(e) During session, all vacancies on standing or select committees created by the death or resignation of a member shall be filled by a majority vote of all members of the Committee on Committees unless it is a member of the Appropriations Committee whose vacancy shall be elected by the Executive Board pursuant to Rule 3, Section 2(c) unless otherwise provided for by rule or statute. A vacancy within the Committee on Committees shall be filled by a meeting of the caucus established pursuant to Rule 3, Section 2(a).

During the interim, all vacancies on standing or select committees created by the death or resignation of a member shall be filled by a majority vote of all members of the Executive Board.

Sec. 4. Select Committees. (a) The select committees of the Legislature shall be as follows:

Committee on Committees	13 members
Enrollment and Review	1 member
Reference	9 members
Rules	6 members

(b) The Speaker of the Legislature shall serve as one of the six members and shall be an ex officio member of the Rules Committee. Select committees shall be subject to the same procedural rules as standing committees insofar as they are applicable. In addition, the following provisions shall apply:

(c) Committee on Committees.

(i) The Committee on Committees shall have authority to call before it a committee chairperson and discuss the workload of said committee. It shall hear and dispose of all written complaints filed with said committee by a senator against any committee chairperson. The Committee on Committees shall conduct said hearing in accordance with its own rules.

(d) Enrollment and Review.

(i) The Chairperson of Enrollment and Review shall report bills which have been engrossed for Final Reading and passage. In the absence of the Chairperson, the Vice Chairperson of the Judiciary Committee shall assume the duties of the Chairperson of the Enrollment and Review Committee.

(ii) The bill drafting service shall have supervision of and provide legal services for Enrollment and Review Committee.

(iii) The Chairperson of Enrollment and Review shall have authority, without being required to include the same specifically in his or her reports and recommendations to the Legislature, in accord with accepted usage:

(A) To correct the spelling of words, to correct erroneous division and hyphenation of words, to capitalize or decapitalize words, to convert masculine or feminine referents to neutral gender when appropriate, and to change numbers from words to figures or from figures to words, in new and independent acts, in the new matter of amendatory acts, in standing committee reports, and in General File, Select File, and specific amendments.

(B) To underscore or remove underscoring, as the case requires, in standing committee reports and in General File, Select File, and specific amendments.

(C) When an amendment to add the emergency clause, the severability clause, or provide an operative date is adopted on Select File which does not spell out the standard clause or section and make the necessary change in the title, the Chairperson of Enrollment and Review shall also have the authority to add to the engrossed bill the standard clause or section, assigning to it the appropriate section number, and make the necessary change in the title as a matter of course without including such action in his or her reports and recommendations to the Legislature or making any special record thereof.

(D) To add and/or delete names of introducers to reflect action on the bill while the bill remains in the possession of the Legislature at any stage of consideration.

(E) To reflect votes on Final Reading as they may occur pursuant to Rule 6, Section 10 and Rule 6, Section 15.

(e) Reference Committee.

(i) The Executive Board shall constitute the Reference Committee. The Reference Committee shall review each bill and resolution and either refer the matter to the appropriate committee or to General File. The appropriate committee is that committee which has subject-matter jurisdiction over the issue or which has traditionally handled the issue.

(ii) All nominations made to the Legislature by the Governor, requiring confirmation by the Legislature shall be referred to the appropriate standing committee and the same procedure shall be followed as governs the handling of other matters before standing committees, unless the Legislature shall otherwise direct by unanimous vote.

(iii) The Clerk of the Legislature's office shall be responsible for the collection of pertinent information on gubernatorial appointments. That information will be distributed to the appropriate standing committee prior to the time of the confirmation hearing. The Clerk's office shall be the "depository" for background information on the individual, a statement of financial interests if applicable, and other biographical information that the committee chair feels is appropriate for the committee to have before it during the confirmation process.

(iv) The committees to which a gubernatorial appointee has been referred for confirmation shall conduct a confirmation hearing. Each appointee shall be required to appear in person before the committee conducting the confirmation hearing. The appearance of the appointee may be waived for good cause shown by a majority vote of the members assigned to the committee conducting the hearing.

The committee shall prepare a report either approving or rejecting the appointment. Said report shall be filed with the Clerk of the Legislature.

The Legislature shall then have the opportunity to accept or reject the report of the committee.

(v) Any appointment letter received by the Clerk of the Legislature during the last eight calendar days of any regular legislative session shall not be acted upon. Acknowledgement of receipt of the appointment shall be deferred until the next regular or special session of the Legislature.

(f) Rules Committee.

All proposed rules changes shall be set for public hearing within five legislative days after their referral to the committee. The hearing shall take place within fifteen legislative days after the referral, and the committee shall take final action on the proposal within ten legislative days after the hearing.

(g) Investigating Committees.

The Committee on Committees may appoint other select committees when authorized by the Legislature. No investigating committee of the Legislature shall be created except by resolution which shall set forth, with supporting statements, the reasons for and the purposes of the investigation, and no committee thus established shall function except during the interim between legislative sessions.

Sec. 5. Special Committees. (a) Special committees shall include all authorized committees other than standing and select committees. Unless otherwise specifically provided, special committees shall not have jurisdiction over legislative bills, but shall be subject to the same procedural rules as standing committees, insofar as they are applicable.

(b) The special committees authorized by statute as of January 1, 1980 are as follows:

Building Maintenance. RRS 81-185	6 members
Education Commission of the States. RRS 79-2504	3 members

(c) The following special provisions shall be in force with regard to the following special committees:

(i) Intergovernmental Cooperation Committee.

In addition to the members of the Intergovernmental Cooperation Committee chosen in accordance with Section 81-816, the Executive Board may appoint temporary members to serve on such assignments as the chairperson shall direct.

Sec. 6. Meeting Times. (a) After consultation with the Speaker, the Committee on Committees shall publish a schedule of standing committee meetings, in such manner as to avoid, as far as possible, conflicts in the assignment of members to committees. Standing committees shall meet at 1:30 p.m. on weekdays, unless otherwise approved by the Legislature, except for the Nebraska Retirement Systems Committee, which shall meet as called by the chairperson.

(b) A standing committee deciding not to hold meetings on the appointed day must receive permission from the Reference Committee.

(c) Any legislative committee shall be subject to the call of its chairperson or to the call of a majority of its members, in accordance with the notice and procedural requirements set forth in its committee rules.

Sec. 7. Chairperson, Vice Chairperson. (a) The chairperson of each standing and select committee shall be selected by secret ballot on the floor of the Legislature.

(b) The chairperson of a special committee shall be selected in the manner provided by the act authorizing the committee, or if not specified, by the Executive Board.

(c) Each committee shall elect from its membership a vice chairperson to serve in the absence of the chairperson.

Sec. 8. Committee Quorum. A majority of the members of a committee shall constitute a quorum. A quorum must be present for the transaction of any committee business except a public hearing.

Sec. 9. Quorum at Committee Hearings. A quorum of committee members should be maintained throughout all committee hearings.

Sec. 10. Conduct During Committee Hearing. (a) No member, staff, media representative, or individual shall smoke or otherwise consume tobacco products during a committee hearing or while the committee conducts an executive session within the hearing room assigned to that committee for such purpose, unless the committee by a vote of the majority, with all the members present, taken at least once a session, decides otherwise.

(b) The use of any mobile, portable, or wireless communication device, other than those authorized by the Legislative Council or used by licensed medical persons on duty, is prohibited in legislative hearing rooms during a meeting of a legislative committee.

Sec. 11. Temporary Appointments. (a) When a member is unable to serve, the chairperson of the committee, after a majority vote of the remaining members, shall request that such vacancy be filled by the Committee on Committees unless such vacancy is on the Appropriations Committee in which case the vacancy shall be filled by the Executive Board pursuant to Rule 3, Section 2(c).

(b) A temporary appointment may be made by the Chairperson of the Committee on Committees, or in the case of the Appropriations Committee, the Executive Board, for only one day when requested by a chairperson of a standing committee which lacks a quorum. When a member is appointed from an eight-member committee, the consent of the member to be appointed shall first be obtained. The temporary appointee shall have the right to vote only on the bill or bills that actually have been heard by the appointee and provided that the vote is taken on such bills on the day the bill or bills are heard. When such appointment is made in case of an incapacitated member, such appointee shall cease to be a member of such committee upon the return of the incapacitated member for whom he or she was appointed.

Sec. 12. Consideration and Correlation of Bills and Resolutions. (a) Committees shall consider and report without unnecessary delay all bills and resolutions referred to them. Committees shall be authorized to combine and to correlate the provisions of different bills and resolutions referred to them and related to the same subject under the number of one of the correlated bills or resolutions, and when reported out under one bill or resolution number, the remaining bills or resolutions will be reported out as indefinitely postponed. Committees may, before taking final action on any bill or resolution, adopt amendments thereto, for the consideration of the Legislature.

(b) The chairperson of each committee shall set for hearing all bills and resolutions referred to the committee.

Sec. 13. Public Hearing, Notice. Before taking final action on a bill, resolution, or gubernatorial appointment, a committee shall hold a public hearing thereon and shall give at least seven calendar days' notice, after the bill or pronouncement of the appointee shall have been printed, by publication in the Legislative Journal. No bill or resolution having been set for public hearing shall be withdrawn nor the hearing cancelled within seven calendar days of the date set for said public hearing.

Sec. 14. State Officials Appearing Before Committees. State officials and department heads or their designees and state employees are encouraged to appear before any legislative committee to comment upon bills having an impact on the operations of the administrative agency or department for which they work.

Sec. 15. Executive Sessions and Closed Meetings. (a) Executive session shall mean any meeting or portion of a meeting which is closed to the general public, and the proceedings of which are not electronically recorded and transcribed, unless the committee so provides, but the records of which shall be available for public inspection. Executive sessions shall be open to members of the news media who may report on action taken and on all discussions in executive session.

(b) All other meetings of a committee shall be public unless the committee, by a majority vote of all of its members, determines that a meeting should not be open to the public, including members of the news media, in a particular instance, due to rare and extraordinary circumstances. The meeting shall be reconvened in open session before any formal action may be taken.

Sec. 16. Report of Bill to Legislature. (a) In reporting a bill to the Legislature, whether with or without amendments, a committee shall by vote of a majority of its members, recommend that the bill be placed on General File or that the bill be indefinitely postponed. Such action shall be taken at regularly scheduled meetings only.

(b) A report on a bill or resolution must be made to the Legislature within eight calendar days after the committee has taken final action upon the particular measure. Final action shall mean an affirmative vote of a majority of the committee members to advance a bill to General File with or without committee amendments or an affirmative vote of a majority of the committee members to indefinitely postpone the bill. A committee may reconsider any final action prior to the committee making a report on the bill or resolution to the Legislature, provided the reconsideration takes place within eight calendar days of the final action.

(c) No bill shall be reported by the committee to be placed on General File unless the amendments, if any, are approved as to form and draftsmanship by the Bill Drafter.

Sec. 17. Indefinitely Postponed Bills. If the committee action on a bill be to postpone indefinitely, the bill shall stand indefinitely postponed; except that such bill may be placed on General File or referred back to the committee by a three-fifths vote of the elected members upon motion made within three legislative days after the committee makes its report to the Legislature, or by a two-thirds vote of the elected members upon motion made more than three legislative days after such committee report. Not more than one bill shall be raised from committee on any one motion. A motion to raise cannot be amended to include any other bill or subject matter. A motion to raise must be disposed of by the Legislature within five legislative days after the motion is available for consideration or it shall be deemed defeated.

Sec. 18. Committee Statement. (a) The chairperson of each committee with the assistance of the legislative staff shall, when reporting a bill, submit with such bill a committee statement which shall contain, but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) the one-line title and number of the bill;
(2) a roll call vote of final committee action taken on the bill;
(3) the date of the public hearing on the bill;
(4) a list of all individuals testifying for and against the bill and any organization they represent;
(5) a summary of the bill's purpose and a description of all major provisions for change in the bill as written and as amended by the committee;
(6) if committee amendments are to be introduced, a copy of the amendments and an explanation thereof.

(b) A copy of the proposed statement shall be distributed to each committee member within five days after final action on the bill has been taken by the committee. A minority or concurring statement bearing the signature or signatures of its proponents and setting forth objections to the bill, to proposed amendments, or to the majority statement may be filed by its author(s) with the Clerk of the Legislature at any time prior to the first hearing of the bill on General File.

(c) A copy of the committee statement and any minority statements submitted shall be distributed to each senator after filing with the Clerk of the Legislature. Copies of such statements shall be made available to the public.

Sec. 19. Request From Committee, Bills Held. (a) Except for the general appropriation bills necessary for the support of the state government for the biennium, the Legislature may, by vote of a majority of the elected members, request a status report from any committee at any time after said committee shall have been in possession of a bill or resolution for twenty legislative days.

(b) Any senator may move that a bill be placed on General File twenty calendar days or more after the committee hearing, if the committee has not taken final action on the bill, and by a vote of a majority of the elected members, said bill shall be placed on General File. If, at the expiration of eight calendar days from the date final action was taken, the chairperson has not reported the bill, any senator may file with the Speaker a motion that the chairperson be compelled to submit a report. After determining that final action on the bill has been taken at least eight calendar days prior to the date the motion was submitted, the Speaker shall accept the motion and compel the chairperson to file the committee's report on the matter.

(c) Any time any member attempts to take a bill from committee to be placed on General File, the bill shall stand indefinitely postponed and shall not be subject to reconsideration if the motion fails to receive a majority vote of the members elected to the Legislature. The introducer of the bill must concur with any motion offered under this rule.

Sec. 20. Subpoena Procedure. It is within the inherent power of any legislative committee to gather information pursuant to its regular functions, and to conduct investigations of matters within its subject-matter jurisdiction.

A committee's power of subpoena should not be exercised unless the committee has determined that no other method of securing the desired information would be successful or practicable, and that the matter is of primary importance to the welfare of the State of Nebraska.

A committee of the Legislature conducting an investigation and gathering information, whether pursuant to legislative direction or pursuant to its regular functions of oversight and bill preparation, shall observe the following procedures in addition to regular committee procedures whenever subpoenas are issued:

(A) Issuance of Subpoenas.

(i) A committee may, by a majority vote of all of its members taken at a meeting properly called, issue a subpoena requiring a person to appear before the committee and be examined in reference to any matter within the scope of the inquiry or investigation being conducted by the committee, but only when the committee has received prior approval by a majority vote of the Executive Board to issue subpoenas in connection with the specific inquiry or investigation in question.

(ii) The committee may, in the same manner, issue a subpoena or subpoena duces tecum requiring any person to appear before the committee and bring with him or her any books, papers, or other documents pertinent thereto.

(iii) While the Legislature is in session, a committee deciding to issue subpoenas must promptly report each issuance to the Legislature. A record shall be made in the Journal reflecting the date the subpoena was issued, to whom it was issued, for what purpose it was issued, and the date on which testimony or production of documents is to take place. Under extraordinary circumstances, the identity of the person subpoenaed may be withheld from publication if necessary to protect the safety of an individual or the confidentiality of the matters to be heard.

(iv) A person subpoenaed to attend a hearing of a committee shall receive the same fees and allowances as a person subpoenaed to give testimony in an action pending in a court of record.

(B) Notice to Witnesses.

(i) Service of a subpoena requiring the attendance of a person at a hearing of a committee shall be made in the manner provided by law for the service of subpoenas in civil actions at least seven days prior to the date of the hearing unless a shorter period of time is authorized by a majority vote of all of the members of the committee in a particular instance when, in their opinion, the giving of seven days' notice is not practicable; but if a shorter period of time is authorized, the person subpoenaed shall be given reasonable notice of the hearing, consistent with the particular circumstances involved.

(ii) Any person who is served with a subpoena to attend a hearing of a committee shall also be served with a copy of the act defining the purpose of the committee, a copy of the rules under which the committee functions, a general statement informing him or her of the subject matter of the committee's investigation or inquiry, and a notice that he or she may be accompanied at the hearing by counsel of his or her own choosing.

(C) Conduct of the Hearing.

(i) No committee which has issued a subpoena directing a witness to appear at a hearing shall question the witness unless a quorum is present throughout the questioning.

(ii) The hearing shall be public unless the committee, by a majority vote of all of its members, determines that a hearing should not be open to the public in a particular instance, due to rare and extraordinary circumstances consistent with Legislative Rule 3, Section 15(b) regarding closed meetings.

(iii) The chairperson of the committee shall preside at all hearings and shall conduct the examination of witnesses himself or herself or supervise the examination by other members of the committee. The committee may, by a majority vote of all its members, authorize the questioning of a witness by the committee's counsel or by special counsel.

(D) Right to Counsel and Submission of Questions.

(i) Every witness at the hearing may be accompanied by counsel of his or her own choosing, who may advise the witness of his or her rights, subject to reasonable limitations which the committee may prescribe to prevent obstruction of or interference with the orderly conduct of the hearing.

(ii) Any witness at the hearing, or a witness' counsel, may submit to the committee proposed questions to be asked of the witness or any other witness relevant to the matters upon which there has been any questioning or submission of evidence, and the committee shall ask such of the questions as it deems appropriate and relevant to the subject matter of the hearing.

(E) Testimony.

(i) The committee shall cause a verbatim record to be made of all proceedings in which testimony or other evidence is demanded or offered, which record shall include rulings of the chair, questions of the committee and its counsel, the testimony or responses of witnesses, sworn written statements submitted to the committee and read into the record, and such other matters as the committee or its chair may direct.

(ii) All testimony given or offered at the hearing shall be under oath or affirmation if the witness has been subpoenaed, and in other cases if a majority of the committee members present at the hearing so decide.

(iii) The presiding member at the hearing may direct a witness to answer any relevant question or furnish any relevant book, paper, or other document, the production of which has been required by subpoena duces tecum. Unless the direction is overruled by a majority vote of the committee members present, disobedience shall constitute a contempt.

(iv) A witness at the hearing or his or her counsel, with the consent of a majority of the committee's members present at the hearing, may file with the committee for incorporation into the record of the hearing sworn written statements relevant to the purpose, subject matter, and scope of the committee's investigation or inquiry.

(v) Testimony and other evidence given or offered at a hearing closed to the public shall not be made public unless authorized by a majority vote of all of the members of the committee, which authorization shall also specify the form and manner in which the testimony or other evidence may be released.

(vi) A witness at a closed hearing, upon request and at his or her own expense, shall be furnished a transcript of his or her testimony at the hearing.

(F) Interested Persons.

(i) Any person whose name is mentioned or who is otherwise identified during the hearing and who, in the opinion of the committee, may be adversely affected thereby, may, upon his or her request or upon the request of any member of the committee, appear personally before the committee and testify in his or her own behalf, or, with the committee's consent, may file a sworn written statement of facts or other documentary evidence for incorporation into the record thereof.

(ii) Upon the consent of a majority of its members, a committee may invite any other person to appear at a hearing or submit a sworn written statement of facts or other documentary evidence for incorporation into the record thereof. No invitation to appear, and no request to appear, appearance, or submission of evidence shall limit in any way the committee's power of subpoena.

(iii) Any person who appears before a committee pursuant to this section shall have all the rights, privileges, and responsibilities of a witness provided to all other witnesses.

(G) Contempt.

A person shall be in contempt if he or she:

(i) Fails or refuses to appear in compliance with a subpoena or, having appeared, fails or refuses to testify under oath or affirmation;

(ii) Fails or refuses to answer any relevant question or fails or refuses to furnish any relevant book, paper, or other document subpoenaed by or on behalf of a committee; or

(iii) Commits any other act or offense against a committee which, if committed against the Legislature, would constitute a contempt.

The chairperson of a committee may apply to the Legislature or, during the interim, to the district court of any county to compel obedience by proceedings for contempt.

(H) Penalties.

(i) A person guilty of contempt under the provision of these rules shall be subject to punishment pursuant to RRS 50-105 and 50-106 during the session, or to RRS 50-407 when the Legislature is not in session.

(ii) If a committee fails in any material respect to comply with the requirements of these rules, any person subject to a subpoena or a subpoena duces tecum who is injured by such failure shall be relieved of any requirement to attend the hearing for which the subpoena was issued or, if present, to testify or produce evidence therein; and such failure shall be a complete defense in any proceeding against such person for contempt or other punishment.

(iii) Any member or employee of the Legislature, other than the witness concerned or his or her counsel who knowingly violates subsections of these rules concerning the publication of testimony taken at a closed hearing, shall be in contempt of the Legislature or, if a member of the Legislature, shall be subject to sanction or suspension according to the statutes governing the Legislature. The Speaker on his or her own motion or on the application of any person claiming to have been injured or prejudiced by an unauthorized disclosure may institute proceedings for the determination of the issue and for the imposition of penalties provided herein. Nothing in this subsection shall limit any power which the Legislature may have to discipline a member or employee or to impose a penalty in the absence of action by a prosecuting officer or court.

(I) Limitation of Rules.

Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to limit or prohibit the acquisition of evidence or information by any committee by any lawful means not provided for herein.

RULE 4--RESOLUTIONS

Section 1. Identification. A resolution shall be designated as Legislative Resolution _____. All resolutions shall be numbered consecutively for each Legislature. All resolutions shall be introduced and read by the Clerk upon introduction and shall be printed in the Legislative Journal.

73-74 Attorney General Opinion No. 13--Resolutions must be printed and read before a vote is taken.

Sec. 2. When Considered as a Bill. Resolutions which propose amendments to the state constitution, propose the ratification or rejection of amendments to the federal Constitution, or memorialize the Congress with regard to amendments to the U.S. Constitution, shall be considered and adopted in the same manner as bills.

Const. Art. III, Secs. 13, 14; Art. IV, Sec. 15; Art. XVI, Sec. 1.
Cannot appropriate funds by resolution. Const. Art. III, Sec. 25.

Sec. 3. Study Resolutions: Introduction; Referral; Standing Committees; Select Committees; Results. (a) Any senator or committee may introduce resolutions proposing interim studies. The resolutions shall be submitted to the Clerk of the Legislature on a form prescribed by the Clerk, printed in the Journal, and referred to the Executive Board.

(b) Study resolutions may be introduced up to and including the 80th legislative day in odd number years and the 50th legislative day in even number years. However, each standing committee may introduce one additional study resolution prior to adjournment sine die. The Executive Board shall refer the study resolutions to the appropriate standing committees or to select interim committees created by it to conduct such studies.

(c) Study resolutions shall be prioritized by the chairperson of the committee to which they are referred, and a report on those priorities shall be filed with the Clerk, on a form prescribed by the Clerk, prior to adjournment sine die. Also, the chairperson of each committee shall file with the Clerk, on a form prescribed by the Clerk, his or her committee's study plan for the highest prioritized interim studies referenced to such committee. This study plan shall be filed no later than thirty days after adjournment sine die. Unless otherwise agreed to, staff to interim studies conducted by standing committees shall be headed by the respective committee counsels. Legislative aides whose senators serve on such standing committees and legislative aides of other interested senators may be invited by the respective committee counsels to participate as staff in the conduct of the interim studies. The provisions of this section shall in no way limit the standing committees in their traditional prerogatives to conduct hearings and oversee matters and agencies that are within their subject matter jurisdiction.

(d) The Executive Board may, on its own behalf, conduct interim studies or create select interim committees to do so. Before creating a select interim committee, the Board shall consider whether the subject matter proposed for study by such a committee lies within the jurisdiction of one or more standing committee. To the extent possible, the jurisdiction of a select interim committee created by the Board shall be limited to subject matters that do not lie wholly within the jurisdiction of one or another standing committee. Membership on a select interim committee shall, to the extent possible, include senators who are both interested in serving on such a committee and are from the standing committees that have the most direct concern with the subject matter proposed for study. Select interim committees shall meet no later than five legislative days prior to adjournment sine die to organize and to review study plans. Staff to select interim committees shall be drawn from the Legislature's division staffs (e.g., fiscal, research, bill drafting), be based upon a joint plan submitted to the Executive Board by the division directors, may include other interested legislative staff, and shall be coordinated by the Legislative Research Division, and the chairpersons of the standing committees involved with the select interim committee.

(e) The Executive Board shall retain its traditional prerogatives to consider and refer study proposals arising from extraordinary circumstances after the deadlines established in this section.

(f) The chief sponsor of a study resolution, if not otherwise a member of the committee to which the resolution is referred, shall be an ex officio member of the committee during and only for the conduct of the study.

(g) On or before December 1 of each year, each standing and select interim committee shall file a report, on a form prescribed by the Clerk, with the Executive Board on the disposition of the study resolutions referred to them. These reports shall be printed in the Journal at the beginning of the next session of the Legislature.

(h) The results or final reports of studies conducted by standing committees may be prepared in a format of their choosing. Nine copies of each completed standing committee report shall be filed with the Legislative Reference Library. The results or final reports of studies conducted by select interim committees shall be prepared and published in a format prescribed by the Legislative Research Division, and copies of such studies will be indexed and filed with the Legislative Reference Library.

Resolutions specified in Section 2 shall be considered and adopted in the same manner as bills.

RRS 85-404, 85-408.

Sec. 6. Resolutions, Lay Over Requirement. Resolutions shall lay over for consideration at least one legislative day after introduction.

Sec. 7. Engrossed Resolutions. Only those resolutions specified in Sections 2 and 3 of this rule shall be engrossed unless otherwise ordered by the Legislature or unless the Clerk determines the nature of the resolution is such that upon its adoption it must be engrossed to properly achieve the purpose for which it was presented. All resolutions which are engrossed shall be enrolled and signed by the Lieutenant Governor or Speaker and certified to by the Clerk as to the date of final passage.

Const. Art. III, Sec. 14.

Sec. 8. Reference to Committee. Resolutions other than those covered by Sections 2 and 3 of this rule shall upon the recommendation of the Speaker of the Legislature be referred to the Reference Committee for referencing to the appropriate committee.

Sec. 9. Reviving Resolution Killed by Committee. If the standing committee report on a resolution be to postpone indefinitely, the resolution shall stand indefinitely postponed; Provided, that such resolution may be considered by the members of the Legislature if a majority vote of the elected members so direct, provided the motion is made within three legislative days after the committee makes its report to the Legislature. A motion to raise cannot be amended to include any other resolution or subject matter. The provisions of this section shall not apply to resolutions considered as bills pursuant to Rule 4, Section 2.

Sec. 10. Committee Statement. A committee, when reporting out a resolution, shall attach thereto a statement setting forth what is sought to be accomplished and the committee vote. The statement shall be set out in full in the Journal.

RULE 5--BILLS--GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 1. Drafting of Bills. The Bill Drafter shall prepare all bills and amendments in proper form when requested by members of the Legislature, newly elected members of the Legislature, or heads of executive departments. No bills or major amendments shall be introduced or considered unless the same has been approved as to form and draftsmanship by the Bill Drafter. In order to shorten the length of sections, the Bill Drafter shall, in the drafting of new sections, make each paragraph a separate section except when to do so would be contrary to sound bill drafting practice. The Bill Drafter shall make available a continuing compilation of sections to which amendments are proposed so as to reduce unnecessary duplication of bills. This section index of bills drafted shall be available to all senators, newly elected senators, and other persons entitled to have bills drafted. After January 1 of each year no bill shall be drafted by the Bill Drafter unless requested or authorized by a member of the Legislature.

Sec. 2. Content and Form of Bills. (a) A bill shall be designated as Legislative Bill _____.

Style of bill. Const. Art. III, Sec. 13.

(b) No bill shall contain more than one subject and the same shall be clearly expressed in the title. No law shall be amended, unless the new act contains the section or sections as amended, and the section or sections so amended shall be repealed.

Const. Art. III, Sec. 13.

(c) An amendatory bill or constitutional provision shall be so prepared and printed as to show the new matter proposed, old matter to be retained, and old matter to be omitted from the statutes or constitution.

(d) Appropriations bills and "A" bills shall contain the following elements:

(1) the phrase "there is hereby appropriated";

(2) a specific fund type shall be identified and the fund shall be appropriated;

(3) the amount to be appropriated from such fund shall be identified;

(5) the time period during which such funds shall be expended shall be identified.

RRS 49-804.

Sec. 3. Revisor Correctional Bills, Preprinting. (a) Preceding each legislative session, the Chairperson or any member of the Executive Board of the Legislative Council, or if the Executive Board so requests, the senator who, in the preceding session served as Chairperson of the Judiciary Committee, shall sign as introducer the Revisor of Statutes' correctional bills. The Clerk of the Legislature shall number these bills consecutively beginning with number 1 and shall show the committee reference to be General File. The Clerk of the Legislature shall have these bills printed before the convening of the next regular session.

(b) In addition to causing to be printed the revisor bills, the Clerk shall number and cause to be printed all bills delivered to him or her by the Executive Board, provided said Board has referred said bills to a standing committee. No bill so printed shall be withdrawn until after the Legislature convenes.

Sec. 4. Introducers Signing Bills. (a) Members shall introduce only such bills as they are willing to endorse and support personally. The last name and district shall be used, unless an initial or name is necessary to identify the introducer. Any member may request to have his or her name added as cointroducer of a bill but only if the principal introducer has concurred, in writing, to that request.

(b) A standing committee or special committee may introduce a bill for any purpose, including at the request of another senator, provided said bill receives the endorsement of a majority of the committee members whose names shall be on the bill.

(c) No bill shall be introduced after the tenth legislative day of any session, except:

1. "A" bills, appropriation bills, and bills introduced at the request of the Governor may be introduced at any time;

2. A standing committee or special committee may request that the Legislature consider introduction of a bill. A vote of three-fifths of the elected members of the Legislature shall be required for such bill to be introduced, and a copy of the statement of intent for such bill must be placed on each member's desk before introduction of the bill is voted upon.

(d) Individual members shall not be limited as to bill introduction. Each committee shall be limited to 8 bills each session. Bills introduced as a result of an interim study of the Legislative Council shall be included within the limitations prescribed by this section. Special committees created as a result of an interim study resolution and as authorized by the Executive Board shall be considered as separate committees for purposes of the limitations prescribed by this section. Bills introduced under Rule 5, Section 3(a) and bills introduced at the request of the Governor will not be included in the limitation.

(e) The introducers of all bills must submit a statement of intent for each bill to the appropriate committee chairperson at least 24 hours prior to the bill's hearing. The statement of intent should discuss clearly and completely the purposes and effects of the bill.

Sec. 5. Scheduling of Bills, Priority Bills. (a) Each senator may designate one bill as a priority bill. Such priority bill need not be the designator's bill, but the principal introducer must concur with the designation as a priority bill and with the withdrawal of the designation once made.

(b) Each chairperson of those committees which are authorized to hold public hearings on bills may designate as priority bills two of the bills referenced to that committee and on which the committee has held a public hearing.

(c) The Speaker may designate up to 25 additional priority bills.

(d) Priority bill designations may be made at any time prior to the annual designation deadline which shall be set each year by the Speaker. The designation deadline shall be prior to the 45th legislative day in the ninety day session and prior to the 30th legislative day in the sixty day session.

(e) A senator or committee may withdraw a priority designation at any time, but will not be allowed to designate another bill as a priority bill in its place. The Speaker may withdraw a priority designation made by the Speaker.

(f) All committees shall schedule priority bills for public hearing ahead of all unscheduled, nonpriority bills unless the person or committee making the priority designation shall otherwise agree.

(g) All bills not designated as priority bills shall be heard on General File in the order in which they are reported to the floor by the committees, unless the introducer of the bill and the Speaker agree to delay the hearing of a particular bill. This provision shall not be construed to prevent the Speaker from placing bills reported out of committee with two or less dissenting votes on a consent calendar. Any bill placed on consent calendar shall be removed at the written request of three or more senators.

(h) Priority bills shall generally be considered ahead of all other bills at each stage of debate, except that priority bills requiring the expenditure of appropriated funds shall be held on Final Reading until such time as the annual appropriations bills have been passed. A priority bill which fails to advance after two votes on General File, or after one vote on Select File, shall return to nonpriority status.

(i) No priority bill designated under this rule shall have priority over appropriations bills.

Sec. 6. Fiscal Analyst. (a) A copy of every bill introduced shall be transmitted by the Clerk to the Legislative Fiscal Analyst. The Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall review each bill and make an estimate of the anticipated change in state, county, or municipal expenditures or revenue under the provisions of the bill. The Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall prepare a statement to be known as a fiscal note to be attached to each bill prior to its public hearing by a committee, or its first consideration on General File if the bill is referred directly to General File. The fiscal note shall set forth the fiscal impact of the bill and the governmental subdivision affected by the fiscal impact as determined by the Legislative Fiscal Analyst. No bill which has a fiscal impact shall be heard by a committee or considered on General File unless the fiscal note is attached.

(b) In determining the fiscal impact of any bill, the Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall request the appropriate department or other entity of state government or subdivision thereof, or appropriate association which will be affected by the bill, to prepare the fiscal note within five calendar days.

(c) The Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall review the fiscal note so prepared and shall also request a review of such fiscal note by the Budget Division of the Department of Administrative Services. The statement by the Budget Division of the Department of Administrative Services shall be attached to and become a part of the fiscal note. The Legislative Fiscal Analyst shall include in the fiscal note any exceptions to the conclusions of the department or other entity and of the Budget Division of the Department of Administrative Services.

(d) The fiscal note shall be delivered by the Legislative Fiscal Analyst to the Clerk at least twenty-four hours prior to the public hearing on the bill or, in the event the bill is referred directly to General File, twenty-four hours prior to the first consideration of the bill on General File. The Clerk shall present the fiscal note to the principal introducer. If extenuating circumstances prevent the Legislative Fiscal Analyst from meeting this deadline, he or she shall present to the principal introducer an unofficial summary of all available fiscal information on the bill by this deadline and deliver to the Clerk the fiscal note when it is available. The Clerk shall attach the fiscal note to the bill and to all copies prepared for members.

(e) When amendments to a bill are adopted by the Legislature and such amendments would change the fiscal impact of the bill, the appropriate changes shall be made in the fiscal note each time the bill is advanced to Enrollment and Review or upon the written request of a member of the Legislature.

(f) When any bill proposes adoption of a new program or change of an existing program either of which would require an appropriation to implement in the ensuing fiscal year, an appropriation bill for the purposes of funding the provisions of such bill shall be prepared from the information contained in the fiscal note. Such appropriation bill shall be prepared at the direction of the Chairperson of the Appropriations Committee. Such bill shall be placed on General File and considered as introduced by the introducer of the original bill or by the committee which offered the amendments creating the expenditure, and shall bear the number of the original bill with the letter "A" added, and shall accompany the original bill through all stages of the legislative process. All bills for which an "A" bill is prepared shall be bracketed on Final Reading until the "A" bill is advanced to Final Reading.

(g) The authorization bill shall first be considered and if it should be passed on Final Reading then the "A" bill shall be read and voted on for final passage.

(h) The fiscal note shall be factual in nature, as brief and concise as may be, and shall, if possible, provide a reliable estimate in dollars and, in addition, it shall include both the immediate effect and, if determinable or reasonably foreseeable, the long range effect of the measure. If, after investigation, it is determined that no dollar estimate is possible, the fiscal note shall contain a statement to that effect, setting forth the reasons why no dollar estimate can be given.

(i) No comment or opinion shall be included in the fiscal note with regard to the merits of the measure for which the note is prepared, however, technical or mechanical defects may be noted.

(j) The subject matter of bills submitted to boards, commissions, departments, agencies, or other entities of the state by the Fiscal Analyst shall be kept in strict confidence by said agencies and by the office of Fiscal Analyst together with the content of the fiscal note itself and no information relating thereto shall be divulged by any official or employee prior to its introduction in the Legislature.

(k) To implement the provisions of and assure compliance with Art. III, Sec. 22 of the Nebraska Constitution (deficiency appropriations), and Art. IV, Sec. 7 of the Nebraska Constitution (appropriations in excess of Governor's request), the Appropriations Committee shall advise the Legislature of the number of votes required to assure passage of the same.

Sec. 9. Engrossment of Bills. All bills, before being advanced to Final Reading and passage, shall be engrossed, and copies thereof showing new and stricken matter shall be made available to members.

Sec. 10. Expenditure of Legislative Funds. Those expenditures on which the Legislature votes shall require the approval of the majority of the elected members.

Sec. 11. Withdrawal of Bills. No bill, having been introduced, may be withdrawn except upon motion of the first introducer with the consent of his or her cointroducers. Such motion, when made, shall not be considered prior to the next succeeding legislative day, and, for its adoption, shall require the affirmative vote of a majority of those voting upon the question.

Withdrawal of bills set for hearing. Rule 3, Section 13.

Sec. 12. Division of Bills, Prohibited. No bill shall be divided into two or more bills.

Sec. 13. Holding of Bills. Unless otherwise disposed of, all bills on which no final action has been taken by the time of adjournment of the regular session in odd-numbered years shall be held over for consideration at the regular session convening in even-numbered years.

Sec. 14. Public Retirement Plans and Actuarial Studies (a) Commencing with the 1997 legislative session, any bill proposing a structural change which impacts the benefits or funding status provided under a public retirement plan, or any bill proposing the creation of a new public retirement plan, shall be introduced only during the first ten days of a 90 day session.

(b) No bill for which an actuarial study is necessary to determine the cost of such proposed changes shall be enacted until an actuarial study has been conducted and the results reported to the Legislature.

(c) (i) The Nebraska Retirement Systems Committee may introduce amendments to an appropriations bill to fund actuarial studies for only those retirement systems which are or would be administered by the state. If such amendments are enacted, the results of the actuarial studies shall be reported to the Legislature by November 15 of that calendar year.

(ii) Actuarial studies required for changes to other public systems under the jurisdiction of the Nebraska Retirement Systems Committee but not administered by the state shall not be funded by the state.

Bills introduced in regular sessions in even-numbered years shall start with the number following the number of the last bill introduced in the preceding regular session of an odd-numbered year, (bills introduced in any special session shall start with the number 1) and shall be numbered consecutively as read by the Clerk. After introduction, bills requiring reference shall be delivered to the Reference Committee.

Sec. 2. Objection to Reference of Bills. (a) Any member may object to the reference of any bill or other proposition, and correction in case of error in reference may be made by the Legislature by unanimous consent, or by the vote of a majority of the elected members.

(b) Those bills and resolutions placed on General File by the Reference Committee will be bracketed for five calendar days, and if one senator requests a public hearing on one or more of these matters, they will then be referred to a committee. Bills on General File for which public hearings have not been requested will be handled as all bills on General File.

Sec. 3. General File. (a) The Clerk of the Legislature shall read the number and the title of the bill and the name of the principal introducer as it comes up for consideration on General File. A bill will not be read section by section unless requested by a member of the Legislature.

(b) Each section shall be open to amendment. The amendments, if any, recommended by standing committees, shall first be considered. The introducer's amendments, if any, shall be considered following the consideration of the standing committee amendments and any amendments thereto, after which he or she may move to advance and explain the bill. Other amendments and motions permitted by these rules may then be offered and shall be considered after the introducer has explained the bill in the order in which they are filed with the Clerk, subject to the provisions of Rule 7, Section 3.

(c) Bills shall be listed and considered on General File in the order in which they shall be reported from the standing committees, except as modified by the Speaker; Provided, that any bill that comes up for debate for a second time, with the introducer present, shall be placed by the Clerk at the bottom of General File if said introducer asked for further time, unless otherwise directed by the Speaker.

(d) During consideration of bills on either General or Select File, any member may move that the bill be passed over once and if the motion is carried by a majority of those voting, the bill shall be passed over and shall retain its place on the file.

(e) At any stage of consideration of a bill, a motion to bracket or to bracket to a day certain or to unbracket shall, if made by the primary introducer of the bill, require a majority of those voting. If made by other than the primary introducer, there shall then be required a majority vote of the elected membership. In any event, such motions shall alternatively be passed by unanimous consent of the body.

(f) In the event a motion to indefinitely postpone a bill is made before the bill is read on General File, such motion shall require the affirmative vote of a majority of the elected members.

(g) In the event a bill has become substantially a new and different bill by reason of amendments having been adopted, the Speaker may refer said bill to the Reference Committee who must refer the said bill to a proper committee for a public hearing; Provided, that a majority of the elected members may overrule the decision of the Speaker.

(h) If, in the opinion of the Speaker, the bill is in such form that it should properly be referred back to committee for further action, he or she may by order direct the same; Provided, that a majority of the elected members may overrule the decision of the Speaker. Any motion to amend a bill or any motion to amend an amendment shall require a majority vote of the elected members.

Sec. 13. Certificates. Whenever the Legislature shall override a line-item veto, on any bill as provided for in Article IV, Section 15, the Clerk of the Legislature shall cause to be placed on such bill a certificate in content and form as provided for in RRS 84-503 and shall list the items so overridden by section, page, and line.

In addition to such certificate, the Clerk of the Legislature shall note on each line, when the Legislature votes to override, a stamp reading "line-item veto overridden" and place thereon the date and his or her initials.

Sec. 14. Appropriations Bills, Procedure After Veto. (a) Whenever the Governor shall have vetoed more than one item in an appropriation bill, the Appropriations Committee shall review said veto and the Chairperson of the Appropriations Committee shall report within one legislative day to the Legislature on it's fiscal implications, and affect on operations. The Legislature shall remain in session until it shall adjourn sine die, but in no event shall it remain in session for longer than ninety (90) legislative days in odd-numbered years or sixty (60) legislative days in even-numbered years. Introduction of bills. Rule 6, Section 1.

(B) Voting Machine

Sec. 2. Voting, Electric Roll Call. (a) All votes shall be taken viva voca unless otherwise provided for herein. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to wit: "Those who are in favor of the question say 'aye'; those who are opposed to the question say 'nay.' "

(b) If a machine vote is called for or if the presiding officer is in doubt, he or she shall cause the result to be obtained by means of the electric roll call system, and in such event shall accept only machine tallied votes except that voice votes shall be accepted on a motion before the house while the house is under call. The presiding officer may vote by voice. Only the totals shall be printed in the Journal. Once having voted aye or nay, senators may call in a change to not voting prior to the locking of the voting board.

(c) Upon the final passage of a bill, or of a resolution if the same required the same consideration as a bill, the vote shall be by yeas and nays, and the electric roll call system shall be used. Voice votes shall be accepted on Final Reading.

(d) Whenever the "ayes" and "nays" are taken by machine vote, no member shall be permitted to vote after the decision is announced by the presiding officer or the Clerk. Votes not registered on the electric roll call system shall not be counted for or against a proposition. In announcing such vote, the Clerk shall announce the ayes, the nays, those present and not voting, those absent and not voting, and those excused and not voting, and on any action to advance or amend bills, these totals shall be set forth in the Journal. Voice votes shall be accepted on roll call or record votes. All roll call votes of the comprised membership shall be taken in alphabetical order starting with the first name that begins with the letter "A" or the letter closest to "A," except that any member may request a roll call vote in reverse alphabetical order unless the introducer of the motion under consideration objects. A roll call in reverse alphabetical order shall start with the member's name that begins with "Z" or the letter closest to "Z."

(e) Only senators physically in the legislative chamber may vote.

