

of them. The only question you have to ask yourself is, does Lindsay ask all the questions and will they go far enough to answer all the questions that are out there, whether or not they're within the case or not? Hopefully, they will. Hopefully, they will finally say, you have to treat all real and personal property the same, you have to treat all real property the same, you have to treat everything the same. That's what uniformity means. If that happens, then that's the point in time to deal with the tax issue, not in the special session where we do...we continue to play in the sandbox. That's all that happens. You continue to play and right now this is one opportunity to at least protect and set the rules. You choose whether you like the rules or not. That's all you do with a vote up or down on this. I would urge you to indefinitely postpone the...excuse me, to oppose the motion to indefinitely postpone because I would like to see what rules we're going to play by and that's all the vote yes or no on this will tell us. I would relinquish any time I have left to Senator Robak.

PRESIDENT MOUL: Senator Robak.

SENATOR ROBAK: Thank you, Senator Hall, for the time and thank you, Madam President. To expedite matters, administration's position on this is this is if this is indefinitely postponed or does not advance, June 6th we will be in special session. June 6th. So cancel all your plans for sine die and proceed.

PRESIDENT MOUL: One minute. Senator Robak, thank you. Senator Hall. Senator Crosby.

SENATOR CROSBY: Thank you. Madam President and members, I turned my light on so long ago I have to get my thoughts together again because there's been motions, et cetera, filed in between. But one of the things I would...and I was really glad to hear Senator Lynch speak because that was what I was going to ask for, was one or more of the four senators who filed that lawsuit to explain why they did it. And it seems that that was the trigger that got everyone excited that the people have been reading the Supreme Court opinions and reading into them that the Supreme Court is going to rule in favor of those four people that filed that lawsuit. And I don't know why they think that. Do you, Senator Lynch? And here I find myself agreeing with Senator Lynch on several points and quite often he and I are kind of at loggerheads. But, see, we agree on more things than we disagree on probably, Dan. But if you...if any of you pay
