

this body that 1063 was going to work, and now, even before the horses get out of the gate, they're admitting that it doesn't and Senator War...I mean, we don't know whether there's still going to be 4-R Act problems here. My last amendment that you failed to adopt guaran...you know, could certainly...will guarantee by a winning lawsuit by the airlines, if it's ever worth their money to do so, and so you still got problems. I have consistently said the property tax policy is to exempt all property. I have consistently said the railroads and the 4-R Act needs to be dealt with and, once again, the administration has said time and time again don't worry about the 4-R Act, that's not our problem. There's no reason to petition Senators Exon and Senator Kerrey to repeal the 4-R Act. That's not a problem in the State of Nebraska. Go back and read some of the editorials that the Tax Commissioner said, the 4-R Act is not a problem. Well, I guess it's a problem today. I guess it's a problem right now. Maybe you ought to think about going back and trying to repeal it but don't, you know, don't want to get cross-ways with our senatorial delegation. I understand that. I think it is a problem. It will continue to be a problem. Taxing personal property is going to continue to be a problem and I think it's a...I guess I just have a...I have a big problem...

SENATOR MORRISSEY: One minute.

SENATOR MOORE: ...when people sit here and say I'm half nuts. Maybe I still am, but the biggest criticism I always had of 1063 is now coming true. I don't fault Senator Warner for trying to plug the dam. That's what this amendment tries to do. Tries to at least keep them on. But the proponents are the ones being inconsistent. They said this will get the railroads, and now they say, once again, it only gets them if we treat them differently. You're not going to treat everybody the same anymore. Uniformity within class, you're not going to tax all depreciable property the same. You're going to treat just a few people differently. I think if anybody's been inconsistent it's the supporters of LB 1063 that are continuing to say this gives us...the constitutional amendment allows us to treat people differently and LB 1063 is not as great a law as some people thought it was going to be. It will not solve the problem. We have to try and plug the dam one more time.

SENATOR MORRISSEY: Time.