(C) Motions

Sec. 3. Motion, in Writing, Withdrawal. (a) A motion shall be either stated by the presiding officer or read by the Clerk before a vote is taken. All motions shall be submitted in writing if requested by the presiding officer or any senator.

Once motions are stated they may be withdrawn or modified by the mover before a decision, amendment, or ordering of a vote has been made. A motion to reconsider may be withdrawn only with unanimous consent or a majority vote of the elected members.

When a question is under debate, no motion shall be considered except one of the following, which motions shall take precedence in the order stated.

a. To recess
b. To adjourn
c. For cloture
d. To reconsider
e. For the previous question
f. To postpone to a time certain
g. To recommit to a committee
h. To amend
i. To postpone indefinitely

Such motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged, except that motions to postpone indefinitely and amend do not yield to each other.

When any of the following motions shall be made, any action on such motion shall be delayed at least one legislative day and the motion shall be printed in the Legislative Journal:

a. Motion to postpone indefinitely on General File or Select File, unless the introducer(s) of the bill, or the committee chairperson in the case of committee bills, request(s) that the motion to postpone indefinitely be considered immediately without the one day delay.
b. Motion to place on General File pursuant to Rule 3, Section 19(b).
c. Motion to place bills on General File, notwithstanding the action of a standing committee.

(b) When a motion or other proposition is under consideration, a motion to amend and a motion to amend that amendment shall be in order.

(c) Amendments to the title shall be made by the Enrollment and Review Committee.

(d) No motion, proposition, or subject, different from that under consideration, shall be admitted under color of amendment. Any amendment that is not germane is out of order. Germane amendments relate only to details of the specific subject of the bill and must be in a natural and logical sequence to the subject matter of the original proposal. A nongermane amendment includes one that relates to a substantially different subject.

(e) Any member may call for the division of a question, which shall be divided if it comprehends propositions in substance so distinct that, one being taken away, a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the Legislature. Once a division is ordered by the presiding officer, each component shall be treated as a separate and distinct proposition. For purposes of germaneness, even if a question is germane prior to a request for division, each and every other component or proposition of the divided question will be subject to germaneness rulings. Once a vote or change has occurred on any of the divisible questions, the remaining divided sections may not be withdrawn without a majority of those voting or without unanimous consent. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible, but a motion to strike out being lost, shall not preclude an amendment or a motion to strike out or insert. Such call for division shall not be allowed when considering motions under Rule 6, Section 6.

(f) When motions are made for reference of the same subject to a select committee and to a standing committee, the question on reference to the standing committee shall be considered first.

Sec. 4. Shall the Debate Cease. The previous question shall be in this form, "Shall the debate now close?"

The previous question shall be made only in the normal course of speaking order and shall be in order when demanded by five or more members, and must be sustained by the vote of a majority of the elected members, and until decided shall, except as provided in this section of this rule, preclude further debate and all amendments and motions, except one motion to adjourn. The presiding officer may rule the previous question out of order if in the presiding officer's opinion a full and fair debate has not been afforded, due to the complexity of the subject matter. The ruling of the presiding officer shall be subject to overrule in accordance with Rule 1, Section 12 of these rules.

On a previous question there shall be no debate. All incidental questions of order, arising after a motion is made for a previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

When the previous question shall have been ordered on a proposition under debate, the mover, proponent, or introducer of such proposition shall be given the right to close the debate thereon.

After a motion to indefinitely postpone a bill has been offered, and the introducer of the motion has made his or her opening remarks on the motion, the principal introducer of the bill shall immediately be permitted to speak for five minutes on such motion.

Sec. 5. Call of the House. (a) A call of the house may be made by any member in the manner following: "I move for a call of the house." The presiding officer shall direct that the board be cleared and the members shall then vote on placing themselves under call. If a majority of the senators present and voting, vote in favor of such a motion, then the Legislature shall be deemed to be under call. Each member present shall indicate his or her presence upon the electric roll call system and shall remain in his or her seat during the call. After the Clerk shall note the names of the absentees, proceedings under the call may be suspended at any time by a majority vote of the members then present, and when so suspended shall not again be ordered on the proposition pending, except by a majority vote of the members elected.

(b) When a member is recognized to close on a motion and requests a call of the house, the time spent waiting for the members to record their presence shall be counted against the member's closing time.

Lieutenant Governor votes only when Legislature equally divided. Rule 1, Section 14.
Voice vote while house under call. Rule 7, Section 2b.

Sec. 6. Postpone to Time Certain. No motion to postpone to a time certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely being decided, shall again be allowed on the same day at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

Sec. 7. Reconsideration. (a) When a question has been decided, it shall be in order for any member voting with the prevailing side, or not voting, to move for a reconsideration thereof. A motion to reconsider must be made on the same day the original question was decided or on the next legislative day, except when it be to reconsider the vote on a bill which lacked the constitutional majority on a Final Reading. In such case, it must be made on the same day the original question was decided or on one of the next three legislative days. A motion to reconsider must be disposed of by the Legislature within five legislative days after making the same or it shall be deemed defeated. If the Legislature shall refuse to reconsider, or upon reconsideration shall affirm its first decision, no further motion to reconsider shall be in order unless by unanimous consent.

Motion to reconsider cannot be withdrawn without leave. Rule 7, Section 3.

(b) Every motion to reconsider shall take preference over all other questions, except a motion to recess, to adjourn, or for cloture.

(c) For its adoption, a motion to reconsider shall require the vote of a majority of the elected members, except:

i Where such motion be to reconsider the vote on a bill which lacked the constitutional majority on a Final Reading, then a three-fifths vote shall be required for adoption.

ii Where such motion be to reconsider the vote on a bill which lacked the constitutional majority on a Final Reading with the emergency clause attached, but which received the constitutional majority with the emergency clause stricken and the purpose of the motion is to again add the emergency clause, then a two-thirds vote of the elected members shall be required for adoption.

iii Where such motion be to reconsider the vote on a motion to pass a bill notwithstanding the objections of the Governor or for override of a line-item veto, then a three-fifths vote shall be required for adoption.

iv Where such motion be to reconsider the vote on a motion to suspend the rules, then a three-fifths vote shall be required for adoption.

(d) For a bill on General File, no motion to reconsider shall be in order until the bill has failed to advance three times; for a bill on Select File, no motion to reconsider shall be in order until the bill has failed to advance two times; for a bill passed on Final Reading, no motion to reconsider shall be in order except by the introducer of the bill, for technical or clarifying amendments.

(e) Whenever a bill is returned from the Governor for further action pursuant to the Legislature's request for such return, motions for reconsideration necessarily incident to opening a bill for further action shall be admitted regardless of the time limitation otherwise imposed by this rule.

Sec. 8. Strike the Enacting Clause. A motion to strike the enacting clause, if adopted, is equivalent to rejection of the bill. It shall not have precedence over a motion to amend nor a motion to indefinitely postpone.

Sec. 9. Motions to Adjourn or Recess. A motion to adjourn shall be in order, except:

a. While a member is speaking.
b. When a motion to adjourn or recess has just been defeated.
c. After the Final Reading of a bill and during roll call thereon.

A motion to adjourn to a time certain shall have precedence over a motion to adjourn. A motion to recess shall take precedence over either of such motions. Successive motions to adjourn or recess are never in order for dilatory purposes.

When a motion to adjourn or recess has been made, the Speaker shall be privileged to speak to the motion prior to any vote on such motion. A motion to adjourn or recess is not debatable.

A motion to adjourn or recess shall be adopted if approved by a majority of members voting.

Sec. 10. Cloture. At any stage of consideration the principal introducer of the bill under consideration, a cointroducer with the consent of the principal introducer, or the chairperson of the committee, if the bill is introduced by that committee, may move for a cloture to the presiding officer after eight hours of debate on the bill at that stage of consideration, except that the appropriation bills introduced by the Appropriations Committee shall be subject to a cloture motion after twelve hours of debate at that stage of consideration. The presiding officer shall immediately recognize such introducer or chairperson and shall then order debate on the pending amendment or motion to cease. A vote on the cloture motion shall be taken immediately. A two-thirds majority of the elected members shall be required for the cloture motion to be successful. A motion for cloture shall be in order except while a member is speaking, and a motion for cloture is not debatable. If the motion for cloture is successful, a vote on the pending matter shall be taken immediately, without debate. If the pending matter is an amendment to an amendment, following a vote on the amendment to the amendment, a vote shall be taken on the original amendment. If the original amendment has been divided, then the vote shall be on the original undivided amendment being considered. Finally, a vote on the advancement of the bill shall be taken.

A motion for cloture shall have precedence over all other motions except a motion to recess or adjourn.

An unsuccessful motion for cloture shall result in the debate on the bill ending for the day. When the Speaker chooses to resume debate on the bill, successive motions for cloture shall not be in order until two additional hours of debate on the bill has occurred.

Sec. 11. Motions and Amendments for Dilatory Purposes. Motions and amendments shall not be filed for dilatory purposes. If more than two amendments and/or motions are offered to a bill or resolution, the principal introducer of the bill or resolution may raise a point of order stating that he or she believes the amendments and/or motions are being used for dilatory purposes. If, in the opinion of the Speaker, the motions and/or amendments are not dilatory, debate on the pending measure shall continue. If the Speaker has reason to believe that one or more of the amendments and/or motions are dilatory, the Speaker shall consult with the principal introducer of the original bill or resolution and the principal introducers of the amendment and/or motions in an attempt to reach an accord as to which amendments and/or motions should be considered by the Legislature. For that purpose, the Speaker may temporarily remove the entire bill or resolution from the agenda. After consultation, the Speaker shall forthwith decide which, if any, amendments and/or motions are dilatory and shall rule such amendments and/or motions out of order. A motion to overrule the chair on any decision made pursuant to this section is not in order except that a ruling of the chair may be challenged by an introducer of amendments and/or motions ruled to be dilatory in which instance the challenge shall be to all amendments and/or motions included in the Speaker's ruling. The consultation and the Speaker's ruling subsequent to consultation provided for in this section, shall in no case result in a bill or resolution being removed from the agenda for more than the current legislative day. Any amendment and/or motion ruled out of order by the Speaker shall not in any form, version, or substance be in order if again offered by any member at the same stage of debate. A motion to overrule the chair after a ruling is out of order.

RULE 8--APPROPRIATIONS PROCESS

Section 1. Purpose. The purpose of this rule is to provide a procedure for the Legislature to develop appropriations for all state agencies, boards, and commissions. Such procedure shall consider the need to (1) continue the services and financial assistance provided by state agencies and programs, (2) restrict the growth in state appropriations, and (3) provide for the efficient and effective use of state revenue by utilizing standing committee subject matter expertise in the review of agency, board, and commission budget requests.

Sec. 2. Appropriations Committee Report. The Legislature's Appropriations Committee, by majority vote of its members, shall annually prepare a report summarizing the recommended total General Fund appropriation for each year of the following biennium. Such report shall include information based upon the committee's initial review of (1) state agency, board, and commission budget requests, (2) the Governor's budget, (3) the estimated revenue receipts for each year of the following biennium, (4) General Fund reserve requirements, (5) express obligations, and (6) economic conditions affecting the State of Nebraska.

Sec. 3. Report, When Required. The report required in Section 2 of this rule shall be printed in the Legislative Journal and presented to each member of the Legislature by the Chairperson of the Appropriations Committee between twenty and thirty legislative days after the Governor presents his or her budget during sessions in odd-numbered years and between fifteen and twenty legislative days after the Governor's budget presentation during session in even-numbered years.

Sec. 4. Standing Committee Appropriations Review. (a) Each standing committee may hold a budget request review hearing on the agency, board, and commission budgets reasonably encompassed in its subject matter jurisdiction. Any such review hearing shall not be held until the Appropriations Committee has held its public hearing on that agency, board, or commission. The chairperson of the standing committee shall coordinate the scheduling of such hearings with the Chairperson of the Appropriations Committee. The standing committee shall obtain a determination from the Executive Board that the budget to be reviewed is within its subject matter jurisdiction. The standing committee may recommend to the Legislature amendments to proposed appropriations.

(b) Standing committee amendments, if any, must be filed by the sixth legislative day following the placement of appropriations bills on General File. Standing committee amendments shall be printed in the Journal and shall be considered by the Legislature no sooner than the eighth legislative day following the placement of the appropriations bills on General File. Standing committee amendments shall be considered by the Legislature after Appropriations Committee amendments but before all other amendments. Standing committee amendments shall be considered in the order of filing.

(c) The Appropriations Committee shall make available to the appropriate standing committee all currently available information at its disposal.

Sec. 5. Bills, Held on Final Reading. The report of the Appropriations Committee shall include a recommended dollar amount of the General Fund biennium appropriation which shall be allocated for the funding of "A" bills, bills that result in the net reduction of revenue to the General Fund, tax expenditure bills, and amendments to the appropriations bills as reported to General File by the Appropriations Committee. During a 90 day session, all "A" bills which, when considered with their companion bill, appropriate general funds resulting in a net loss; all bills resulting in the reduction of revenue to the General Fund; and all tax expenditure bills shall not be read on Final Reading until the appropriations bills are passed by the Legislature. Provided the Appropriations Committee shall place appropriations bills on General File no later than the 70th legislative day in a 90 day session and the 40th legislative day in a 60 day session. If this deadline is not met, the Legislature shall consider the appropriations bills as introduced by the Governor. During a 60 day session, all "A" bills which, when considered with their companion bill, appropriate general funds resulting in a net loss; all bills resulting in the reduction of revenue to the General Fund; all tax expenditure bills; and all appropriations bills shall not be read on Final Reading prior to the 45th legislative day. The appropriations bills shall be passed no later than the 80th legislative day in a 90 day session and the 50th legislative day in a 60 day session. The appropriations provided for in an "A" bill shall be for not less than two fiscal years.

Sec. 6. Bill, Setting Tax Rates. The Legislature's tax rate bill shall be passed no later than the 85th legislative day in a 90 day session and the 55th legislative day in a 60 day session.

RULE 9--SPECIAL SESSIONS

Section 1. Purpose. The purpose of this rule is to establish special procedures for the Legislature to utilize during a special session. This rule recognizes the necessity of the Legislature to address the business for which it is called together in an expeditious and fair fashion and provides that certain legislative procedures established for regular sessions shall not unduly burden the activities of the Legislature during a special session.

Sec. 2. Convening of the Legislature. Pursuant to the directive contained in the proclamation issued by the Governor, either upon the concurrence of two-thirds of the members of the Legislature according to the procedure established by section 50-125 or upon the call of the Governor under the authority of Article IV, section 8, of the Nebraska Constitution, the Legislature shall convene in special session. The first item of business shall be the introduction of bills and resolutions, both of which shall be numbered consecutively beginning with the number one. Bills and resolutions offered by the Speaker at the request of the Governor or offered pursuant to the statement filed with the Secretary of State and agreed to by two-thirds of the members of the Legislature shall be introduced ahead of all other proposals. After introduction, all bills and resolutions shall be handled in the manner provided in this rule. Bills shall be introduced only during the first three days of the session. Resolutions which are not considered and adopted in the same manner as bills may be introduced at any time during the session.

Sec. 3. Resolution Considered as a Bill. Resolutions which propose amendments to the state constitution, propose the ratification or rejection of amendments to the federal Constitution, or memorialize the Congress with regard to amendments to the U.S. Constitution, shall be considered and adopted in the same manner as bills.

Sec. 4. Committee Hearings. Within one legislative day following the introduction of bills and resolutions, or pronouncement of a gubernatorial appointment, the Reference Committee shall review each bill, resolution, and gubernatorial appointment and refer the matter to the appropriate standing committee. The committee to which the bill, resolution, or gubernatorial appointment is referred shall provide as much public notice of the time and place of the hearing on the matter as is reasonable under the circumstances by publication in the Legislative Journal, but in no case shall the hearing be more than five calendar days after the date the bill, resolution, or gubernatorial appointment has been referred to the committee.

Sec. 5. Report of Bill or Resolution to Legislature. The committee to which a bill or resolution has been referred shall make a report on the bill or resolution to the Legislature within twenty-four hours after the committee has taken final action on the matter. If, at the expiration of twenty-four hours from the time final action was taken, the chairperson has not reported the bill or resolution, any senator may file with the Speaker a motion that the chairperson be compelled to submit a report. After determining that final action on the bill or resolution has been taken at least twenty-four hours prior to the time the motion was submitted, the Speaker shall accept the motion and compel the chairperson to file the committee's report on the matter.

Sec. 6. Indefinitely Postponed Bills and Resolutions. If the committee action on a bill or resolution is to postpone indefinitely, the bill shall stand indefinitely postponed, except that such bill or resolution may be placed on General File or referred back to the committee by a majority vote of the elected members. Not more than one bill or resolution shall be raised from committee on any one motion. A motion to raise shall not be amended to include any other bill, resolution, or subject matter. A motion to raise shall take precedence in order over all other motions, except a motion to adjourn.

Sec. 7. Bills and Resolutions Held by Committee. If the committee has not taken final action on a bill or resolution within two days after the committee hearing, any senator may move that the bill or resolution be placed on General File. If a majority of the elected members vote in favor of the motion, the bill shall be placed on General File.

Sec. 8. Pending Proposals Indefinitely Postponed. At the conclusion of a special session, all bills and resolutions which have not been enacted shall stand indefinitely postponed and shall not carry over to the next legislative session.

Sec. 9. Rules Controlling When Conflict Exists. When a conflict exists between the provisions of this rule and other provisions of the Rules of the Nebraska Legislature, the provisions of this rule shall apply.

RULE 10--ELECTION CONTESTS AND QUALIFICATIONS CHALLENGES

Section 1. Election Contests and Qualifications Challenges. (a) An election contest shall place in issue only the validity of the results of an election of a member to the Unicameral Legislature. An election contest shall only determine which candidate was properly elected to the Legislature and shall be seated.

(b) A qualifications challenge shall place in issue only the qualifications of a person elected as a member of the Legislature under the Constitution. A qualifications challenge shall only determine whether a person elected to the Legislature is qualified to hold or retain the seat.

(c) Election contests and qualifications challenges shall be brought and conducted as provided in these rules.

(d) Each election contest and qualifications challenge filed with the Clerk shall be referred by the Clerk to the Reference Committee, who in turn shall refer the matter to a specially created committee to consider such contest or challenge. The committee shall consist of an odd number of members, shall have a minimum of five members and shall consist of members appointed by the Executive Board. The chairperson of such committee shall be appointed by the Executive Board.

(e) The special committee may adopt rules to govern election contests and qualifications challenges, provided that such committee rules must be consistent with these rules, must be filed with the Clerk within twenty-four hours of adoption, and must be made available to all parties and to the public.

Sec. 2. Initiating Election Contests. (a) Election contests may be brought only by an unsuccessful candidate.

(b) Election contests may be brought only by the procedures and within the time limits established by the Nebraska statutes. Notice of intention to contest shall be served on the person certified as elected to the Legislature from the representative district within the time limits established by law.

(c) Within forty days following the general election contested, each contestant shall file with the Clerk of the Legislature a petition of election contest and shall serve such petition on the purported winner. A petition of election contest shall allege the contestant's qualifications to bring the contest and to serve as a member of the Legislature, that he/she alleges that a mistake, violation of election laws, or fraud was committed in specified precincts in the counting, return or canvass of the votes or that some other specified irregularity occurred in the conduct of the election in specified precincts. A petition of election contest shall contain a prayer specifying the relief requested and the precincts in which a recount or other inquiry is desired. A petition of election contest shall be verified by affidavit swearing to the belief that the allegations are true, and shall be accompanied by proof of service on all respondents.

(d) A petition of contest may not be amended to cure a defect under the statutory requirements. A petition of election contest, if filed and served subsequent to the notice of intention to contest, may not raise points not expressed in the notice.

Sec. 3. Initiating Qualifications Challenges. (a) Qualifications challenges may be brought only by an unsuccessful candidate.

(b) Qualifications challenges must be brought within forty days following the general election contested.

(c) A qualifications challenge shall be brought by filing a petition of qualifications challenge with the Clerk, and by serving a copy of the petition on the purported winner. The petition must be accompanied by proof of personal service upon the respondent member and must be verified by affidavit swearing to the truth of the allegations or based upon information and belief. A petition of qualifications challenge shall set forth the grounds on which the respondent member is alleged to be constitutionally unqualified, the qualifications of the petitioner to bring the challenge, and a prayer for relief.

Sec. 4. Contests and Challenges - Due Process. (a) Election contests and qualifications challenges shall be heard and determined as expeditiously as possible under adversary procedures wherein each party to the proceedings has a reasonable opportunity to present his claim, any defense and arguments, and to respond to those of his opponents. All parties may be represented by counsel.

(b) Election contests and qualifications challenges shall be heard and determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of the Nebraska statutes, the Nebraska Constitution, and the United States Constitution. Judicial decisions which bear on a point of law in a contest or challenge shall be admissible in the arguments of the parties and the deliberations and decisions of the committee. Judicial decisions applicable to a point of law or to a fact situation to the committee shall be given weight as precedent.

(c) The committee shall give notice of all rules, timetables or deadlines adopted by the committee. Notice under this subsection shall be in writing and shall be given either personally with receipt, or by certified mail (return receipt requested) addressed to the party at his or her place of residence and to his or her attorney of record at his or her office if so requested by the party.

Sec. 5. Committee Proceedings and Powers in Contests and Challenges. (a) All proceedings of the committee concerning election contests and qualifications challenges may be recorded and transcribed. Copies of the transcript shall be made available to the members of the committee and to the parties.

(b) The committee may dismiss an election contest or qualifications challenge, or may determine to proceed to a recount or other inquiry. The committee may limit the issues to be determined in a contest or challenge, except that where a recount is conducted in an election contest, any precinct timely requested by any party to be recounted shall be recounted by the committee.

(c) In conducting inquiries, investigations and recounts in election contests and qualifications challenges, the committee shall have the power to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers, ballots, documents and records, by subpoena signed by the chairperson of the committee as provided by Rule 3, Section 20. In conducting proceedings in election contests and qualifications challenges, the committee may utilize the legislative powers to gather information as provided by Rule 3, Section 20.

(d) The committee may allow any person authorized to take depositions of any necessary witnesses, as may be permitted by law. In recounting the ballots in any election contest, however, no person other than a member of the committee or officer of the Legislature shall handle any ballots, tally sheets, or other election materials without the consent of the committee. The responsibility for the actual recounting of ballots may not be delegated.

(e) The committee shall maintain a record of proceedings in every election contest and qualifications challenge. Such record shall include all notices and pleadings, roll call votes, all reports and dissents, and all documents which were admitted into the proceeding. The committee shall file the record with the Clerk of the Legislature upon the adoption of its final report. The record shall then be available for examination in the Clerk's office.

(f) With the approval of the Executive Board, the committee may employ staff assistants to include clerks, court reporters, professional staff and other personnel as deemed necessary.

Sec. 6. Adoption of Reports in Contests and Challenges. (a) All final decisions of the committee regarding an election contest or qualification challenge shall be reported in writing to the Legislature, and approved by a majority of the members of the committee. Reports shall include a specific recommendation to the Legislature as to the disposition of the contest or challenge.

(b) Any member of the committee may file a dissent from a report of the committee, a minority report, or a special concurrence with the majority report or with any minority report.

(c) Reports of the committee shall be filed with the Clerk of the Legislature, printed and placed on the members' desks, along with any dissents, minority reports or special concurrences. The report shall be listed on the agenda under the heading "Report of Election Contest" or "Report of Qualifications Challenge." The report as filed with the Clerk, shall not be considered for two legislative days prior to any consideration by the Legislature.

(d) The Legislature shall adopt the majority report or a minority report in an election contest or qualifications challenge or shall refuse to adopt any report filed and re-refer the contest or challenge to the committee for further proceedings or for a modified report. Reports as filed by the committee are non-amendable. If the Legislature fails to adopt a report, the matter shall automatically be rereferred to committee for further consideration.

(e) Each party to a contest or challenge may file with the Clerk of the Legislature within 15 days of the filing of the final report a detailed statement of attorney's fees and expenses incurred by said party in connection with the case. The committee shall make recommendations to the Legislature concerning reimbursement of attorney's fees and the expenses of the parties. Such recommendation shall not exceed a sum that is reasonable, just and proper.

THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION, RESOLVE THAT:

Section 1. At the general election in November 1996 the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval or rejection:

To repeal Article III, sections 2 through 4, and to add new sections 1 through 7 to a new Article XVIII entitled "Initiatives and Referendums":

XVIII-1 "The first power reserved by the people is the initiative by which laws may be enacted and constitutional amendments adopted by the people independently of the Legislature. This power may be invoked by petition wherein the proposed measure shall be set forth at length. If the petition is for the enactment of a law, it shall be signed by registered voters of the state equal in number to at least twelve percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. If the petition is for the amendment of this Constitution, the petition shall be signed by registered voters equal in number to at least eighteen percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The distribution of the registered voters signing a petition for a law or a constitutional amendment shall include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state, and when thus signed, the petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State who shall submit the measure thus proposed to the electors of the state at the first general election held not less than four months after such petition has been filed. The same measure, either in form or in essential substance, shall not be submitted to the people by initiative petition, either affirmatively or negatively, more often than once in three years. If conflicting measures submitted to the people at the same election are approved, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall become law as to all conflicting provisions. The constitutional limitations as to the scope and subject matter of statutes enacted by the Legislature shall apply to those enacted by the initiative. The special challenges of relying solely on volunteer uncompensated petition circulators is explicitly recognized. To accommodate these special challenges, petition signatures gathered by volunteer uncompensated circulators shall be granted a tabulation bonus of one additional signature counted for each valid signature submitted. For purposes of this section, volunteer uncompensated circulator means a person who does not receive compensation for collecting signatures other than reimbursement for travel and meals."

XVIII-2 "The second power reserved by the people is the referendum which may be invoked by petition against any act or part of an act of the Legislature, except those making appropriations for the expense of the state government or a state institution existing at the time of the passage of such act. Petitions invoking the referendum shall be signed by registered voters of the state equal in number to at least ten percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition, distributed as required for initiative petitions, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State within ninety days after the Legislature at which the act sought to be referred was passed has adjourned sine die or for more than ninety days. Such petition shall set out the title of the act against which the referendum is invoked and, in addition thereto, when only a portion of the act is sought to be referred, the number of the section or sections or portion of sections of the act designating such portion. When the referendum is thus invoked, the Secretary of State shall refer the same to the electors for approval or rejection at the first general election held not less than thirty days after the filing of such petition.

When the referendum is invoked as to any act or part of an act, other than emergency acts or those for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, by petition signed by registered voters of the state equal in number to at least eighteen percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition, it shall suspend the taking effect of such act or part of act until the same has been approved by the electors of the state. The special challenges of relying solely on volunteer uncompensated petition circulators is explicitly recognized. To accommodate these special challenges, petition signatures gathered by volunteer uncompensated circulators shall be granted a tabulation bonus of one additional signature counted for each valid signature submitted. For purposes of this section, volunteer uncompensated circulator means a person who does not receive compensation for collecting signatures other than reimbursement for travel and meals."

XVIII-3 "The veto power of the Governor shall not extend to measures initiated by or referred to the people.

A measure initiated shall become a law or part of this Constitution, as the case may be, when a majority of the votes cast on the measure, and not less than thirty-five percent of the total vote cast at the election at which the measure was submitted, are cast in favor of the measure, and the measure shall take effect upon proclamation by the Governor which shall be made within ten days after the official canvass of such votes. The vote upon initiative and referendum measures shall be returned and canvassed in the manner prescribed for the canvass of votes for president.

The method of submitting and adopting amendments to this Constitution provided by this section shall be supplementary to the method prescribed in Article XVI of this Constitution, entitled, "Amendments" and the latter shall in no case be construed to conflict with the provisions relating to initiative and referendum. The provisions with respect to the initiative and referendum shall be self-executing, but the Legislature may enact general laws that the Legislature deems necessary to carry out the provisions with respect to the initiative and referendum. Initiative and referendum measures shall be submitted in a nonpartisan manner and without any indication or suggestion on the ballot that they have been approved or endorsed by any political party or organization. Only the title or proper descriptive words of measures shall be printed on the ballot, and when two or more measures have the same title, they shall be numbered consecutively in the order of filing with the Secretary of State and the number shall be followed by the name of the first petitioner on the corresponding petition."

XVIII-4 "The Legislature recognizes that uncertainty exists in the constitutional validity of Article XVIII, sections 1 through 3, of this Constitution. Article XVIII, sections 5 through 7, of this Constitution provide an alternative procedure for initiatives and referendums. If Article XVIII, sections 1 through 3, of this Constitution are held to be unconstitutional in whole or in part by the Nebraska Supreme Court or the United States Supreme Court, upon the date of the court's opinion the provisions of Article XVIII, sections 5 through 7, of this Constitution shall become effective and be given retroactive effect to the effective date of the 1996 constitutional amendment."

independently of the Legislature. To initiate the enactment of a law or the adoption of a constitutional amendment, a petition shall be circulated which contains the entire proposed law or constitutional amendment. The petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State. If the petition is signed by the required number of registered voters appropriately distributed, the Secretary of State shall submit the proposed law or constitutional amendment to the electors of the state at the first general election held not less than four months after the petition is filed. The required number of signatures for a law is at least seven percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The required number of signatures for a constitutional amendment is at least ten percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The distribution of the registered voters signing a petition for a law or a constitutional amendment shall include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state.

The same measure, either in form or in essential substance, shall not be submitted to the people by initiative petition, either affirmatively or negatively, more often than once in three years. If conflicting measures submitted to the people at the same election are approved, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall become law as to all conflicting provisions. The constitutional limitations as to the scope and subject matter of statutes enacted by the Legislature shall apply to those enacted by the initiative."

XVIII-6 "The second power reserved by the people is the referendum which may be invoked by petition against any act or part of an act of the Legislature, except those making appropriations for the expense of the state government or a state institution existing at the time of the passage of such act. To refer an act or part of an act of the Legislature, a petition shall be circulated which sets out the title of the act against which the referendum is invoked and, if only a portion of the act is sought to be referred, the number of the section or sections or portion of sections of the act designating such portion. The petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State within ninety days after the Legislature at which the act sought to be referred was passed has adjourned sine die or for more than ninety days. If the petition is signed by the required number of registered voters appropriately distributed, the Secretary of State shall refer the act or the part of the act to the electors for approval or rejection at the first general election to be held not less than thirty days after the filing of the petition. The required number of signatures is at least five percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The distribution of the registered voters signing a referendum petition shall include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state.

When the referendum is invoked as to any act or part of act, other than emergency acts or those for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, by petition signed by registered voters equal in number to at least ten percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition, distributed so as to include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state, it shall suspend the taking effect of such act or part of act until the same has been approved by the electors of the state."

XVIII-7 "The veto power of the Governor shall not extend to measures initiated by or referred to the people.

A measure initiated shall become a law or part of this Constitution, as the case may be, when a majority of the votes cast on the measure, and not less than thirty-five percent of the total vote cast at the election at which the measure was submitted, are cast in favor of the measure, and the measure shall take effect upon proclamation by the Governor which shall be made within ten days after the official canvass of the votes. The vote upon initiative and referendum measures shall be returned and canvassed in the manner prescribed for the canvass of votes for president.

The method of submitting and adopting amendments to this Constitution provided by this section shall be supplementary to the method prescribed in Article XVI of this Constitution, entitled, "Amendments" and the latter shall not be construed to conflict with the provisions relating to initiative and referendum. The provisions with respect to the initiative and referendum shall be self-executing, but the Legislature may enact general laws that the Legislature deems necessary to carry out the provisions with respect to the initiative and referendum. Initiative and referendum measures shall be submitted in a nonpartisan manner and without any indication or suggestion on the ballot that they have been approved or endorsed by any political party or organization. Only the title or proper descriptive words of measures shall be printed on the ballot, and when two or more measures have the same title, they shall be numbered consecutively in the order of filing with the Secretary of State and the number shall be followed by the name of the first petitioner on the corresponding petition."

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 52. Introduced by Crosby, 29; Wesely, 26; Warner, 25; Beutler, 28; Hudkins, 21; Maurstad, 30.

WHEREAS, a mailing address in the State of Nebraska has been utilized by certain Nebraska residents and other persons to conduct an activity involving the production and dissemination in the United States and abroad of Nazi and neo-Nazi propaganda and paraphernalia; and

WHEREAS, this activity has gained international attention and has caused people in this country and countries abroad to associate the State of Nebraska with these kinds of discredited, discriminatory, and undemocratic ideas and doctrines; and

WHEREAS, because the Nebraska Legislature is convinced that citizens of this state oppose the hateful ideas and doctrines of National Socialism (for the overthrow of which two hundred thousand Americans gave their lives), the Nebraska Legislature wishes to go on record as completely disassociating the State of Nebraska from the activity of such individual or individuals.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That, although the Nebraska Legislature recognizes the rights of individuals in this country to freely speak their minds and to disseminate their ideas under the First Amendment of the United States Constitution, the Nebraska Legislature hereby expresses its firm and unwaivering disagreement with the concepts of Nazism and neo-Nazism and its embarrassment over the good name of the State of Nebraska being in any way associated with the production and dissemination of material favoring such ideas and doctrines.

2. That the Nebraska Legislature hereby officially disassociates the State of Nebraska from the activities of all individuals engaged in the publication or dissemination of Nazi or neo-Nazi propaganda or paraphernalia from or within its state boundaries and expresses its opposition to such activities.

3. The Clerk of the Legislature shall send a copy of this resolution to the Embassy of the Federal Republic of Germany in Washington, D.C., and to Nebraska's United States Congressional Delegation.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 90. Introduced by Bernard-Stevens, 42

WHEREAS, a trend has started in which states are competing with each other by offering economic incentives to lure companies to their region; and

WHEREAS, businesses are creating adversarial roles between states in an effort to retrieve the most beneficial economic incentive package; and

WHEREAS, the economic incentives offered by states are creating a corporate aid system and undermining tax bases; and

WHEREAS, each state has unique characteristics, such as location, infrastructure, educational institutions, work ethic, and natural resources, and should not be compelled to offer economic incentives to compete for business recruitment or expansion.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Legislature recognizes the problems created in the competition between states in offering economic incentives and asks other states to recognize this negative adversarial role.

2. That the State of Nebraska encourages all states, the National Conference of State Legislatures, the Council of State Governments, and the National Governor's Association to call for a moratorium of such economic competition.

3. That a copy of this resolution shall be sent to the United States Secretary of Labor, the Governor of each state, and the president of each above-named organization.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 93CA. Introduced by Revenue Committee: Warner, 25, Chairperson; Coordsen, 32; Hartnett, 45; Kristensen, 37; Landis, 46; Schellpeper, 18; Wickersham, 49; Will, 8.

THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION, RESOLVE THAT:

Section 1. At the general election in November 1996 the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval or rejection:

(f) Ad valorem property taxes for the operation of rural or suburban fire protection districts or other entities created under the law of the state for purposes of fire protection shall not exceed ten cents per one hundred dollars of the actual market value of the property subject to a levy;

WHEREAS, the right of all nations to national self-determination is a well-established democratic principle under international law; and

WHEREAS, Ireland, one of the oldest civilizations in the world, has historically been prevented from the free exercise of the right to national self-determination; and

WHEREAS, the Members of the Legislature of the State of Nebraska, through this body, express their commitment to the principles of equality, justice, peace, and freedom.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Legislature recognizes the need to demilitarize the conflict in the North of Ireland in order to encourage further progress in the Irish Peace Process based upon democratic principles.

2. That the Legislature calls upon the governments of Ireland and Great Britain to take all steps necessary to begin negotiations along democratic lines with all parties to the conflict without preconditions, in order to provide a framework for the realization of national self-determination for the people of Ireland as a whole.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 95051

DATE: June 20, 1995

REQUESTED BY: Senator George Coordsen

WRITTEN BY: Don Stenberg, Attorney General
Paul N. Potadle, Assistant Attorney General

SUBJECT: The policy of the Department of Motor Vehicles regarding the issuance of single license plates to owners of self-propelled mobile homes.

QUESTION:

(1) Do self-propelled mobile homes fall within statutory exceptions to the two-plate requirement in Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-311(1) (1993)?

ANSWER:

No. The statutes clearly distinguish between self-propelled mobile homes and towed trailers.

Self-propelled mobile homes do not fall within the statutory exception to Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-311(1) (1993). Under this statute, "The Department of Motor Vehicles shall furnish to every person whose motor vehicle is registered two fully reflectorized number plates, except that only one plate shall be issued to dealers or for motorcycles, truck-tractors, semitrailers, and buses. . . . " Self-propelled mobile homes are not included in the list of vehicles excepted from receiving two license plates. Further, the relevant definitional statutes clearly distinguish between self-propelled mobile homes and towed semitrailers: "(20) Self-propelled mobile home shall mean a vehicle with motive power designed for living quarters . . . (21) Semitrailer shall mean any vehicle without motive power designed for carrying persons or property and for being drawn by a motor vehicle and so constructed that some part of its weight and that of its load rests upon or is carried by the towing vehicle." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-301 (1993).

Based on this statutory distinction, we conclude that self-propelled mobile homes are not included in the list of exceptions to Neb. Rev. Stat. 60-311(1) (1993).

QUESTION:

(2) Does the Department of Motor Vehicles have the authority to treat, through department rule, regulation, or policy, self-propelled mobile homes in a manner similar to towed trailers and thus avoid the requirements of Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-311(1)?

ANSWER:

No. The Department of Motor Vehicles has no authority outside of that conferred by statute or by a construction necessary to implement the plain meaning of the statute.

We have already concluded that self-propelled mobile homes are not of the same classification as towed semitrailers, and are not exempt from receiving two license plates. Self-propelled mobile homes are, however, motor vehicles, as motor vehicles are defined in Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-301(14) (1993), which defines a motor vehicle as "any vehicle propelled by any power other than muscular", and which excludes mobile homes from the following list of exceptions. (See also Opinion Attorney General No. 168, dated November 8, 1979).

The statutes governing the registration of motor vehicles uniformly require the Department of Motor Vehicles to issue two plates to any motor vehicle not included in the list of exceptions in Neb. Rev. Stat. 60-311(1) (1993), quoted above. Under Neb. Rev. Stat. 60-311(.02) (1993), "{w}hen two registration plates are issued, one shall be prominently displayed at all times on the front and one on the rear of the registered vehicle. When only one plate is issued, it shall be prominently displayed on the rear of the registered vehicle. . . ." Section 60-323 restates this rule: "Except as otherwise specifically provided, no person shall operate, drive, or park or cause to be operated, driven, or parked a motor vehicle on the public highways unless such vehicle at all times has displayed one number plate on the back thereof and one number plate on the front thereof, which plates shall be furnished for it as hereinbefore provided." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-323 (1993).

As we stated in an earlier opinion, these statutes grant the Department of Motor Vehicles the "authority and responsibility for administering and enforcing the registration and licensing system in this state." Opinion Attorney General No. 256 (dated March 14, 1980). This authority, however, is not absolute. "An administrative body has no power or authority other than that specifically conferred by statute or by a construction necessary to accomplish the plain purpose of the act. . ." Opinion Attorney General No. 87104 (dated October 22, 1987) (quoting Nebraska Association of Public Employees v. Game and Parks Commission, 220 Neb. 883, 884-885, 374 N.W.2d 46, 48 (1985)).

Further, an agency practice that contravenes a state statute will not prevail over the statute, regardless of the length of time the practice has been in use:

> "In general, administrative interpretations, although not given the force of statutory authority or law, are entitled to consideration and weight, particularly where the interpretation has been long-continued. However, mere usage alone cannot be invoked to invest administrative agencies with authority or powers not clearly within their legislative grant. . . it must be remembered that the plain provisions of a statute cannot be altered by administrative action . . ."

Opinion Attorney General No. 85 (dated April 17, 1981) (citing Nishnabotna valley Rural Elec. Coop. v. Iowa P. and L. Co., 161 N.W.2d 348 (1968), (italics added).

The Department of Motor Vehicles issues a single license plate to both self-propelled mobile homes and towed trailers, as stated in a departmental memo describing the classifications of Nebraska license plates. However, Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-311(1) (1993) does not include self-propelled mobile homes in its delineation of vehicles not required to display two license plates. Had the legislature wished to include self-propelled mobile homes in this list of exceptions, the legislature could have done so when drafting the law. The plain meaning of this statute, and of those stated above, is that self-propelled mobile homes are motor vehicles which must display two license plates, as must all other motor vehicles which are not motorcycles, truck-tractors, semitrailers, or buses. Under the legal authority stated above, the Department of Motor Vehicles may not alter the provisions of the statute, either by administrative interpretation or by virtue of its practice of issuing one license plate to self-propelled mobile homes rather than two.

QUESTION:

(3) If the department policy is in violation of state statute, must county officials comply with department policy and refuse to issue the second plate at the time of registration?

ANSWER:

No. License plates are generally distributed by the county treasurer, an elected official who would not be charged with following the instructions of the Department of Motor Vehicles to issue only one plate at the time of registration.

The laws of Nebraska infer but do not expressly state that the county treasurer is the county official usually charged with the distribution of new license plates. It is the duty of each county to carry out the registration of motor vehicles. Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-311.01 (1993). The county treasurer, or designated county official, acts as an agent for the Department of Motor Vehicles in the collection of motor vehicle registration fees. Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-326.01 (1993). All registration fees are to be paid to the county treasurer or designated county official. Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-318 (1993). Further, the county treasurer or designated county official furnishes certificates of registration, Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-312 (1993), and collects fees when new license plates are issued, Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-311. As the county treasurer is charged with these aspects of registration, it follows that the county treasurer also distributes license plates at the time of registration.

Although § 60-326.01 states that the county treasurer, or designated county official, acts as the agent of the Department of Motor Vehicles in the collection of fees, the county treasurer is an elected county official, Neb. Rev. Stat. § 23-1601.01, and not an employee of the Department of Motor Vehicles. As an elected official, the county treasurer is not required to follow the directions of the D.M.V. to issue only one plate; by law, the county treasurer is required only to "receive all money belonging to the county, from whatsoever source derived, and all other money which is by law directed to be paid to him or her." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 23-160(1) (1993). Therefore, the county treasurer need not comply with the directive of the Department of Motor Vehicles and issue only one plate to owners of self-propelled mobile homes.

If, however, the Department of Motor Vehicles has only ordered one license plate for a particular vehicle, the county treasurer or designated county official will have only one plate to issue.

QUESTION:

(4) If the department policy is in violation of state statute, in view of department policy prohibiting the issuance of two reflectorized license plates, what recourse would a state citizen have when cited under § 60-323?

ANSWER:

Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-311.02 requires the recipients of two license plates to display one on the front and one on the rear of the registered vehicle. Recipients of a single plate are to display it on the rear of the registered vehicle. Violations of this section are addressed by Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-348 (1993). It is our understanding that a violation of § 60-311.02 results in a Class III misdemeanor. Therefore the situation might arise where a citizen could be cited for violating § 60-311.02 and be charged with a Class III misdemeanor.

However, it should be pointed out that the defense of impossibility may be available to the motorist charged under Nebraska's criminal statutes. As previously stated, if the Department of Motor Vehicles has only ordered one license plate for a particular vehicle, then the citizen can only display one plate.

