the emergency clause, Senator Hall?

SENATOR HALL: The amendment carries the emergency clause.

SENATOR SCHMIT: Then, in other words, if I want to trade my 25-year-old airplane off on a new Gulf Stream and get the benefits of the personal property tax exemption, I've got about 15 days in which to do it. Is that right?

SENATOR HALL: Well, you've got about 15 days and you need about, I think, $1.2 million, Senator Schmit, but I forget what the going price is.

SENATOR SCHMIT: Well, you're partly right. You're about...well, you've got the down payment, the 10 percent down payment there, otherwise...

SENATOR HALL: I figured your...I figured your crop duster was worth about the other nine.

SENATOR SCHMIT: (Laughter.)

SENATOR HALL: I was figuring trade-in value in that answer.

SENATOR SCHMIT: I think you might have here the biggest business incentive act amendment of the year because...

SENATOR HALL: For the lobby though, Senator Schmit.

SENATOR SCHMIT: Yeah, there ought to be a...ought to be a big rush out there in the lobby to go out and buy the new aircraft and the new mainframes and that sort of thing because after we adjourn we will no longer be in business. I do want to say this, once again...I'm going to vote for the amendment, but once again we do that which we should not be doing. Four years ago we said we're going to adopt a policy, we're going to do this and this and this. Well, there were certain groups of people who were able to take advantage of that and they did so. That's what the law was for. There are certain entities now that are just coming on line and they may be looking at 775. And I want to ask one more question, Senator Hall. Does the Governor feel
