

wheat, it's going to be a sales tax on that service. It's going to be a sales tax on every service under the sun, haircuts will follow along everything else. I don't know. If it's a one-year tax, gee, that's great. This wouldn't bother me in the least, but I just tell you people what you're doing here. It sounds good right here now, but you're opening the door to a new, new tax that probably will never go away.

PRESIDENT MOUL: Thank you, Senator Lamb. Senator Lindsay.

SENATOR LINDSAY: Thank you, Madam President, members, I'd like to ask Senator Hall a couple of questions if he's around.

PRESIDENT MOUL: Senator Hall.

SENATOR HALL: Yes.

SENATOR LINDSAY: Senator Hall, you do support a sales tax on services generally, is that right?

SENATOR HALL: In general.

SENATOR LINDSAY: But with certain exceptions for public policy reasons.

SENATOR HALL: Correct.

SENATOR LINDSAY: And would you like to...would it be your intent to come in and expand this at some point down the line?

SENATOR HALL: Senator Lindsay, I'm on record of having carried a number of bills that levied a sales tax on specific services, all of which reduced the sales tax rate considerably.

SENATOR LINDSAY: Okay, thank you. First of all, let me go back to my last talk. I didn't mean to impugn Senator Hall when we talked about not printing the amendment. What I intended to do was just merely point out that we're making a change that hadn't been read by people. I know it has been available up on the desk and has one paragraph that, with several other pages because that section is long. Second thing, I...Senator Hall is being very honest with you right now and he's telling you we need a sales tax on services and that's a very legitimate policy statement. What we're doing here is...maybe it's what Senator Lamb says, a foot in the door. More likely, it's let put a