Sincerely yours,
DON STENBERG
Attorney General

DATE: July 10, 1995

SUBJECT: Effect and Correction of Improper Internal References in Constitutional Amendments Imposing Term Limits; Authority of the Secretary of State to Correct Technical Errors While Printing Constitutional Amendments Approved by the People.

REQUESTED BY: Scott Moore
Nebraska Secretary of State

Dale A. Comer, Assistant Attorney General

At the general election in November, 1994, the people of the State of Nebraska approved amendments to the Nebraska Constitution which impose term limits on various state and federal officials. Those term limit amendments were proposed by means of an initiative petition effort by the people.

On December 13, 1994, we issued Op. Att'y Gen. No. 94099 to Governor Nelson in which we discussed certain aspects of the term limits initiative process, and insertion of those term limits amendments into the Nebraska Constitution. Specifically, Governor Nelson noted that the petition language implementing constitutional term limits which was approved by Nebraska voters contains some technical errors with regard to the placement of appropriate constitutional sections, and that those errors have been acknowledged by the individuals who drafted the original initiative petition. Governor Nelson then asked whether those technical errors could be corrected, and who had proper legal authority to cure them. We concluded that the Governor did not have such authority in connection with his duties to proclaim election results under the Nebraska Statutes. However, we also concluded that the technical errors could be corrected by your office and by the Revisor of Statutes in connection with your respective duties regarding the printing of constitutional amendments initiated by the people.

In your opinion request letter, you state that you are "uneasy about changing constitutional provisions, however minor those changes may seem, that were voted on by the citizens of this state without clear precedent that such changes are permitted." Therefore, you have now posed a number of questions to us regarding how the amendments in question should be printed, and regarding the effects of certain

"grandfathering" provisions in the amendments themselves. We will respond to each of your various questions in turn.

The technical errors at issue involve the amendments approved for Art. III, § 8, Art. IV, § 3 and Art. VII, § 15 of the Nebraska Constitution, which generally impose term limits upon Nebraska legislators, state constitutional officers and state educational officers. In each of those amendments, the term limiting paragraph ends with language which makes the officer in question unable to serve in or ineligible to file for the office involved for a specified period after the expiration of the second of two consecutive terms "and as further provided in Article XV Section 20." Article XV, Section 20 of the Nebraska Constitution, as amended through the same petition effort in November, 1994, applies to federal officers. Article XV, Section 21 of the 1994 petition amendments, on the other hand, applies to state officers. As a result, it appears clear that the reference to "Article XV Section 20" in the amendments petition at issue should actually be a reference to "Article XV Section 21."

There is also an additional technical error in the November, 1994, initiative measure which we pointed out in Opinion No. 94099. The latter portion of the initiative petition purports to amend Article XV of the Nebraska Constitution by adding new Sections 19, 20, 21 and 22. However, there is currently an existent Section 19 in Article XV of the Nebraska Constitution which deals with local liquor licenses. Therefore, Sections 19, 20, 21 and 22 in Article XV of the initiative petition must be renumbered when they are placed in the Constitution as Sections 20, 21, 22 and 23, respectively. We indicated in Opinion No. 94099 that you clearly have authority to make that change in numbering as the amendments are printed, since the initiative petition in question itself states in its preamble that: THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF NEBRASKA SHALL BE AMENDED AS INDICATED; OR PLACED IN ARTICLES AND SECTIONS AS DETERMINED BY COMPETENT AUTHORITY OF THE STATE AS FOLLOWS. (emphasis added). That change will necessitate a further change in numbering in the paragraphs involving the other technical errors discussed above.

We will now discuss each of the questions which you posed to us.

1. "Is it your opinion that this is the appropriate change for {Art. II, § 8 of the Nebraska Constitution in light of the technical errors noted above}: No person shall be eligible to file for election to or to serve as a member of the Legislature for a period of four years after the expiration of the second of two consecutive terms for which they were previously elected and as further provided in Article XV Section 22?"

We believe that the language stated in your question No. 1 is the appropriate correction for Art. III, § 8. As noted above, the section of Article XV referenced at the end of Art. III, § 8 would have to be corrected in any event from the language in the initiative petition, given the continued existence of a Section 19 in Article XV. For the reasons stated in our earlier opinion to the Governor, we believe that you have the authority to make an additional correction in printing the Constitution so that the language in Art. III, § 8 references the subsequent constitutional provision dealing with state officers as opposed to the subsequent constitutional provision dealing with federal officers.

2. "While I agree that such a change would accomplish what I personally feel was the sponsors' and probably the voters' intent, does making such a change {as outlined in question 1 above} run contrary to the decision in Omaha National Bank vs. Spire where the court stated, 'We hold that the intent of the voters adopting an initiative amendment to the Nebraska Constitution must be determined from the words of the initiative amendment itself'?"

In our view, making the change in internal constitutional references noted above does not violate the rule for constitutional interpretation which you quoted from Omaha National Bank v. Spire, 223 Neb. 209, 389 N.W.2d 269 (1986). The issue in the Omaha National Bank case involved the construction of the language of a particular amendment to the Nebraska Constitution enacted as the result of an initiative petition effort. The Supreme Court noted that, unlike the situation with a constitutional provision created as a result of a constitutional convention where the debates and discussions of the delegates can be consulted to determine the framers' intent, there is no way to determine the intent of all the individual signers who signed a petition for a constitutional amendment proposed by the initiative petition method. Nor is there any way to determine the intent of all the individual voters who voted for a particular initiative measure in such an instance. As a result, only the plain language of an initiative petition itself can be used to interpret the meaning of its provisions.

In the present instance, however, the technical corrections proposed for the term limits amendments in the printed version of the Nebraska Constitution do not, in any way, interpret or construe the meaning of the language of the amendments approved in 1994. Rather, those changes simply involve a technical correction of the internal references within those amendments. Consequently, we do not believe that the rule for construction of constitutional language in the Omaha National Bank case applies.

3. "While I recognize that you have provided some authority in AO #94099 . . ., is there a precedent for making changes to an adopted amendment? Is it possible to make the changes using the argument that it is presumed that the voters intended a sensible rather than absurd result?"

If, in your third question, you are asking if there are Nebraska cases directly on point which clearly allow you to make the technical corrections at issue in this matter, then we must state that we have been unable to find any such cases. However, as you noted, there is authority which supports the proposition that you have the power to make those technical corrections, and we believe that you may do so for the reasons stated in our Opinion No. 94099.

Apart from your question involving precedent for the technical corrections here, you also wish to know if an argument supporting the propriety of the technical corrections can be based upon the maxim of statutory construction which states that a court will try to avoid a construction of a statute which leads to absurd, unjust or unconscionable results. Coleman v. Chadron State College, 237 Neb. 491, 466 N.W.2d 526 (1991).

As a general rule, the usual principles governing the construction of statutes apply to the construction of constitutions. 16 C.J.S. Constitutional Law § 19. But, constitutional provisions should receive a broader and more liberal construction than statutes, and constitutions are not subject to the rules of strict construction. Neb. Public Power District v. Hershey School District, 207 Neb. 412, 299 N.W.2d 514 (1980). Within those parameters, there is authority for the premise that constitutional language should be construed so as to avoid absurd or unreasonable results. Carman v. Hare, 384 Mich 443, 185 N.W.2d 1 (1971); Kayden Industries v. Murphy, 34 Wis.2d 718, 150 N.W.2d 447 (1967); 16 Am.Jur.2d Constitutional Law §112.

While an absurd construction of a constitutional provision is to be avoided, the technical corrections in the amendments which are proposed here, as discussed above, do not involve ascertaining the meaning of the term limits amendments or construing the language of their provisions. Instead, the changes involve correcting internal references within the amendments themselves so that they reference the proper subsequent constitutional provisions. On that basis, we do not believe that the maxim of statutory construction which you cited applies to the process of making corrections in printed versions of the Nebraska Constitution.

4. "If such a correction {of the technical errors at issue} is not made or ruled as improper, is it permissible to read Article III Section 8 and Article XV Section 21 (c) (of the proclamation) together and accept the filing of an incumbent who has previously served two complete terms or does Article III Section 8 conflict with Article XV Section 21 (c)? If a conflict does exist, should such filing be accepted? Is it possible to use the 'sensible rather than absurd result' argument as to the effect of the 'grandfather' clause if the changes are not made or ruled improper?"

Before we specifically discuss your question number 4, we must point out some general rules regarding the application and construction of constitutional provisions. The Nebraska Constitution must be read as a whole, and constitutional amendments become an integral part of the instrument which must be construed and harmonized, if possible, with all other provisions so as to give effect to every section and clause as well as to the whole instrument. Jaksha v. State, 241 Neb. 106, 486 N.W.2d 858 (1992); Banner County v. State Board of Equalization and Assessment, 226 Neb. 236, 411 N.W.2d 35 (1987). Constitutional provisions relating to the same subject matter should be construed together, with a view to giving effect to each provision if possible.

State ex rel. Randall v. Hall, 125 Neb. 236, 249 N.W. 756 (1933). Constitutional provisions are repugnant to each other or conflicting only when they relate to the same subject, are adopted for the same purpose, and cannot be enforced without substantial conflict. Swanson v. State, 132 Neb. 82, 271 N.W. 264 (1937). Differences in constitutional provisions must, if possible, be reconciled. State ex rel. Randall v. Hall, supra.

Art. III, § 8 of the Nebraska Constitution, as amended by the 1994 initiative effort, places a limit of two consecutive terms upon service in the Nebraska Legislature except "as further provided in Article XV Section 20." While Article XV, Section 20 of the initiative applies to federal officers, Article XV Section 21 of the initiative adds a new clause to the Nebraska Constitution which provides, at subsection (c), that "{t}he term held and being served {by various state officers including members of the Legislature} as a result of an election prior to the effective date of this amendment shall not be included in the number of consecutive terms referred to in stipulating ineligibility to file for election or to serve for any of the offices named in this initiative petition." Based upon the various rules for the construction and application of constitutional provisions cited above, it seems to us that Article III, Section 8 and Article XV, Section 21 (c) of the 1994 initiative are not repugnant or conflicting. Moreover, we believe that our courts would attempt to give effect to both provisions, and that the admittedly faulty reference in Art. III, § 8 of the initiative to "Article XV, Section 20" would not, in and of itself, serve to vitiate the "grandfathering" provisions in Art. XV, § 21 of the initiative. Therefore, it appears to us that you may accept the filing of an incumbent who has previously served two complete terms and who fits under the "grandfathering" provision of Art. XV, § 21 even if the technical corrections which are the subject of this opinion are not made or are ruled as improper in some forum. On that basis, it is not necessary for you to advance the "sensible rather than absurd result" argument with respect to application of the "grandfathering" provision in Article XV, Section 21 of the initiative.

5. "If the correction is made, I would accept a filing to reelect an incumbent who has previously served two complete terms as the incumbent would be 'grandfathered' under Article XV Section 22. If however, that filing is successfully challenged (because the changes were improper) as being in violation of Article III Section 8 which prohibits a filing by a two term incumbent, am I subject to the provisions of Article XV Section 22 (of the proclamation) which include removal from office and ineligibility to further hold public office?"

For the reasons stated above, it is our view that courts would give effect to both Art. III, § 8 of the initiative amendments and Article XV, Section 21 of those amendments containing the "grandfathering" provision, irrespective of whether the technical corrections at issue are inserted in the printed version of the Nebraska Constitution. Therefore, we do not believe that a filing by an incumbent subject to the "grandfathering" provision in Article XV, Section 21 of the initiative can be successfully challenged simply because you correct faulty internal references in the term limits amendments as those amendments are printed. It necessarily follows that you would not be subject to the provisions of Article XV, Section 22 of the initiative regarding removal from office and so forth because you chose to implement the technical corrections at issue here.

6. In the event of a challenge to the acceptance of a filing by a two term incumbent for reelection in 1996, will your office provide my defense to accepting the filing?

For the reasons discussed above, it is our view that all of the term limiting provisions for state officers contained in the various portions of the 1994 constitutional amendments proposed by initiative and the "grandfathering" provision found in Article XV, Section 21 (c) of that initiative are effective even though there are incorrect internal references in several of the initiative petition sections. Therefore, we do not believe that an action to challenge a filing by a two-term incumbent for reelection in 1996 purely on the grounds that such a filing would be improper under the term limits amendments or purely on the grounds that you improperly corrected the erroneous internal references in the term limits amendments would be successful. This office would defend you in such an action.

7. If such a challenge is successful, will your office provide my defense against removal from office or will your office be required to seek my removal?

As discussed above, we do not believe that such a challenge would be successful. However, if an action were brought against you for removal from office under Article XV, Section 22 of the 1994 term limits amendments because you followed our counsel and made the technical corrections in the constitution at issue here, or because you accepted a reelection filing by an incumbent under Article XV, Section 21 of the term limits amendments based upon our advice, this office would provide your defense.

8. "Is there a possibility that this issue may be clarified by the Court in Duggan v. Beerman (sic), No. 94-1112 currently before the Court.?"

In Duggan v. Beermann, No. S-94-1112, the Nebraska Supreme Court will consider several aspects of the legality of the term limits amendments that were approved by the voters in November, 1994. On September 9, 1994, the plaintiffs in the Duggan case filed an action in Lancaster County District Court in which they raised several issues regarding the legality and sufficiency of the initiative petition effort which ultimately presented the term limits amendments to the people of Nebraska. Those issues included: 1. whether the initiative petition form was defective, 2. whether the object clause of the initiative petition was incomplete or misleading, 3. whether submission of the term limits amendments to the people in November, 1994, violated Art. III, § 2 of the Nebraska Constitution, and 4. whether the term limits amendments were unconstitutional on their face. On November 7, 1994, the Lancaster County District Court held that:

1. the initiative petition form was not defective, as any defects or errors were clerical or technical, and the form substantially complied with statutory requirements,
2. the object clause of the initiative petition satisfied statutory requirements and was legally sufficient,
3. submission of the term limits initiative to the voters in November, 1994, was not precluded by Neb. Const. Art. III, § 2, and
4. the constitutionality of the term limits amendments was not yet justiciable, and ruling on the constitutionality of the proposed amendments would constitute an impermissible advisory opinion.

The District Court decision in Duggan was appealed, and that appeal is currently pending before the Nebraska Supreme Court.

The technical errors in the term limits initiative petition which reference the wrong subsequent sections of the constitution and which are the subject of your opinion request present only subsidiary issues in the Duggan case. The primary issues in that case involve the constitutionality of the term limits themselves. However, the plaintiffs in Duggan did argue that the technical errors made the initiative petition internally inconsistent and legally insufficient, and while the District Court disagreed, the Supreme Court might discuss that issue on appeal. Nevertheless, even in that context, it is unlikely that an opinion in the Duggan case will deal specifically with your authority to correct the technical errors in question as you print the Nebraska Constitution.

This office has vigorously defended the term limits amendments, and we will continue to do so. It is possible, however, that the Nebraska Supreme Court could hold in Duggan that the term limits amendments were improperly placed before the voters or that the provisions themselves are unconstitutional under the federal constitution.[1] In that case, the term limits amendments could be removed from the Nebraska Constitution, and the bulk of your opinion request in that regard would be rendered moot.

[1] For example, in U.S. Term Limits, Inc. v. Thorton, 63 U.S.L.W. 4413 (U.S. May 22, 1995) (Nos. 93-1456 and 93-1828), the United States Supreme Court held that certain portions of an Arkansas term limits provision violated the federal constitution.

Opinion No. 95060

DATE: July 26, 1995

SUBJECT: Constitutionality of State Legislation Authorizing Wagering on Sporting Events.

REQUESTED BY: The Honorable Eric J. Will, Senator
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Don Stenberg, Attorney General
L. Jay Bartel, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested our opinion regarding the constitutionality of potential legislation which would seek to authorize wagering on sports events. As you note in your letter, federal legislation enacted in 1992, the "Professional and Amateur Sports Protection Act", generally prohibits sports gambling conducted by, or authorized under the law of, any state or other governmental entity. Pub. L. No. 102-559, 106 Stat. 4227-4228 (codified at 28 U.S.C. §§ 3701 to -3704). You have asked our opinion on several questions, including whether the federal legislation constitutes a valid exercise of Congress' power to regulate interstate commerce under U.S. Const. art. I, § 8, and whether the federal act contravenes the Privileges and Immunities Clause of U.S. Const. art. IV, § 2. You also ask whether enactment of a sports wagering law by the State of Nebraska would be constitutional under the Tenth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

The Professional and Amateur Sports Protection Act, as noted, generally prohibits sports gambling conducted by, or authorized under the law of, any State or other governmental subdivision. Section 3702 prohibits any State or other governmental entity from sponsoring, operating, advertising, promoting, licensing, or authorizing by law or compact--and prohibits any person from sponsoring, operating, advertising, or promoting, pursuant to the law or compact of a governmental entity--"a lottery, sweepstakes, or other betting, gambling, or wagering scheme based, directly or indirectly (through the use of geographical references or otherwise), on one or more competitive games in which amateur or professional athletes participate, or on one or more performances of such athletes in such games." 28 U.S.C. § 3702.

Section 3704(a) sets forth certain exceptions to the prohibitions in § 3702. Paragraph (1) provides that the prohibition does not apply to any "lottery, sweepstakes, or other betting, gambling, or wagering scheme in a governmental entity" to the extent that such scheme was actually conducted prior to August 31, 1990. Paragraph (2) provides that the prohibition does not apply to "a lottery, sweepstakes, or other betting, gambling, or wagering scheme in operation in a State or other governmental entity where both (A) such scheme was authorized" by law; and (B) a scheme as described in § 3702 (other than parimutuel animal racing or jai-alai) actually was conducted in that governmental entity "during the period beginning September 1, 1989, and ending October 2, 1991, pursuant to the law of that State or other governmental entity." Paragraph (3) provides that § 3702 does not apply to "a betting, gambling, or wagering scheme, other than a lottery described in paragraph (1), conducted exclusively in casinos located in a municipality", if such scheme was authorized not later than one year after the effective date of the act, and "any commercial casino gaming scheme was in operation in such municipality throughout the 10-year period ending on such effective date. . . ." Finally, paragraph (4) provides that § 3702 does not apply to "parimutuel animal racing or jai-alai games."

The Senate Report on the Professional and Amateur Sports Protection Act stated:

> {The} bill serves an important public purpose, to stop the spread of State-sponsored sports gambling and to maintain the integrity of our national pastime. States would be prohibited from sponsoring, operating, advertising, promoting, licensing, or authorizing sports lotteries or any other type of sports betting that is based on professional or amateur games or performances therein.
> Sports gambling threatens to change the nature of sporting events from wholesome entertainment for all ages to devices for gambling. It undermines public confidence in the character of professional and amateur sports. Furthermore, State-sanctioned sports gambling will promote gambling among our Nation's young people.

S. Rep. No. 102-248, 102d Cong., 2d Sess. 4 (1992), reprinted in 1992 U.S.C.C.A.N. 3553, 3555.

Articulating why federal action of this nature was necessary, the Senate Report further stated:

> Sports gambling is a national problem. The harms it inflicts are felt beyond the borders of those States that sanction it. The moral erosion it produces cannot be limited geographically. Once a State legalizes sports gambling, it will be extremely difficult for other States to resist the lure. . . . Without Federal legislation, sports gambling is likely to spread on a piecemeal basis and ultimately develop an irreversible momentum.
>
> Senate bill 474 represents a judgment that sports gambling--whether sponsored or authorized by a State or other governmental entity--is a problem of legitimate Federal concern for which a Federal solution is warranted.

Id. at 5-7, reprinted in 1992 U.S.C.C.A.N. at 3556-3558.

As to your first two questions regarding the constitutionality of the Professional and Amateur Sports Protection Act, we note that "{a} strong presumptive validity { } attaches to an Act of Congress." United States v. Nat'l Dairy Products Corp., 372 U.S. 29, 32 (1963). "{T}he courts of the United States {will} give effect to the presumption that Congress will pass no act not within its constitutional power," and "{t}his presumption should prevail unless the lack of constitutional authority to pass an act in question is clearly demonstrated." United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 635 (1882). A person challenging the validity of an act of Congress must show "that by no reasonable probability can the challenged legislation fall within the wide range of discretion permitted to Congress." Helvering v. Davis, 301 U.S. 619, 641 (1937) (quoting United States v. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 (1935)).

In light of the strong presumption in favor of the constitutionality of acts of Congress, and the reasons advanced in the Senate Report accompanying Public Law No. 102-559, we do not believe it is appropriate to undertake an extensive or exhaustive analysis of whether the federal act may conceivably exceed Congress's power to regulate commerce between the states, or whether any potential violation of the guarantees afforded under the Privileges and Immunities Clause is implicated by the act. To our knowledge, no judicial decision invalidating the act on either ground has been rendered. Nor have you referred us to any pending action challenging the constitutionality of the act on these bases. Accordingly, we must presume that the federal act is a proper exercise of power by the United States Congress, in the absence of any judicial decision calling into question its validity.

In addition, you ask whether enactment of a sports wagering law by Nebraska would be constitutional "{u}nder the Tenth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, which reserves to the states powers not delegated to the states by the U.S. Constitution. . . ." Presuming, as we must, the validity of the federal act, it is clear that any state legislation which would conflict with the federal law would be invalid under the Supremacy Clause of the U.S. Constitution.

U.S. Const. art. VI, cl. 2, provides, in part: "This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof;. . ., shall be the supreme Law of the Land;. . . ." The Supremacy Clause requires that "where 'there is clear collision between state and federal law',. . ., or a conflict between federal law and the application of an otherwise valid state enactment,". . ., federal law must prevail. Hamm v. City of Rock Hill, 379 U.S. 306, 311-12 (1964) (citations omitted). Simply put, "{s}tate law is preempted to the extent that it actually conflicts with federal law." English v. General Elec. Co., 496 U.S. 72, 79 (1990).

Obviously, any Nebraska law which would purport to authorize sports wagering would conflict with the prohibition contained in § 3702. Accordingly, any legislation which you may wish to propose to authorize sports wagering in Nebraska would, if enacted, conflict with federal law in violation of the Supremacy Clause.[1]

[1] We also note that, to the extent your request indicates that you would propose "legislation" authorizing sports wagering in Nebraska, merely seeking to allow such conduct by statute alone would violate Neb. Const. art. III, § 24. On two previous occasions, we have opined that wagering on sporting events is not authorized under art. III, § 24. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 87062 (April 24, 1987); Op. Att'y Gen. No. 25 (Feb. 26, 1985). Even if the state could authorize sports wagering without violating the federal act (which, as noted, it cannot), sports wagering could not be enacted in Nebraska unless an amendment to the Nebraska Constitution were adopted to allow such wagering.

Very truly yours,

Opinion No. 95073

DATE: September 18, 1995

SUBJECT: Constitutionality of Service in the Nebraska Legislature Coupled with Other Governmental Employment

REQUESTED BY: Senator Michael T. Avery
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Don Stenberg, Attorney General

You have requested our opinion regarding government employment and your membership in the Nebraska Legislature. You note that you gave up your position at the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission when you joined the Legislature two years ago. You then ask:

> What I am not sure about is whether I can serve as a paid consultant to the state or to any other governmental agency.
> Do the limits in the state constitution apply in any way to county or city employment? Also, I know from the Conway decision {State ex rel. Spire v. Conway, 238 Neb. 766, 472 N.W.2d 403 (1991)} that I cannot work for a state college, but can I work for a city or county school system which receives state monies. (sic) If so, would this limitation only apply to state sponsored programs within such school systems?

From subsequent conversations with your staff, we understand that you are considering work as a paid consultant for state educational institutions or local school districts. You are also apparently considering teaching at the local level. We understand further that your primary concern is with Art. III, § 9 of the Nebraska Constitution.

Art. III, § 9 provides:

> No person holding office under the authority of the United States, or any lucrative office under the authority of this state, shall be eligible to, or have a seat in the Legislature. No person elected or appointed to the Legislature shall receive any civil appointment to a state office while holding membership in the Legislature or while the Legislature is in session, and all such appointments shall be void.

The general purpose of constitutional provisions such as Art. III, § 9 is to protect against conflicts of interest and to prevent improper personal gain and the concentration of power. 67 C.J.S. Officers § 29; In re Wilkins, 116 Neb. 748, 119 N.W. 9 (1928). However, while such provisions prohibit a Legislator from holding another public office, they do not prohibit public employment. 67 C.J.S. Officers § 29; McCutcheon v. City of St. Paul, 298 Minn. 443, 216 N.W.2d 137 (1974). For example, in the McCutcheon case, the Supreme Court of Minnesota held that members of the state legislature could also serve as police officers for the City of St. Paul since, in the latter capacity, they were not public officers for purposes of a state constitutional provision which stated that no members of the Minnesota House of Representatives or Senate could "hold any other office under the authority of the United States or the State of Minnesota."

In Nebraska, a public office is a governmental position, the duties of which invest the incumbent with some aspect of the sovereign power. State ex rel. Spire v. Conway, supra. Public offices involve public stations or employment, conferred by the appointment of government, which embrace the ideas of tenure, duration, emolument and duties. State ex rel. O'Connor v. Tusa, 130 Neb. 528, 126 N.W.2d 524 (1936). You indicated in your opinion request that you wish to act as a paid consultant to state and local educational entities. We do not believe that the typical paid consultant position would involve an appointment of government, tenure, duration, specified duties by statute, or any exercise of the sovereign power. As a result, we do not believe that you would occupy a public office with respect to your proposed employment by a state educational institution or a local school district in the capacity of a paid consultant. Such employment while you serve in the Legislature would not, therefore, appear to violate Art. III, § 9.

Serving as a teacher in a local school district while serving in the Legislature is a bit more problematic under Art. III, § 9. In Eason v. Majors, 111 Neb. 288, 196 N.W. 133 (1923), the court held that a teacher at a state college was a public officer for purposes of jurisdiction under the quo warranto statutes. There is language in the Eason case which would support an argument that teachers are public officers, and Eason was cited with approval in State ex rel. Spire v. Conway, supra, for the proposition that the court there had jurisdiction. If teachers are public officers, then there is a potential problem with teaching and simultaneous service in the Legislature under Art. III, § 9.

On the other hand, while the court in Conway indicated that a teacher in a state college holds a public office for purposes of quo warranto jurisdiction, the court also indicated that the words "office" and "officer" are of vague and variable import, and their meaning necessarily varies with the connection in which they are used. As a result, it is not clear under Conway that all teachers are public officers for all purposes beyond the issue of quo warranto jurisdiction. Moreover, as we indicated in our Op. Att'y Gen. No. 92022 (February 18, 1992), the Conway decision offers little guidance as to the application of its holding to local governmental officials. Consequently, we cannot say that you are clearly precluded from acting as a teacher for a local school district and serving in the Legislature under Art. III, § 9.

The decision in the Conway case involved the application of the Separation of Powers provision in the Nebraska Constitution, Art. II, §1, to a member of the Legislature who was on the faculty of a state college. Art II, § 1 also has potential application to situation outlined in your opinion request.

Art. II, § 1 of the Nebraska Constitution provides, as is pertinent here:

> The powers of the government of this state are divided into three distinct departments, the legislative, executive and judicial, and no person or collection of persons being one of these departments, shall exercise any power properly belonging to either of the others, . . .

In Conway, the court set out the following rule concerning the constraints provided by Art. II, § 1:

> . . . article II prohibits one who exercises the power of one branch -- that is, an officer in the broader sense of the word -- from being a member -- that is, either an officer or employee -- of another branch.

Conway at 782, 472 N.W.2d at 412. Therefore, since you are clearly an officer in the legislative branch of government through your service as a Legislator, you cannot be an officer or an employee of another branch of government as a result of any educational position which you are currently contemplating.

As discussed above, we do not believe that paid consultants to governmental agencies are officers of those agencies. Consequently, your service as a paid consultant to a governmental agency in the Executive Branch of government would only contravene Art. II, § 1 of the Nebraska Constitution if that service made you an employee of the agency in question. With respect to that issue, we will provide you with guidance in the context of employment as a paid consultant to state agencies since, as we have noted previously, it is unclear to what extent, if at all, the Conway rule applies to local governmental entities.

The Nebraska Supreme Court has not directly indicated what constitutes being an employee of a state agency in a case involving Art. II, § 1. What constitutes an employee varies from situation to situation. See Black's Law Dictionary 471 (5th ed.) "Employee." Someone may be an employee for federal tax purposes and not for other purposes. Sullivan v. Hajny, 210 Neb. 481, 315 N.W.2d 443 (1982). Someone may be an employee for workers' compensation purposes and not for other purposes. See, e.g., Williams v. Williams Janitorial Service, 207 Neb. 344, 347, 299 N.W.2d 160 (1980); Stephens v. Celeryvale Transport, Inc., 205 Neb. 12, 19, 286 N.W.2d 420 (1979).

It seems to us that one of the basic purposes of Art. II, §1 is to prevent one branch of government from holding out the inducement of employment to influence officials of another branch of government. Hence the rule that someone who is an officer in one branch of government may not be an officer or employee in another branch of government. In that regard, the evil is the same whether an officer in one branch of government is a traditional employee or is employed as an independent contractor. Since many employee relationships could potentially be revised to create independent contractor status, it seems to us the proper interpretation of Conway is that an officer in one branch of government may not be either a common law employee or employed as an independent contractor by another branch of state government.

Teaching for a local school district and serving in the Legislature presents additional potential problems under Art. II, § 1 for those reasons discussed above with respect to Art. III, § 9. Specifically, it is possible to argue in that situation that teachers are public officers in the executive branch of government, which would cause obvious difficulties under the Separation of Powers provision. However, as was the case with Art. III, § 9, it is far from clear that teachers for a local school district are public officers. Nor is it clear if and/or how the Conway rule applies to local governmental entities. Consequently, we cannot say that you are clearly precluded from serving in the Legislature and teaching in a local school district under Art. II, § 1 of the Nebraska Constitution.

Finally, we would note that you should take the provisions of Art. III, § 16 of the Nebraska Constitution and its associated statutes dealing with conflicts of interest for Legislators into account in any situation where you might contract with governmental entities for your services. In particular, that constitutional provision and Neb. Rev. Stat. § 49-14,102 (1993) provide for open contract awards and public access to contract documents in certain circumstances.

Sincerely yours,
DON STENBERG

DATE: October 4, 1995

SUBJECT: Floater Spreaders

REQUESTED BY: Senator W. Owen Elmer
Nebraska State Legislature

John E. Brown, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested our opinion whether the Nebraska Department of Roads has authority, pursuant to Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-6,298(1)(a)(i)(B) (Supp. 1994), to issue a special permit allowing the operation of overweight fertilizer floater spreaders (floater spreaders) on Nebraska highways. We believe that the Department has authority to issue such a permit if the vehicle is overweight without load. If, however, the vehicle is overweight only because of the load it carries, the Department of Roads has no authority to issue a special permit pursuant to Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-6,298(1)(a)(i)(b) (Supp. 1994).

You have provided us with a video tape recording showing the operation of a floater spreader, a framed picture of the floater spreader, and a sales brochure showing the specifications of the machine and the applications that can be made with the floater spreader. Further, your letter explains that the floater spreader generally travels to the field loaded and that the vehicle is serviced by a "nursing or tender" truck in the field after the initial load of fertilizer is dispensed. You do not state the weight of the vehicle, loaded or unloaded, and the literature that you have provided does not list this information. You do state that newer equipment is being manufactured that is overweight when unloaded. Officers of the Carrier Enforcement Division of the Nebraska State Patrol, when contacted, stated that the floater spreaders that they had weighed during the last 15 years were overweight only when loaded.

Neb. Rev. Stat. § 60-6,298(1)(c) (1993) provides as follows:

> (c) No permit shall be issued under subdivision (a)(i) of this subsection for a vehicle carrying a load unless such vehicle is loaded with an object which exceeds the size or weight limitations, which cannot be dismantled or reduced in size or weight limitations, which cannot be dismantled or reduced in size or weight without great difficulty, and which of necessity must be moved over the highways to reach its intended destination. No permit shall be required for the temporary movement on highways other than dustless-surfaced state highways and for necessary access to points on such highways during daylight hours of cost-saving equipment to be used in highway or other public construction or in agricultural land treatment when such temporary movement is necessary and for a reasonable distance.

(Emphasis added.)

The first sentence of the above-quoted statute limits the issuance of permits by the Nebraska Department of Roads to overweight vehicles that cannot be dismantled or reduced in size without great difficulty. If the floater spreader is made overweight by reason of its load, it can be reduced in size without great difficulty by simply eliminating the load and therefore, cannot qualify for for a special permit from the Department of Roads. If, however, the vehicle is overweight without load, and cannot be easily dismantled to reduce its weight, it would qualify for a special permit from the Department of Roads.

Sincerely,
DON STENBERG

SUBJECT: Reimbursement Payments Under the Petroleum Release Remedial Action Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 66-1501 to 66-1530

REQUESTED BY: Senator Curt Bromm
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Don Stenberg, Attorney General
Timothy J. Texel, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested the opinion of this office on a number of questions which relate to reimbursement payments pursuant to the Petroleum Remedial Action Act ("the Act"), set out in Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 66-1501 to 66-1530.

Nebraska Rev. Stat. § 66-1519 (Cum. Supp. 1994) created the Petroleum Release Remedial Action Cash Fund ("the Fund"). The Fund's purpose is to create a cash reserve from which those parties responsible for undertaking actions to remedy petroleum released from storage tanks into the environment can be reimbursed for some of their costs. Under the Act, the Nebraska Department of Revenue is responsible for collecting the fees imposed on sales of motor vehicle fuels and other petroleum. Pursuant to Neb. Rev. Stat. § 66-1519, the Department of Environmental Quality ("the Department") is charged with administering the provisions of the Act. Title 200 NAC 1-7, entitled "Rules and Regulations for Petroleum Release Remedial Action Reimbursement Fund," sets out the Department's rules for implementation of the program. They are promulgated by the Nebraska Environmental Quality Council pursuant to Neb. Rev. Stat. § 66-1518 (Cum. Supp. 1994).

The following headings set out the questions posed in opinion request.

1) What is the liability or responsibility of the State of Nebraska if approved work has been completed, an application has been submitted for payment, and there is not sufficient monies in the Petroleum Release Remedial Action Cash Fund to effect reimbursement?

When addressing liability or responsibility, we assume the question relates to any obligations the State may incur with regard to parties responsible for conducting remedial actions. Two statutory sections within the Act specifically address the issue presented above. Nebraska Rev. Stat. § 66-1523(4) (Cum. Supp. 1994) states:

> (4) If the fund is insufficient for any reason to reimburse the amount set forth in this section, the maximum amount that the fund shall be required to reimburse is the amount in the fund. If reimbursements approved by the department exceed the amount in the fund, reimbursements shall be made in the order in which the applications for them were received by the department.

Nebraska Rev. Stat. § 66-1524 (1990) states:

> The State of Nebraska shall not be liable for any reimbursement under the Petroleum Release Remedial Action Act in the event that the fund is insufficient to reimburse the amount set forth in section 66-1523.3)

These two statutory provisions show that it is the Fund itself which incurs an obligation to pay approved reimbursement requests, not the State of Nebraska. Based on the language in these statutes, it is our opinion that the State of Nebraska does not incur any financial liability to pay reimbursement funds to owners of petroleum storage tanks who have completed approved remedial projects, have submitted an application for payment, but are not immediately paid due to insufficient money being present in the Fund.

2) Under the {facts presented in question 1}, what is the responsibility of the State with respect to interest on the unpaid monies? Are the persons requesting reimbursement entitled to interest, and if so, from what date and at what rate?

Addressing the above questions in reverse order, we do not find sufficient evidence to indicate applicants for reimbursement would be entitled to interest payments when the Fund does not have a sufficient balance to pay requested reimbursements.

The Department has taken the position that interest is owed to those responsible parties who submitted applications for reimbursement prior to August 14, 1995, but have not yet been reimbursed. August 14, 1995, is the date the Fund's balance became insufficient to pay the applications for reimbursement. The Department has paid interest on those claims filed prior to August 14 based on the Nebraska Prompt Payment Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 81-2401 to 81-2408. The Prompt Payment Act requires state agencies to provide payment in full on or before the forty-fifth day after submitting a bill for goods or services, or sixty days after submitting a bill for goods or services provided for third parties. After not receiving payment within the required time, creditors are allowed to charge interest on the unpaid principal balance beginning on the thirty-first day after the agency receives the bill or the goods, whichever is later. The Department believes remedial work to correct petroleum releases constitutes services for a third party, which require payment within sixty days under the Prompt Payment Act.

Under the Department's analysis, the request for reimbursement constitutes a "bill," which the Fund is obligated to pay. The Department believes that since the Fund had a sufficient balance prior to August 14, 1995, with which to pay claims, the Fund was obligated to pay reimbursement "bills" prior to that date. The "service" rendered is the work remedying the petroleum release, performed by either the responsible party or the contractor actually performing the work. Therefore, the Department has paid interest on unpaid applications submitted prior to August 14, 1995. The Department believes that no interest is due for unpaid reimbursements submitted after August 14, as the Fund's liability is limited to the amount in the Fund. Since there is no liability for the principal once the Fund becomes insufficient, there is no liability to pay interest on the principal. Applications for reimbursement which are being paid now were submitted approximately six months ago. The Department anticipates the wait period for reimbursement to continue to increase.

Although the Prompt Payment Act requires timely payments, and in the alternative allows creditors to charge interest, we do not believe applicants for reimbursement payments under the Petroleum Remedial Action Act meet the criteria set out in the Prompt Payment Act.

To be a "creditor" under the Prompt Payment Act, one must provide goods or services to an agency. Applicants for reimbursement do not provide the Department of Environmental Quality or any other state agency with goods or services. The reimbursement is for money applicants expend on repairs and clean up of petroleum contamination on their own property. The language of the Prompt Payment Act deals exclusively with goods or services provided to agencies. There are no provisions for situations such as are presented with payments under the Petroleum Remedial Action Act.

Also, the Act contains no language indicating that interest is to be paid to applicants for reimbursement. If the Legislature had intended for interest to be paid as a separate amount, or as part of the reimbursement itself, language to that effect could have easily been included in the Act. The absence of such language provides evidence that interest payments were not a cost the Legislature intended the Fund to repay. Further support for this position can be drawn from the fact that reimbursement for actions taken which remedy environmental contamination is a debt created entirely by statute, and payment of interest was not included.

Prior to passage of the Act and creation of the Fund in 1989, owners or operators of leaking petroleum tanks could be and were made responsible for remedial actions without any reimbursement under the Nebraska Petroleum Products and Hazardous Substances Storage and Handling Act, set out at Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 81-15,117 to 81-15,127. Nebraska Rev. Stat. § 81-15,124(3) (1987) stated, "The approved recovery plan shall then be carried out by the owner or operator of the tank causing the release. All expenses incurred during the cleanup and recovery shall be paid by the owner or operator." (emphasis added). In 1989 the Legislature passed the Petroleum Release Remedial Action Act and created the Fund for the reasons stated in Neb. Rev. Stat. § 66-1502 (1990), including easing the financial burden on responsible parties in order to promote remedial actions. Section 81-15,124(3) was amended to reflect that owners or operators are responsible for remedial action costs, subject to reimbursement from the Fund.

The fact remains that the financial obligation for reimbursements was created by the Legislature and assumed by the Fund only through the charter created in the Act. Without being granted the specific authority to pay interest, the Fund may be incurring a debt without authorization from the Legislature. Under the Petroleum Remedial Action Act, the Department is merely charged with administration of the Fund. The Nebraska Supreme Court has held in numerous cases that administrative agencies cannot use their rule-making or interpretive power to modify, alter, or enlarge provisions of statutes which they are charged with administering. Clemens v. Harvey, 247 Neb. 77, 525 N.W.2d 185 (1994); State ex rel. Spire v. Stodola, 228 Neb. 107, 421 N.W.2d 436 (1988); Beatrice Manor, Inc. v. Dept. of Health, 219 Neb. 141, 362 N.W.2d 45 (1985); Dodge County v. Dept. of Health, 218 Neb. 346, 355 N.W.2d 775 (1984). We therefore do not believe applicants for reimbursement are entitled to interest on unpaid money.

Assuming a court did uphold the Department's position and held interest to be due, we will address from what date and at what rate interest would be due. First, if interest were to be held due, it appears clear that the Fund itself would be the debtor, not the State or the Department. Under the Prompt Payment Act, if the agency incurring a debt provides payment for the goods or services provided for third parties within sixty days of receipt of the bill, no interest is due. See Neb. Rev. Stat. § 81-2403(2) (1994). If payment is not submitted within sixty calendar days of receiving the bill, the creditor is allowed to charge the agency interest on the unpaid principal balance at the rate specified in Neb. Rev. Stat. § 45-104.02 (1993). See Neb. Rev. Stat. § 81-2404 (1994). Interest begins accruing on the thirty-first calendar day after receipt of the bill, or presumably here, the complete application. Id.

Turning to the issue of the State's responsibility with respect to interest, the Petroleum Remedial Action Act does not specifically address the issue of the State's liability or lack thereof for interest on unpaid monies. However, §§ 66-1524 and 66-1523(4) could be read to mean that the State was intended to be completely insulated from incurring obligations related to reimbursements under the Act. The language in § 66-1524 appears to be couched in terms of a complete protection from liability on the part of the State of Nebraska. Obligations incurred as a result of a lack of funds are directly and closely related to the reimbursement funds themselves. As such, we believe that the language in §§ 66-1524 and 66-1523(4) written in broad terms, was intended to protect the State from liability should the Fund not have sufficient money to pay reimbursement claims. As such, if applicants for reimbursements were to be owed interest on unpaid sums, the Act contemplates that the Fund, not the State, would be obligated to pay any interest caused by late payments. As the State cannot be held responsible for payments of the principal in reimbursement payments, we find no evidence indicating the State would be liable for interest for late payments of that principal. Although not determinative, we note that the Department also takes the position that the Fund, not the State, would be obligated to pay any interest payments caused by late reimbursements.

3) Can the Department utilize funds from the Petroleum Release Cash Fund for reimbursement for work completed subsequent to the date upon which an unpaid application is received by the Department?[1]

After submitting an application for reimbursement, the only mechanism through which a party responsible for a leaking petroleum tank could perform further remedial action work and receive reimbursement would be to initiate an entirely new application for approval and reimbursement. The procedure for reimbursement under the Act is for work which has been completed. Therefore, any work performed subsequent to completion of a project and submission of an application for reimbursement would constitute a second project. The Act does not provide a process for reimbursing parties subsequent to completion of an approved remedial action. The Department would therefore not have the authority to reimburse parties for work performed after a remedial action is completed and the Department has received an application for reimbursement for the approved project. The party responsible for the tank would be required to go through an entirely new remedial action reimbursement process for the subsequent work.

