than me whether or not that's wise or not, but...and I was curious about...

SENATOR MOORE: I learned the hard way why it's necessary.

SENATOR LYNCH: (Laugh) Well, I know. I was...I thought there was something that happened some time back there. All I want to make sure and clear is that there are no fun and games. I saw Greg Lemon walking out and when he gave you the advice here just again a little bit ago and I...you still haven't specifically said all this amendment applies to, all you got to do is tell me yes or no, is the type of helmets that can be used with or without visors, and chin straps, et cetera, and the fine. Does it do any more than that?

SENATOR MOORE: It's not my intent to do any more than that.

SENATOR LYNCH: No, no, no, it's not...the intent, see, is wonderful. I...we can all have good intentions, but hell is paved with those things.

SENATOR MOORE: Well, and the passenger in the car, but it is not...you're accusing me of some sinister plot and I've tried to tell you exactly what I'm doing.

SENATOR LYNCH: No, no, I'd rather not, because I don't know and you're not answering the question so I'm starting to have...

SENATOR MOORE: (inaudible) the way you're asking...

SENATOR LYNCH: ..(inaudible) some sinister plot.

SENATOR MOORE: ..the question, Senator Lynch.

SENATOR LYNCH: Okay. Does it...tell me this, does all your amendment do...this is the fourth time now, soon we'll get it. Let's take it one step at a time. I'll separate the issues. Does all your amendment do is change the language as it applies to the kind of helmets they can wear, visors, they should have them or not, or chin straps? Does it do that?

SENATOR MOORE: Yes.

SENATOR LYNCH: Okay. That's all (inaudible).
