

if you want to help put one together. I think it's something that we should probably do.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: I think you jumped a little bit ahead of me, Senator Schellpeper. You didn't require a study on the big item, but you would require a study on the small one. Is that correct?

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: I don't think anybody has even...I think put in a study on Ak-Sar-Ben at the present time, but we have put in a study on the Racing Commission, Senator.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Schellpeper, you have approximated Arthur Murray in terms of answering...

PRESIDENT MOUL: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...questions that I ask you. He was a noteworthy tap dancer. I think what Senator Robak is offering is not unreasonable. That article is not the type of thing that would cause me to say that all is well with that commission. Five people, if this industry is so important as we were told during the last discussion, would not be too large a number to have on the commission designed to oversee it. Now, if there are people currently on that commission who do things the way certain individuals and groups want to have those things done, I can see why they would not want that authority diffused among five people instead of keeping it concentrated in three. Nobody has given an argument that would show that Senator Robak's proposition is going to hurt the industry, is going to make the commission unable to carry out its duties, but on the contrary, the indication is that it would probably improve the oversight...

PRESIDENT MOUL: Time.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...so I support her amendment.

PRESIDENT MOUL: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Schellpeper.

SENATOR SCHELLPEPER: Thank you, Madam President and members, once again we're going to be doing a study. There are several hundred, I think, different commissions in this state that we have at the present time. We're only going to be looking at the