The only means by which parties can be paid in a method other than the full reimbursement after the remedial actions are completed is through partial payments after completion of each different stage involved in the remedial action process. Partial reimbursement payments are allowed under Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 66-1525(1) and 66-1523(3) (Cum. Supp. 1994) and 200 NAC 2, para. 005. The stages after which partial payments are allowed are set out in 200 NAC 2, para. 005.02. However, if the responsible person does not complete the entire remedial action project, he or she must reimburse the Fund for the total amount of partial reimbursements received. See Neb. Rev. Stat. § 66-1527 (1990) and 200 NAC 2, para. 005.01. The partial payments are essentially an advance on the final reimbursement. They are made prior to completion of the remedial action and application for reimbursement. We do not believe partial payments affects the conclusion that responsible parties must submit a new application for work after the initial remedial action is completed and the Department has received an application for reimbursement.

Does the requirement that "reimbursement shall be made in the order in which the applications for them were received" apply only if the reimbursements approved by the Department exceed the amount in the Fund?

We believe the priority system for reimbursements according to the order in which they were received does apply only when the reimbursements approved by the Department exceeds the money available in the Fund.

Pursuant to § 66-1523(4), the provision whereby reimbursements are prioritized according to the order in which applications are received comes into effect only when the approved reimbursements exceed the amount in the Fund. Section 66-1523(4), in pertinent part, states: "If reimbursements approved by the department exceed the amount in the fund, reimbursements shall be made in the order in which the applications for them were received by the department." Very similar language appears in the Department's rules and regulations. Title 200 NAC 2, para. 004.03 states: "If the Department approves reimbursements in excess of the amount in the fund, the department shall make reimbursements in the order in which the complete applications were stamped . . . ."

Title 200 NAC 2, para. 004, sets out the Department's procedures regarding acceptance and chronological ordering of applications. In order for an application to be considered received by the Department, the application must contain all information required by the Department. If all necessary information has been provided with the application, it is date and time stamped upon receipt. If required information is missing, the applicant must resubmit the application. The application will be date and time stamped at the time of resubmission.

The language in both the statute and the regulations condition chronological prioritization of reimbursement payments upon the Fund having an insufficient amount to pay approved applications. It therefore appears clear that the Fund's having an insufficient balance and the applications involved are all approved applications are prerequisites to beginning the process of paying reimbursements according to their order of submission.

Does the Department have any flexibility, once reimbursements approved exceed the amount in the Fund, to utilize the Fund in any manner inconsistent with subsection (4) of 66-1523?

At the outset of the third section of your opinion, you cited to the second sentence in § 66-1523(4). As that is the part of the Act which requires that reimbursements be paid in the same order in which they are submitted, we understand your question to be primarily concerned with that requirement. The Department believes the Act provides it with the authority to pay reimbursements in a method different than the order of submission under certain circumstances. We agree with the Department's interpretation of the Act.

As we understand it, the number of approved reimbursement requests grew to the point where it became clear the Fund would not have a sufficient balance and income to allow timely payment of the requests. As a result, in April, 1995, the Department sent a letter to parties responsible for petroleum releases that the Department was temporarily suspending remediation actions as of April 28, 1995. An exception was created for those sites determined to pose imminent health or safety risks, at which work was to continue. There are approximately 700 sites where remediation was temporarily suspended, while sixty-seven sites were determined to pose sufficient risks to human health or the environment to require continuation of their remediation projects. Non-emergency sites are contacted and allowed to begin work again as funds became available.

The Department determined that the sites presenting emergency situations were to be paid at least partial payments, even though the application may not have been the next in line for payment according to its date and time stamp. The Department based its decision on a provision in the Act allowing the Department to intervene in situations when immediate remedial action is believed necessary to protect public safety or the environment. The Department interpreted the emergency provisions in the Act as providing an exception to the chronological order requirement for reimbursements in § 66-1523(4). The statute involved states:

> Remedial actions by the department; third party claims; recovery of expenses. (1) The department may undertake remedial actions in response to a release first reported after July 17, 1983, and on or before December 31, 1998, with money available in the fund if:
> (a) The responsible person cannot be identified or located;
>
> (b) An identified responsible person cannot or will not comply with the remedial action requirements; or
>
> (c) Immediate remedial action is necessary, as determined by the Director of Environmental Quality, to protect human health or the environment.

Neb. Rev. Stat. § 66-1529.02(1) (Cum. Supp. 1994) (emphasis in original).

The Department's rules and regulations, promulgated by the Environmental Quality Council, mirror the Act's provisions. Title 200 NAC 2, para. 004.03, states:

> 004.03 If the department approves reimbursements in excess of the amount in the fund, the department shall make reimbursements in the order in which the complete applications were stamped according to 004.02 of this chapter.

Virtually identical language to that in § 66-1529.02(1) appears in the Department's rules and regulations at 200 NAC 6, para. 001. That provision of the rules and regulations states, in pertinent part:

> 001 Remedial Actions. The department may undertake remedial actions in response to a release first reported after July 17, 1983, with money available in the fund, provided:
> 001.03 Immediate remedial action is necessary, as determined by the director of the department, to protect human health or the environment.

The Department interprets § 66-1529.02(1) as authorizing suspension of the chronological reimbursement provisions in § 66-1523(4) due to the emergency nature of the actions. We understand the Department's position to be that, under § 66-1529.02(1), after a site has been determined to pose a danger to public safety or the environment, the Department takes constructive control over the remediation action project for the site. The same responsible party or contractor engaged in remediation efforts continues to operate the project in order to prevent loss of time and expense.

In the Department's past experiences in the area of remedial actions for petroleum releases, the Department had found many of the parties responsible for the releases, especially corporate entities, would simply go out of business and abandon the property rather than incur the costs of remediation without assistance. According to the Act's statement of purpose, set forth in § 66-1502, the Act was intended to address that very concern, among others. Section 66-1502(2) states, "{O}wners of petroleum tanks may not have the ability to assess and clean up any releases from those petroleum tanks." Section 66-1502(3) states, "It is essential in this state to encourage owners of petroleum tanks across the state to remain in business to maintain the viability of the {petroleum} distribution network."

If the Department were required to wait to undertake emergency remedial actions until the responsible parties abandoned their sites due to financial considerations, the public's health and safety and the environment would be exposed to potentially serious hazards. The Department would have to hire new contractors and develop a work plan for the remedial project. The resulting time delay would, at least in some circumstances, allow a release already determined to present a danger to human health or the environment, to intensify. Section 66-1502 (1990) explains one purpose for the Act is to address the "serious threat to the health and safety of citizens because petroleum contained in leaking storage tanks is a potential land and ground water contaminant and major fire and explosive hazard." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 66-1502(2).

The Department's interpretation harmonizes the conflict which arises from the reimbursement order required in § 66-1523(4), and the ability to take immediate action to protect human health or the environment expressed in §§ 66-1529.02 and 66-1502(2). The Nebraska Supreme Court has held that when dealing with a series of statutes on a particular subject, the statutes "may be conjunctively considered and construed to determine the intent of the Legislature so that different provisions of an act are consistent, harmonious, and sensible." Omaha Public Power Dist. v. Nebraska Dept. of Revenue, 248 Neb. 518, 530, (Sept. 8, 1995), citing to Fecht v. The Bunnell Co., 243 Neb. 1, 497 N.W.2d 50 (1993). In this case, the Act's purpose has been provided in § 66-1502. If the requirements set out in § 66-1523(4) were read in isolation, the stated purposes and objectives of the Act could be frustrated. When construing a statute, the statute's purpose must be taken into consideration, and the statute is to be given a reasonable construction which best achieves that purpose, rather than a construction which would defeat it. Omaha Public Power Dist. v. Nebraska Dept. of Revenue, 248 Neb. 518, 530 (Sept. 8, 1995).

The Nebraska Supreme Court has also held that an administrative agency's interpretation or construction of a statute over which it has enforcement authority, although not controlling, is to be given considerable weight. McCaul v. American Savings Co., 213 Neb. 841, 331 N.W.2d 795 (1983), Omaha Public Power Dist. v. Nebraska Dept. of Revenue, 248 Neb. 518 (Sept. 8, 1995). In a similar vein, the Court has also recognized that "the method and manner of enforcing a law must of necessity be left to the reasonable discretion of administrative officers." Bartlett v. State Real Estate Comm'n, 188 Neb. 828, 831, 199 N.W.2d 709, 712 (1972).

Although we agree with the Department's interpretation and believe it is a reasonable reading of the statutes, necessary to harmonize the discrepancy between § 66-1523(4) and 200 NAC 2, para. 004.03, and the provisions in § 66-1529.02(1) and 200 NAC 6, para. 001, it is not clear how this matter would be resolved by the courts if litigation were instituted in this matter. This discrepancy is an area which the Legislature may want to address in order to clarify the Act's provisions.

4) Does the State have any responsibility for damages incurred by either the responsible parties or third parties for the discontinuation of continued remedial action with respect to contaminated sites?

The temporary suspension of remedial work projects may present the potential for State liability for damages incurred due to petroleum leaks. The potential for liability may not be much greater than that presented simply by the State's involvement in the remedial action area through the Act. If a responsible party or a third party could provide sufficient evidence to show the State had acted negligently, however, the State may potentially face liability for such actions or inactions. Anticipating the outcome in this area is difficult due to the myriad of possibilities which could be imagined.

We believe it is important to consider that the Fund provides reimbursement for remedial activities, and only those third-party claims where the responsible party cannot or will not pay the third-party claim. See Neb. Rev. Stat. § 66-1529.02(2) (Cum. Supp. 1994). The parties who own the leaking petroleum tanks are the owners or operators of the tanks and the property on which they are located. We see no reason to believe that primary liability for activities occurring on the property would not remain with those responsible parties. Also, as was pointed out in the Department's letter to responsible parties (a copy of which you provided with your opinion request), responsible parties are free to continue their remediation activities, with the understanding that the costs incurred after April 28, 1995, will not be eligible for reimbursement.

The possibility for the State incurring liability may increase with the prioritization of certain sites as constituting threats to public health or the environment. If activity is suspended at a site later determined to have posed a danger to public health, it is possible a responsible party or third party could attempt to hold the State liable for failure to declare the site as posing such a risk and making the site a priority for reimbursement.

However, in attempting to assess the situation, it should be remembered that the Department bases its decision regarding emergency situations on the information available to it. The Department's decisions are based primarily on the information provided to the Department in the responsible parties' initial work plan, research, and investigation reports. The owner or operator or his or her contractor is responsible for conducting a thorough investigation so as to provide the Department with the necessary facts on which to base an informed decision.

Opinion No. 95085

DATE: November 8, 1995

SUBJECT: Constitutionality of Legislation Authorizing Slot Machines or Other Electronic Gaming Devices as "Lotteries" Whose Proceeds are Used for Community Betterment Purposes

REQUESTED BY: Senator LaVon Crosby
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Don Stenberg, Attorney General
L. Jay Bartel, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested our opinion regarding the constitutionality of legislation which would authorize slot machines or other electronic gaming devices. During the last legislative session, you sought our opinion as to the constitutionality of two bills proposing to authorize the use of such devices. LB 765 proposed to permit counties, cities, villages or licensed racetrack organizations to conduct "electronic lotteries" using "electronic gaming devices" if approved by local voters. Revenues generated from such "electronic lotteries" would be required to be used for "community betterment purposes" as defined in the bill.

LB 851 proposed to authorize counties, cities, villages or licensed racetrack organizations to conduct "lotteries" through the use of "lottery terminals" which were defined as: (1) For racetracks, "electronic or computerized gaming device{s} by which winners receive cash or credits redeemable for cash and the selection of winners is predicated on the basis of chance"; or (2) For other licensed premises, "electronic or computerized video gaming device{s} which award{ } tickets or stubs redeemable for something of value and the selection of winners is predicated on the basis of chance". Such lotteries could be conducted only after receiving approval from local voters. Also, revenues generated from such "lotteries" would be required to be used for "community betterment purposes" as defined in the bill.

Neither LB 765 nor LB 851 were enacted into law last session. Because of the potential that these bills, or other legislation seeking to authorize expanded gambling of this type, may again be introduced, you have asked us to consider the constitutionality of legislation which proposes to authorize the use of "slot machines" or other forms of "electronic gaming devices" as "lotteries" whose proceeds are used for "community betterment purposes" under Neb. Const. art. III, § 24.[1]

For the reasons outlined below, it is our conclusion that the Legislature may not enact legislation to permit the use of "slot machines" or other forms of "electronic gaming devices" under the constitutional grant permitting the Legislature to authorize "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises. . .the proceeds of which are to be used solely for charitable or community betterment purposes. . . ." Under Article III, § 24, the Legislature is precluded from authorizing "any game of chance or any lottery or gift enterprise" except as provided in the Constitution. In our opinion, "slot machines" or other forms of "electronic gaming devices" fall within the category of "games of chance" prohibited by the Constitution, and not "lotteries" which the Legislature may sanction under its authority to permit "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises" whose proceeds are used for charitable or community betterment purposes. Accordingly, "slot machines" or other "electronic gaming devices" may not be authorized by the Legislature for these purposes absent an amendment to the Nebraska Constitution.

I. Nebraska Constitutional and Statutory Provisions Relating to Games of Chance and Lotteries.

A. Constitutional Provisions.

The first State Constitution adopted in 1866 provided that "{t}he Legislature shall never authorize any lottery or grant any divorce." Neb. Const. of 1866 art. II, § 22. Subsequently, the Constitution of 1875 was adopted, which included a provision that "{t}he legislature shall not authorize any games of chance, lottery, or gift enterprise under any pretense or for any purpose whatever." Neb. Const. of 1875 art. III, § 21. This prohibition remained unchanged until 1934 when an amendment was approved to allow the enactment of laws permitting the licensing and regulation of parimutuel wagering on horse races when conducted within licensed racetrack enclosures. Neb. Const. art. III, § 24 (Comp. Stat. 1934). In 1958, an amendment was approved allowing laws providing for the licensing and regulation of bingo games conducted by non-profit associations in existence for a period of five years. Neb. Const. art. III, § 24 (Cum. Supp. 1959). A 1962 amendment added language providing that no game of chance, lottery, or gift enterprise was authorized "where the consideration for a chance to participate involve{d} the payment of money for the purchase of property, services, chance or admission ticket, or require{d} an expenditure of substantial effort or time." Neb. Const. art. III, § 24 (Cum. Supp. 1963).

In 1968, an amendment to art. III, § 24, was approved to allow the Legislature to enact laws to authorize and regulate "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises which are intended solely as business promotions or the proceeds of which are to be used solely for charitable or community betterment purposes without profit to the promoter of such lotteries, raffles, or gift enterprises." Neb. Const. art. III, § 24 (Cum. Supp. 1969). A 1988 amendment authorized parimutuel wagering on the results of horse races "wherever run either within or outside of the state. . . ."

Finally, in 1992, the Constitution was amended to permit the Legislature to authorize a state lottery. Article III, § 24, currently provides, in pertinent part, as follows:

> (1) Except as provided in this section, the Legislature shall not authorize any game of chance or any lottery or gift enterprise when the consideration for a chance to participate involves the payment of money or the purchase of property, services, or a chance or admission ticket or requires an expenditure of substantial effort or time.
> (2) The Legislature may authorize and regulate a state lottery pursuant to subsection (3) of this section and other lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises which are intended solely as business promotions or the proceeds of which are to be used solely for charitable or community betterment purposes without profit to the promoter of such lotteries, raffles, or gift enterprises.

B. Statutes.

Consistent with the long-standing constitutional prohibition against gambling, Nebraska's criminal statutes have historically barred gambling activities. Early in the State's history, statutes were enacted which imposed criminal sanctions for various gaming activities, including: (1) playing games for money or wagering or betting (Gen. Stat. § 214 (1873)); (2) keeping gaming devices or machines (Gen. Stat. § 215 (1873)); (3) permitting gaming on private premises (Gen. Stat. § 216 (1873)); (4) permitting gaming in public places (Gen. Stat. § 217 (1873)); (5) keeping a "gambling room" (Gen. Stat. § 218 (1873)); or (6) being a "common gambler" (Gen. Stat. § 219 (1873)). In addition, statutes imposing criminal penalties for engaging in lottery-related activities were adopted, including: (1) making "any lottery or scheme of chance" (Gen. Stat. § 224 (1873)); (2) selling lottery tickets (Gen. Stat. § 225 (1873)); and (3) advertising any "lottery, or scheme of chance" (Gen. Stat. § 226 (1873)). These statutes, separately recognizing offenses related to "gaming" or "games of chance" and "lotteries", remained relatively unchanged for many years. See Comp. Stat. § 9799 to 9805 ("gaming") and 9818 to 9820 ("lotteries") (1922); Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-941 to -947 ("gaming" or "games of chance") and 28-961 to -963 ("lotteries") (1943).

As the Constitution was amended to create exceptions to the ban on all "games of chance, lotteries, or gift enterprises", Nebraska's statutory provisions relating to gambling were modified. In addition to earlier legislation authorizing parimutuel wagering on horse races when conducted within racetrack enclosures, and the conduct of bingo by certain non-profit corporations, the Legislature, in 1969, enacted statutes to implement the constitutional amendment permitting "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises" whose proceeds were used solely for charitable or community betterment purposes. 1969 Neb. Laws, LB 691 (codified at Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-964.01 to -964.05 (Cum. Supp. 1969)). Counties, cities, and villages were authorized to establish and conduct lotteries when the proceeds were used solely for community betterment purposes, after approval by a majority of voters. Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-964.04 (Cum. Supp. 1969).

In 1977, Nebraska's criminal statutes were substantially revised and replaced with the enactment of the Nebraska Criminal Code. 1977 Neb. Laws, LB 38. Various criminal offenses relating to gambling activity were defined, including promoting gambling, possession of gambling records, and possession of gambling devices. 1977 Neb. Laws, LB 38, § 218 to 221, 223 (codified at Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-1102 to -1105, 1107 (Supp. 1977)). "Gambling device" was defined as "any device, machine, paraphernalia, writing, paper, instrument, article, or equipment. . .used or usable for engaging in gambling,. . . ." "Lottery tickets and other items" used in the playing of legal gaming activities (parimutuel wagering, bingo, or lotteries, raffles, or gift enterprises conducted for charitable or community betterment purposes) were excluded from the definition of "gambling device". LB 38, § 217. "Lottery" was defined to "mean a gambling scheme in which (a) the players pay or agree to pay something of value for chances, represented and differentiated by numbers or by combinations of numbers or by some other medium, once or more of which chances are to be designated the winning ones, (b) the winning chances are to be determined by a drawing or by some other method based on an element of chance, and (c) the holders of the winning chances are to receive something of value." Id.

The definition of "gambling device" remained relatively unaltered until 1984, when it was amended to provide that "{g}ambling device shall also include any mechanical gaming device, computer gaming device, electronic gaming device, or video gaming device which has the capability of awarding monetary prizes, free games redeemable for monetary prizes, or tickets or stubs redeemable for monetary prizes, except as authorized in the furtherance of parimutuel wagering." 1984 Neb. Laws, LB 744, § 1 (codified at Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-1101(5) (Cum. Supp. 1984)). The definition of "lottery" in § 28-1101(6) was also amended to provide that it did "not include any gambling scheme which uses any mechanical gaming device, computer gaming device, electronic gaming device, or video gaming device which has the capability of awarding monetary prizes, free games redeemable for monetary prizes, or tickets or stubs redeemable for monetary prizes." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-1101(6) (Cum. Supp. 1984). Counties, cities, or villages conducting lotteries using mechanical, computer, electronic, or video gaming devices on the effective date of LB 744 were permitted to continue doing so until January 1, 1985. LB 744, § 2. In 1986, with the adoption of the Nebraska City and County Lottery Act, the definition of "lottery" in § 28-1101 was eliminated, and a definition of "lottery" was included as part of the City and County Lottery Act. 1986 Neb. Laws, LB 1027, § 178 and 192. The definition of "lottery" under the County and City Lottery Act was amended in 1989 to include keno as a permissible lottery. 1989 Neb. Laws, LB 767, § 53.[2]

Presently, "gambling device" is defined to "mean any device, machine, paraphernalia, writing, paper, instrument, article, or equipment that is used or usable for engaging in gambling,. . . ." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-1101(5) (Supp. 1995). "Gambling device" specifically includes "any mechanical gaming device, computer gaming device, electronic gaming device, or video gaming device which has the capability of awarding something of value,. . . ." Id. The definition of "gambling device" excludes "{s}upplies, equipment, cards, tickets, stubs, and other items used in any bingo, lottery by the sale of pickle cards, or other lottery, raffle, or gift enterprise conducted" under statutes authorizing lawful gaming activities. Id.

The term "lottery" is defined under various statutes pertaining to permissible forms of lotteries, including the Nebraska Lottery and Raffle Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 9-401 to -437 (1991, Cum. Supp. 1994 and Supp. 1995), the Nebraska Small Lottery and Raffle Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 9-501 to -513 (1991, Cum. Supp. 1994 and Supp. 1995), the Nebraska County and City Lottery Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 9-601 to -653 (1991, Cum. Supp. 1994 and Supp. 1995), and the State Lottery Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 9-801 to -841 (Cum. Supp. 1994 and Supp. 1995).[3] Under the Nebraska Lottery and Raffle Act, "lottery" is defined to "mean a gambling scheme in which (a) participants pay or agree to pay something of value for an opportunity to win, (b) winning opportunities are represented by tickets differentiated by sequential enumeration, and (c) winners are determined by a random drawing of the tickets." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-411(1) (Cum. Supp. 1994). "Lottery" under the Nebraska Small Lottery and Raffle Act is defined to "mean a gambling scheme in which (a) participants agree to pay something of value for an opportunity to win, (b) winning opportunities are represented by tickets differentiated by sequential enumeration, (c) the winners are to be determined by a random drawing of the tickets, and (d) the holders of the winning tickets are to receive something of value." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-507 (Cum. Supp. 1994). The term "lottery" under the Nebraska County and City Lottery Act means "a gambling scheme in which: (a) The players pay or agree to pay something of value for an opportunity to win; (b) Winning opportunities are represented by tickets;. . .", and winners are determined either "{b}y a random drawing of tickets differentiated by sequential enumeration from a receptacle by hand whereby each ticket has an equal chance of being chosen", or "{b}y use of a game known as keno. . . ." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-607(1) (Cum. Supp. 1994). "Lottery", for purposes of the State Lottery Act, is defined as a variation of either an "instant-win game" or an "on-line lottery game". Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-803(4) (Supp. 1995). The definitions of "lottery" under the Nebraska Lottery and Raffle Act, the Nebraska Small Lottery and Raffle Act, and the Nebraska County and City Lottery Act, specifically provide that "lottery" shall not include any mechanical, computer, electronic, or video gaming devices "which ha{ve} the capability of awarding something of value, free games redeemable for something of value, or tickets or stubs redeemable for something of value." Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 9-411(2), 9-507(2), and 9-607(2)(a) (Cum. Supp. 1994). The State Lottery Act provides that "{l}ottery game shall not be construed to mean video lottery game." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-803(4)(b) (Supp. 1995).[4]

II. Nebraska Case Law Addressing "Lotteries" and "Games of Chance".

"Article III, § 24, prohibits all games of chance and lotteries except as otherwise provided by law." City of Ralston v. Balka, 247 Neb. 773, 777, 530 N.W.2d 594, 598 (1995). On various occasions, the Nebraska Supreme Court has addressed whether certain activities constitute "lotteries" or "games of chance".

A. Lotteries - Schemes Involving Prize, Chance and Consideration.

In State ex rel. Prout v. Nebraska Home Co., 66 Neb. 349, 92 N.W. 763 (1902), the Court considered whether a scheme whereby the company entered into contracts to assist persons in the purchase and payment of a home, who agreed to make certain payments to the company to be placed in a home fund, constituted an impermissible "lottery". Preference in the distribution of the fund was given to those holding contracts with the lowest serial numbers. The Court stated that, "{t}o constitute a lottery, there must be a prize offered, and the payment of something for a chance to obtain it." Id. at 372, 92 N.W. at 764. The Court held that the scheme was an illegal "lottery", as the preference provided to holders of the lower numbers in the distribution of the fund was a "prize", which constituted "something of value", and the element of chance was involved in the numbering of the contracts. Id. at 372-74, 92 N.W. at 764-65. The Court, in the syllabus accompanying its opinion, stated:

> A scheme whereby a common fund is to be produced by the contributions of various parties, and afterwards distributed among the parties contributing thereto, and a valuable preference or privilege in the distribution thereof is made to depend upon chance, is a lottery, within the meaning of out statute prohibiting lotteries.

Id. at 349, 92 N.W. at 763.

In State ex rel. Sorenson v. Ak-Sar-Ben Exposition Co., 118 Neb. 851, 226 N.W. 705 (1929), the issue was whether legislation authorizing the distribution of prizes or stakes resulting from horse races permitted parimutuel wagering on horse race contests. The Court held that "the funds to be raised and distributed for prizes or stakes are intended as rewards for the owners of horses that win and not for the winners of bets on the races." Id. at 857, 226 N.W. at 707. To interpret the statute otherwise, the Court reasoned, would render it unconstitutional, as parimutuel wagering contained "every element of a criminal lottery--consideration, chance, price, {and} means of disbursement." Id. at 860, 226 N.W. at 709. The Court further stated:

> When betting and gambling are conducted in the form, substance and livery of a criminal lottery they are unlawful and those who conduct them are amenable to the statute forbidding and penalizing lotteries. Neither the Legislature not the state racing commission had power to authorize defendant to operate a lottery in the guise of betting and gambling, or in any other form.

Id. at 861, 226 N.W. at 709.[5]

On several occasions, the Court has addressed whether certain business promotional schemes were prohibited lotteries. State ex rel. Hunter v. Fox Beatrice Theatre Corp., 133 Neb. 392, 275 N.W. 605 (1937) ("Bank Night" involving drawing for prize operated by movie theaters); State ex rel. Hunter v. Omaha Motion Picture Exhibitors Ass'n, 139 Neb. 312, 297 N.W. 547 (1941) ("Prosperity Club" involving prize drawing conducted by movie theaters); State ex rel. Line v. Grant, 162 Neb. 210, 75 N.W.2d 611 (1956) (Chance prize drawing conducted by car dealer).[6] In each case, the Court noted that, in order for a scheme to constitute a lottery, it must contain three elements: (1) prize; (2) chance; and (3) consideration. State ex rel. Hunter v. Fox Beatrice Theatre Corp., 133 Neb. at 395, 275 N.W. at 606; State ex rel. Hunter v. Omaha Motion Picture Exhibitors Ass'n, 139 Neb. at 314, 297 N.W. at 548; State ex rel. Line v. Grant, 162 Neb. at 211, 75 N.W.2d at 612.

More recently, the Court has, on two occasions, addressed the validity of certain gaming activities as "lotteries" under statutory definitions adopted by the Legislature. The first of these cases, CONtact, Inc. v. State, 212 Neb. 584, 324 N.W.2d 804 (1982), was a declaratory judgment action seeking a determination that the sale of "pickle cards" for fundraising by a nonprofit corporation was a permissible form of "lottery" under Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 28-1101(6) and 28-1115 (1979). "Lottery" was defined as "a gambling scheme in which (a) the players pay or agree to pay something of value for chances, represented and differentiated by numbers or by combinations of numbers or by some other medium, one or more of which chances are to be designated the winning ones, (b) the winning chances are to be determined by a drawing or by some other method based on an element of chance, and (c) the holders of the winning chances are to receive something of value." Id. at 585-86, 324 N.W.2d at 805. The State contended that the sale of pickle cards by nonprofit organizations did not fall within this definition of "lottery" because, as the number of winners was predetermined, the potential for fraudulent manipulation was great, and the game therefore did not possess the requisite element of chance. The State also argued that the statutes permitted only lotteries having a drawing after all tickets had been sold, in which the winner was determined by the drawing itself. Id. at 587, 324 N.W.2d at 805-06.

The Court in CONtact, Inc. noted that the statute defining "lottery" was "a codification of earlier case law", and contained the "basic elements" of "(1) consideration, (2) prize, and (3) chance." Id. at 587, 324 N.W.2d at 806. It saw the issue as "simply one of statutory construction." Id. Finding that the statutory language was "unambiguous", the Court rejected the contention that only lotteries consisting of drawings after the sale of all tickets were permissible, stating:

> Section 28-1101(6) requires one or more chances to be designated the winning ones. The statute make no time reference as to when the designation is to take place, but merely states that "the winning chances are to be determined by a drawing or by some other method based on an element of chance." The statute requires designation of the winner only by "chance" or by a drawing.

Id. at 587-88, 324 N.W.2d at 806.

The Court further found that the pickle card scheme satisfied the "chance" requirement, stating: "The drawing of the cards from a tub provides the element of 'chance' required by statute. The fact that the winning numbers are predetermined does not eliminate 'chance.'" Id. at 592, 324 N.W.2d at 808. It therefore held "that the sale of pickle cards is a lottery and thus permitted by §§ 28-1101(6) and 28-1115." Id.

The second case, Video Consultants of Nebraska, Inc. v. Douglas, 219 Neb. 868, 367 N.W.2d 697 (1985), involved the "question whether an electronic gaming machine, such as a video computer, is a form of lottery permitted under statutes enacted by the Nebraska Legislature in 1983 relative to gambling." Id. at 868-69, 367 N.W.2d at 698.[7] Video Consultants, and IGT Nebraska, Inc., each provided video lottery equipment to the City of Bellevue. The video lottery equipment was stipulated to consist of > computer-based video machines which {were} activated by a participant inserting one or more coins. The machine {was} equipped with an eighty-number pad from which the participant {could} select from one to ten numbers. Upon selection of his numbers, the participant activate{d} the machine which select{ed}, purely at random, twenty (20) numbers from the total base of eighty (80) numbers. The participant's winnings, if any, {were} determined by matching the numbers selected by the participant with the random numbers selected by the machine.

Id. at 870, 367 N.W.2d at 699.

At issue in Video Consultants was whether the "video lottery" fell within the definition of "lottery" in Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-1101(6)

(Supp. 1983), and whether the "video lottery equipment" was a "gambling device" prohibited under Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-1101(5) (Supp. 1983). The State "conced{ed} that the activity produced by the video gaming device {was} a lottery,. . . ." 219 Neb. at 873, 367 N.W.2d at 700. It argued that the video lottery was an illegal gambling device under the statute, however, because the machines did not fall within the statutory exemption for nongambling devices The State also asserted that the sale of a ticket was a necessary part of the "playing phase" of a lottery under the statute, and that the ticket given by the machines was actually a receipt or evidence of winning, and not a ticket. Id.

As to the contention that the machines were illegal "gambling devices" because they did not fall within the statutory exemption for nongambling devices, the Court stated:

> Obviously, video and electronic machines are being used in production of a lottery. In its regulation of gambling, had the Legislature intended to exclude a machine, especially an electronic or video gaming device, as an object proscribed in a permissible lottery, such exclusion was not an impossible statutory feat. Yet, the Legislature employed unrestrictive, generic terms in describing the means to conduct a permissible lottery so that any article or any method was available in the 'playing phase' of a legal lottery. This court cannot now insert into the statute an exclusion or restriction which the Legislature might have included when enacting § 28-1101(5) and (6) in 1983. We cannot assume that the Legislature intended to exclude electronic gaming devices from "other items used in the playing phases" of a lottery authorized by statute. . . .
> We conclude that the electronic gaming devices involved in this case are not "gambling devices" as such phrase and description are used in § 28-1101(5).

Id. at 873-74, 367 N.W.2d at 701.

As to the State's contention that a ticket was an essential part of a lottery as defined in § 28-1101(6), the Court determined that it could not "rewrite" the statutes to require that purchase of a ticket be the only method of satisfying the chance element, finding that "{p}urchase of a ticket is not the only means of participating in a lottery otherwise permissible under Nebraska's gambling statutes." Id. at 874, 367 N.W.2d at 701.

B. Games of Chance - Games Whose Outcome Depends Predominantly on Luck or Chance, Rather than the Skill of the Player.

In Baedaro v. Caldwell, 156 Neb. 489, 56 N.W.2d 706 (1953), the Court considered whether a five-ball pinball machine capable of awarding free replays constituted a "game of chance" barred under art. III, § 24, as well as an illegal "gambling device" prohibited by Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-945. Discussing the test for determining whether a game constituted a "game of chance", the Court stated:

> The test of the character of the game is not whether it contains an element of chance or an element of skill, but which of these is the dominating element that determines the result of the game. . . .
> A game of chance is one in which the result as to success or failure depends less on the skill and experience of the player than on purely fortuitous or accidental circumstances incidental to the game or the manner of playing it or the device or apparatus with which it is played, but not under the control of the player.

Id. at 493-94, 56 N.W.2d at 709.

While noting that some element of skill may be involved in the playing of a pinball machine, the Court found that the element of chance was the dominant factor in determining the result of the game. Stating that "Article III, section 24, of the Constitution is clear, explicit, and unambiguous that the Legislature shall not authorize any game of chance", and that § 28-945 "conforms to the constitutional provision in banning any game of chance in this state", the Court concluded the pinball machine was a prohibited "game of chance", as well as an illegal "gambling device". Id. at 494, 497, 56 N.W.2d at 710-11.

Indoor Recreation Enterprises, Inc. v. Douglas, 194 Neb. 715, 235 N.W.2d 398 (1975), was an action seeking a judgment declaring that poker, bridge, chess and checkers were games of skill, and that the playing of such games or operation of a place where such games were played did not violate the State's gambling laws. In deciding the issue, the Court relied on the "dominant factor" test for distinguishing between games of skill and games of chance employed in Baedaro v. Caldwell, which requires that "{t}he test of the character of the game is not whether it contains an element of chance or an element of skill, but which of these is the dominating element that determines the result of the game." 194 Neb. at 716-17, 235 N.W.2d at 400 (quoting Baedaro v. Caldwell, 156 Neb. 489, 56 N.W.2d 705 (1953). The Supreme Court affirmed the lower court's determination that the games at issue were prohibited games of chance, noting that "the predominant purpose of the games in issue was chance." 194 Neb. at 719, 235 N.W.2d at 401.

Finally, in State ex rel. Spire v. Strawberries, Inc., 239 Neb. 1, 473 N.W.2d 428 (1991), the Court considered whether certain video gambling devices, authorized by a 1987 statute excluding mechanical, computer, electronic, or video gaming devices capable of awarding free games from the definition of "gambling device" under § 28-1107(2) (1989), were legal. The devices in question allowed the play of various games, including video poker, blackjack, and dice. Id. at 4, 473 N.W.2d at 432. The Attorney General argued that the statute purporting to authorize such devices violated the prohibition in art. III, § 24, against the Legislature's authorization of "games of chance."

In addressing the constitutionality of the statute, the Court stated that the "constitutional provision (art. III, § 24) has remained relatively unchanged since 1875", and, "{c}orrespondingly, the statute relating to the 'possession of gambling devices' enacted pursuant to {the} constitutional provision {had} also remained relatively unchanged for 100 years." Id. at 6, 473 N.W.2d at 433. Discussing the scope of the prohibition against "games of chance" in the Constitution, the Court stated:

> Neb. Const. art. III, § 24, is in clear and unambiguous language and can be divided into three elements: (1) chance: "{t}he Legislature shall not authorize any game of chance"; (2) consideration: "when the consideration for a chance to participate involves the payment of money"; and (3) prize: "for the purchase of property {or} services."
>
> In defining these elements, this court has held that a game of chance is one in which the result as to success or failure depends less on the skill and experience of the player than on purely fortuitous or accidental circumstances incidental to the game or the manner of playing it or on the device or apparatus with which it is played. Indoor Recreation Enterprises, Inc. v. Douglas, 194 Neb. 715, 235 N.W.2d 398 (1975). See, also, CONtact, Inc. v. State, 212 Neb. 584, 324 N.W.2d 804 (1982) (a game of chance is one in which the winner is determined by mere luck and not by skill; the predominant nature of the game, i.e., skill or chance, determines its classification). Free replays are things of value and when obtained on a gambling device constitute property within the meaning of Neb. Const. art. III, § 24. Baedaro v. Caldwell, 156 Neb. 489, 56 N.W.2d 706 (1953).

239 Neb. at 7, 473 N.W.2d at 434.

Applying the test for determining if a game constitutes a prohibited "game of chance", the Court determined the statute purporting to authorize the video gaming devices was unconstitutional, stating:

> Section 28-1107(2) attempts to exempt devices which would normally fall under the "games of chance" prohibition by redefining them. Subsection (2) provides that subsection (1) shall not apply to games used for amusement only and also attempts to exclude free replays from being considered as property under the "prize" element. Neb. Const. art. III, § 24, is clear. The court has already ruled that free replays on a device otherwise considered a gambling device constitute property within the meaning of the prohibition.
> The Legislature cannot avoid constitutional provisions by statutorily redefining constitutionally unacceptable activity. The Legislature's power of definition may not be employed to nullify or circumvent the provisions of the Nebraska Constitution. MAPCO Ammonia Pipeline v. State Bd. of Equal., 238 Neb. 565, 471 N.W.2d 734 (1991). To redefine the activity that the Legislature seeks to permit would require an amendment to this state's Constitution. Absent such an amendment, § 28-1107(2) is unconstitutional for being in contravention of the express provision of Neb. Const. art. III, § 24.

239 Neb. at 8, 473 N.W.2d at 434.

III. "Slot Machines" and Electronic Gaming Devices - Permissible "Lotteries" or Prohibited "Games of Chance"?

Article III, § 24, provides, in part:

(1) Except as provided in this section, the Legislature shall not authorize any game of chance or any lottery or gift enterprise when the consideration for a chance to participate involves the payment of money or the purchase of property, services, or a chance or admission ticket or requires an expenditure of substantial effort or time. (emphasis added).

Under subsection (2) of art. III, § 24, "{t}he Legislature may authorize and regulate a state lottery. . .and other lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises. . .the proceeds of which are to be used solely for charitable or community betterment purposes. . . ." (emphasis added).

The issue raised by your request is whether slot machines or other electronic gaming devices may be authorized by the Legislature as "lotteries" whose proceeds are used for community betterment purposes.

Initially, resolution of this issue would seem to be a simple matter. As noted previously, the Nebraska Supreme Court has held on several occasions that, in order for a scheme to constitute a "lottery", it must contain three elements: (1) prize; (2) chance; and (3) consideration. CONtact, Inc. v. State, 212 Neb. 584, 324 N.W.2d 804 (1982); State ex rel. Line v. Grant, 162 Neb. 210, 75 N.W.2d 611 (1956). In Video Consultants of Nebraska, Inc. v. Douglas, 219 Neb. 868, 367 N.W.2d 697 (1985), the Court held that a "video lottery" constituted a permissible "lottery" as that term was defined by statute, and that the video and electronic machines used to conduct the lottery did not fall within the statutory definition of unlawful "gambling devices". Under this broad definition of "lottery", "slot machines" have been found to be "lotteries". E.g., State v. Village of Garden City, 74 Idaho 513, 265 P.2d 328 (1953); State v. Marck, 124 Mont. 178, 220 P.2d 1017 (1950); see Annot., 101 A.L.R. 1126 (1936); 38 Am.Jur.2d Gambling § 71 (1969).

We do not, however, believe that application of this broad definition of lottery results in a proper construction of that term as it is used in that portion art. III, § 24, permitting the Legislature to authorize "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises" whose proceeds are used for community betterment purposes. We reach this conclusion for two reasons.

First, while the Nebraska Supreme Court has employed the broad definition of lottery as any scheme involving the three elements of prize, chance, and consideration in a number of cases, it has done so in the context of applying statutory definitions of "lottery" to particular activities. Most significantly, Video Consultants of Nebraska, Inc. v. State involved only issues of whether the video gaming activities at issue constituted a "lottery" or involved use of unlawful "gaming devices" as those terms were defined by the Legislature; no issue was raised as to whether the video gaming activity was a permissible form of "lottery" under the Constitution.[8]

Second, application of the broad definition of lottery fails to give proper consideration to the constitutional prohibition against the Legislature's authorization of "any game of chance". The Nebraska Supreme Court has, of course, held that various forms of gambling constitute "games of chance" prohibited under art. III, § 24. State ex rel. Spire v. Strawberries, Inc., 239 Neb. 1, 473 N.W.2d 428 (1991) (video poker, blackjack, and dice devices); Indoor Recreation Enterprises, Inv. v. Douglas, 194 Neb. 715, 235 N.W.2d 398 (1975) (card games, including poker); and Baedaro v. Caldwell, 156 Neb. 489, 56 N.W.2d 706 (1953) (pinball machine). "Slot machines" have often been held to constitute "games of chance". E.g., State v. Busch, 59 R.I. 382, 195 A. 487 (1937); Territory v. Jones, 14 N.M. 579, 99 P. 338 (1908); see Annot., 135 A.L.R. 104, 138-41 (1941); 38 Am.Jur.2d Gambling § 88 (1969).

Thus, as we see it, the crucial issue is whether "slot machines" or other electronic gaming devices are forms of "lotteries" which the Legislature may authorize for community betterment purposes under art. III, § 24, or whether "slot machines" or other electronic gaming devices are "games of chance" which the Legislature is prohibited from authorizing under art. III, § 24.[9] The Nebraska Supreme Court has not been required to address this issue.

While our Supreme Court has not been called upon to address an issue of this nature, the Supreme Court of South Dakota, in Poppen v. Walker, 520 N.W.2d 238 (1994) recently addressed a similar question. At issue in Poppen was whether "video lottery" was a permissible form of "lottery" under an amendment to the South Dakota Constitution authorizing a "state lottery", or whether it was a "game of chance" prohibited under the Constitution. Id. at 240-41.

Article III, § 25, of the South Dakota Constitution, adopted in 1889, provided: "The legislature shall not authorize any game of chance, lottery, or gift enterprise, under any pretense, or for any purpose whatever." In 1970, an amendment to this provision was approved authorizing the legislature to allow veterans, charitable, educational, religious, fraternal, other specified organizations to conduct games of chance for public purposes. In 1982, a proposed amendment to this constitutional provision which would have allowed the legislature to authorize games of chance "or coin operated gaming machines, bingo, lotteries, and card games", was rejected by South Dakota voters. Later, in 1986, the electorate approved an amendment to art. III, § 25, permitting the legislature to authorize a "state lottery". 520 N.W.2d at 240. After adoption of the 1986 amendment, the South Dakota Legislature, in 1987, enacted statutes creating an instant "scratch and match" lottery game. In 1989, legislation authorizing "video lottery" was enacted in South Dakota. The "video lottery" consisted of electronic devices which permitted the play of varieties of the games of poker, blackjack, bingo, and keno. Id. at 240-41.

Initially, the Court in Poppen noted that the term "lottery", which was not defined in the Constitution, was ambiguous, and susceptible of two meanings. Analyzing various dictionary definitions of the term, the Court noted that, "in its usual sense the dictionary definition of the term 'lottery' appears to contemplate the sale of tokens or tickets and a drawing for prize,. . . ." Id. at 242. It further noted, however, that "some subsensal definitions {of lottery} appear to be broader in scope to include any event whose outcome is dependent on chance." Id. (footnote omitted). In this context, it recognized the broad definition of "lottery" which had evolved in the organic law as "any plan or scheme which has three essential elements: 1) a prize, 2) the element of chance, and 3) consideration paid for the opportunity of winning the prize." Id. at 243. Because the term "lottery" has more than one meaning, the South Dakota Court found it was necessary to construe its meaning in the context of the 1986 amendment. Id.

