

was strongly condemned because he took the little that that man, who was considered unimportant, possessed. There was an example in the New Testament of this widow. Everybody was putting money into the offering plate. Senator Schrock walks up and with great ostentation drops a $1,000 note into the plate and everybody claps and the trumpets blare. Then here comes Baron Hefner, who, until you came, Senator Schrock, was top dog here, he comes in and he says now it is going to pinch me a little bit, but to uphold my reputation, I will give more, he drops a $1,000 bill on the plate plus a dollar. Then we have the others who would like to be where Baron Schrock and Baron Hefner are, Senator Lamb comes up and he drops $100, Scotty Moore, $100, and on around. Then here comes a poor little widow, has next to nothing. She is embarrassed and ashamed because everybody has given so much and gotten credit for it, and she puts in what was called her "widow's mite", a tiny bit, and when the one who was supposed to judge the hearts of human beings looked at what was given, based on what they had to give, said that the widow in giving her mite gave more...

So in the same way that giving of your little constitutes more, when they take from you by the power of the state what little that you have, they are taking more. The Legislature committed a wrongful act yesterday. Fortunately, by it not being a majority that did it, it was not the act of the Legislature strictly speaking. So by a majority vote, we can undo what that shameless minority did yesterday; minority in terms of numbers on the floor of the Legislature. I hope we will vote in favor of Senator Withem's reconsideration motion. Then I hope we will vote to strip that amendment from the bill, and all of that failing, when it is vetoed, we won't rally 30 votes to override anyway. So we can save all of that by doing the righteous deed today, which should have been done yesterday. Senator Schrock is gesturing to me, and I don't know what he wants. I don't know if he is threatening me or complimenting me, but he can turn...

SPEAKER BAACK: Time.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...on his button and then we will know.

SPEAKER BAACK: Before I go to the next speaker, I would like to introduce some guests of the Legislature today. They are guests
