

September 28, 1992 LB 10

and is happening right now. So talk is cheap when there is no reality actually confronting the country. But in the same way some young people from all over this country but especially the states where they had large numbers of minority youngsters in their National Guards and in their reserve units, they will be pulled up and thrown into the teeth of these fighters. It all is a part of it, Senator Schimek, because I see these things like a seamless web. Why will they say a no-fly zone over Iraq but they're afraid to stop the ethnic cleansing in Bosnia? Because Iraq cannot fight back. There is a double standard. Get out of Iraq if you're not going into Bosnia. Get on into Bosn..a if you're going to continue in Iraq. But we know that politicians are making the decisions and the political decisions are designed to advance political careers. These young people are the pawns that are moved about willy-nilly on this chess board by people who couldn't care less how many of them die. I care not only about...

PRESIDENT MOUL: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...those from this country who will die but those who will die other places for political reasons. Nothing of value that will be advanced as far as human civilization is going to result from the throwing of thousands, maybe hundreds of thousand of young people into wars that old people create but will not fight, wars that big-shot politicians will create for other children but their sons get into elite National Guard troops. I think what should be done is to have a rethinking of this country's attitude about military activity and participation.

PRESIDENT MOUL: Time. Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Kristensen.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Thank you, Madam President, and members of the Legislature, I stand to oppose the committee amendments. And Senator Chambers brings up the issues of broad policy and so on, but, at least from my point of view, the policy choice here is very simple and that policy choice is do you want to have higher education take another hit outside of what they're taking across the board in some of the other areas. It's no more complicated than that. It's a matter of giving them more money to absorb and to a cut in the shift. I don't see Senator Moore right here but I think that I can speak...and if I see him, I'll ask him the questions. But what you really have in some of