The Court proceeded to analyze the nature of South Dakota's original constitutional provision, which, like Nebraska's, contained a prohibition against any "game of chance, lottery, or gift enterprise." In this regard, the Court stated:

> Original state constitutional provisions prohibiting lotteries varied in language. Most either prohibited lotteries outright or prohibited the legislature from authorizing them. Others prohibited "gift enterprises" as well as lotteries. A few, including South Dakota, prohibited any "game of chance, lottery, or gift enterprise." None of the constitutional provisions cited define the term "lottery."
>
> Most states have enacted statutes prohibiting lotteries and other forms of gambling, either pursuant to self-executing constitutional mandates or under the general police power, or both. 28 Am.Jur.2d Gambling, § 57 (1968). Under the constitutional mandates and statutes prohibiting lotteries as a matter of public policy, the courts developed a broad definition of the term "lottery" in order to dissuade all sorts of ingenious attempts to circumvent the prohibition. Absent any statutory definition, courts generally hold that any enterprise, whether it be a plan, scheme, or other artifice, is a "lottery" if the three elements of chance, prize and consideration are present. This broad definition is used especially when the issue is whether a scheme, plan or device falls under a constitutional provision in which the only prohibition is against a lottery.
>
>
> As opposed to those constitutional provisions which prohibit only lotteries, our constitution prohibits the legislature from authorizing three items: games of chance, lotteries, and gift enterprises.
>
> When a constitution prohibits both games of chance and lotteries, the question arises as to the distinction between the two terms. When both terms are used, the term "lottery" has a narrower meaning in that it is a special form of game of chance. Contact, Inc. v. State, 212 Neb. 584, 324 N.W.2d 804 (1982). It is the term "game of chance" which has a broad generic meaning.

520 N.W.2d at 243-44 (footnotes omitted) (emphasis added).

The Court continued by defining "game of chance" as follows:

> A game of chance is one which the result as to success or failure depends less on the skill and experience of the player than on a purely fortuitous circumstance incidental to the game, or the manner > of playing it, or the device or apparatus with which it is played. Baedaro v. Caldwell, 156 Neb. 489, 56 N.W.2d 706, 709 (1953). It is a contest wherein chance predominates over skill. Bayer v. Johnson, 349 N.W.2d 447, 449 (S.D. 1984). The test is whether chance is the determining element in the outcome of the game. Stubbs v. Dick, 89 N.E.2d 480, 482 (Ohio, 1949). The three elements of prize, chance, and consideration are present in a game of chance. Automatic Music and Vending v. Liquor, 426 Mich. 452, 396 N.W.2d 204 (1986). It is an encompassing definition which includes most forms of gaming. . . .

520 N.W.2d at 244-45 (emphasis added).

Based on this analysis, the South Dakota Court > conclude{d} that by separately stating the terms "game of chance" and "lottery," the framers of the original provision intended the term "game of chance" to be broad in scope, including most forms of gaming, and the term "lottery" in the narrower sense contemplating the sale of tokens or tickets to large numbers of people for the chance to share in the distribution of prizes for the purpose of raising public revenue.

Id. at 245.

The Poppen Court then undertook an analysis of the circumstances surrounding the 1986 amendment to South Dakota's Constitution authorizing a "state lottery". It began by noting that the Legislature, after the 1970 amendment permitting the authorization of "games of chance" conducted by veterans, charitable, and other organizations, allowed only bingo and lotteries consisting of the sale of tickets and a drawing for prizes. Id. at 245. The Court stated that, "{b}y restricting the forms of 'games of chance' authorized,. . ., it {was} clear that the legislature did not intend to authorize 'games of chance' which might take the form of slot machines, card games, roulette, craps, and other games which would fall within the broad definition of 'games of chance' or 'lottery.' " Id. at 245-56.

The Court also noted the defeat in 1982 of the proposed amendment to allow "wagering on coin-operated gaming machines", as well as "bingo, lotteries, and card games", and the rejection of specific language authorizing "video poker" in the 1986 proposal submitted to the voters, as evidence of a distinction between gaming activities involving such devices and "lotteries". Id. at 246. It also emphasized that, after adoption of the 1986 amendment approving a state lottery, only a "scratch and match" ticket lottery was adopted by the Legislature, and that this form of lottery, along with so-called "on-line lotteries", were the predominant forms of state-sanctioned lotteries in operation at that time. Id. at 246-47.[10] Stating that "if possible, we must endeavor to construe the term 'lottery' in the amendment in the same sense as in the original provision", the Court > conclude{d} from the applicable rules of construction, the modern dictionary definitions of the term "lottery," and the history of and circumstances surrounding the 1986 amendment, that the people adopting it had in mind the same concept of lottery as did our forefathers: a plan or scheme involving the sale of tokens or tickets to a large number of participants for the chance to share in the distribution of prizes by drawing or lot for the purpose of raising public revenue.

Id. at 247.

Finally, the Court in Poppen analyzed whether "video lottery" constituted a "game of chance" prohibited by the State Constitution. In this respect, the Court stated:

> One element which distinguishes a game of chance from a lottery as we have defined it, is that a "game of chance" encompasses less pervasive games which involve one or several players as opposed to a large number. Another distinction is that in a lottery, skill, choice or control of the player has no place. A token or ticket is purchased by the participant with no idea of the potential result. The participant buys a ticket and takes a chance; whether the participant is a winner or a loser is completely a matter of fate. In games of chance other than lotteries, the player has some conscious control over his input.
> These distinctions place video lottery in the category of a "game of chance" as contemplated in our constitution. In video lottery, there is only one participant playing the machine; there is no ticket or token sold or drawing held in its usual sense, and there are choices available to the participant in playing the game, which choices affect the outcome.

Id. at 247,

The South Dakota Court concluded by stating as follows:

> We are firmly convinced beyond any reasonable doubt that video lottery is not a "lottery" as contemplated under our constitution but is a "game of chance" which is prohibited by Article III, § 25. Were we to adopt the State's definition of lottery (any plan, scheme, game, or enterprise which contains the elements of prize, chance, and consideration), the legislature would be empowered to sanction just about any form of gambling heretofore so vigorously suppressed by constitutional provisions, statutes, and the courts. The State's argument turns the public policy against gambling inside out by contending that the people have empowered the legislature to sanction any form of gaming which contains the "three elements." Theoretically, slot machines would be constitutionally authorized, as would all other forms of gaming heretofore prohibited as lotteries by the organic law.
> The 1986 amendment was an exception to the general prohibition against gambling. The intent of the people in adopting that amendment was not to give the legislature carte blanche power to authorize any form of gaming which contains the elements of prize, chance, and consideration. The sole power granted was to authorize "a state lottery", not state "games of chance."

Id. at 248 (emphasis added).

We believe that the decision in Poppen is persuasive authority supporting the conclusion that "slot machines" or other electronic gaming devices are properly viewed as "games of chance" prohibited by Neb. Const. art. III, § 24, and not permissible "lotteries" which may be authorized for community betterment purposes. Nebraska's Constitution, like South Dakota's, has long contained a provision barring the Legislature from authorizing any "games of chance, lotteries, or gift enterprises." Also, Nebraska, like South Dakota, has enacted certain amendments to its Constitution allowing exceptions, including the conduct of "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises" for charitable or community betterment purposes. We agree with the South Dakota Court's conclusion that, "{w}hen a constitution prohibits both games of chance and lotteries, the question arises as to the distinction between the two terms." 520 N.W.2d at 244. "When both terms are used, the term 'lottery' has a narrower meaning in that it is a special form of game of chance. . . .It is the term 'game of chance' which has a broad generic meaning." Id. (citation omitted).

The term "game of chance" under Nebraska's Constitution refers to any game in which chance is the predominant element, as opposed to skill, "when the consideration for a chance to participate involves the payment of money or the purchase of property {or} services." State ex rel. Spire v. Strawberries, Inc., 239 Neb. at 7, 473 N.W.2d at 434. The three elements of prize, chance, and consideration are present in a game of chance. Poppen v. Walker, 520 N.W.2d at 245. If the term "lotteries" under the exception in art. III, § 24, authorizing the Legislature to permit "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises" for community betterment purposes, is construed to authorize any scheme involving the elements of prize, chance, and consideration, the prohibition against "games of chance" would be rendered meaningless. "It is a fundamental principle of constitutional interpretation that each and every clause within a constitution has been inserted for a useful purpose." Day v. Nelson, 240 Neb. 997, 1000, 485 N.W.2d 583, 585-86 (1992). A constitutional provision "must be construed as a whole, and no part will be rejected as meaningless or surplusage, if such can be avoided." State ex rel. State Ry. Comm'n v. Ramsey, 151 Neb. 333, 340-41, 37 N.W.2d 502, 507 (1949). In order to give effect to the separate recognition of "games of chance" and "lotteries" under art. III, § 24, the term "games of chance" must be interpreted as a broad prohibition against gambling activities, and the term "lotteries", under the exception allowing such for community betterment purposes, must be interpreted in a narrower sense, as involving schemes in which tickets or tokens are distributed or sold and prize winners are either secretly predetermined or ultimately selected by some form of random drawing. The American Heritage College Dictionary (3d ed. 1993).[11]

In addition, Nebraska, like South Dakota, has historically prohibited gambling and lottery activities. As noted at length in our earlier discussion of the history of Nebraska's constitutional and statutory provisions concerning "games of chance" and "lotteries", such activities have long been barred in Nebraska, and only limited exceptions to the constitutional prohibitions have been approved over the years. We have examined the history behind the amendment submitted to the voters in 1968 to alter art. III, § 24, to permit "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises" for charitable or community betterment purposes. Nothing in the history of the amendment reveals any intent to permit the Legislature to authorize gambling in the nature of "slot machines" or other types of "casino gambling" as "lotteries". Clearly, the voters who approved the 1968 amendment did not understand that it would give the Legislature the power to authorize all forms of gambling activity involving prize, chance, and consideration, which, as noted, would include all "games of chance" which have historically been banned under our Constitution and statutes.[12]

Finally, the Court in Poppen noted that "games of chance" were distinguishable from "lotteries" in that they generally involve only one or a limited number of players; no ticket or token is sold or drawing held; and players exercise some choice affecting the outcome of the game. 520 N.W.2d at 247. While it is true that a traditional "slot machine" does not involve any exercise of choice by the player, as contemplated by the Court in Poppen, this does not mean that "slot machines" should be considered "lotteries" rather than "games of chance." Indeed, it is clear the South Dakota Court considered "slot machines" to be unconstitutional games of chance.[13] More importantly, the Nebraska Supreme Court has held that pinball machines (Baedaro v. Caldwell) and video poker, blackjack and dice devices (State ex rel. Spire v. Strawberries, Inc.) are "games of chance" prohibited under the Nebraska Constitution. "Slot machines" or other electronic gaming devices thus are properly viewed as "games of chance" prohibited under art. III, § 24, and not forms of "lotteries" which may be authorized by the Legislature for community betterment purposes.

IV. Conclusion.

Based on the foregoing, we conclude that the Legislature may not enact legislation to permit the use of "slot machines" or other "electronic gaming devices" under the constitutional grant permitting the Legislature to authorize "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises. . .the proceeds of which are used solely for charitable or community betterment purposes." Under Article III, § 24, the Legislature is precluded from authorizing "any game of chance or any lottery or any gift enterprise" except as provided in the Constitution. In our opinion, "slot machines" or other forms of "electronic gaming devices" fall within the category of "games of chance" prohibited by the Constitution, and not "lotteries" which the Legislature may sanction under its authority to permit "lotteries" for charitable or community betterment purposes. Accordingly, "slot machines" or other "electronic gaming devices" may not be authorized by the Legislature for these purposes absent an amendment to the Nebraska Constitution.

[1] For purposes of this opinion, we assume that your reference to "slot machines" or other "video or electronic gaming devices" is intended to encompass gaming devices in the nature of traditional "slot machines", or some video device based on a "slot machine" theme, and video or electronic devices based on games such as poker, blackjack, dice, or other forms of gambling.

[2] The game of "keno" is defined as a game "in which a player selects up to twenty numbers from a total of eighty numbers on a paper ticket and a computer, other electronic device, or electrically operated blower machine which is not player-activated randomly selects up to twenty numbers from the same pool of eighty numbers and the winning players are determined by the correct matching of the numbers on the paper ticket selected by the players with the numbers selected by the computer, other electronic selection device, or electrically operated blower machine, except that no keno game shall permit or require player access or activation of lottery equipment and the random selection of numbers by the computer, other electronic device, or electrically operated blower machine shall not occur within five minutes of the completion of the previous selection of random numbers. . . ." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-607(1)(c)(ii) (Cum. Supp. 1994).

[3] Lotteries by the sale of pickle cards are governed by the provisions of the Nebraska Pickle Card Lottery Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 9-301 to -356 (1991, Cum. Supp. 1994 and Supp. 1995).

[4] In addition, the Legislature has acted to permit "raffles" by non-profit organizations for charitable purposes and "gift enterprises" used solely for business promotions under the authority provided under art. III, § 24, and has adopted definitions for these terms. Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-415(1) (Cum. Supp. 1994) ("Raffle" under the Nebraska Lottery and Raffle Act); Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-509(1) (Cum. Supp. 1994) ("Raffle" under the Nebraska Small Lottery and Raffle Act); and Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-701(1)(a) (Cum. Supp. 1994) ("Gift enterprises"). The definitions of "raffle" exclude any gambling scheme using a "mechanical, computer, electronic, or video gaming device. . . ." Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 9-415(2) and 9-509(2) (Cum. Supp. 1994). The definition of "gift enterprise" excludes "any scheme using the game of bingo or keno; any non-telecommunication-related, player-activated electronic or electromechanical facsimile of any game of chance; or any slot machine of any kind." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-701(1)(a) (Cum. Supp. 1994).

[5] The ban against the Legislature's authorization of parimutuel wagering on the results of horse races was, of course, removed by adoption of the 1934 amendment to art. III, § 24.

[6] These decision pre-date the adoption of the 1968 amendment to art. III, § 24, authorizing the Legislature to permit "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises which are intended solely as business promotions. . . ." Pursuant to that amendment, the Legislature has authorized the conduct of "gift enterprises" conducted solely as "business promotions". Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-701 (Cum. Supp. 1994).

[7] The Court noted that, in 1984, the Legislature amended the statute defining "lottery" and specified that it did not include any gambling scheme involving mechanical, computer, electronic, or video gaming devices. 219 Neb. at 869, 367 N.W.2d at 698; 1984 Neb. Laws, LB 744, §1 (codified at Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-1101(6) (Cum. Supp. 1983)). Because the legality of activities conducted under the earlier statutes continued to raise questions of potential civil or criminal liability, the Court proceeded to address the issue of the legality of the use of the electronic gaming machines under the prior statutes.

[8] The decision in CONtact, Inc. v. State also involved consideration only of whether the sale of "pickle cards" constituted a permissible "lottery" under a legislative definition of the term. Also, while the Court in CONtact, Inc. noted that the statute defining "lottery" in relation to the three elements of prize, chance, and consideration was "a codification of earlier case law" (212 Neb. at 587, 324 N.W.2d at 806), it must be remembered that such case law predated the 1968 constitutional amendment to art. III, § 24, allowing the Legislature to authorize "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises" for charitable or community betterment purposes. These decisions occurred when Nebraska's Constitution and statutes generally prohibited any "games of chance, lottery, or gift enterprise", thus obviating the need to make any distinction between "games of chance" and "lotteries".

[9] This office has rendered a number of opinions on questions relating to gambling issues. See Op. Att'y. Gen. No. 284 (Nov. 12, 1982) (classic "slot machines" were prohibited "gambling devices" under statute); Op. Att'y Gen. No. 133 (Aug. 9, 1983) (use of video machines in conduct of lottery likely prohibited by statute defining "gambling device", but use of video machines not necessarily barred by Constitution); Op. Att'y Gen. No. 59 (April 10, 1985) (games such as roulette, blackjack, craps, or other casino games permissible under statute defining "lottery"); Op. Att'y Gen. No. 25 (Feb. 26, 1985) and Op. Att'y Gen. No. 87062 (April 24, 1987) (legislation authorizing wagering on sporting events unconstitutional as authorizing prohibited "game of chance"); Op. Att'y Gen. No. 87084 (May 29, 1987) (legislation authorizing unlimited free games for playing coin-operated video gaming device authorizes impermissible "game of chance" contrary to art. III, § 24). None of these opinions, however, address the issue presented.

[10] It is worth pointing out that the Court specifically noted that, prior to South Dakota's authorization of "video lottery", a legislative committee concluded a "video lottery" could be implemented under the constitutional grant to create a "state lottery", relying on Video Consultants of Nebraska, Inc. v. Douglas, 219 Neb. 868, 367 N.W.2d 697 (1985). The South Dakota Supreme Court recognized that "{t}he court in Video Consultants was not construing the Nebraska constitutional provision, but was determining the applicability of a series of statutes enacted under the general police power, one of which broadly defined the term "lottery" and "{t}hat the state on appeal conceded that the video device was a lottery. . . ." 520 N.W.2d at 246. The Court properly concluded that Video Consultants "does not in any way stand for the proposition that video lottery is permissible under the Nebraska Constitution." Id.

[11] While this definition is somewhat broader than that adopted by the South Dakota Court in Poppen, we believe it is appropriate, in that it is consistent with the common understanding of the term. Moreover, existing "lotteries" authorized under the Nebraska statutes governing permissible "lotteries" for charitable or community betterment purposes, including the Nebraska Pickle Card Lottery Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 9-301 to -356 (1991, Cum. Supp. 1994 and Supp. 1995) and the Nebraska County and City Lottery Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 9-601 to -653 91991, Cum. Supp. 1994 and 1995), would satisfy this definition of "lottery".

[12] We recognize that art. III, § 24, was amended in 1992 to allow the Legislature to authorize a "state lottery". That amendment, however, did not effect any change to the language relating to the Legislature's power to authorize "lotteries" for charitable or community betterment purposes. For purposes of addressing the issue raised by your request, therefore, it is appropriate to examine the history behind the 1968 amendment creating this exception.

[13] In discussing the State's argument that the broad definition of lottery as any scheme involving prize, chance, and consideration should be adopted, the Court singled out "slot machines" as being among the forms of gambling "{t}heoretically" authorized by such a construction of the Constitution. 520 N.W.2d at 248. The Court, of course, declined to adopt such a construction.

DATE: November 13, 1995

SUBJECT: Application of the Requirements of Art. XVI, § 1 of the Nebraska Constitution Pertaining to Separate Presentation of Constitutional Amendments on the Ballot to Constitutional Amendments Proposed by the Nebraska Legislature

REQUESTED BY: Senator Ron Withem
Nebraska State Legislature

Dale A. Comer, Assistant Attorney General

Art. XVI, § 1 of the Nebraska Constitution pertains to amendment of that document, and the final sentence of that constitutional provision directs, "{w}hen two or more {constitutional} amendments are submitted at the same election, they shall be so submitted as to enable the electors to vote on each amendment separately." In your opinion request, you state, "I intend to introduce a constitutional amendment during the upcoming legislative session which will attempt to address both the issue of property tax relief and equal educational opportunity for all of Nebraska's students." You then ask,

> . . . whether, pursuant to 49-202.01 and Article XVI, Section 1 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska, the Executive Board {of the Nebraska Legislature} would be required to submit ballot language to the Secretary of State in such a way as to require a vote on the changes made in each of Articles VII and VIII separately, or whether the amendment could be submitted in its entirety requiring only one vote on the proposal as a whole.

Neb. Rev. Stat. § 49-202.01 (Cum. Supp. 1994) generally pertains to the duties of the Executive Board of the Legislative Council with respect to the preparation of ballot titles for constitutional amendments proposed by the Legislature. That statute does not deal directly, in any way, with the portion of Art. XVI, § 1 which requires that separate constitutional amendments must be presented to the voters separately. Therefore, we must focus on the constitutional provision in order to answer your inquiry.

A number of states have constitutional provisions which require that, when more than one proposed constitutional amendment is proposed to the voters, each of those amendments must be presented to the voters so that it can be voted upon separately. Fugina v. Donovan, 259 Minn. 35, 104 N.W.2d 911 (1960); Annotation, Proposition submitted to people as covering one or more than one proposed constitutional amendment within contemplation of constitutional provision in that regard, 94 A.L.R. 1510 (1935); 16 C.J.S. Constitutional Law § 13. Such provisions are mandatory. State ex rel. Thompson v. Winnett, 78 Neb. 379, 110 N.W. 1113 (1907); 16 C.J.S. Constitutional Law § 13. Their purpose is to prevent deceit of the public along with logrolling, hodge-podge legislation or jockeying, where voters are required to vote for something which they do not support in order to also vote for something which they do support. 16 Am. Jur. 2d Constitutional Law § 48. As noted in the Fugina case from Minnesota:

> The constitutional mandate that multifarious amendments shall be submitted separately has two great objectives. The first is to prevent imposition upon or deceit of the public by the presentation of a proposal which is misleading or the effect of which is concealed or not readily understandable. The second is to afford voters freedom of choice and prevent "logrolling," or the combining of unrelated proposals in order to secure approval by appealing to different groups which will support the entire proposal in order to secure some part of it although perhaps disapproving of other parts.

104 N.W.2d 911 at 914.

Our research disclosed no Nebraska cases in which the Nebraska Supreme Court has directly considered the requirements of Art. XVI, § 1 of the Constitution pertaining to the separate presentation of separate constitutional amendments. However, in In re Senate File 31, 25 Neb. 864, 41 N.W. 981 (1889), the Court noted that separate constitutional amendments must be presented to voters separately, and the court concluded that the Constitution was not violated in that case by alternative constitutional amendments which were not so mutually dependent upon each other as to give the impression that the Legislature intended them to be considered as a whole. Based upon language from the Senate File 31 case, we stated in 1971-72 Rep. Att'y Gen. 211 (Opinion No. 90, dated January 19, 1972) that:

> {t}he quality of independence of intent and effect, therefore, seems to be the criterion in determining whether separate {constitutional} amendments are involved {under Art. XVI, § 1}. Thus, two provisions which are logically independent of each other, in that either would have full effect and purpose without the other, and would reflect a whole popular wish, should be considered two amendments and submitted separately. This conclusion would apply even where the two provisions relate to the same section of the Constitution.

Id. at 213.

Apart from the Senate File 31 case, the Nebraska Supreme Court also indirectly considered the requirements of the final sentence of Art. XVI, § 1 in Munch v. Tusa, 140 Neb. 457, 300 N.W. 385 (1941). That case, in part, involved the necessity for separate presentation of proposals to amend the Omaha City Charter, and the Nebraska Supreme Court stated:

> The rule has been laid down that a constitutional amendment which embraces several subjects, all of which are germane (near or akin) to the general subject of the amendment, will, under such a requirement, be upheld as valid and may be submitted to the people as a single proposition. . . . In State v. Wetz {40 N.D. 299, 168 N.W. 835 (1918)}, it was said that the controlling consideration in determining the singleness of an amendment is its singleness of purpose and the relationship of the details to the general subject.

The rule followed by a majority of American jurisdictions is to the effect that where the limits of a proposed law, have natural and necessary connection with each other, and, together, are a part of one general subject, the proposal is a single and not a dual proposition.

Id. at 463, 300 N.W. 389. (Emphasis added).

Our 1972 opinion notwithstanding, we believe that the Nebraska Supreme Court would be most likely to follow its formulation of the dual amendments rule in the more recent Munch case in determining whether two amendments proposed for the Nebraska Constitution require separate presentation to the voters, in part because the Munch rule appears to be the majority rule. Under that rule, two proposals may be submitted as a single proposition if they have a natural and necessary connection with one another, and if they are part of one general subject.

In the present instance, you have not provided us with any particulars of your proposed amendments for Art. VII and Art. VIII of the Nebraska Constitution except to state that they "will attempt to address both the issue of property tax relief and equal educational opportunity for all of Nebraska's students." Without the particulars of your proposals including the specific language at issue, it is impossible for us to evaluate them under the standard set out above. However, it seems to us, in a general sense, that proposals related to property tax relief and equal educational opportunity do not have such a natural and necessary connection with one another as to make them part of one general subject. As a result, we believe that those proposals should be separately set forth on the ballot based upon the information currently before us.

In your opinion request, you also asked, "whether language submitted for a vote of the people by initiative petition or referendum would be subject to the same requirements as those you determine to apply to the Executive Board of the Legislature in light of the language of Article III, Section 4 referring to constitutional amendments." For the reasons set out below, we must respectfully decline to provide you with the opinion which you requested in this area.

In our Op. Att'y Gen. No. 157 (December 24, 1985) to Senator Beutler, we noted that state officers are entitled to opinions of the Attorney General with respect to questions of law which arise "in the discharge of their duties." Based upon that premise, we will normally provide opinions to members of the Legislature only with respect to pending legislation or with respect to the performance of some function of the Legislature itself. Your second question involves amendment of the Nebraska Constitution through the Initiative process where the parties involved in placing amendments on the ballot are the sponsors of the Initiative measure and the Secretary of State. Since the Legislature has no direct involvement in amendment of the Nebraska Constitution through the Initiative process, we must respectfully decline to issue an opinion to you concerning that process for the reasons stated in our 1985 opinion to Senator Beutler.[1]

[1] While we cannot issue a formal opinion to you in this instance, we will note, for your information, that our preliminary research on the constitutional amendment process has disclosed no Nebraska cases which deal directly with the issues raised in your second question.

Sincerely yours,

Opinion No. 95093

DATE: December 8, 1995

SUBJECT: Municipal power to affect property left vacant for a period of ten years.

REQUESTED BY: Senator Elaine Stuhr
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Don Stenberg, Attorney General
K. Osi Onyekwuluje, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding the constitutionality of a proposed amendment which would cause Neb. Rev. Stat. § 18-1722.01 (1991), to read as follows:

> Whenever the governing body of a municipality of the metropolitan class has decided by resolution or municipality of any other class has made a determination that a property is unsafe or unfit for human occupancy because of one or more violations of its minimum standard housing ordinance or has decided by resolution or other determination, whichever is applicable, that a building is unsafe because of one or more violations of its dangerous building code ordinance, or if the property has been left vacant for a period of ten years or more, it shall be the duty of such municipality to post the property accordingly, and to file a copy of such determination or resolution in the office of the register of deeds of the county to be recorded. No fee shall be charged for such recording or for the release of such recording.

(Proposed added language underlined.)

unfit for human occupancy because of one or more violations of the municipality's minimum standards housing ordinance or dangerous building code ordinance. The statute also requires the municipality to file a copy of this determination or resolution in the office of the county's register of deeds. Your proposed amendment further requires this same filing on any property which has been vacant for a period of ten years or more. For purposes of this opinion, we assume that by vacant, you mean that the property, if a house has not been lived in for a period of ten years or more; and if a real estate, that you mean it has been abandoned, having no heir or claimant.

We begin our analysis by observing that your proposed amendment, on its face, appears to be neither punitive, prohibitory nor confiscatory. The filing required by your proposed amendment does nothing more than put a subsequent purchaser on notice that a property has been vacant for a period of ten years or more. This notice, we presume, is for the benefit of the subsequent purchasers, heirs or possible claimants. As such, the notice requirement appears to us to be both reasonable and free from arbitrariness. If this were the only consequence of your proposed amendment, then we conclude that our courts will, if faced with the issue, find your amendment constitutional.

Our analysis, however, does not end there. If your amendment intends to target properties that are vacant for ten years or more for possible forced repair, rehabilitation or demolition and removal at a cost to the property owner, the result is different. The rules of statutory construction require a court to construe, in pari materia, statutes relating to the same subject matter so as to determine intent thereof. State ex rel. Scherer v. Madison County Com'rs of Madison County, 247 Neb. Neb. 384, 527 N.W.2d 615 (1995). In the case of this Section 18-1723.01 amendment you propose, a court may consider the subject statute, in pari materia, with Neb. Rev. Stat. § 18-1722 (1991), which provides:

> If any owner of any building or structure fails, neglects, or refuses to comply with notice by or on behalf of any city or village to repair, rehabilitate, or demolish and remove a building or structure which is an unsafe building or structure and a public nuisance, the city or village may proceed with the work specified in the notice to the property owner. A statement of the cost of such work shall be transmitted to the governing body. The governing body may:
> (1) Levy the cost as a special assessment against the lot or real estate upon which the building or structure is located. Such special assessment shall be a lien on the real estate and shall be collected in the manner provided for special assessments; or
> (2) Collect the cost from the owner of the building or structure and enforce the collection by civil action in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Were a court to read the two statutory provisions together as the rules of statutory construction may require, it may conclude that your proposed amendment empowers the county to deal with a vacant house as though the house was a nuisance, thereby subject to repair or demolition. If this is done, then the issue a court will decide becomes whether a municipality may, with legislative authority, declare a property which has merely been vacant for ten years or more, a public nuisance subject to abatement. We think not. The amendment of § 18-1722.01 as you propose, raises constitutional concerns regarding the proper use of the State's or a municipality's police powers, as well as concerns over the unconstitutional taking or damaging of property without just compensation.

The power of a municipality to abate a nuisance in the nonarbitrary and reasonable exercise of its police power is without doubt. Neb. Rev. Stat. § 18-1720 (1991); 56 Am.Jur.2d Municipal Corporations § 437. See, Village of Brady v. Melcher, 243 Neb. 728, 502 N.W.2d 458 (1993). Likewise, it is without doubt that ordinarily a property owner does not have and cannot acquire a vested right, or constitutional privilege to maintain or continue a nuisance. Id. at 733. While a legislature or municipality has the power to abate a nuisance, the subject of its laws or regulations must nonetheless be first classified and qualified as a nuisance.

A nuisance can be described as an activity which arises from unreasonable, unwarranted or unlawful use by a person of his or her own property which works obstructions or injury to a right of another or to the public, and which provides such material annoyance, inconvenience and discomfort that the law will perceive a resulting damage. 28A Words and Phrases, Nuisance; 56 Am.Jur.2d Municipal Corporations, § 443.

Thus, a building or other property may become a nuisance by virtue of its inherent unsafety or through some harmful or illegal use. As such, it can be said that it creates a hazard to health, safety or welfare and that a nuisance exists as a matter of law which may be abated by the government. Likewise, a building or other property which houses particular types of businesses or which are used for particular purposes may constitute nuisances depending upon the circumstances of the uses. However, a building (especially) or other property which is otherwise fit for human use or habitation, is not a nuisance per se or nuisance at law, even though it is unsightly, or is old and dilapidated. Its classification as such must depend on the particular circumstances of the uses made of the property. 58 Am.Jur.2d Nuisances §§ 162, 163; 56 Am.Jur.2d Municipal Corporations § 444.

It follows a fortiari that unless the use that is made of a property is such that the property can be deemed to be detrimental to the safety, health and welfare of the public or injurious to another, the property is not a nuisance. The mere fact alone that the property has been vacant for ten years or more cannot validly be said to make it detrimental to the safety, health and welfare, and therefore, a nuisance. An attempt by a government to abate such a use or nonuse of property cannot be justified as a reasonable exercise of the police power, as there is no rational relationship between the property's vacancy and protection of basic societal interest. 16A Am.Jur2d Constitutional Law §§ 384, 385,

397; 56 Am.Jur.2d Municipal Corporations § 444. Nor can such legislation even be justified as a reasonable one when it leads also to a taking or damaging of property by governmental action without just compensation being paid. Neb. Const. article I, § 21; 56 Am.Jur.2d § Municipal Corporations § 437; City of Scottsbluff v. Winters Creek Canal Co., 155 Neb. 723, 53 N.W.2d 543 (1952). (The general power of a city to declare, prevent or abate nuisances does not include the power to declare anything a nuisance which is not one in fact or per se.)

This does not mean that the legislature or municipality cannot validly declare a property to be a nuisance when the property in question has not only been left vacant, but has for other reasons been found detrimental to the public safety, health and welfare, or is found to be similarly injurious to another property owner. An example of such a property that may be found detrimental to the public safety, etc., is one which has been left vacant and is being used as a haven for drug dealers, prostitution, etc., or one that becomes a municipal blight.

In conclusion, therefore, we are of the opinion that a property which has been left vacant for a period of at least ten years, without more, cannot be declared a nuisance subject to abatement, nor can legislation or ordinance aimed at forcing its repair or demolition pass constitutional muster.

Sincerely,
DON STENBERG

Opinion No. 95095

DATE: December 12, 1995

SUBJECT: Legal implications of making "quality education" a "fundamental right" and making a "thorough and efficient" education the "paramount duty" of the State.

REQUESTED BY: State Senator Kate Witek

Steve Grasz, Deputy Attorney General

You have requested the opinion of the Attorney General on a series of legal questions related to a proposed constitutional amendment to Article VII, §1 of the Nebraska Constitution which may be introduced in the upcoming session of the Nebraska Legislature. The proposed amendment is as follows:

~~The Legislature shall provide for the free instruction in the common schools of this state of all persons between the ages of five and twenty-one years.~~ Quality education is essential to the survival of a free society and is a fundamental right of each individual. It is the paramount duty of the State to provide for the thorough and efficient education for all individuals between the ages of five and twenty-one years who are enrolled in the common schools of the State. The Legislature may provide for the education of other persons in educational institutions owned and controlled by the state or a political subdivision thereof.

We will address each question in the order presented.

1. If such amendment were enacted, is it likely that the Nebraska Supreme Court would rule that education has a constitutionally-protected status as a fundamental constitutional right? What judicial analysis would the Nebraska Supreme Court likely employ in analyzing statutes because of this constitutional provision?

No fundamental right to education exists under the United States Constitution. San Antonio Indep. Sch. Dist. v. Rodriguez, 411 U.S. 1, 38-40, 93 S.Ct. 1278, 1299-1300 (1973). However, individual States can create such rights under their State constitutions. The proposed amendment purports on its face to make "quality education" a fundamental right, and would almost certainly be found by a court to effectively create such a right. See Seattle Sch. Dist. No. 1 of King County. v. State, 585 P.2d 71 (Wash. 1978).

Elevating "quality education" to a fundamental right would raise it in status to the level of the right to engage in free speech or to exercise religion free of governmental interference. Doe v. Superintendent of Sch. of Worchester, 653 N.E.2d 1088, 1096 n.4 (Mass. 1995) (quoting Kirby v. Edgewood Indep. Sch. Dist., 761 S.W.2d 859, 863-864 (Tex. Ct. App. 1988), rev'd on other grounds, 777 S.W.2d 391 (Tex. 1989)). Legal actions brought to enforce fundamental constitutional rights pursuant to state due process or equal protection clauses are adjudicated using the highest level of judicial review - strict scrutiny. Under strict scrutiny, a compelling state interest is necessary to justify any impingement on a fundamental constitutional right, rather than just some rational relationship to a legitimate state purpose. Robotham v. State, 241 Neb. 379, 382, 488 N.W.2d 533 (1992). The Nebraska Supreme Court has noted that "In any challenge to a statute under either the Due Process Clause or the Equal Protection Clause, the degree of judicial scrutiny to be focused on the statute is a "dispositive question" (citation omitted) . . . since "if a statute is subject to strict scrutiny the statute always, or nearly always . . . is struck down. . ." Id. at 382. (emphasis added).

Thus, application of strict scrutiny has far-reaching implications. For example, if education were a fundamental right, students caught violating school weapon policies would likely be legally entitled to suspension or provision of alternate education rather than expulsion since expulsion is not the least restrictive alternative. Doe, 653 N.E.2d at 1095.

The impact of making "quality education" a fundamental constitutional right is made evident by examining a recent legal challenge to Nebraska's current school financing system which this office successfully defended. In Gould v. Orr, 244 Neb. 163, 506 N.W.2d 349 (1993), the plaintiffs challenged the constitutionality of Nebraska's statutory framework for financing public education on the basis of disparities in funding among school districts in the state. The trial court held that "education is not a fundamental right subject to strict scrutiny," id. at 164, and granted summary judgement for the State. The Supreme Court, noting that the plaintiff's theory of the case was "that unequal funding equals inadequate education," found that the plaintiff failed to state a cause of action and dismissed the case. A dissenting judge noted that if education was a fundamental right, then any legislation affecting free instruction would be subject to strict scrutiny. Id. at 170, (White, J., dissenting in part). Another dissenting judge noted allegations of lower wages paid to teachers in poorer districts; access to fewer resources such as libraries, updated workbooks and counselors; and the unavailability of advanced courses in math, science, and foreign languages for students in poorer districts. He stated, "These allegations alone would show the inadequacy of the education received by students within poorer districts which result from the alleged economic disparities." Id. at 163 (Lanphier, J., dissenting).

It is clear, then, that making "quality" education a fundamental constitutional right would have dramatic legal consequences. Any legislation affecting that right would be subject to strict judicial scrutiny.

2. Would this be the first time that minors have been empowered with individual rights of any kind in the State of Nebraska? Do you know of any other fundamental rights granted to minors by the Nebraska Constitution?

We are not aware of any other instances where fundamental rights are granted specifically to minors in the Nebraska Constitution. Individual rights are, of course, generally applicable to minors as well as adults. Bellotti v. Baird, 443 U.S. 622, 633 (1979); Application of Gault, 387 U.S. 1, 13 (1967).

3. In the first sentence of the new amended language, a "quality education" is the right of "each individual." In the second sentence of the new amended language, a "thorough and efficient education" is provided to "all individuals between the ages of five and twenty-one years who are enrolled in the common schools of the State." The second sentence seems to place a qualification on "individuals" and the first sentence does not seem to have any qualification on "individual." Would the first sentence apply to each individual in the State of Nebraska regardless of age and regardless of whether the individual is enrolled in a common school? In other words, does everyone have a fundamental right to a quality education?

It is a fundamental principle of constitutional interpretation that each and every clause within the Constitution has been inserted for a useful purpose. Day v. Nelson, 240 Neb. 997, 1000, 485 N.W.2d 583 (1992). It is our opinion that the first clause is a freestanding provision which would grant a fundamental right to a "quality" education to each individual in the State, not just those ages five to twenty-one in the common schools[1].

4. Since this amended language does not define "quality education" how would it likely be defined? In defining "quality education" would sections 79-4,140.01 and 79-4,140.02 of the Nebraska Revised Statutes that reference "quality education" or an administrative definition by the Nebraska Department of Education play an important role?

How "quality education" would be defined is ultimately up to the Nebraska Supreme Court. See Calabro v. City of Omaha, 247 Neb. 955, 972, 531 N.W. 2d 541 (1995); Seattle Sch. Dist. No. 1 of King City v. State, 585 P.2d 71, 87 (Wash. 1978) ("{T}he judiciary has the ultimate power and the duty to interpret, construe and give meaning to words, sections and articles of the constitution."). Thus, the courts rather than the Legislature or the local school boards would ultimately decide the meaning and extent of a "quality education." We note, however, the proposed language is similar to provisions that have led to court intervention in the administration of public schools in other states.

Nebraska's current education clause is a "Category I" clause. William E. Thro, The Role of Language of the State Education Clauses in School Finance Litigation, 79 Ed. Law Rep. 19, 23 n.24 (1993). This means the clause merely mandates a system of free public schools. "Presumably, as long as the state legislature does not abolish the public school system, there can be no violation of the education clause." Id., at 23.

The proposed language, however, would be a "Category IV" clause. Id., at 25. Such clauses make education one of the most important, if not the top, duty of the state (depending on the language used). Only four states currently have constitutions containing Category IV clauses. Id., at 25 n.36. The proposed amendment would, in fact, give Nebraska the most stringent education clause in the United States. As discussed above, the meaning of the phrases "quality education" and "thorough and efficient education" in the proposed amendment would be subject to judicial interpretation by Nebraska Courts. In school finance litigation, courts have generally used one of four analyses in construing specific language contained in education clauses of state constitutions: 1) historical analysis of the framers' intent; 2) plain meaning standard of review; 3) assessment of identical or similar language from other state provisions; or 4) a combination of the first three methods. Davidson, An Anatomy of School Funding Litigation, 72 Ed. Law Rep. 627 (1992). The results of potential litigation construing the proposed language could depend upon which analysis the Nebraska Supreme Court utilized.

Although it is difficult to opine with certainty as to how this matter might be assessed by the Nebraska Supreme Court, it is likely that a "plain meaning" analysis would be utilized to construe the terms "quality education," "fundamental right," and "paramount duty." It has been speculated that under such an analysis, "plaintiffs' prospects {would} be substantially increased . . . {since} . . . the plaintiffs will be able to assert that their state requires more than virtually every other state" constitution. The Role of Language, 79 Ed. Law Rep. at 25 n.36.

Courts in other states have construed similar language, and some guidance may be provided from those decisions. The West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals defined "thorough and efficient" education as follows:

> It develops, as best the state of education expertise allows, the minds, bodies and social morality of its charges to prepare them for useful and happy occupations, recreation and citizenship, and does so economically.
>
> Legally recognized elements in this definition are development in every child to his or her capacity of (1) literacy; (2) ability to add, subtract, multiply and divide numbers; (3) knowledge of government to the extent that the child will be equipped as a citizen to make informed choices among persons and issues that affect his own governance; (4) self-knowledge and knowledge of his or her total environment to allow the child to intelligently choose life work - to know his or her options; (5) work-training and advanced academic training as the child may intelligently choose; (6) recreational pursuits; (7) interest in all creative arts, such as music, theater, literature, and the visual arts; (8) social ethics, both behavioral and abstract, to facilitate compatibility with others in this society.
> Implicit are supportive services: (1) good physical facilities, instructional materials and personnel; (2) careful state and local supervision to prevent waste and to monitor pupil, teacher and administrative competency.

Pauley v. Kelly, 255 S.E.2d 859, 877 (W.Va.1979). The court concluded that the thorough and efficient clause "demonstrates that education is a fundamental constitutional right in this State." Id., at 879. Consequently, the court held that strict scrutiny must be applied to the state financing system and expressed doubt it could be upheld. Id. See also Robinson v. Cahill, 303 A.2d 273, 294 (N.J. 1973) (examining the meaning of a "thorough and efficient" system of public schools, and concluding the clause required equal educational opportunity which was violated by funding disparities.)

The Supreme Court of Kentucky defined an "efficient" system of common schools as follows:

> We concur with the trial court that an efficient system of education must have as its goal to provide each and every child with at least the seven following capacities: (i) sufficient oral and written communication skills to enable students to function in a complex and rapidly changing civilization; (ii) sufficient knowledge of economic, social and political systems to enable the student to make informed choices; (iii) sufficient understanding of governmental processes to enable the student to understand the issues that affect his or her community, state, and nation; (iv) sufficient self-knowledge and knowledge of his or her mental and physical wellness; (v) sufficient grounding in the arts to enable each student to appreciate his or her cultural and historical heritage; (vi) sufficient training or preparation for advanced training in either academic or vocational fields so as to enable each child to choose and pursue life work intelligently; and (vii) sufficient levels of academic or vocational skills to enable public school students to complete favorably with their counterparts in surrounding states in academics or in the job market.

The essential, and minimal, characteristics of an "efficient" system of common schools, may be summarized as follows:

1) The establishment, maintenance and funding of common schools in Kentucky is the sole responsibility of the General Assembly.
2) Common schools shall be free to all.
3) Common schools shall be available to all Kentucky children.
4) Common schools shall be substantially uniform throughout the state.
5) Common schools shall provide equal educational opportunities to all Kentucky children, regardless of place of residence or economic circumstances.
6) Common schools shall be monitored by the General Assembly to assure that they are operated with no waste, no duplication, no mismanagement, and with no political influence.
7) The premise for the existence of common schools is that all children in Kentucky have a constitutional right to an adequate education.
8) The General Assembly shall provide funding which is sufficient to provide each child in Kentucky an adequate education.
9) An adequate education is one which has as its goal the development of the seven capacities recited previously.

Rose v. Council for Better Educ., Inc., 790 S.W.2d 186, 212-213 (1989). The court held that "education is a fundamental right in Kentucky." Id., at 206. The court noted the "great disparity and inadequacy, of financial effort throughout the state," Id., at 213, and concluded the state school system was inefficient and thus the entire system was unconstitutional.

In contrast, the Appellate Court of Illinois examined the meaning of "an efficient system of high quality education." Committee for Educational Rights v. Edgar, 641 N.E.2d 602, 605 (Ill. App. 1994). The court held that "The education article does not mandate equal educational benefits and opportunities among the states school districts. . . ." The court held that "{T}he question of the efficiency of the educational system is properly left to the wisdom of the legislature." Id. (quoting Cronin v. Lindberg 360 N.E.2d 360 (Ill. 1976)). However, it should be noted that the court also held that education was not a fundamental right in Illinois, and thus applied a rational basis test rather than strict scrutiny. Id., at 606.

Likewise, the Colorado Supreme Court examined the meaning of "a thorough and uniform" system of public schools. Lujan v. Colorado State Bd. of Educ., 649 P.2d 1005 (Colo. 1982). The court held that education is not a fundamental right under the Colorado constitution, id., at 1017, applied a rational basis test, and upheld the state's school financing system. The court concluded "thorough and uniform does not require that educational expenditures per pupil in every school district be identical." Id., at 1025. See also Allen W. Hubsch, The Emerging Right to Education Under State Constitutional Law, 65 Temple L. Rev. 1325, 1337-1341 (1992) (discussing decisions from West Virginia, Washington, New Jersey, Texas and Kentucky). These decisions show the far-reaching legal implications of establishing a fundamental right to quality education.

You also asked about the role of existing Nebraska statutes in defining terms in the proposed amendment. Neb. Rev. Stat. § 79-4,140.02 states, "It is the intent of the Legislature to encourage and support all public schools in this state in order to carry out the state's mission to promote quality education as described in Section 79-4,140.01." (emphasis added). Section 79-4,140.01 provides as follows:

> The Legislature hereby finds and declares that the mission of the State of Nebraska, through its public school system, is to:
> 1) Offer each individual the opportunity to develop competence in the basic skills of communications, computations, and knowledge of basic facts concerning the environment, history, and society.
> 2) Offer each individual the opportunity to develop higher order thinking and problem-solving skills by means of adequate preparation in mathematics, science, the social sciences, and foreign languages and through appropriate and progressive use of technology;
> 3) Instill in each individual the ability and desire to continue learning throughout his or her life;
> 4) Encourage knowledge and understanding of political society and democracy in order to foster active participation therein;
> 5) Encourage the creative potential of each individual through exposure to the fine arts and humanities;
> 6) Encourage a basic understanding of and aid the development of good health habits; and > 7) Offer each individual the opportunity for career exploration and awareness.

While it is possible a court would look to this statute for guidance as to the meaning of "quality education" in the proposed constitutional amendment, a court would not be bound to do so. In fact, if the proposed amendment were placed on the ballot by initiative petition rather than by the Legislature, "the intent of the voters adopting an initiative amendment to the Nebraska Constitution must be determined from the words of the initiative amendment itself." Omaha Nat. Bank v. Spire, 223 Neb. 209, 225, 389 N.W.2d 269 (1986). If placed on the ballot by the Legislature, the court could look to the legislative history if it determined the meaning of the words in the amendment are ambiguous. It is possible that legislative debate would contain references to the above quoted statute.

Where the meaning sought is of a particular word or phrase, the court must necessarily look beyond the face of the amendment if the word or phrase is uncertain and undefined in the amendment. The Supreme Court of Washington looked at the history of the state constitutional convention and the dictionary in determining the meaning of its "paramount duty" provision. Seattle Sch.Dist. No. 1 of King Cty., 585 p.2d at 91. Courts may also give some deference to an administrative interpretation by the Department of Education. See, e.g., Vulcraft v. Karnes, 229 Neb. 676, 428 N.W. 2d 505 (1988).

5. What limits are there to a "quality education" and are those limits subject to change? For example, if a child sued claiming that his fundamental right to a quality education was violated because his or her school did not have certain classes or facilities that other schools have, what prevents the Nebraska Supreme Court from ordering that those items be offered in the name of providing a "quality education?"

The limits of a "quality education" under the proposed amendment would be up to the courts to decide. A real-life example of what can happen when courts intercede to establish educational equality through "quality education" programs comes from litigation involving a school district just two hours outside Nebraska. See Missouri v. Jenkins, 115 S. Ct. 2038 (1995). In Jenkins the State of Missouri challenged the District Court's order of salary increases for nearly all staff within the Kansas City, Missouri, School District (KCMSD) and the District Court's order requiring the State to continue to fund "quality education" programs to equalize student achievement levels. Although the case arose in the context of a desegregation order, the case is nonetheless instructive. The following discussion provides examples of programs and requirements imposed by the court:

> First, the District Court ordered that the KCMSD be restored to an AAA classification, the highest classification awarded by the State Board of Education.
> . . . Second, it ordered that the number of students per class be reduced so that the student-to-teacher ratio was below the level required for AAA standing. . . .
> The District Court also ordered programs to expand educational opportunities for all KCMSD students: full-day kindergarten; expanded summer school; before- and after-school tutoring; and an early childhood development program. . . . Finally, the District Court implemented a state-funded "effective schools" program that consisted of substantial yearly cash grants to each of the schools within the KCMSD. . . . Under the "effective schools" program, the State was required to fund programs at both the 25 racially identifiable schools as well as the 43 other schools within the KCMSD. . . .

. . . .The total cost for these quality education programs has exceeded $220 million. . . .

In June 1985, the District Court ordered substantial capital improvements to combat the deterioration of the KCMSD's facilities. . .

. . .The District Court also required the KCMSD to present further capital improvements proposals "in order to bring its facilities to a point comparable with the facilities in neighboring suburban school districts."

. . .The District Court rejected what it referred to as the " because it "would not achieve suburban comparability or the visual attractiveness sought by the court as it would result in floor coverings with unsightly sections of mismatched carpeting and tile, and individual walls possessing different shades of paint.". . . . As of 1990, the District Court had ordered $260 million in capital improvements. . . . Since then, the total cost of capital improvements ordered has soared to over $540 million.

As part of its desegregation plan, the District Court has ordered salary assistance to the KCMSD. . . . The total cost of this component of the desegregation remedy since 1987 is over $200 million.

. . .The annual cost per pupil at the KCMSD far exceeds that of the neighboring SSD's or of any school district in Missouri. Nevertheless, the KCMSD, which has pursued a "friendly adversary" relationship with the plaintiffs, has continued to propose ever more expensive programs. As a result, the desegregation costs have escalated and now are approaching an annual cost of $200 million. These massive expenditures have financed.

> "high schools in which every classroom will have air conditioning, an alarm system, and 15 microcomputers; a 2,000-square-foot planetarium; green houses and vivariums; a 25-acre farm with an air-conditioned meeting room for 104 people; a Model United Nations wired for language translation; broadcast capable radio and television studios with an editing and animation lab; a temperature controlled art gallery; movie editing and screening rooms; a 3,500-square-foot dust-free diesel mechanics room; 1,875-square-foot elementary school animal rooms for use in a zoo project; swimming pools; and numerous other facilities."....

Not surprisingly, the cost of this remedial plan has "far exceeded KCMSD's budget, or for that matter, its authority to tax." . . . The > State, through the operation of joint-and-several liability, has borne the brunt of these costs.

Id., at 2042-2045. Thus, the limit on court ordered improvements is not readily defined, and the scenario you describe is well within the realm of possibility, if not probability, in light of the experience in other jurisdictions.

6. If children have such a fundamental right in the Nebraska State Constitution, then what effect will this have on the federal constitutional right of parents to direct the upbringing and education of their children . . . ? If a parent chose to send his or her child to a private/parochial school or teach the child at home through Nebraska Department of Education Rule 13, could the child claim that such a school choice would be in violation of his or her right to quality education?

In order to address this question, we will set forth a brief review of the law concerning the parental right to direct their children's education. We will then discuss limitations on this right, and the effect of establishing a fundamental right to quality education.

The Right of Parents to Direct the Education of Their Children

In the landmark Nebraska case Meyer v. Nebraska, the U.S. Supreme Court held that the under the Due Process Clause of the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, parents have a constitutional right to direct the upbringing and education of their children. Meyer v. Nebraska, 262 U.S. 390 (1923). Two years after Meyer the Court struck down an Oregon law which required that all children between the ages of 8 and 16 must attend public school. Pierce v. Society of the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, 268 U.S. 510, 534-35, 45 S. Ct. 571, 573-74 (1925). In Pierce, the Court stated,

> The fundamental theory of liberty upon which all governments in this union repose excludes any general power of the state to standardize its children by forcing them to accept instruction from public teachers only. The child is not the mere creature of the state; those who nurture him and direct his destiny have the right coupled with the high duty, to recognize and prepare him for additional obligations.

Id. at 535, 45 S. Ct. at 573. Two years after Pierce, a Hawaiian law was struck down by the Supreme Court because it unfairly limited the alternatives to public school education. Farrington v. T. Tokushige, 273 U.S. 284, 47 S. Ct. 406 (1927).

Limitations on Parental Rights

Subsequent to the above decisions, the Supreme Court held that the right of parents to direct their children's education is subject to certain limitations:

> {T}he family itself is not beyond regulation in the public interest, as against a claim of religious liberty. (citation omitted). And neither rights of religion nor rights of parenthood are beyond limitation. Acting to guard the general interest in youth's well being, the state as parens patriae may restrict the parents control by requiring school > attendance . . . and in many other ways. Its authority is not nullified merely because the parent grounds his claim to control the child's cause of conduct on religion or conscience.

Prince v. Massachusetts, 321 U.S. 158, 166 (1944). See also 1973-74 Rep. Atty. Gen. 49, 50 (April 6, 1973).

In a similar tone, the U.S. Supreme Court touched on the issue of home schooling in Board of Education v. Allen 392 U.S. 236, 88 S.Ct. 1923 (1968). The Court again discussed limitations on the scope of parental control over their children's education:

> Since Pierce, a substantial body of case law has confirmed the power of the states to insist that attendance at private schools, if it is to satisfy state compulsory-attendance laws, be at institutions which provide minimum hours of instruction, employ teachers of specified training, and cover prescribed subjects of instruction. Indeed, the state's interest in assuring that these standards are being met has been considered a sufficient reason for refusing to accept instruction at home as compliance with compulsory education statutes.

Id. at 245-46, 88 S. Ct. at 1927-28. Although the Court in Allen stated that home education based on mere personal preference may be proscribed, id, many parents base their decision to home school children on their right to freely exercise their religion. Allen did not address this issue, but the Court later did in Wisconsin v. Yoder, 406 U.S. 205, 92 S.Ct. 1526 (1972).

In Yoder, the Court held that the State's interest in universal education is not free from a balancing process when it impinges on other fundamental rights such as those protected by the Free Exercise Clause and the interest of parents with respect to the religious upbringing of their children. Id. at 213-215, 912 S.Ct. at 1532-33. The Court also rejected the State's claim that it is empowered, as parens patriae, to insist on secondary education for children regardless of the wishes of their parents. The Court held that the State's interest could not be sustained against a free exercise claim under the facts.

The right of parents to educate their children in the manner which they see fit, when based upon the free exercise of religion, is now commonly accepted among the states. Nebraska's "Rule 13," which permits home schooling based on sincerely held religious beliefs, is consistent with considerations outlined in Yoder. See Neb. Rev. Stat. § 79-1701 - § 79-1707 (1994). Many courts, however, have decided it is still within their power to ensure that schools, including home schools, meet certain requirements to ensure that students are being well educated. For instance, the Supreme Court of Ohio held that an Ohio law which required the local school superintendent to approve of home schooling programs does not restrict the free exercise of religion. Instead, the court held it furthers the strong governmental interest in the education of its youth. State of Ohio v. Schmidt, 505 N.E. 2d 627, 629-30 (Ohio 1987).

The Interrelationship Between Parental Rights Under the U.S. Constitution and the Proposed Right to a Quality Education Under the State Constitution

When state law conflicts with federal law, the state law is preempted (to the extent of the conflict) by the federal law under the Supremacy Clause of the U.S. Constitution. U.S.Const., Art. VI, cl.2. To the extent that the proposed "fundamental right" of a child to a "quality" education under the State Constitution conflicts with a parent's right to direct the child's upbringing or to exercise their right to practice their faith under the Federal Constitution, the proposed state right would yield to the federal parental right. However, as discussed above, the courts have found many exceptions to the constitutional rights of parents, where education is concerned. Consequently, it is possible a court would not find a conflict between the parents' federal constitutional right to direct their child's education, and the child's fundamental right to a "quality" education under the State Constitution. In such case, the wishes of the child (or of the government operating "in the best interest of the child") would prevail over the parent.

By analogy, the U.S. Supreme Court has discovered a fundamental constitutional right for minor children to have abortions. See Planned Parenthood v. Danforth, 428 U.S. 52, 75, 96 S.Ct. 2831, 2844 (1976). Based on this right, a federal circuit court of appeals held that "even though a parent has an interest in the decision whether the minor is to have an abortion, the state has the power and duty to exclude the parent from the decision-making process if it is determined that exclusion would better serve the minor's welfare. The rights of parents must also yield to the fundamental rights of their children." Wynn v. Carey, 582 F.2d 1375, 1386 (7th Cir. 1978) (emphasis added).

Since the proposed right to a quality education is a fundamental right, it is within the realm of modern jurisprudence that a child could sue his or her parents if they denied him or her a "quality" education. A court could find a particular private, parochial or home school fails to meet the child's fundamental right, and then order the child moved to another school. The Nebraska Supreme Court has already stated, "Although parents have a right to send their children to school other than public institutions, they do not have the right to be completely unfettered by reasonable regulations as to the quality of the education furnished." State ex rel. Douglas v. Faith Baptist Church, 207 Neb. 802, 817, 301 N.W. 2d 571 (1981) (emphasis added).[2] Furthermore, current Nebraska law provides that any private, denominational, or parochial school which fails, refuses, or neglects to conform to and comply with the current statutory requirements for such schools (including specified course of instruction) may be closed and the pupils "required to attend the public school of the proper district as provided by law in like manner as though there were no such private, denominational, or parochial school." Neb.Rev.Stat. §79-1706 (1994).

Finally, because the proposed right to a "quality education" is a fundamental constitutional right, it is conceivable that courts could mandate a "judicial bypass" procedure for children who wish to have a court determine whether they are receiving a "quality education" in the event they do not approve of their parents' choice of schools. Such a procedure is already the law in Nebraska with respect to a minor's fundamental right to an abortion. See Neb. Rev. Stat. §71-6903 (Cum.Supp. 1994).

7. In the second sentence of the new language, the state's duty to provide a thorough and efficient education is a "paramount duty." What is a paramount duty?

Research indicates that the only State with a comparable provision is the State of Washington. Article 9, § 1 of the Washington Constitution provides, "It is the paramount duty of the state to make ample provision for the education of all children residing within its borders. . . ." The meaning of "paramount duty" was determined by the Washington Supreme Court in Seattle Sch. Dis. No. 1 of King City v. State, 585 P.2d 71 (Wash. 1978).

The court in Seattle Sch. Dis. No. 1 held that this provision "does not merely seek to broadly declare policy, explain goals, or designate objectives to be accomplished. It is declarative of a constitutionally imposed duty." Id., at 85. The court further held this duty has not been directed solely to the Legislature. Id., at 86 (concluding the courts could enforce the "paramount duty").

The court concluded that " 'paramount' is not a mere synonym of 'important'. Rather, it means superior in rank, above all others, chief, preeminent, supreme, and, in fact, dominant." Id., at 91 (emphasis added). The court further held:

> By imposing upon the State a paramount duty to make ample provision for the education of all children residing within the State's borders, the constitution has created a "duty" that is supreme, preeminent or dominant. Flowing from this constitutionally imposed "duty" is its jural correlative, a correspondent "right" permitting control of another's conduct. Therefore, all children residing within the borders of the State possess a "right," arising from the constitutionally imposed "duty" of the State, to have the State make ample provision for their education. Further, since the "duty" is characterized as paramount the correlative "right" has equal stature.

Id. (emphasis added).

The Seattle court did not stop here, but held, "the State's constitutional duty goes beyond mere reading, writing and arithmetic. It also embraces broad educational opportunities needed in the contemporary setting to equip our children for their role as citizens and as potential competitors in today's market as well as in the market place of ideas." Id., at 94. Under this provision, the State must provide "fully sufficient funds" for the schools "as a first priority." Id., at 95 (emphasis added). Such funding, the court held, "must be accomplished by means of dependable and regular tax sources. . . ." Id., at 96-97. Finally, this funding is not limited to the revenue derived from sources specified in the constitution. Id.

Thus a "paramount" duty means one that is above all others.[3]

8. If this new amended language requires the state to have such a "paramount duty" then can the state delegate any authority to local school districts and local school boards? Would the state be forced to control the quality of education in each school district and place local school boards in a subservient role? Also, if education is the "paramount duty" then what effect will this have on state spending priorities as state government prepares the state budget?

As to whether the state's paramount duty to provide a thorough and efficient education may be delegated to local school boards, we know of no legal reason that the details of education could not still be handled by local school boards. However, since the proposed amendment transfers responsibility over education funding from local school districts to the State, and imposes the duty to ensure quality education on the State rather than the local districts, the school districts are clearly placed in an inferior role.

The answer to your question regarding state spending priorities is actually provided in the immediately preceding section. Education would be placed in the preeminent position, above all other spending priorities including the historic duty to provide for the public safety. Seattle Sch. Dist. No. 1, 585 P.2d at 91.[4]

Summary

In summary, the language of the Amendment would leave it to the Nebraska Supreme Court, rather than the Legislature or local school district, to determine what is required for a "quality education." Because the Amendment makes quality education a "fundamental right", differences in spending, equipment, quality of buildings, and differences in programs or teaching methods at different schools may be held unconstitutional. It is likely that Nebraska's current school financing system would be ruled unconstitutional since there are spending differences between school districts. Because education is made the "paramount duty" of the State, education, for purposes described in the Amendment, would apparently have to be fully funded to the satisfaction of the Nebraska Supreme Court before the Legislature would be allowed to spend funds for public health and safety, law enforcement, roads, welfare, or other purposes.

To put it another way, in our opinion, the Amendment you describe would take the ultimate power to make key public policy decisions about education away from the Legislature and local school districts and give that power to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

[1] We also note that one of the sponsors of a similar amendment being proposed by petition, the Center for Rural Affairs, stated in its November 1995 Newsletter that the proposed amendment "Establishes education as a fundamental right for all individuals. . . ." (Nebraska Rural Action Nov. 1995, p.1) Similarly, this group's October 1995 Newsletter stated the proposed language "Establishes 'quality education' as a 'fundamental right' of every individual . . . ." (Center for Rural Affairs Newsletter, Oct. 1995 at p.3.) Although such extrinsic evidence is not likely admissible in court, it none the less supports our interpretation.

[2] In Douglas, the State of Nebraska closed a non-compliant church school by utilizing 15 carloads of law enforcement officers on October 19, 1982 to remove parents from the church so that it could be padlocked. The State's original order closing the school was upheld by the State Supreme Court. Douglas, 207 Neb. at 817. The padlocking of the church was later held unconstitutional, but only because the State could have simply prevented school age children from entering. McCurry v. Tesch, 738 F.2d 271, 275 (8th Cir. 1984).

[3] A similar constitutional amendment was defeated by voters in Illinois in 1992. During legislative debate on the proposed amendment, it was acknowledged by proponents of the amendment that the provision would require education to receive priority funding above all other agencies and problems. Senate Debate on SJR Const.Amend. 130, 87th Illinois Gen. Assembly, April 23, 1992 p45.

[4] As discussed above, the proposed amendment would create a "Category IV" education clause. See William E. Thro Judicial Analysis During the Third Wave of School Finance Litigation: The Massachusetts Decision As a Model, 35 Boston College L. Rev. 597, 606 (May 1994). Under such a clause, "the needs of the public school system must be addressed before the state's needs for roads, parks and other social services." Id.

DATE: December 21, 1995

SUBJECT: Application of the Single Subject Requirement of Neb. Const. art. III, § 14, to Constitutional Amendments Proposed by the Nebraska Legislature.

REQUESTED BY: Senator Stan Schellpepper
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Don Stenberg, Attorney General
L. Jay Bartel, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested our opinion regarding the propriety of a proposed amendment to LR 43CA. LR 43CA, as amended by the General Affairs Committee last session, proposes to submit to the electorate an amendment to Neb. Const. art. III, § 24, which, if approved, would allow the Legislature to "authorize and regulate games of chance, the proceeds of which may be used only for charitable or community betterment purposes, for civic benefit, for tax relief, for job creation and economic development, or for the promotion of agriculture." LR 43CA, § 1. The "games of chance" which could be authorized under the proposed amendment would "include, but not be limited to, casino gaming activities, player-activated electronic, video, or mechanical gaming devices, dice, card games of chance, and table games of chance." Id. Your proposed amendment to LR 43CA would add language providing for the creation of a "gaming commission" to regulate any gaming expansion which may be authorized by the Legislature pursuant to the amendment. Noting that Neb. Const. art. III, § 14, provides that "{n}o bill shall contain more than one subject, and the same shall be clearly expressed in the title", you ask "whether adding a provision which requires the creation of a gaming commission to regulate any gaming expansion which might be authorized by the Legislature pursuant to that constitutional amendment fulfills this single subject requirement."

Previously, this office concluded that the single subject requirement in art. III, § 14, is inapplicable to constitutional amendments proposed by the Legislature. 1971-72 Rep. Att'y Gen. 211 (Opinion No. 90, dated January 19, 1972)). In that opinion, we noted the advisory opinion of the Nebraska Supreme Court in the case of In re Senate File 31, 25 Neb. 864, 41 N.W. 981 (1889), in which the court expressed the view that "the Legislature's submission of an amendment to the Constitution is not a legislative act or law in the constitutional sense, but is a mere 'proposal.' Therefore, no title to the proposal is necessary, and the proposal may encompass more than one subject." 1971-72 Rep. Att'y Gen. at 211. As the court stated in the Senate File 31 case:

> A proposition to amend the constitution. . .is in no sense a law. It is a mere proposal, based, it is to be presumed, upon a public demand for its submission, but it will possess no validity until ratified by a majority of all the votes cast at the election. If two or more propositions are submitted, they are to be submitted separately. There is a good reason why but one subject should be embraced in a bill designed to become a law by the action of the legislature and governor, and that the subject should be clearly expressed in the title, as without such condition experience has shown that provisions of a very objectionable character, which there was no possibility of passing independently, were attached to meritorious bills and smuggled through, or knowingly voted for by members to prevent the defeat of meritorious measures. . .No such reasons obtain, however, in submitting a proposition to amend the constitution, and the provisions of the constitution are not applicable thereto.

25 Neb. at 882, 41 N.W. at 986. See also Weston v. Ryan, 70 Neb. 211, 212, 97 N.W. 347, 348 (1903) ("The submission by the legislature to the electors of a proposed constitutional amendment is not a legislative act.") (syllabus of court).

Relying on the Supreme Court's discussion in Senate File 31, we concluded in our earlier opinion that, "{u}nder the present language of Article XVI, Section 1, Constitution of the State of Nebraska, therefore, in proposing amendments thereunder, the Legislature is not bound by the Article III, Section 14, Constitution of the State of Nebraska, prohibition against a bill's containing more than one subject." 1971-72 Rep. Att'y Gen. at 212. Thus, as to your question regarding whether your proposed amendment to LR 43CA would offend the single subject requirement of article III, § 24, we conclude that it cannot, as this requirement has no application to acts of the Legislature proposing the submission of constitutional amendments.

While your question refers only to the application of the single subject requirement of article III, § 14, to your proposed amendment to LR 43CA, we believe that, in order to fully address the issue raised by your request, we must also address the application of Neb. Const. art. XVI, § 1, pertaining to amendment of the Constitution. In particular, the last sentence of this section directs that, "{w}hen two or more {constitutional} amendments are submitted at the same election, they shall be so submitted as to enable the electors to vote on each amendment separately."

Recently, in Op. Att'y Gen. No. 95089 (Nov. 21, 1995), we discussed the requirement of article XVI, § 1, pertaining to separate presentation of constitutional amendments on the ballot submitted to voters presenting constitutional amendments proposed by the Legislature. We noted that "{a} number of states have constitutional provisions which require that, when more than one proposed constitutional amendment is proposed to the voters, each of those amendments must be presented to the voters so that it can be voted on separately." Id. at 2; see generally Annot., Proposition submitted to people as covering one or more than one proposed constitutional amendment within contemplation of constitutional provision in that regard, 94 A.L.R. 1510 (1935); 16 C.J.S. Constitutional Law § 13 (1984). "Their purpose is to prevent deceit of the public along with logrolling, hodge-podge legislation or jockeying, where voters are required to vote for something which they do not support in order to also vote for something which they do support." Op. Att'y Gen. No. 95089 at 2 (citing 16 Am. Jur. 2d Constitutional Law § 48 (1979)).

Our recent opinion referenced the 1971 Attorney General Opinion discussing the requirement for separate submission of constitutional amendments and the Senate File 31 case, which stated that even where the two provisions relate to the same section of the Constitution.

> {t}he quality of independence of intent and effect, therefore, seems to be the criterion in determining whether separate {constitutional} amendments are involved {under Art. XVI, § 1}. Thus, two provisions which are logically independent of each other, in that either would have full effect and purpose without the other, and would reflect a whole popular wish, should be considered two amendments and submitted separately. This conclusion would apply

Op. Att'y Gen. No. 95089 at 3 (quoting 1971-72 Rep. Att'y Gen. at 213)).

We also noted that the Nebraska Supreme Court had indirectly considered the separate submission requirement of article XVI, § 1, in Munch v. Tusa, 140 Neb. 457, 300 N.W. 385 (1941). In discussing the necessity for separate presentation of proposals to amend the Omaha City Charter, the court in Munch v. Tusa stated:

'The rule has been laid down that a constitutional amendment which embraces several subjects, all of which are germane (near or akin) to the general subject of the amendment, will, under such a requirement, be upheld as valid and may be submitted to the people as a single proposition'. . . .{T}he controlling consideration in determining the singleness of an amendment is its singleness of purpose and the relationship of the details to the general subject.

* * *

The rule followed by a majority of American jurisdictions is to the effect that where the limits of a proposed law, having natural and necessary connection with each other, and, together, are a part of one general subject, the proposal is a single and not a dual proposition.

140 Neb. at 463, 300 N.W. at 389 (emphasis added).

Upon examination of the separate submission issue, we recently concluded that,

{o}ur 1972 opinion notwithstanding, we believe that the Nebraska Supreme Court would be most likely to follow its formulation of the dual amendments rule in the more recent Munch case in determining whether two amendments proposed for the Nebraska Constitution require separate presentation to the voters, in part because the Munch rule appears to be the majority rule. Under that rule, two proposals may be submitted as a single proposition if they have a natural and necessary connection with one another, and if they are part of one general subject.

Op. Att'y Gen. No. 95089 at 3-4.

You have not provided us with any specific language proposing to amend LR 43CA, but indicate that your amendment would add language "to provide for a gaming commission to regulate any gaming expansion which might be authorized by the Legislature" under the constitutional amendment. It seems to us that a "natural and necessary connection" exists between the proposal to amend the Constitution to expand the Legislature's authority to authorize additional forms of gaming and the creation of a commission to regulate any such expanded gaming activity. The establishment of a gaming commission is certainly germane to the general subject of the amendment, which proposes to permit the Legislature to allow expanding gaming for specified purposes. Therefore, we believe that the question of creation of a gaming commission to regulate any expanded gaming authorized under the amendment would not have to be set forth separately on the ballot, and that, if LR 43CA is amended in the manner you suggest, presentation to the electorate of the proposal as a single amendment would be consistent with article XVI, § 1.

Very truly yours,

RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 284CA. Introduced by Withem, 14; Warner, 25.

THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION, RESOLVE THAT:

Section 1. At the general election in November 1996 the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval or rejection:

To add new sections 1 to 5 to Article XVIII:

XVIII-1 "No tax increase or spending increase over the prior fiscal year shall be enacted, made or allowed by or for the State of Nebraska or any local governmental subdivision for 3 years, meaning the fiscal years beginning in the 12 month periods starting on or after July 1, 1997, July 1, 1998, and July 1, 1999, unless (a) it is approved by the registered voters resident in such government unit or (b) it is necessary on account of population growth or temporary emergency. After those 3 years, no tax increase or spending increase over the prior fiscal year shall be enacted, made or allowed by or for the State of Nebraska or any local governmental subdivision for a fiscal year unless (a) it is approved by the registered voters resident in such government unit, (b) it is necessary on account of population growth or temporary emergency or (c) it is necessary on account of inflation. The following definitions and provisions apply to this Article:

a. Prior fiscal year means the immediately prior fiscal year, except that for the fiscal year beginning on or after July 1, 1997, and before July 1, 1998, the prior fiscal year shall be the fiscal year beginning on or after July 1, 1995, and before July 1, 1996;

b. Tax increase means an increase in total tax revenue of the State or local governmental subdivision in excess of total tax revenue of the prior fiscal year, whether due to an increase in tax levy, tax rate, a growth in the tax base, a change in the definition of the tax base or otherwise. Tax increase also means any legislative action by a governing body that expands the definition of the tax base or which changes any element of a tax due calculation which increases the tax due from, or reduces the tax refund due to, any group of taxpayers;

c. Spending increase means an increase in total spending of tax revenue by the State or local governmental subdivision, in excess of total spending of tax revenue of the prior fiscal year, whether from the general fund or otherwise, and whether referred to as an appropriation, budget of expenditures or otherwise. Amounts received or spent to pay off an approved bond shall not be included in the tax increase or spending increase calculations. An approved bond means a bond duly approved by the voters or a bond of a type specifically authorized by this Constitution that does not require voter approval. If the State reduces the amount of total tax revenue it distributes to local governmental subdivisions as State aid funds, the spending limit levels of the State shall decrease by the amount of such reduction;

d. Tax revenue means the receipts from the imposition by a government unit of any property, income, sales or other tax or levy, or any government fee or charge in lieu of a tax or levy. Tax revenue specifically does not include receipts from: federal taxes; federal grants; private grants; public utility services; public hospital services; sporting, entertainment and recreational events; fuel taxes used for public highways and roads; or aircraft fuel taxes used for public airports. Tax revenue specifically includes receipts by or for a local governmental subdivision of State aid funds;

e. Tax base means the property, property values, income, deductions, exclusions, sales, persons, transactions, events or other units of measurement to which the tax rate or credits are applied to determine tax liability;

f. Inflation means the cumulative increase after July 1, 2000, in consumer prices, as measured by the lesser of (i) the cost of living adjustment used by the United States for determining Social Security benefit payments or (ii) the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics Consumer Price Index (all items, all consumers), or any respective successor index or agency. The tax and spending limits shall increase proportionately with inflation;

g. Population growth means the cumulative change after July 1, 1997, (i) in the number of full-time equivalent students, as to local school districts, and (ii) as to all other government units, in the number of individuals resident within such government unit, as measured by United States Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census (or its successor) data. If population in a government unit increases or decreases, the tax and spending limits shall increase or decrease proportionately. To the extent annual changes are estimated, the actual population growth and its effect on tax and spending limit levels shall be corrected upon completion of the next succeeding census;

h. Temporary emergency means a sudden, generally unexpected occurrence or set of circumstances demanding immediate action in order to protect the public health or safety of Nebraska residents. Temporary emergency specifically excludes tax revenue shortfalls, changes in the economy, and compensation increases to government unit employees. The governing body shall declare whether a temporary emergency exists. A temporary emergency declaration shall expire after six months, unless the governing body declares the emergency still exists. A tax increase or spending increase due to a temporary emergency shall not be part of the tax or spending limit calculations for determining future tax increases or spending increases;

i. State means the State of Nebraska;

j. Government unit means the State or any local governmental subdivision of the State. Local governmental subdivision means any Nebraska government entity other than the State that receives or spends tax revenue;

k. Governing body means, as to the State, the Legislature, and as to each local governmental subdivision, the body charged with setting the tax rates or appropriation of expenditures;

l. Approved by the registered voters means approved by a majority of the registered voters voting on the proposal at any primary or general election, or at any special election called by four-fifths of the members of the governing body of such government unit for the purpose of submitting such proposal to the registered voters. In addition, the votes cast in favor of such proposal shall not be less than thirty-five percent of the total votes cast at such primary or general election, and not less than thirty-five percent of the registered voters resident in such government unit when the proposal is on the ballot at a special election; and

m. If for fiscal years beginning on or after July 1, 1997, the United States Government decreases the level of funding paid to a government unit without a corresponding decrease in the scope or cost of the program, product or service that it requires that government unit to provide, or if it requires an increase in the scope or cost of a program, product or service that it requires a government unit to provide without a corresponding increase in the level of funding, then a tax increase and spending increase shall be permitted to the extent (and only for as long as) needed to pay for the cost of such unfunded federal mandate, as reasonably determined and documented by the respective governing body and verified by independent audit."

XVIII-2 "The following provisions shall be applied to implement this Article:

a. Any tax increase or spending increase proposal to be submitted for approval to the registered voters must first be approved by two-thirds of the members of the governing body proposing the increase. Such proposal must thereafter be prominently displayed once a week for a minimum of three successive weeks immediately preceding such election in the largest newspaper (by paid subscription) of general circulation within the geographic boundaries of such government unit. Prominent display means at least a half page notice. Such notice shall describe in reasonable detail (i) the amount of the proposed annual spending increase or tax increase, (ii) any proposed changes in tax levy, tax rates or definition of the tax base, and (iii) the amount of the spending increases and tax increases of such government unit for the three preceding fiscal years. Such notice shall also list by name, and where applicable by district, the members of the governing body who voted for and against such proposal in the vote taken to obtain final passage of such proposal by the governing body. The government unit shall pay the costs of submitting the proposal to the voters. The budget process of a governing body shall include sufficient details and records to document each tax increase or spending increase proposal and each tax increase or spending increase authorized as being necessary on account of inflation, population growth, temporary emergency or unfunded federal mandate; and

b. When a budget, tax levy or tax rate is to be established or maintained for a government unit, the governing body of such unit shall calculate the tax levies or rates to be applied for such budget year or years. During this process, the governing body shall project the tax revenue. If a tax increase is projected on account of a growth in the tax base, and such tax increase exceeds the amount needed to pay for spending permitted by this Article, then, as to local governmental subdivisions, the property tax levies or rates shall be reduced, and as to the State, the income tax primary rate shall be reduced, by the governing body so that such a tax increase in excess of the amount needed to pay for permitted spending does not occur. At the next session of such governing body when actual tax revenue has been determined, the difference between projected and actual tax revenue shall be applied to the subsequent budget year to determine and adjust the tax levies or rates for such year so as to avoid an unpermitted tax increase or an unrequired decrease."

XVIII-3 "Unless the State pays the cost, the State may not enact any statutes, regulations or rulings which require a local governmental subdivision to provide any new public program, product or service (other than to the extent necessary to comply with this Constitution or the United States Government)."

XVIII-4 "Any two or more contiguous or noncontiguous government units may merge functions, services or the units themselves. Mergers may occur across county lines. A dissolution of a government unit or a merger shall require only the approval by majority vote of the respective governing bodies. Upon a merger of government units, the determination of whether a tax increase or spending increase occurs shall be based on the combined tax revenue and spending of the merged government units, allocated as determined by agreement of the respective governing bodies. No new government unit may be created unless approved by the registered voters that would be resident in such unit. No approval of any other government unit shall be needed for, and no other government unit may override, any dissolution of a government unit or any merger. Any governing body may appoint a commission to review, and to recommend changes to or elimination of, the programs and operations of its government unit, which the governing body may determine to accept in part or in total. This section shall not amend, supersede or repeal Article IX relating to counties."

XVIII-5 "This Article shall be effective beginning January 1, 1997. No legislative or executive action shall be needed to implement this Article. The governing bodies shall pass such laws and take such actions as may be necessary or appropriate to help carry out this Article. The provisions of this Article shall be applied and enforced notwithstanding, and shall take precedence over, any and all other provisions of this Constitution or Nebraska law to the contrary. Since all portions of this Article have a material and necessary connection with one another, are interdependent and are part of one general subject, this Article constitutes one amendment to the Constitution; however if any part of this Article shall be held invalid or unconstitutional, this shall not affect the validity or constitutionality of the remaining provisions. Any taxpayer shall have standing to sue in the courts of this State, either singly or on behalf of a class in a class action, to enforce the provisions of this Article, to require injunctive relief while such suit is pending, and to obtain a refund of unconstitutionally assessed taxes. A taxpayer who is successful shall be reimbursed reasonable attorney's fees and expenses, payable by the defendant. This Article shall not prohibit a government unit from establishing reasonable reserves as required by law or as determined to be necessary and appropriate by the respective governing body in carrying out its governmental purposes, provided a principal purpose of the reserve may not be to circumvent this Article. If an amendment or amendments to the Constitution are approved at the general election in November, 1996, which add a new section 30 to Article III, a new section 9A to Article VII, or a new section 3 to Article XVI or which amend Article VII, section 1, or Article VIII, sections 1 or 5, such changes are repealed.".

Sec. 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the manner prescribed by the Constitution of Nebraska, Article XVI, section 1, with the following ballot language:

"A constitutional amendment to limit tax increases and government spending for state and local government, to prohibit unfunded mandates by state government, to authorize mergers of government units, and to repeal another constitutional amendment.

This section becomes effective January 1, 1998. This section overrides all other provisions to the contrary in this Constitution and laws."

VIII-15 "Article VIII, sections 15 to 21, take effect January 1, 1998. They shall restrain growth of government. All provisions are self-executing and severable and supersede conflicting state constitutional, state statutory, charter, or other state or local provision. Other limits on revenue, spending, and debt may be weakened only by future voter approval. Individual or class action enforcement suits may be filed and shall have the highest civil priority of resolution. Successful plaintiffs are allowed costs and reasonable attorney's fees, but a district is not awarded costs or attorney's fees unless a suit against it be ruled frivolous. Revenue collected, kept, or spent illegally since four fiscal years before a suit is filed shall be refunded with ten percent annual simple interest from the initial conduct. Subject to judicial review, districts may use any reasonable method for refunds under such section, including temporary rate reductions. Refunds need not be proportional when prior payments are impractical to identify or return. When annual district revenue is less than annual payments on general obligation bonds, pensions, and final court judgments, Article VIII, sections 18(1) and 21, shall be suspended to provide for the deficiency."

VIII-16 "Within Article VIII, sections 15 to 21:

(1) Ballot issue means a non-recall petition or referred measure in an election;

(2) District means the state or any local government;

(3) Emergency excludes economic conditions, revenue shortfalls, or district salary or fringe benefit increases;

(4) Fiscal year spending means all district expenditures and reserve increases except, as to both, those for refunds made in the current or next fiscal year or those from gifts, federal funds, collections for another government, pension contributions by employees and pension fund earnings, reserve transfers or expenditures, damage awards, or property sales;

(5) Inflation means the percentage change in the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics Consumer Price Index for Nebraska; and

(6) Local growth for a school district means the percentage change in its student enrollment."

VIII-17 "(1) Ballot issues shall be decided in a state general election, biennial local district election, or on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, in even numbered years.

(2) Fifteen to twenty-five days before a ballot issue election, districts shall mail at the least cost, and as a package where districts with ballot issues overlap, a titled notice or set of notices addressed to "All Registered Voters" at each address of one or more active registered electors. Titles shall have this order of preference: 'NOTICE OF ELECTION TO INCREASE TAXES/TO INCREASE DEBT/ON A CITIZEN PETITION/ON A REFERRED MEASURE.' Except for district voter-approved additions, notices shall include only:

(a) The election date, hours, ballot title, text, and local election office address and telephone number;

(b) For proposed district tax or bonded debt increases, the estimated or actual total of district fiscal year spending for the current year and each of the past four years, and the overall percentage and dollar change;

(c) For the first full fiscal year of each proposed district tax increase, district estimates of the maximum dollar amount of each increase and of district fiscal year spending without the increase;

(d) For proposed district bonded debt, its principal amount and maximum annual and total district repayment cost, and the principal balance of total current district bonded debt and its maximum annual and remaining total district repayment cost; and

(e) Two summaries, up to five hundred words each, one for and one against the proposal, of written comments filed with the election officer by thirty days before the election. No summary shall mention names or persons or private groups, not any endorsements of or resolutions against the proposal. Petition representatives following these rules shall write this summary for their petition. The election officer shall maintain and accurately summarize all other relevant written comments.

(3) Except by later voter approval, if a tax increase or fiscal year spending exceeds any estimate in subdivision (2)(c) of this section for the same fiscal year, the tax increase is thereafter reduced up to one hundred percent in proportion to the combined dollar excess, and the combined excess revenue, refunded in the next fiscal year. District bonded debt shall not issue on terms that could exceed its share of its maximum repayment costs in subdivision (2)(d) of this section. Ballot titles for tax or bonded debt, increases shall begin, 'SHALL (DISTRICT) TAXES BE INCREASED (first, or if phased in, final, full fiscal year dollar increase) ANNUALLY...? or SHALL (district) DEBT BE INCREASED (principal amount), WITH A REPAYMENT COST OF (maximum total district cost)...?' "

VIII-18 "Starting November 3, 1998, districts must have voter approval in advance for:

(1) Unless Article VIII, section 15 or 20, applies, any new tax, tax rate increase, or extension of any expiring tax, or a tax policy change directly causing a new tax revenue gain to any district; and

(2) Except for refinancing districts, bonded debt at a lower interest rate, adding new employees to existing district pension plans, or creation of any multiple-fiscal year direct or indirect district debt or other financial obligation whatsoever without adequate present cash reserves pledged irrevocably and held for payments in all future fiscal years."

VIII-19 "To use for declared emergencies only, each district shall reserve for 1998 one percent or more, for 1999 two percent or more, and for all later years three percent or more of its fiscal year spending excluding bonded debt service. Unused reserves apply to the next year's reserve."

VIII-20 "This section grants no new taxing power. Emergency property taxes are prohibited. Emergency tax revenue is excluded for purposes of Article VIII, section 17(3) and 21, even if later ratified by voters. Emergency taxes shall also meet all of the following conditions:

(1) A two-thirds majority of the members of the Legislature or of a local district board declares the emergency and imposed the tax by separate recorded roll call votes;

(2) Emergency tax revenue shall be spent only after emergency reserves are depleted and shall be refunded within one hundred eighty days after the emergency ends if not spent on the emergency; and

(3) A tax not approved on the next election date sixty days or more after the declaration shall end with that election month."

VIII-21 "(1) The maximum annual percentage change in state fiscal year spending equals inflation plus the percentage change in state population in the prior calendar year, adjusted for revenue changes approved by voters after 1998. Population shall be determined by annual federal census estimates and such number shall be adjusted every decade to match the federal census.

(2) The maximum annual percentage change in each local district's fiscal year spending equals inflation in the prior calendar year plus annual local growth, adjusted for revenue changes approved by voters after 1998.

(3) The maximum annual percentage change in each district's tax revenue equals inflation in the prior calendar year plus annual local growth, adjusted for tax revenue changes approved by voters after 1998.".

Sec. 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the manner prescribed by the Constitution of Nebraska, Article XVI, section 1, with the following ballot language:

"A constitutional amendment to prohibit enactment of laws abridging citizen's privileges or immunities, to require due process, to require equal protection of the law, to prohibit any property tax levy on and after January 1, 1998, and to limit state and local government spending on and after January 1, 1998.

When more valid applications are received for any management unit than there are permits available, such permits shall be allocated on the basis of a public drawing. (f) No person shall be issued a permit to kill deer, antelope, or elk unless such person is at least fourteen years of age, except that any person who is fourteen or fifteen years of age shall only hunt deer, antelope, or elk when accompanied by a person twenty-one years of age or over.

The secretary shall specify the number of permits to be issued, shooting hours, the length of the depredation season, and the geographic area in which hunting will be permitted. Each such permit shall give the holder the right to take one deer. Hunting during a special depredation season shall be limited to residents and shall be restricted to firearms which are permissible for use during the regular deer season.

(b) The depredation season may commence not less than five days after the first public announcement that the depredation season has been established. Permits shall be issued beginning not less than three days after the first public announcement of the depredation season and shall be issued in an impartial manner at a location determined by the secretary. The commission shall, pursuant to section 81-814.02, establish and charge a fee of not less than twenty dollars and not more than twenty-five dollars for a special depredation season permit. Fifty percent of the fee shall be paid by the commission to a landowner or operator within the designated area upon satisfactory proof a deer was killed upon his or her farm or ranch during the special depredation season. RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 294CA. Introduced by Warner, 25.

THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION, RESOLVE THAT:

Section 1. At the general election in November 1996 the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval or rejection:

To amend Article III, section 2 and 4, and Article XVI, section 1, and add a new section 3 to Article XVI:

III-2 "The first power reserved by the people is the initiative whereby laws may be enacted and constitutional amendments adopted by the people independently of the Legislature. This power may be invoked by petition wherein the proposed measure shall be set forth at length. If the petition be for the enactment of a law, it shall be signed by seven percent of the registered voters of the state, and if the petition be for the amendment of the Constitution, the petition therefor shall be signed by ten percent of such registered voters. In all cases the registered voters signing such petition shall be so distributed as to include five percent of the registered voters of each of two-fifths of the counties of the state, and when thus signed, the petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State who shall submit the measure thus proposed to the electors of the state at the first general election held not less than four months after such petition shall have been filed. The same measure, either in form or in essential substance, shall not be submitted to the people by initiative petition, either affirmatively or negatively, more often than once in three years. If conflicting measures which propose the enactment of a law submitted to the people at the same election be approved, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall thereby become law as to all conflicting provisions. If conflicting measures which propose a constitutional amendment submitted to the people at the same election be approved, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall be referred to the electorate for ratification pursuant to subsection (2) of Article XVI, section 3, of this Constitution. The constitutional limitations as to the scope and subject matter of statutes enacted by the Legislature shall apply to those enacted by the initiative."

III-4 "The whole number of votes cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of an initiative or referendum petition shall be the basis on which the number of signatures to such petition shall be computed. The veto power of the Governor shall not extend to measures initiated by or referred to the people. A measure initiated which proposes the enactment of a law shall become a law ~~or part of the Constitution, as the case may be,~~ when a majority of the votes cast thereon, and not less than thirty-five ~~per cent~~ percent of the total vote cast at the election at which the same was submitted, are cast in favor thereof, and shall take effect upon proclamation by the Governor which shall be made within ten days after the official canvass of such votes. A measure initiated which proposes a constitutional amendment shall be referred to the electorate for ratification pursuant to subsection (2) of Article XVI, section 3, of this Constitution, when a majority of the votes cast thereon, and not less than thirty-five percent of the total vote cast at the election at which the same was submitted, are cast in favor thereof. The vote upon initiative and referendum measures shall be returned and canvassed in the manner prescribed for the canvass of votes for president. The method of submitting ~~and adopting~~ amendments to the Constitution to the electorate for ratification provided by this section shall be supplementary to the method prescribed in the article of this Constitution, entitled, "Amendments" and the latter shall in no case be construed to conflict herewith. The provisions with respect to the initiative and referendum shall be self-executing, but legislation may be enacted to facilitate their operation. All propositions submitted in pursuance hereof shall be submitted in a non-partisan manner and without any indication or suggestion on the ballot that they have been approved or endorsed by any political party or organization. Only the title or proper descriptive words of measures shall be printed on the ballot and when two or more measures have the same title they shall be numbered consecutively in the order of filing with the Secretary of State and the number shall be followed by the name of the first petitioner on the corresponding petition. The ballot for a measure initiated which purposes a constitutional amendment shall include a notice that the measure is subject to a vote for ratification."

XVI-1 "The Legislature may propose amendments to this Constitution. If the same be agreed to by three-fifths of the members elected to the Legislature, such proposed amendments shall be entered on the journal, with yeas and nays, and published once each week for three consecutive weeks, in at least one newspaper in each county, where a newspaper is published, immediately preceding the next election of members of the Legislature or a special election called by the vote of four-fifths of the members elected to the Legislature for the purpose of submitting such proposed amendments to the electors. At such election said amendments shall be submitted to the electors for approval or rejection upon a ballot separate from that upon which the names of candidates appear. The ballot shall include a notice that the measure is subject to a vote for ratification. If a majority of the electors voting on any such amendment adopt the same, it shall ~~become a part of this Constitution~~ be referred to the electorate for ratification pursuant to subsection (2) of Article XVI, section 3, of this Constitution, provided the votes cast in favor of such amendment shall not be less than thirty-five per cent of the total votes cast at such election. When two or more amendments are submitted at the same election, they shall be so submitted as to enable the electors to vote on each amendment separately."

XVI-3 "(1) Before an amendment to this Constitution takes effect there shall be two votes by the electors. The first vote for adoption of the amendment may be made pursuant to initiative as provided by Article III, sections 2 and 4, of this Constitution or pursuant to the Legislature proposing an amendment as provided by Article XVI, section 1, of this Constitution. The second vote shall be for ratification and shall be made pursuant to subsection (2) of this section.

(2) The proposed amendment shall, without change, be published once each week for three consecutive weeks, in at least one newspaper in each county, where a newspaper is published, immediately preceding the next election of members of the Legislature or a special election called by the vote of four-fifths of the members elected to the Legislature for the purpose of submitting such proposed amendment to the electors for ratification. At such election the proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors for ratification. If a majority of the electors voting on any such amendment ratify the adoption of the same, it shall become a part of the Constitution, provided the votes cast in favor of such amendment at the election shall not be less than thirty-five percent of the total votes cast at such election.".

Sec. 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the manner prescribed by the Constitution of Nebraska, Article XVI, section 1, with the following ballot language:

"A constitutional amendment to change election procedures for constitutional amendments to require two separate votes by the electorate.

For

Against".

Referred to the Reference Committee.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 295CA. Introduced by Warner, 25.

THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION, RESOLVE THAT:

Section 1. At the general election in November 1996 the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval or rejection:

To amend Article III, sections 2 to 4:

III-2 "The first power reserved by the people is the initiative whereby laws may be enacted and constitutional amendments adopted by the people independently of the Legislature. ~~This power may be invoked by petition wherein the proposed measure shall be set forth at length. If the petition be for the enactment of a law, it shall be signed by seven percent of the registered voters of the state, and if the petition be for the amendment of the Constitution, the petition therefor shall be signed by ten percent of such registered voters. In all cases the registered voters signing such petition shall be so distributed as to include five percent of the registered voters of each of two-fifths of the counties of the state, and when thus signed, the petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State who shall submit the measure thus proposed to the electors of the state at the first general election held not less than four months after such petition shall have been filed.~~ To initiate the enactment of a law or the adoption of a constitutional amendment, a petition shall be circulated which contains the entire proposed law or constitutional amendment. The petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State. If the petition is signed by the required number of registered voters appropriately distributed, the Secretary of State shall submit the proposed law or constitutional amendment to the electors of the state at the first general election held not less than four months after the petition is filed. The required number of signatures for a law is at least six percent of the number of votes which were cast in the state for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The required number of signatures for a constitutional amendment is at least eight percent of the number of votes which were cast in the state for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The distribution of the registered voters signing a petition for a law or a constitutional amendment shall include signatures equal in number to at least four percent of the number of votes cast for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state.

The same measure, either in form or in essential substance, shall not be submitted to the people by initiative petition, either affirmatively or negatively, more often than once in three years. If conflicting measures submitted to the people at the same election be approved, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall thereby become law as to all conflicting provisions. The constitutional limitations as to the scope and subject matter of statutes enacted by the Legislature shall apply to those enacted by the initiative."

III-3 "The second power reserved is the referendum which may be invoked, by petition, against any act or part of an act of the Legislature, except those making appropriations for the expense of the state government or a state institution existing at the time of the passage of such act. To refer an act or part of an act of the Legislature, a petition shall be circulated which sets out the title of the act against which the referendum is invoked and, if only a portion of the act is sought to be referred, the number of the section or sections or portion of sections of the act designating such portion. The petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State within ninety days after the Legislature at which the act sought to be referred was passed has adjourned sine die or for more than ninety days. If the petition is signed by the required number of registered voters appropriately distributed, the Secretary of State shall refer the act or the part of the act to the electors for approval or rejection at the first general election to be held not less than thirty days after the filing of the petition. The required number of signatures is at least four percent of the number of votes which were cast in the state for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The distribution of the registered voters signing a referendum petition shall include signatures equal in number to at least four percent of the number of votes which were cast for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state.

When the referendum is invoked as to any act or part of an act, other than emergency acts or those for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, by petition signed by registered voters equal in number to at least eight percent of the number of votes which were cast in the state for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition, distributed so as to include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes which were cast for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state, it shall suspend the taking effect of such act or part of act until the same has been approved by the electors of the state. ~~Petitions invoking the referendum shall be signed by not less than five percent of the registered voters of the state, distributed as required for initiative petitions, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State within ninety days after the Legislature at which the act sought to be referred was passed shall have adjourned sine die or for more than ninety days. Such petition shall set out the title of the act against which the referendum is invoked and, in addition thereto, when only a portion of the act is sought to be referred, the number of the section or sections or portion of sections of the act designating such portion. When the referendum is thus invoked, the Secretary of State shall refer the same to the electors for approval or rejection at the first general election to be held not less than thirty days after the filing of such petition.~~

~~When the referendum is invoked as to any act or part of act, other than emergency acts or those for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, by petition signed by not less than ten percent of the registered voters of the state distributed as aforesaid, it shall suspend the taking effect of such act or part of act until the same has been approved by the electors of the state.~~"

III-4 "~~The whole number of votes cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of an initiative or referendum petition shall be the basis on which the number of signatures to such petition shall be computed.~~ The veto power of the Governor shall not extend to measures initiated by or referred to the people. A measure initiated shall become a law or part of the Constitution, as the case may be, when a majority of the votes cast thereon, and not less than thirty-five ~~per cent~~ percent of the total vote cast at the election at which the same was submitted, are cast in favor thereof, and shall take effect upon proclamation by the Governor which shall be made within ten days after the official canvass of such votes. The vote upon initiative and referendum measures shall be returned and canvassed in the manner prescribed for the canvass of votes for ~~president~~ President. The method of submitting and adopting amendments to the Constitution provided by this section shall be supplementary to the method prescribed in the article of this Constitution, entitled, "Amendments" and the latter shall in no case be construed to conflict herewith. The provisions with respect to the initiative and referendum shall be self-executing, but legislation may be enacted to facilitate their operation. All propositions submitted in pursuance hereof shall be submitted in a non-partisan manner and without any indication or suggestion on the ballot that they have been approved or endorsed by any political party or organization. Only the title or proper descriptive words of measures shall be printed on the ballot and when two or more measures have the same title they shall be numbered consecutively in the order of filing with the Secretary of State and the number shall be followed by the name of the first petitioner on the corresponding petition.".

Sec. 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the manner prescribed by the Constitution of Nebraska, Article XVI, section 1, with the following ballot language:

"A constitutional amendment to change the number of signatures needed and the method of calculating the number of signatures for initiative and referendum measures.

For

Against".

"Section 1. At the general election in November 1996 the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval or rejection:

To amend Article III, section 24:

III-24 '(1) There shall be a Gaming Commission consisting of five members, no more than three of whom shall be from any one political party, whose compensation shall be fixed by the Legislature. The commission shall have such powers and duties as the Legislature may direct, including the regulation of any new form of gaming activity authorized by the Legislature on or after November 1, 1996, but not including regulation of the state lottery. All other gaming regulated by the State of Nebraska or its political subdivisions on the effective date of this amendment shall continue to be regulated in the manner in which, and by the same entity as, they were regulated on the effective date of this amendment until January 1, 2001, and after such date, until otherwise directed by the Legislature. The initial terms of office shall be staggered, with two members appointed for initial six-year terms, two members appointed for initial four-year terms, and one member appointed for an initial two-year term. After the initial terms of office, all appointments shall be for six-year terms, except for appointments to complete unexpired terms. Members of the commission shall be appointed by the Governor from districts of substantially equal population established by the Legislature subject to the approval of a majority of the members of the Legislature. Members may be removed for cause. The commission shall have the authority to regulate gaming in a manner which maintains integrity and honesty, prevents illegal activity, maintains public confidence, and protects the interests of the people of the State of Nebraska.

(2) ~~Except as provided in this section, the~~ The Legislature ~~shall not authorize any game of chance or any lottery or gift enterprise when the consideration for a chance to participate involves the payment of money for the purchase of property, services, or a chance or admission ticket or requires an expenditure of substantial effort or time~~ may authorize games of chance, lotteries, or gift enterprises as provided in this section.

~~(2)~~ (3) The Legislature may authorize and regulate a state lottery pursuant to subsection ~~(3)~~ (4) of this section and other lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises which are intended solely as business promotions or the proceeds of which are to be used solely for charitable or community betterment purposes without profit to the promoter of such lotteries, raffles, or gift enterprises.

~~(3)~~ (4) The Legislature may establish a lottery to be operated and regulated by the State of Nebraska. The proceeds of the lottery shall be appropriated by the Legislature for the costs of establishing and maintaining the lottery and for other purposes as directed by the Legislature. No lottery game shall be conducted as part of the lottery unless the type of game has been approved by a majority of the members of the Legislature.

~~(4)~~ (5) The Legislature may authorize and regulate games of chance, the proceeds of which may be used only for property tax relief, for charitable or community betterment purposes, for civic benefit, for job creation and economic development, or for the promotion of agriculture. Such games of chance shall include, but not be limited to, casino gaming activities, player-activated electronic, video, or mechanical gaming devices, dice, card games of chance, and table games of chance.

(6) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit (a) the enactment of laws providing for the licensing and regulation of wagering on the results of horseraces, wherever run, either within or outside of the state, by the parimutuel method, when such wagering is conducted by licensees within a licensed racetrack enclosure or (b) the enactment of laws providing for the licensing and regulation of bingo games conducted by nonprofit associations which have been in existence for a period of five years immediately preceding the application for license, except that bingo games cannot be conducted by agents or lessees of such associations on a percentage basis.'.

LEGISLATIVE BILL 469. Placed on Select File as amended.
E & R amendment to LB 469:
AM7168

1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following sections:

"Section 1. Section 19-4610, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, is amended to read:

19-4610. (1) If a utility desires to change its rates for natural gas service within a municipality other than to reflect an adjustment for natural gas supply costs, the utility shall present to the municipality copies of present and proposed rate schedules, the monthly customer billing dates for the twelve months following the date of filing, and information supporting the proposed rates for natural gas service within the municipality as required by section 19-4611.

(2) The municipality may charge and collect a filing fee for a rate filing. Such fee shall not exceed: (a) For a city of the primary class, two thousand dollars; (b) for a city of the first class, one thousand dollars; (c) for a city of the second class, three hundred dollars; and (d) for a village, seventy-five dollars.

(3) Within forty-five days after the date of filing, a municipality may reject a rate filing only on the grounds that the information required by section 19-4611 has not been filed with the municipality. The utility shall be given at least seven days' prior written notice of any meeting to consider rejection of the utility's rate filing. Rejection shall be made by resolution of the municipality and shall state the reasons upon which the rejection is based. In the event of any such rejection, a copy of the written resolution shall be delivered to the utility within seven days after final action by the municipality. After receipt of the resolution, the utility shall have fifteen days to remedy the deficiencies stated in such resolution and the time periods under section 19-4607 shall not be suspended during such fifteen-day period. If the municipality has not received the information to cure the deficiencies within the fifteen-day period or within such additional period of time as may be agreed to by the utility and the municipality, the filing shall be deemed to be rejected and the utility shall be required to initiate a new rate filing.

(4) The utility may appeal from the decision of the municipality rejecting a rate filing. The appeal shall be to the district court.

(5) If a rate filing is rejected and the rejection is appealed, the utility may place the interim rates into effect pursuant to the time periods specified in section 19-4607, subject to refund, pending district court determination. If the utility appeals the rejection of the filing and if the court rules that the rejection was unreasonable, the times specified in section 19-4607 shall run from the date of filing.

Sec. 2. Section 19-4615, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, is amended to read:

19-4615. (1) Notice of filings for any rate increase under the Municipal Natural Gas Regulation Act shall be given within thirty days of filing by publication by placing a notice to the public of the proposed change in a newspaper having general circulation in the municipality, except that a utility may provide notice to the public by mailing such notice by United States mail, postage prepaid, to the billing address of each directly affected customer or by including the notice in such customer's bill in a conspicuous form. An affidavit signed by an official of a utility and describing the method of publication of the notice shall be filed with the office of the clerk of the municipality. The notice shall contain:

~~(1)~~ (a) The name and address of the utility;

~~(2)~~ (b) The dollar amount of the increase as it pertains to the typical residential customer;

~~(3)~~ (c) The percentage amount of the increase; and

~~(4)~~ (d) The name and address of the clerk of the municipality.

(2) No later than twenty days prior to the scheduled date of the area rate hearing provided for in section 19-4616, the utility shall inform affected utility customers of the hearing by mailing notice by United States mail, postage prepaid, to the billing address of each directly affected customer or by including the notice in such customer's bill in a conspicuous form. The notice shall contain a brief statement of the purpose of the hearing and the date, time, and place of the hearing or nearest videoconference site and shall inform the customer of his or her right to attend the hearing and to appear, participate, and present testimony.

Sec. 3. Section 19-4616, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, is amended to read:

19-4616. (1) A report specifying the reasons supporting any action recommended to the municipality by the municipal staff or any agent or employee employed by or on behalf of the municipality to assist it in rate regulation shall be provided to the municipality and the utility within one hundred twenty countable days of the date of the rate filing. Relevant information requests regarding the report may be made by the utility to the municipality and shall be responded to as soon as reasonably possible prior to the date for the filing of the rebuttal. Not later than one hundred twenty countable days following the date of the rate filing, the municipality shall set the date, time, and place of the area rate hearing and any sites for videoconference participation and shall inform the utility not less than fifteen days before the utility's next customer billing date which will occur at least twenty days before the area rate hearing.

(2) Within seven countable days after receipt of the report, the utility and the municipality identified in section 19-4617 may mutually agree to discuss resolution of the rate filing issues and may mutually agree to suspend the date of final action and time periods set forth in the Municipal Natural Gas Regulation Act for a period not to exceed thirty days.

(3) Within fourteen countable days after receipt of the report, the utility shall file its rebuttal. Relevant information requests regarding the rebuttal may be made by the municipality to the utility and shall be responded to as soon as reasonably possible prior to the area rate hearing provided for in this section.

(4) No sooner than seven days after the utility files its rebuttal, an area rate hearing shall be held in the municipality having the largest number of customers in the rate area. Such hearing shall be conducted by a hearing officer appointed by the municipality identified in section 19-4617. Such hearing officer shall have experience in the conduct of hearings so as to insure the fair, impartial, and expeditious conduct of the proceedings and the creation of a record of the proceedings. The utility shall be given written notice of such rate hearing and the name of the hearing officer by the end of the one-hundred-twenty-eighth countable day after the date of filing. The municipalities and the utility shall be granted the opportunity at such hearing to call witnesses, present evidence, cross-examine witnesses, and argue the evidence. If the municipalities and the utility reach an agreement upon any or all of the items at issue with regard to the filing by the utility, the terms of any agreement shall be presented in full at the hearing and the proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law presented to the hearing officer shall reflect the terms of the agreement. Customers of the utility attending the hearing shall be provided a full and complete opportunity to appear, participate, and present testimony at the hearing with regard to the agreement or any of its terms. Prior to such hearing, the hearing officer shall establish procedures for the conduct of the hearing to comply with this provision. The utility shall present as evidence at the hearing all the information which it desires to have considered by the municipality in its consideration of the rates to be adopted. Following the hearing, the utility and the municipalities shall provide to the hearing officer their proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. A certified court reporter shall be present at the hearing and shall prepare a transcript of the proceedings.

(5) When two or more rate areas served by the same utility are conducting area rate hearings on the same date, a consolidated area rate hearing of all the rate areas may be conducted at one single site by videoconference upon the consent of the utility and the municipalities identified in section 19-4617 representing a majority of the affected rate areas. If a joint area rate hearing is approved, there shall be at least one remote site in each rate area participating from which interested persons may view the proceedings and participate as witnesses. If a joint area rate hearing is held pursuant to this subsection, a separate official record conforming to the requirements of this section shall be created for each rate area.

(6) The official record of the hearing shall consist of the rate filing, all reports, all evidence presented by the utility and the municipalities, all documents and information presented at the hearing, the transcript of the proceedings, and the proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law presented to the hearing officer by the municipalities and the utility. A copy of the official record shall be transmitted by the hearing officer to each municipality in the rate area.

(7) ~~(6)~~ Following the hearing and within one hundred eighty countable days of the date of filing, each municipality within the rate area shall take final action on the rate filing by adopting findings of fact and conclusions of law and a rate ordinance based on such findings and conclusions. If the municipality does not take action within that one-hundred-eighty-countable-day period, the rates filed by the utility in its rate filing shall become final and no longer subject to refund. Notwithstanding any other provision of state law or any local ordinance, the adoption of a rate ordinance shall require no more than a vote of a majority of the elected members of any governing body of a municipality made at one public meeting after compliance with public notice requirements and a public hearing on the proposed ordinance.

(8) ~~(7)~~ Within thirty days of the date of final action by the municipalities within a rate area, a utility may initiate proceedings for judicial review of the decision of any municipality in the rate area to the district court. At the time the utility initiates action for judicial review, it shall join in such action as parties all municipalities in the rate area whose actions are being challenged.

(9) ~~(8)~~ In no event shall the district court render a decision upon a judicial review of municipal action later than one hundred eighty days after the filing of the action.

(10) ~~(9)~~ The utility shall, within thirty days of the date of final action, unless it takes timely action to initiate judicial review, implement the rates established by the action of the municipality and shall, within sixty days of such action, make refunds, if any, with interest as provided in section 19-4607.

Sec. 4. Section 19-4618, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1994, is amended to read:

19-4618. (1) Once in any thirty-six-month period, one or more municipalities in each rate area may initiate a proceeding for a review and possible adjustment in rates to conform such rates to the standards of section 19-4612 by the introduction of a resolution for such purpose. The municipality shall provide to the utility seven days' prior written notice of the meeting at which such resolution is to be considered and a copy of the proposed resolution. Following adoption of the resolution, the clerk of the municipality shall send a copy of the resolution by certified mail to the utility. The municipality may request the information required by section 19-4611 to be provided by the utility within one hundred twenty days of the receipt of the notice unless otherwise agreed. Following filing of the information required in section 19-4611, the municipality may make additional requests as provided in section 19-4614. The utility shall be provided with a copy of any reports and analyses prepared for the municipality in its consideration of a rate adjustment. To the fullest extent possible, the general procedures provided for in subsections (1) through ~~(6)~~ (7) of section 19-4616 shall be followed by the municipality and the utility, except that calculations of time periods shall be from the date on which the municipality receives the information specified in section 19-4611 and not from the date of filing. Nothing in this subsection shall require the participation in the proceedings of every municipality in the rate area. During the pendency of all proceedings under this section and through the period of judicial review of those proceedings, the rates in effect prior to the time the municipality adopts the resolution provided for in this section shall remain in effect. The provisions of subsection (5) of section 19-4607 shall be applicable to this section.

(2) Except as provided in the Municipal Natural Gas Regulation Act, no municipality shall be entitled to any filing fees or assessments against the utility when the municipality initiates a rate adjustment nor shall the municipality receive a loan under section 19-4617 for such purposes. If the utility initiates judicial review of the decision of a municipality under this section and the court upholds the decision of the municipality, the court may award the municipality litigation expenses to include attorney's fees, expert witness fees, consultant fees, and such other related expenses as the court finds to be properly related to the judicial review. Any action for judicial review shall be initiated in the district court. If appropriate resolutions are adopted by municipalities representing seventy percent or more of the customers in the rate area initiating a proceeding for review and possible adjustment of natural gas rates, the applicant representing the largest number of customers shall be given a loan for such purposes upon the terms of section 19-4617.

(3) ~~After August 1, 1993, any~~ Any municipality or combination of municipalities within a rate area which determines from the filings made by a utility pursuant to section 19-4618.02 that evidence exists that the utility is engaging in subsidization may conduct a review of the utility's rates for natural gas service to customers pursuant to this section for the purpose of determining whether it is necessary to adjust prospectively any portion of the rates.

Sec. 5. Original sections 19-4610, 19-4615, and 19-4616, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, and section 19-4618, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1994, are repealed.".

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 96002

DATED: January 9, 1996

SUBJECT: Impact of Proposed Legislative Change on Prosecutions Under Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-311.02 (Cum. Supp. 1994)

REQUESTED BY: Senator Joyce Hillman,
Nebraska State Legislature

Barry Waid, Assistant Attorney General

You have asked whether deleting the words "any victim who has been willfully and maliciously harassed" as well as all references to stalking from Neb. Rev. Stat. § 42-924 (Reissue 1993) will adversely affect prosecutions under Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 28-311.02 - 28-311.05 (Cum. Supp. 1993).

The answer is no. The proposed legislative change will not affect prosecutions under the "stalking" statute. In 1992, the Legislature passed a provision making stalking a crime. Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 28-311.02 - 28-311.05 (Cum. Supp. 1992). The statute required as one if its elements of proof that the acts were done in violation of one of the court orders enumerated in Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-311.03. Protection orders were one of the court orders which, if violated by the actor, could form the basis for a stalking prosecution. The requirement that a court order (such as a protection order) be in effect prohibiting the behavior has been removed from the stalking law currently in force. Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-311.03 (Cum. Supp. 1993). As a result, whether a citizen is eligible to obtain a domestic protection order will not affect the ability of the state to prosecute individuals who might victimize other citizens by stalking them.

Sincerely yours,
DON STENBERG

MOTION - Escort Governor

Mr. Withem moved that a committee of five be appointed to escort the Governor of the State of Nebraska to the Legislative Chamber to deliver his State of the State Address.

The motion prevailed.

The Chair appointed Mmes. Bohlke, Crosby, Brown, Messrs. Brashear, and Bromm to serve on said committee.

The Committee returned and escorted Governor Ben Nelson to the rostrum where he delivered the following State of the State Address.

STATE OF THE STATE ADDRESS

Five years ago, I stood before this chamber to deliver my first State of the State address. As I prepared for my address today and reflected on that first speech, I had two observations.

I was struck by the tremendous amount of positive change that has occurred in Nebraska. Working together, we have met challenges by turning them into opportunities. We have delivered on promises. We have made a difference.

I also realized that our nation is in many ways facing the same kinds of challenges it was in 1991.

In my first State of the State, we sent our prayers to those serving in the Persian Gulf. Today, our prayers are with those trying to keep peace in war-torn Bosnia.

Back then, I warned that the federal government had to face up to its financial difficulties. While Nebraska has learned to live within its means, the same cannot be said for our federal government in Washington, and all of us are suffering the consequences.

As I faced my first legislative session, I asked for the help of every Nebraskan to meet our challenges. I told you then that, "We can do what must be done." Working together, we've answered that call. We've seen fundamental change and a great deal of progress in Nebraska and have set an example those in our nation's capital would be wise to follow.

We've worked hard to make sure our education system is the best it can be. We recognize that money alone will not solve the problems in our schools. That's why we have used our resources wisely and targeted our funding to give students the tools they need to succeed.

We've boosted state aid to education by more than $79 million during my administration - that's an increase of more than 22 percent. Since 1993, nearly $20 million in state lottery proceeds have gone into a fund for innovative education projects - many of those involving computer technology. We've given students the knowledge they need to keep drugs and gang activity out of their lives.

Our students and teachers have responded - our performance on national tests continues to place Nebraska among the highest-scoring states in the country. But in this competitive environment, being good isn't good enough. Establishing measurable standards will help us bring out the best in every student.

Nebraska's six ethanol plants now produce 275 million gallons every year. The ethanol industry has increased corn prices and jobs. More than 4,000 Nebraska jobs are tied to ethanol production.

Our "Employment First" welfare reform program will help welfare recipients get back to work. We are returning our welfare system to the temporary safety net it was meant to be.

We've passed a juvenile crime bill and armed our carrier enforcement officers. The "Safe Streets Act of 1995" is putting and keeping more dangerous offenders behind bars. We've given our law enforcement officers more tools in their battle - improved DNA testing and a new high-tech fingerprint identification system.

Now, we can build on our achievements. The new challenges we face present even more opportunities for positive change.

What's essential to remember is that all of our successes have their foundation in the fiscal integrity of the state. I consider my role as steward of the budget to be my number one challenge.

Over the past five years, we've emphasized fiscal responsibility and spending restraint. We've consistently focused on efficiency, effectiveness and curbing the growth of spending. We've limited the hiring of employees. We've instituted a strategic budget plan. We've seen dramatic results.

Before I took office, state government spending was growing at an average annual rate of 12.6 percent. During the past five years, we've reduced the growth rate by two-thirds, to an average of less than four percent a year.

Nebraska continues to benefit from a strong economy. We consistently have one of the lowest unemployment rates in the country. During the last five years, we've increased non-agricultural employment in Nebraska by more than 10 percent - that's an increase of 82,000 jobs.

We expect continued economic growth. But at the same time, there are good reasons to be cautious. Net tax receipts for fiscal year 1994-1995 were below projections. This has depleted the cash reserve fund. Our first priority must be to rebuild our cash reserve.

I am presenting a budget bill which transfers $21.5 million to the cash reserve fund in this fiscal year and another $17.3 million in the next.

Action to strengthen our cash reserve is necessary and critical. Inaction is irresponsible and unacceptable. We must maintain a sound financial position, and we must establish that our priority is on saving, rather than spending, our general fund dollars.

Budgeting for state government is a balancing act - avoiding uncontrolled growth while still meeting the important needs of Nebraskans. As federal support declines and communities find themselves with responsibilities they cannot afford, the state gets hit from both sides.

In addition, this is a time of considerable uncertainty. With nearly a third of the federal fiscal year behind them, Congress and the President still have not reached an agreement on the federal budget. This leaves us more than halfway through the state fiscal year with only temporary federal funding decisions on many state-delivered services.

Any losses in federal funds can only be made up in three ways - greater efficiencies, reductions in services or re-allocating state resources. We pledge to work closely with you as decisions are made on the federal level, to do what is in the best interests of Nebraskans.

State agencies, boards and commissions have submitted mid-biennium general fund budget requests of $28.4 million, and I have carefully reviewed them. But I am recommending budget adjustments that total only about one-third of the amount requested.

I recommend that most agency requests for new or increased funding not be considered at this midpoint in the biennium. Several agencies have asked for funding to negate the effect of my vetoes last session, vetoes you sustained for fiscal year 1996-1997. I urge you to reject those funding requests, to use caution and restraint in spending, and to make every effort to improve our cash reserve.

The need for the state to continue to exercise fiscal restraint is obvious. And the need for local governments to exercise the same kind of restraint is just as clear - local spending increases are driving property taxes above our ability to pay. The challenge is how best to achieve property tax relief.

The Local Control Taxpayer Relief Act I have proposed is a common-sense solution to our property tax problems. Others want to spell relief S-H-I-F-T. I spell it C-U-T. It is only with spending cuts that we can achieve true property tax relief.

Local control is the key to this plan. If a subdivision wants to change its spending limits, it can do so with the approval of the governing board and the voters.

This plan is both fair and realistic. It is not a constitutional change, which should be used only after all other options are first exhausted.

It's not enough to ask how a property tax relief proposal will affect us individually. We must also ask how it will affect our families, our neighbors, our communities and our state.

I'll listen to those with concerns or suggestions on this issue. We must all keep an open mind and focus on finding a true property tax solution - a solution that will ensure that all taxpayers will see relief, not just some.

Capping local spending raises the question, "What about a cap on state spending as well?" Property taxes go to local governments. Income taxes go to state government, and that is the most appropriate area for the state to cut.

I am again proposing a personal income tax cut of $35 million a year, beginning with the 1997 tax year. This tax cut is made possible by our continued spending restraint at the state level and the growing economy of our state.

Net tax receipts may be below projections, but tax revenues continue to increase. Nebraska's economy is sound, and taxpayers deserve to share directly in our economic prosperity.

This income tax cut will result in an average reduction of nearly four percent for every Nebraska taxpayer. It will enhance our position in the highly competitive area of economic development. And it sends the right signal - we can return dollars to taxpayers rather than spend them.

Some have declared the income tax cut dead on arrival. Others may try to kill it before it's had a fair hearing. Listen to the call of Nebraskans. They want a more efficient and less costly government. The income tax cut is a step in the right direction. It's realistic. And it can be done.

We must continue to challenge government at all levels to be more efficient and effective, creating an opportunity for us to do a better job with the resources we have.

A year ago, we embarked on an ambitious project to review the health and human services activities of our state agencies. The need for change was clear - our current system is outdated, rigid and lacking in coordination. This results in confusion and duplication.

I asked Lt. Governor Kim Robak to look for more efficient and effective ways to deliver services to Nebraskans. The outcome is the Nebraska Partnership Project, a plan to create a unified health and human services system.

What began as a streamlining effort has become a blueprint for the most sweeping changes in the structure of state government in recent history.

We have introduced legislation this session to create the new system. That legislation calls for transferring the functions of five existing state agencies - Social Services, Health, Aging, Public Institutions and Juvenile Services - to three functionally-based agencies.

Our goal is to create a system that emphasizes local control, accountability and quality service. To further design a common-sense Nebraska system, we will seek participation over the next year from all sectors - state employees, communities, providers, clients, advocacy groups, business interests and you, the lawmakers.

We also created a public and private partnership to look at changing the way we do business in truck licensing and regulation. The result is our proposal for a One Stop Shop, to consolidate the trucking activities of three agencies into the Department of Motor Vehicles.

We all recognize the great opportunities that information technology presents for improving government efficiency and worker productivity. We propose the creation of an info tech fund to help us take better advantage of those opportunities.

When it comes to unfunded and underfunded mandates, Nebraskans have successfully challenged the status quo. I'm pleased such mandates are becoming a past form of conducting government business.

Nebraska's leadership in the fight against unfunded and underfunded mandates has paid off on the national level - Congress passed and the President signed unfunded mandates legislation. Just recently, the Senate unanimously approved reforms to the Safe Drinking Water Act - reforms that remove many costly and unnecessary testing requirements placed on Nebraska communities.

At the state level, an executive order I signed requires state agencies to stop imposing mandates on local governments. My Local Control Taxpayer Relief Act goes even further, making additional state unfunded mandates illegal.

The Nebraska Mandate Initiative, which I began in 1994, continues to help communities more effectively manage existing federal and state mandates. Through this partnership, state government helps local governments prioritize environmental issues based on risk so they can spend their resources wisely.

We continue to face challenges in dealing with low-level nuclear waste disposal. While the search for a solution continues, we must do all we can to protect Nebraska from potential unfair liability in that area.

We face one of our greatest challenges in the area of crime. This past summer, every Nebraskan was touched by the tragic death of Omaha Police Officer Jimmy Wilson Jr. As we mourned the loss of this young Nebraskan, we also continued to be outraged by the increasing level of violence in our state.

We have discovered a shortcoming in our state's definition of the aggravating circumstances considered for imposition of the death penalty. I am proposing legislation that will make it clear that the murder of a law enforcement officer while in the performance of his or her duties is an aggravating circumstance under which the death penalty may be imposed.

Our aggressive strategies to strengthen laws and lengthen stays are putting more dangerous criminals behind bars and keeping them there for longer periods of time. But that has led to another challenge - overcrowding in the state correctional system has reached the crisis point.

If we fail to deal with this overcrowding problem today, the courts will intervene and tell us what we have to do. The result will be a solution that may not fit Nebraska's needs, a solution that will almost certainly cost taxpayers more. For the good of the state, we must control our own destiny in this area.

Three initiatives will help reduce the overcrowding problem. First, we recommend the construction of modular housing at the State Penitentiary to provide an additional 300 beds. This approach is appropriate for our needs. It is much less costly than building a new prison, and it addresses the problem quickly.

Second, we will seek additional funding to proceed with the development of the secure youth confinement facility in Omaha.

The third initiative is the development of a prison work camp. This is more than a military-style boot camp that simply whips offenders into physical shape and returns them to society. This is a tightly-structured prison work camp.

I will also support legislation to amend the statutory definition of second-degree murder to include malice as an element.

The Nebraska Supreme Court is expected to rule soon on key issues in the important area of drunk driving enforcement. I am prepared to have emergency legislation introduced, if necessary, to preserve our existing DWI enforcement tools.

I will continue my efforts to provide greater accountability for decisions made by the Parole Board.

And I will support legislation to expand the state's authority in cases of individuals committed to public mental health facilities who walk away without authorization.

New crime statistics have given us some positive news - adult crime and arrests are stable or declining in Nebraska. But figures for youth violence, gang activity and drug involvement continue to climb.

Some would have us believe that the only way to fight crime is to lock up offenders and throw away the key. But this issue does not need demagogues - it needs leaders.

There are no quick fixes. Legislation alone cannot curb this increase. It will require personal involvement and community action.

We will continue our efforts to strengthen families and communities through Good Beginnings, the Family Preservation Project, Partners in Planning and PACT - Pulling America's Communities Together.

We will support training in youth violence prevention, the expansion of early intervention programs and the creation of a Juvenile Service Center to better screen and place young offenders.

We will develop a state directory of services for families and an information system that will allow agencies to SHARE information to better meet the needs of families.

Another important measure to strengthen and support families is "Kids First," pending legislation to revoke the professional and drivers' licenses of those who fail to pay child support. We want to emphasize the responsibility that parents have to their children, by bringing this proposal full circle to include the enforcement of visitation rights.

As we look at the future of our children, we must wonder what kind of world we will leave them. We recognized long ago that our natural resources are limited. The environmental challenges we face give us the opportunity to find responsible solutions to our problems, solutions that will outlive us, solutions that assure those resources will be available for future generations.

Water is Nebraska's gold. We must do all we can to protect it. And we must not surrender our water rights to other states. At the same time, we must continue to work with our neighboring states to avoid the possibility of unnecessary and costly litigation and unworkable court decisions that defy common sense.

With regard to water legislation, we must continue to search for a balance among urban, agricultural, recreational and environmental interests, to focus on what is best for all Nebraskans. And it is essential that we emphasize local control instead of relying on the state to dictate what must be done.

The challenges we have faced in economic development have yielded some of the most tangible opportunities for Nebraska. We've established the Rural Development Commission and Enterprise Zones. Our overseas trade missions are paying big dividends for Nebraska businesses and agriculture.

Nebraska continues to have a low unemployment rate, but this can be a mixed blessing for employers needing to recruit workers. A 1995 survey of non-metropolitan communities revealed that 75 percent were experiencing worker shortages. It is essential that the state help local communities address this important issue. It's time to replace Nebraska's brain drain with a brain gain.

Our solution is "Work Nebraska," a coordinated employee recruitment effort in the Department of Economic Development. It has four components: a system to link the unemployed and underemployed to job opportunities; a program to help communities recruit employees; an employment conditions survey to help determine employment changes and jobs that need to be filled; and a system to direct workers to jobs requiring their skills or to appropriate training programs.

Since its passage last year, the Nebraska Partnerships for Economic Development Act has generated a great deal of interest. The Act made $500,000 available over two years for economic development projects that serve more than a single community. Because of the tremendous response from applicants and the volume of worthy projects, we are seeking an additional $250,000 for the next fiscal year to expand the effort. We also plan to add a new component - the Nebraska Cooperative Initiative. The additional money will allow us to target value-added agricultural cooperative projects throughout Nebraska.

An important and growing component of our economic development effort is tourism, the third largest industry in our state. I am calling for an increase in spending authority from existing state lodging tax funds to begin implementing our strategic plan for tourism. I am also calling for an appropriation to continue the Nebraska Film Office, to allow us to build on the $17 million film production companies have spent in Nebraska since 1991.

It's clear that we face many challenges and many uncertainties. We must rebuild the cash reserve fund and continue to exercise fiscal restraint. We must find a way to provide Nebraskans with true property tax relief and a personal income tax cut. We can do both, and we need to do both.

We must continue our streamlining and efficiency efforts. We must find new tools in our fight against crime and youth violence. We must continue our progress in the fields of education, economic development and the environment.

We have proven that challenges can be positive and bring out the best in each of us. Working together, we can continue to defy the status quo and turn these challenges into opportunities for positive change for all Nebraskans.

I challenge you to take advantage of these opportunities. We cannot afford to lose them to political games, partisanship or pessimism.

We recognize and appreciate the great diversity of Nebraska. It's what makes us strong. And we must not allow it to divide us. We are still One Nebraska, and we must strive to do what is in the best interests of all.

There are those who think that elected officials can't do what needs to be done, can't set aside partisan differences for the common good and can't come together to do what's right for the people. I tell them to look at Nebraska. We've done it before. Working together, we'll do it again. We'll seize opportunity from challenge.

RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 297. Introduced by Warner, 25; Bohlke, 33; Wickersham, 49; Beutler, 28; Wesely, 26; Coordsen, 32; Robinson, 16; Will, 8; Withem, 14; Hartnett, 45; Schellpeper, 18; Kristensen, 37; Lindsay, 9.

WHEREAS, the issue of property tax relief has been in the forefront of the work of the Legislature for many years; and

WHEREAS, many other states have had to deal with the issue of property tax after the passage of initiative petitions forced changes upon them for which they were ill-prepared; and

WHEREAS, there are currently being circulated one or more petitions in Nebraska which will impose restrictions on, or even eliminate, property taxes as a source of revenue for government services; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature voted 38 to 0 to permit introduction of LR93CA, which would place a constitutional cap on property tax levies for individual political subdivisions and prohibit more than twenty percent of all property taxes based on current figures from being levied; and

WHEREAS, passage of LR93CA or an initiative petition will result in a need to substantially restructure the provision and financing of public services in Nebraska; and

WHEREAS, although legislative resolutions are not binding, resolving the property tax issue is so complex and diverse that it is critical that the Legislature set the tone and direction of the 1996 legislative session early, so that any necessary changes can be fully debated.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION:

Introduction

1. It is a goal of the Legislature to pass legislation in 1996 which will restructure public services and the financing of public services through (a) cooperation and consolidation, (b) taxpayer accountability, (c) levy caps, (d) unification of service responsibility, (e) equalized aid, and (f) fiscal responsibility. Failure to meet the goals expressed in this resolution will diminish the possibility of effectively addressing the property tax problem through levy caps.

Cooperation and Consolidation

2. It is a goal of the Legislature to pass legislation in 1996 which will cause greater cooperation among political subdivisions and unification of service delivery to deliver essential public services effectively. Consistent with this goal would be (a) legislation to allow limited property tax levy authority, local sales tax authority, or other local tax authority only if the revenue is used to finance a joint city/county, multicounty, multicity, or other combined effort, (b) legislation to encourage reorganization of schools, (c) legislation to facilitate mergers of political subdivisions, (d) legislation to encourage joint officeholding, and (e) legislation for joint service responsibility.

Taxpayer Accountability

3. It is the goal of the Legislature to pass legislation in 1996 which will more fully inform taxpayers of the amount and purposes of any taxes which are collected. Included among these proposals will be legislation to (a) require local governments to pass property tax levies by ordinance or resolution rather than having them calculated at the end of the budget-setting process and (b) provide a procedure by which the budgets and levies of miscellaneous districts may be reviewed and approved by county boards or some other agency before any taxes are levied by these districts. It is the goal of the Legislature to pass legislation in 1996 which will give county boards or some other entity control over the levies of miscellaneous districts to assure that they can be accommodated within an overall limit. It is also the goal of the Legislature to achieve uniform and professional valuation of property statewide so that the property tax is levied as uniformly and fairly as possible.

Levy Caps

4. It is the goal of the Legislature to pass legislation in 1996 which will phase in overall levy caps to be effective in stages in future years. The amount of restructuring, cooperation, and prioritizing which is necessary to accommodate such caps and still provide effective public services such as law enforcement, prosecution and defense, corrections, and health care, demands that the Legislature act with deliberation and foresight. So that property tax relief is not lost to local initiatives, it is the goal of the Legislature to pass legislation in 1996 which assures that increased state obligations due to restructuring or increased state aid are reflected in lower property taxes. Consistent with this goal would be legislation which provides for an expenditure cap for local governments which is less than the historic rate of growth of revenue for each political subdivision. Also consistent with this goal would be legislation which would create a commission to review proposals for new or expended public facilities financed through bond issues which will be empowered to disapprove such proposals if the entity cannot demonstrate the need for new construction consistent with the efficient and multiple use of public facilities. Ultimately, it is the goal of the Legislature to achieve viable levy caps at no more than two dollars per one hundred dollars of valuation.

Unification of Responsibility

5. It is the goal of the Legislature to pass legislation in 1996 which will restructure the financing of local services to eliminate, to the greatest extent possible, overlapping jurisdiction and financing using general state aid so that clear responsibilities for the provision of services are established and financed from a single source. Property taxes are to be reduced through unification of delivery and other changes to increase efficiency and by transferring responsibility for financing these services away from entities supported by the property tax. Consistent with this goal would be (a) total state financing of social services such as medically indigent, developmental disabilities, and alcoholism and substance abuse services, (b) the repeal of statutes requiring that counties levy taxes for "general assistance", and (c) payment to the Department of Public Institutions of a portion of the costs of institutional care for county residents. Consistent with this goal would be the total state funding of court costs and the elimination of county funding for clerks of the district court, juries, and other clerical costs. Also consistent with these goals would be the elimination of levy authority for townships, reclamation districts, drainage districts, water conservation districts, county superintendents of schools, and educational service units.

Equalized State Aid

6. Any state aid which is made available for local government must be provided in an equalized manner to recognize differences in the ability of local governments to finance similar packages of services. Consistent with meeting this goal would be legislation which maximizes the amount of state aid which is provided to local governments in an equalized manner and to minimize distributions of state aid which are made per capita or through some other nonequalized manner.

Fiscal Responsibility

7. Although it is not the goal of the Legislature to pass legislation to hold any political subdivision harmless for loss of revenue due to the imposition of levy caps, it is the goal of the Legislature to accommodate the loss of revenue using local savings through efficiency and unification, local taxes conditioned on joint provision of services, and actual decreases in local services. It is also the goal of the Legislature to limit appropriations for state operations to less than the historic growth rate of state revenue plus expected reductions in federal funds. Any need for state revenue due to increased service or funding responsibility is to be met first through actual reductions in state services, second by dedicating revenue in excess of the state appropriations limit, and third through fee revenue when appropriate. General tax increases are to be the last resort.

Conclusion

8. The issue of property tax relief cannot be separated from the issue of providing public services which are needed by the citizens of Nebraska. Any long-term, conscientious solution to the problem of excessive property taxes must examine issues of government consolidation and cooperation, accountability to taxpayers, a proper matching of services, tax sources, and program control, limitations on spending in general and the use of property tax in particular, and proper targeting of our aid programs. Achieving lasting and substantial property tax reduction will require thoughtful, deliberate, and continuous effort over a number of years. It is the goal of the Legislature to undertake this effort beginning with the passage of this resolution and ending some years in the future.

In addition to the six members representative of the congressional districts, three members shall be appointed by the Governor from a group consisting of all the chairpersons of the local boards, and one such chairperson shall be appointed from each such congressional district. The appointment of a member of a local board to the state board shall not create a vacancy on the local board. Members other than those appointed from the group consisting of all the chairpersons of the local boards shall be appointed to three-year terms, and those members appointed from the group consisting of all the chairpersons of local boards shall be appointed to two-year terms. No person shall serve on the state board for more than six consecutive years. No person employed by a child-caring agency, a child-placing agency, or a court shall be appointed to the state board.

The state board shall be fiscally responsible for any noncompliance sanctions imposed by the federal government related to the manner in which the state board carries out such duties. It is the intent of the Legislature that beginning October 1, 1996, the state board shall have the exclusive right and responsibility to conduct six-month case reviews pursuant to the federal Adoption Assistance and Child Welfare Act of 1980, Public Law 96-272, in the Omaha and North Platte areas.

(4) It is also the intent of the Legislature that any six-month court review of a juvenile pursuant to sections 43-278 and 43-1313 shall be identified as a review which meets the federal requirements for six-month case reviews pursuant to the federal Adoption Assistance and Child Welfare Act of 1980, Public Law 96-272.

(5) The state board may assist the Department of Social Services as to eligibility under Title IV-E for state wards and eligibility for Supplemental Security Income, Supplemental Security Disability Income, Veterans Administration, or aid to families with dependent children benefits, for child support orders of the court, and for medical insurance other than medicaid.

(6) Between August 1, 1997, and January 1, 1998, a review of the state board's singular presence in the Omaha and North Platte areas shall be completed by the Legislative Program Evaluation Committee. This review shall include a determination of the state board's timely performance in meeting federal guidelines, a cost analysis of their case reviews, an analysis as to the quality of reviews, and the effectiveness of such reviews on the children within the state foster care system.

(7) On or before January 1, 1998, the Legislative Program

Evaluation Committee shall make findings and recommendations to the Legislature as to the areas noted in subsection (6) of this section.

(8) On January 1, 1998, four full-time employees shall be added to the state board to ensure that all children in foster care in the remaining areas of the state receive six-month case reviews by the state board pursuant to the federal Adoption Assistance and Child Welfare Act of 1980, Public Law 96-272.

(9) On January 1, 1998, the permanency plan review unit of the Department of Social Services shall be eliminated and the department shall transfer all federal funds obtained under the federal Adoption Assistance and Child Welfare Act of 1980, Public Law 96-272, for such six-month case reviews of state wards to the state board. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

DATE: January 8, 1996

SUBJECT: School Bond Elections; Constitutionality of Proposal to Require Minimum Voter Participation in School Bond Elections and Proposal to Eliminate Special Elections

REQUESTED BY: Senator C. N. "Bud" Robinson

Nebraska State Legislature

Lauren L. Hill, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested an opinion from this office regarding the constitutionality of two proposals which are now being drafted in legislative form. The first proposal would require participation by an unspecified percentage of the registered voters in a particular school district for approval of the issuance of school bonds. The other proposal would eliminate the ability of school districts to call a special election for the purpose of voting on school bonds. As we have not been provided with a draft of any legislation which you are contemplating, our opinion as to the constitutionality of your proposals is necessarily limited to a review of issues arising from the general concepts as set forth above, rather than a review of specific legislation. See Op. Att'y Gen. No. 95-004 (January 18, 1995); Op. Att'y Gen. No. 82-214 (March 15, 1982).

Pertinent Statute & Enactment History

The Nebraska Constitution mandates that "{a}ll elections shall be free; and there shall be no hindrance or impediment to the right of a qualified voter to exercise the elective franchise." Neb. Const. art. I, § 22. This provision is not a grant of power but rather a limitation of power; therefore, "the Legislature has vast authority {to legislate in the area of election matters, such power being} limited only by the state and federal Constitutions." State ex rel. Creighton University v. Smith, 217 Neb. 682, 687, 353 N.W.2d 267, 271 (1984); see also Lenstrom v. Thone, 209 Neb. 783, 311 N.W.2d 884 (1981); Orleans Education Ass'n v. School Dist. of Orleans, 193 Neb. 675, 692, 229 N.W.2d 172, 182 (1975) ("The state Legislatures have plenary legislative power except as is expressly denied them by the Constitutions or as is expressly reserved to the people themselves."); Evans v. Cornman, 398 U.S. 419 (1970) (U.S. Supreme Court noted its principle "that the states have long been held to have broad powers to determine the conditions under which the right to suffrage may be exercised"). Pursuant to its authority, the Legislature has vested Nebraska school districts with the power to issue bonds, for specified purposes, so long as the conditions of Neb. Rev. Stat. § 10-702 to § 10-716 are satisfied. See Neb. Rev. Stat. § 10-701 (1991).

The statute pertinent to your inquiry provides:

> The question of issuing school district bonds may be submitted at a special election or such question may be voted on at an election held in conjunction with the statewide primary or statewide general election. No bonds shall be issued until the question has been submitted to the qualified electors of the district and a majority of all the qualified electors voting on the question have voted in favor of issuing the same. . . .

Neb. Rev. Stat. § 10-702 (Cum. Supp. 1994). We review this statute's enactment history in order to provide a framework for response to your inquiry.

In 1879, legislation was originally[1] enacted to vest school districts with the power to issue bonds for limited purposes. 1879 Neb. Laws § 1, p. 170. A two-thirds majority of the qualified electors present and voting was required in order to approve a bond issue. 1879 Neb. Laws § 2, p. 170. The two-thirds majority required for school bond approval was later amended to a three-fifths majority requirement. 1917 Neb. Laws, c. 9, § 1, p. 65. No legislative history is available to ascertain the Legislature's reasoning in establishing either of these voting percentage requirements.

In 1949, the percentage requirement was again altered -- from a three-fifths majority to a 55 percent requirement. 1949 Neb. Law, c. 13, § 2, p. 75. The principal introducer of the 1949 legislation indicated that the 55 percent majority provision was developed as a compromise figure which would apply to bond issue elections of all school districts. Committee Records on LB 2, 61st Neb. Leg. (January 25, 1949) (Hearing Minutes). Institution of the 55 percent majority requirement coincided with the repeal of former Neb. Rev. Stat. § 79-2530, which had authorized, for school districts in cities with populations in excess of 1,000, bond measures upon approval of 51 percent of qualified electors.[2] The 55 percent approval requirement remained in effect for twenty-six years, until the 1971 enactment of legislation which codified the current requirement that a simple majority of voters casting ballots at a particular election approve the school district bond issue. See 1971 Neb. Laws LB 534, § 7.

Issues Surrounding Simple Majority and Supermajority Requirements

At the time of the Legislature's 1971 enactment of the current simple majority standard, a national debate was being waged on the issue of whether, in various contexts, supermajority requirements could constitutionally be imposed by state legislatures. See Comment, Extraordinary Majority Voting Requirements, 58 Georgetown L. J. 411 (1969); Note, Extraordinary Majority Requirements and the Equal Protection Clause, 70 Columbia L. Rev. 486 (1970); Recent Cases, 83 Harvard L. Rev. 1911 (1970). Lawsuits challenging a variety of supermajority voting requirements had been filed in California,[3] Idaho,[4] Iowa,[5] Minnesota,[6] Missouri,[7] and West Virginia.[8] Debate surrounding the 1971 Nebraska enactment indicates that the Legislature was aware of that litigation. Committee Records on LB 534, 82nd Neb. Leg. (February 11, 1971) (Hearing Minutes); Floor Debate on LB 534, 82nd Neb. Leg., 339 (February 23, 1971) (Statement of Senator Luedtke).

At the center of the various state lawsuits -- as well as at the Nebraska Legislature's consideration of the 1971 legislation -- was the issue of whether supermajority voting requirements were violative of the "one-man, one-vote" principle announced by the United States Supreme Court in Gray v. Sanders, 372 U.S. 368 (1963), and Reynolds v. Sims, 377 U.S. 533 (1964). In Reynolds, the Court had examined a challenge to a reapportionment of state legislative districts in which the population represented by each district was unequal. The Court found that "the right of suffrage can be denied by a debasement or dilution of the weight of a citizen's vote just as effectively as by wholly prohibiting the free exercise of the franchise." 377 U.S. at 555. Determining that all voters should stand in the same relation regardless of where they live, the Court held that malapportionment of legislative districts unconstitutionally diluted the weight of votes cast by residents of the more populous districts. Id. at 565-66.

The Court's holdings in Gray and Reynolds have commonly been denoted as the "one-man, one-vote" rule. Until the late 1960s, the "doctrine had been restricted to reapportionment cases, in which legislative districts were required to accurately reflect their relative populations in order to avoid denying qualified voters equal protection in electing their representatives." Comment, Extraordinary Majority Voting Requirements, 58 Geor. L. J. 411 (1969-70). However, litigation arising in several states[9] sought to extend application of the "one-man, one-vote" principle in order to invalidate constitutional and statutory provisions which required approval by a supermajority of eligible voters.

The debate in the 1971 Nebraska Legislature echoed the arguments being made in the various state lawsuits. Senator Roland Luedtke, principal introducer of the 1971 measure argued that any form of supermajority approval standard infringed upon the concept of majority rule. The Senator asserted: "the majority is defeated by the minority when you have a 55 percent or 60 percent requirement. . . ." Floor Debate on LB 534, 82nd Neb. Leg. 339 (February 23, 1971) (Statement of Senator Luedtke). Opponents of the measure expressed concerns regarding the level of bonded indebtedness of local government,[10] maintaining taxpayer control over local spending decisions,[11] and ensuring balanced opportunities between opponents and proponents of particular bond issues.[12] Three months after enactment of Nebraska's current statute, the issue of whether the "one-man, one-vote" rule applied to supermajority voting requirements was resolved by the United States Supreme Court in Gordon v. Lance, 403 U.S. 1 (1971).

Significance & Application of the Gordon Decision

Your first proposal would require that the number of registered voters casting ballots on a school bond issue be at or exceed an unspecified percentage of the total qualified electors in the school district. In Gordon, the Supreme Court found that, for purposes of constitutional analysis, there is no distinction between your proposal and the supermajority approval requirement which was under consideration in that case. 403 U.S. at 7. Consequently, our analysis of your proposal will focus on the propriety of the supermajority approval requirement. At issue before the Court was a challenge to provisions of West Virginia's Constitution and statutes which provided that political subdivisions of the state could not incur bonded indebtedness or increase tax rates without the approval of 60 percent of voters in a referendum election. Id. at 2. The suit arose following a school bond election in which 51.55 percent of the total votes cast favored issuance of the bonds. Id. at 3. Having failed, however, to obtain the required 60 percent affirmative vote, the bond proposals were defeated. Id. Citizens who had voted in favor of the referendum initiated their suit seeking a declaration that the 60 percent supermajority requirement violated the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. Id.

The Supreme Court acknowledged the three-fifths voting requirement at issue "made it more difficult for some kinds of governmental actions to be taken. Certainly any departure from strict majority rule gives disproportionate power to the minority." Id. at 5-6. The Court, however, found that "there is nothing in the language of the Constitution, our history, or our cases that requires that a majority always prevail on every issue." Id. at 6. In matters of finance and taxation, the Court noted:

> It must be remembered that in voting to issue bonds voters are committing, in part, the credit of infants and of generations yet unborn, and some restriction on such commitment is not an unreasonable demand. That the bond issue may have the desirable objective of providing better education for future generations goes to the wisdom of an indebtedness limitation: it does not alter the basic fact that the balancing of interests is one for the State to resolve.

Id. at 6-7. Therefore, the Court held that so long as such supermajority provisions do not discriminate against any identifiable class they do not violate the Equal Protection Clause. Id. at 7. The Court further concluded that there exists "no independently identifiable group or category that favors bonded indebtedness over other forms of financing. Consequently no sector of the population may be said to be 'fenced out' from the franchise because of the way they will vote." Id. at 5.

That language has been construed "as standing for the proposition that, unless they are in some manner otherwise identified, the proponents of a bond issue are not themselves such an 'identifiable class,' or a 'discrete and insular minority.'" Matter of Contest of a Certain Special Election, 659 P.2d 1294, 1296 (Ariz. App. 1982); see also Santa Clara Co. Local Transp. v. Guardino, 909 P.2d 225, 247 (Cal. 1995) (holding that "{b}ecause persons who vote in favor of tax measures may not be deemed to represent a definite identifiable class, equal protection principles do not forbid 'debasing' their vote by requiring a two-thirds approval of such measures."); Gray v. Town of Darien, 927 F.2d 69, 72 (2nd Cir. 1991) (holding that "{t}he fact that {a 60 percent supermajority requirement on bond issues} makes it more difficult for those opposed to a decision of the town's elected officials to change that decision than would be the case if only a simple majority were required is constitutionally irrelevant."); Town of Lockport v. Citizens for Commun. Action, 430 U.S. 259, 268 n. 13 (1977).

The Gordon Court expressly found "no constitutional distinction between the 60% requirement in the present case and a state requirement that a given issue be approved by a majority of all registered voters." 403 U.S. at 7 (emphasis added). The Court noted:

> the latter requirement would be far more burdensome than a 60% requirement. There were 8,913 registered voters in Roane County in 1968, of whom 5,600 voted in the referendum at issue. If a majority of all eligible voters had been required, approval would have required the affirmative votes of over 79% of those voting.

403 U.S. at 7 n. 5 (citing State of West Virginia, Official Returns of 1970 Primary Election).

The Court also cited favorably to a decision on this issue which had been rendered by the South Carolina Supreme Court in Clay v. Thornton, 169 S.E.2d 617 (S.C. 1969), appeal dismissed sub. nom. Turner v. Clay, 397 U.S. 39 (1970). In that case, the South Carolina court upheld a state constitutional provision which prohibited the organization of any city or town "without the consent of the majority of the electors residing and entitled by law to vote within the district proposed to be incorporated." 169 S.E.2d at 618 (citing S.C. Const. art. 8, § 2). The challenge to that provision arose following an attempt to incorporate a city. Pursuant to procedures which had been established by statute, an election was conducted to determine whether the city would be incorporated and, if so, to elect a mayor and aldermen. Id. There were approximately 16,900 electors residing and entitled by law to vote in the election. Id. "Of the qualified electors, 7,315 cast ballots in the election with a majority (4,572) of these voting in favor of incorporation." Id. Thus, while a majority of the votes cast favored incorporation, a majority of the 16,900 qualified electors did not vote in favor of the incorporation. The court voided the election, finding that the results could be given no legal effect since the consent of the constitutionally-prescribed majority had not been obtained. Id. at 620.

In reaching its conclusion, the court rejected an argument that the practical effect of the constitutional requirement was "to add the 'non-votes to the negative votes cast' . . . thereby diluting the votes of those persons voting for incorporation." Id. The court found that such an argument was based upon the "one-man, one-vote" principles of Reynolds v. Sims, 377 U.S. 533 (1964), and concluded that those principles were not applicable to the case. Id.

As noted in Gordon, an appeal of the South Carolina Supreme Court's decision in the Clay case was dismissed by the U.S. Supreme Court. See Turner v. Clay, 397 U.S. 39 (1970). Further attempts to invalidate the South Carolina constitutional provision were also rejected by lower federal courts. See Hall v. Thornton, 445 F.2d 834 (4th Cir. 1971). We also note that one week following its Gordon v. Lance decision, the Supreme Court further upheld the constitutionality of supermajority voting requirements. The Court affirmed a federal court decision which had rejected a challenge to Missouri's two-thirds affirmative vote requirement on school bond issues. Brenner v.

School Dist. of Kansas City, Missouri, 403 U.S. 913 (1971), aff'g 315 F.Supp. 627 (W.D. Mo. 1970).

Based upon the decision rendered in Gordon v. Lance, the Supreme Court's favorable citation to Clay v. Thornton, and the Court's affirmance of Brenner, we find that the Legislature has the authority to impose a reasonable provision to require more than a simple majority of those votes cast at an election for approval of a school bond issue. The federal district court's Brenner decision has been recognized as "a long and scholarly opinion"[13] to which we direct your further review for an exhaustive analysis of the significant, competing policy concerns arising from the imposition of supermajority voting requirements. Review of the constitutional and statutory provisions of other states which mandate supermajority approval requirements may also be useful in your consideration of this issue.[14]

Issues Surrounding the Elimination of Special Elections

We now address your second proposal which would "simply eliminate the ability of school districts to call a special election for the purpose of voting on bonds. That is, if a school district wanted to pass a bond, it would have to be voted on at a general or primary election." While significant policy considerations arise in such a proposal, we find no legal impediment to the Legislature's ability to restrict voting on school district bond issues to ongoing primary or general elections.

Our conclusion is based upon several legal tenets. First, as previously discussed, the Legislature may regulate elections so long as any conditions it imposes do not conflict with the fundamental right to vote or any other provisions of the federal or state Constitutions. Cf. State ex rel. Creighton University v. Smith, 217 Neb. 682, 353 N.W.2d 267 (1984); Evans v. Cornman, 398 U.S. 419 (1970); Ratigan v. Davis, 175 Neb. 417, 122 N.W.2d 12 (1963). Furthermore, the Nebraska Supreme Court has consistently held that "{a} school district in this state is a creature of statute and possesses no other powers than those granted by the Legislature." School Dist. of Seward Educ. Ass'n v. School Dist. of Seward, 188 Neb. 773, 779, 199 N.W.2d 752, 757 (1972) (quoting State ex rel. School Dist. v. Bd. of Equalization, 166 Neb. 785, 90 N.W.2d 421 (1958)); see also School Dist. of Waterloo v. Hutchinson, 224 Neb. 665, 508 N.W.2d 832 (1993). Thus, "{t}he Legislature has plenary power and control over school districts, including provision for the appointment or election of governing bodies thereof. Consequently, it may provide limitations on any authority to be exercised by a school board." 188 Neb. at 779, 199 N.W.2d at 757.

These principles have been applied by the supreme court to a controversy involving a taxpayer's challenge of a bond issue which had been approved by his school board. McCord v. Marsh, 108 Neb. 723, 189 N.W. 386 (1922). The taxpayer sought to enjoin the school board's registration of bonds in the sum of $125,000, which issuance had been authorized by the school board after being petitioned to do so by more than 51 percent of the legal voters of the district. Id. at 725, 189 N.W. at 386. As one of his arguments, the taxpayer challenged the

Legislature's ability to provide for school district bond issuance through the petition process. Id. The court, in upholding the bond issue, expressly determined that

> {t}he maintenance of schools is a governmental function, and it was clearly within the power of the legislature to authorize the issuance of bonds for school purposes upon any conditions it might see fit to impose. It could direct that the bonds be issued by a vote of the electors, or by petition, or by the mere action of the board itself.

Id. at 728, 189 N.W. at 388. Thus, the court concluded that "the statute authorizing the bonds was a legitimate exercise of legislative authority." Id. at 729, 189 N.W. at 388. We find it likely that the court's reasoning would also be applicable to, and sustain, a decision by the Legislature to restrict voting on school district bonds to primary and general elections.

Conclusion

We find no legal impediment to your proposal to require a certain level of participation by voters in elections to approve the issuance of school bonds[15] or to your proposal to eliminate the ability of school districts to call a special election for the purpose of voting upon a school bond issue.

[1] In 1893, the Legislature enacted Chapter 31, a provision of which pertained to school district bond funding. In a controversy arising pursuant to that enactment, the Nebraska Supreme Court speculated that the 1893 legislation "seem(ed) to have contained the first provision towards raising money for school districts for future use by the issue of bonds." State v. Barton 91 Neb. 357, 363 (1912); see also Taxpayers League of Wayne County v. Benthack, 136 Neb. 277, 285 N.W. 577 (1939). Nowhere in its opinion did the court acknowledge the prior 1879 enactment. The 1893 legislation was actually the precursor to former Neb. Rev. Stat. § 79-2529 and § 79-2530 (1943). These statutes authorized issuance of school bonds upon approving votes of 51 percent of the ballots cast for schools in cities of populations in excess of 1,000. Cf. 1925-26 Rep. Att'y Gen. 311. The statutes existed from 1893 until their repeal in 1949. See 1949 Neb. Laws, c. 256; Revisor's Note to Chapter 79 (1950), pp. 328, 334. For purposes of this opinion, we deem the 1879 statute to be the earliest statutory provision regarding the issuance of general school district bonds.

[3] Westbrook v. Mihaly, 2 Cal.3d 765, 87 Cal. Rptr. 839, 471 P.2d 487 (1970) (California Supreme Court held that a two-thirds requirement for approval of county general obligation bonds violated federal equal protection principles), cert. denied, vacated, and remanded sub. nom. Mihaly v. Westbrook, 403 U.S. 915 (1971).

[4] Bogart v. Kinzer, 93 Idaho 515, 465 P.2d 639 (1970)(Idaho Supreme Court reversed a lower court ruling which had determined that state constitutional and statutory provisions requiring two-thirds assent to approve the issue of general obligation bonds was violative of the "one-man, one-vote" principle), appeal dismissed for want of federal question, 403 U.S. 914 (1971).

[5] Adams v. Fort Madison Commun. School Dist., 182 N.W.2d 132 (1970)(Iowa Supreme Court upheld statute requiring at least a 60 percent affirmative vote in order for school district bond proposals to carry).

[6] Rimarcik v. Johansen, 310 F.Supp. 61 (1970) (federal district court held that a Minnesota statutory provision requiring a 55 percent favorable vote for adoption of amendment to a home rule charter violated the "one-man, one-vote" principle and, therefore, violated the equal protection clause of the federal Constitution), vacated and remanded for reconsideration, 403 U.S. 915 (1971).

[7] Brenner v. School Dist. of Kansas City, Missouri, 315 F.Supp. 627 (1970)(federal district court upheld provisions of Missouri's Constitution and statutes which required approval by a two-thirds majority of votes cast at school bond elections), aff'd 403 U.S. 913 (1971).

[8] Lance v. Board of Educ., 153 W.Va. 559, 170 S.E.2d 783 (1969), cert. granted sub. nom. Gordon v. Lance, 397 U.S. 1020 (1970) (West Virginia Supreme Court invalidated provisions of the state's Constitution and statutes which required that a 60 percent majority of voters in referendum elections approve bonded indebtedness proposals).

elections and two-thirds majority at all other elections for bond issues); S.D. Codified Laws Ann. § 6-8B-2 (1993)(60 percent bond approval requirement); Tex. Const. art. 3, § 52(b) (West 1984) (two-thirds majority bond approval requirement).

[15] As previously discussed, we find no legal impediment to enactment of a reasonable supermajority approval requirement. In Gordon, the U.S.Supreme Court expressly authorized imposition of a three-fifths, or 60 percent, supermajority requirement for approval of referendum measures which increase the bonded indebtedness of political subdivisions. The Court also cited favorably to the provision of South Caroline law, at issue in Clay v. Thornton, which required approval of a majority of all qualified voters. As we have noted, however, the Court reserved ruling on "the constitutionality of (any) provision requiring unanimity or giving veto power to a very small group." 403 U.S. at 8, n. 6.

RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 307CA. Introduced by Withem, 14.

THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION, RESOLVE THAT:

Section 1. At the general election in November 1996 the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval or rejection:

To amend and transfer Article III, sections 2 through 4, and to add new sections 1 through 4 to a new Article XVIII entitled "Initiatives and Referendums":

XVIII-1 "The first power reserved by the people is the initiative by which laws may be enacted and constitutional amendments adopted by the people independently of the Legislature. This power may be invoked by petition wherein the proposed measure shall be set forth at length. If the petition is for the enactment of a law, it shall be signed by registered voters of the state equal in number to at least twelve percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. If the petition is for the amendment of this Constitution, the petition shall be signed by registered voters equal in number to at least eighteen percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The distribution of the registered voters signing a petition for a law or a constitutional amendment shall include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state, and when thus signed, the petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State who shall submit the measure thus proposed to the electors of the state at the first general election held not less than four months after such petition has been filed. The same measure, either in form or in essential substance, shall not be submitted to the people by initiative petition, either affirmatively or negatively, more often than once in three years. If conflicting measures submitted to the people at the same election are approved, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall become law as to all conflicting provisions. The constitutional limitations as to the scope and subject matter of statutes enacted by the Legislature shall apply to those enacted by the initiative. The special challenges of relying solely on volunteer uncompensated petition circulators are explicitly recognized. To accommodate these special challenges, petition signatures gathered by volunteer uncompensated circulators shall be granted a tabulation bonus of one additional signature counted for each valid signature submitted. For purposes of this section, volunteer uncompensated circulator means a person who does not receive compensation for collecting signatures other than reimbursement for travel and meals."

XVIII-2 "The second power reserved by the people is the referendum which may be invoked by petition against any act or part of an act of the Legislature, except those making appropriations for the expense of the state government or a state institution existing at the time of the passage of such act. Petitions invoking the referendum shall be signed by registered voters of the state equal in number to at least ten percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition, distributed as required for initiative petitions, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State within ninety days after the Legislature at which the act sought to be referred was passed has adjourned sine die or for more than ninety days. Such petition shall set out the title of the act against which the referendum is invoked and, in addition thereto, when only a portion of the act is sought to be referred, the number of the section or sections or portion of sections of the act designating such portion. When the referendum is thus invoked, the Secretary of State shall refer the same to the electors for approval or rejection at the first general election held not less than thirty days after the filing of such petition.

When the referendum is invoked as to any act or part of an act, other than emergency acts or those for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, by petition signed by registered voters of the state equal in number to at least eighteen percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition, it shall suspend the taking effect of such act or part of act until the same has been approved by the electors of the state. The special challenges of relying solely on volunteer uncompensated petition circulators are explicitly recognized. To accommodate these special challenges, petition signatures gathered by volunteer uncompensated circulators shall be granted a tabulation bonus of one additional signature counted for each valid signature submitted. For purposes of this section, volunteer uncompensated circulator means a person who does not receive compensation for collecting signatures other than reimbursement for travel and meals."

XVIII-3 "The veto power of the Governor shall not extend to measures initiated by or referred to the people.

A measure initiated shall become a law or part of this Constitution, as the case may be, when a majority of the votes cast on the measure, and not less than thirty-five percent of the total vote cast at the election at which the measure was submitted, are cast in favor of the measure, and the measure shall take effect upon proclamation by the Governor which shall be made within ten days after the official canvass of such votes. The vote upon initiative and referendum measures shall be returned and canvassed in the manner prescribed for the canvass of votes for president.

The method of submitting and adopting amendments to this Constitution provided by this section shall be supplementary to the method prescribed in Article XVI of this Constitution, entitled, "Amendments" and the latter shall in no case be construed to conflict with the provisions relating to initiative and referendum. The provisions with respect to the initiative and referendum shall be self-executing, but legislation may be enacted to facilitate their operation. Legislation which facilitates the operation of the initiative power means reasonable legislation enacted to prevent fraud, render intelligible the purpose of the proposed law or constitutional amendment, or ensure a fair, intelligent, and impartial result. Initiative and referendum measures shall be submitted in a nonpartisan manner and without any indication or suggestion on the ballot that they have been approved or endorsed by any political party or organization. Only the title or proper descriptive words of measures shall be printed on the ballot, and when two or more measures have the same title, they shall be numbered consecutively in the order of filing with the Secretary of State and the number shall be followed by the name of the first petitioner on the corresponding petition."

XVIII-4 "The Legislature recognizes that uncertainty exists in the constitutional validity of Article XVIII, sections 1 through 3, of this Constitution. Article XVIII, sections 5 through 7, of this Constitution provide an alternative procedure for initiatives and referendums. If Article XVIII, sections 1 through 3, of this Constitution are held to be unconstitutional in whole or in part by the Nebraska Supreme Court or the United States Supreme Court, upon the date of the court's opinion the provisions of Article XVIII, sections 5 through 7, of this Constitution shall become effective and be given retroactive effect to the effective date of the 1996 constitutional amendment."

~~III-2~~ XVIII-5 "The first power reserved by the people is the initiative ~~whereby~~ by which laws may be enacted and constitutional amendments adopted by the people independently of the Legislature. To initiate the enactment of a law or the adoption of a constitutional amendment, a petition shall be circulated which contains the entire proposed law or constitutional amendment. The petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State. If the petition is signed by the required number of registered voters appropriately distributed, the Secretary of State shall submit the proposed law or constitutional amendment to the electors of the state at the first general election held not less than four months after the petition is filed. The required number of signatures for a law is at least seven percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The required number of signatures for a constitutional amendment is at least ten percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The distribution of the registered voters signing a petition for a law or a constitutional amendment shall include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state. ~~This power may be invoked by petition wherein the proposed measure shall be set forth at length. If the petition be for the enactment of a law, it shall be signed by seven percent of the registered voters of the state, and if the petition be for the amendment of the Constitution, the petition therefor shall be signed by ten percent of such registered voters. In all cases the registered voters signing such petition shall be so distributed as to include five percent of the registered voters of each of two-fifths of the counties of the state, and when thus signed, the petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State who shall submit the measure thus proposed to the electors of the state at the first general election held not less than four months after such petition shall have been filed.~~

The same measure, either in form or in essential substance, shall not be submitted to the people by initiative petition, either affirmatively or negatively, more often than once in three years. If conflicting measures submitted to the people at the same election ~~be~~ are approved, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall ~~thereby~~ become law as to all conflicting provisions. The constitutional limitations as to the scope and subject matter of statutes enacted by the Legislature shall apply to those enacted by the initiative."

~~III-3~~ XVIII-6 "The second power reserved is the referendum which may be invoked~~,~~ by petition~~,~~ against any act or part of an act of the Legislature, except those making appropriations for the expense of the state government or a state institution existing at the time of the passage of such act. To refer an act or part of an act of the Legislature, a petition shall be circulated which sets out the title of the act against which the referendum is invoked and, if only a portion of the act is sought to be referred, the number of the section or sections or portion of sections of the act designating such portion. The petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State within ninety days after the Legislature at which the act sought to be referred was passed has adjourned sine die or for more than ninety days. If the petition is signed by the required number of registered voters appropriately distributed, the Secretary of State shall refer the act or the part of the act to the electors for approval or rejection at the first general election to be held not less than thirty days after the filing of the petition. The required number of signatures is at least five percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The distribution of the registered voters signing a referendum petition shall include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state. ~~Petitions invoking the referendum shall be signed by not less than five percent of the registered voters of the state, distributed as required for initiative petitions, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State within ninety days after the Legislature at which the act sought to be referred was passed shall have adjourned sine die or for more than ninety days. ~~III-4~~ XVIII-7 "~~The whole number of votes cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of an initiative or referendum petition shall be the basis on which the number of signatures to such petition shall be computed.~~ The veto power of the Governor shall not extend to measures initiated by or referred to the people.

Sec. 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the electors in the manner prescribed by the Constitution of Nebraska, Article XVI, section 1, with the following ballot language:

"A constitutional amendment to change the number of signatures needed and the method of calculating the number of signatures for initiative and referendum measures and to provide for an alternative number of signatures needed if the Nebraska Supreme Court or the United States Supreme Court holds that Article XVIII, sections 1 through 3, are unconstitutional.

THE MEMBERS OF THE NINETY-FOURTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, SECOND SESSION, RESOLVE THAT:

Section 1. At the general election in November 1996 the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval or rejection:

To amend and transfer Article III, sections 2 through 4, and to add new sections 1 through 4 to a new Article XVIII entitled "Initiatives and Referendums":

XVIII-1 "The first power reserved by the people is the initiative by which laws may be enacted and constitutional amendments adopted by the people independently of the Legislature. This power may be invoked by petition wherein the proposed measure shall be set forth at length. If the petition is for the enactment of a law, it shall be signed by registered voters of the state equal in number to at least twelve percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. If the petition is for the amendment of this Constitution, the petition shall be signed by registered voters equal in number to at least eighteen percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The distribution of the registered voters signing a petition for a law or a constitutional amendment shall include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state, and when thus signed, the petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State who shall submit the measure thus proposed to the electors of the state at the first general election held not less than four months after such petition has been filed. The same measure, either in form or in essential substance, shall not be submitted to the people by initiative petition, either affirmatively or negatively, more often than once in three years. If conflicting measures submitted to the people at the same election are approved, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall become law as to all conflicting provisions. The constitutional limitations as to the scope and subject matter of statutes enacted by the Legislature shall apply to those enacted by the initiative. The special challenges of relying solely on volunteer uncompensated petition circulators are explicitly recognized. To accommodate these special challenges, petition signatures gathered by volunteer uncompensated circulators shall be granted a tabulation bonus of one additional signature counted for each valid signature submitted. For purposes of this section, volunteer uncompensated circulator means a person who does not receive compensation for collecting signatures other than reimbursement for travel and meals."

XVIII-2 "The second power reserved by the people is the referendum which may be invoked by petition against any act or part of an act of the Legislature, except those making appropriations for the expense of the state government or a state institution existing at the time of the passage of such act. Petitions invoking the referendum shall be signed by registered voters of the state equal in number to at least ten percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition, distributed as required for initiative petitions, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State within ninety days after the Legislature at which the act sought to be referred was passed has adjourned sine die or for more than ninety days. Such petition shall set out the title of the act against which the referendum is invoked and, in addition thereto, when only a portion of the act is sought to be referred, the number of the section or sections or portion of sections of the act designating such portion. When the referendum is thus invoked, the Secretary of State shall refer the same to the electors for approval or rejection at the first general election held not less than thirty days after the filing of such petition.

When the referendum is invoked as to any act or part of an act, other than emergency acts or those for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, by petition signed by registered voters of the state equal in number to at least eighteen percent of the number of votes which were cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition, it shall suspend the taking effect of such act or part of act until the same has been approved by the electors of the state. The special challenges of relying solely on volunteer uncompensated petition circulators are explicitly recognized. To accommodate these special challenges, petition signatures gathered by volunteer uncompensated circulators shall be granted a tabulation bonus of one additional signature counted for each valid signature submitted. For purposes of this section, volunteer uncompensated circulator means a person who does not receive compensation for collecting signatures other than reimbursement for travel and meals."

XVIII-3 "The veto power of the Governor shall not extend to measures initiated by or referred to the people.

A measure initiated shall become a law or part of this Constitution, as the case may be, when a majority of the votes cast on the measure, and not less than thirty-five percent of the total vote cast at the election at which the measure was submitted, are cast in favor of the measure, and the measure shall take effect upon proclamation by the Governor which shall be made within ten days after the official canvass of such votes. The vote upon initiative and referendum measures shall be returned and canvassed in the manner prescribed for the canvass of votes for president.

The method of submitting and adopting amendments to this Constitution provided by this section shall be supplementary to the method prescribed in Article XVI of this Constitution, entitled, "Amendments" and the latter shall in no case be construed to conflict with the provisions relating to initiative and referendum. The provisions with respect to the initiative and referendum shall be self-executing, but the Legislature may enact general laws that the Legislature deems necessary to carry out the provisions with respect to the initiative and referendum. Initiative and referendum measures shall be submitted in a nonpartisan manner and without any indication or suggestion on the ballot that they have been approved or endorsed by any political party or organization. Only the title or proper descriptive words of measures shall be printed on the ballot, and when two or more measures have the same title, they shall be numbered consecutively in the order of filing with the Secretary of State and the number shall be followed by the name of the first petitioner on the corresponding petition."

XVIII-4 "The Legislature recognizes that uncertainty exists in the constitutional validity of Article XVIII, sections 1 through 3, of this Constitution. Article XVIII, sections 5 through 7, of this Constitution provide an alternative procedure for initiatives and referendums. If Article XVIII, sections 1 through 3, of this Constitution are held to be unconstitutional in whole or in part by the Nebraska Supreme Court or the United States Supreme Court, upon the date of the court's opinion the provisions of Article XVIII, sections 5 through 7, of this Constitution shall become effective and be given retroactive effect to the effective date of the 1996 constitutional amendment."

~~III-2~~ XVIII-5 "The first power reserved by the people is the initiative ~~whereby~~ by which laws may be enacted and constitutional amendments adopted by the people independently of the Legislature. To initiate the enactment of a law or the adoption of a constitutional amendment, a petition shall be circulated which contains the entire proposed law or constitutional amendment. The petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State. If the petition is signed by the required number of registered voters appropriately distributed, the Secretary of State shall submit the proposed law or constitutional amendment to the electors of the state at the first general election held not less than four months after the petition is filed. The required number of signatures for a law is at least seven percent of the number of votes which were cast for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The required number of signatures for a constitutional amendment is at least ten percent of the number of votes which were cast for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The distribution of the registered voters signing a petition for a law or a constitutional amendment shall include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes cast for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state. ~~This power may be invoked by petition wherein the proposed measure shall be set forth at length. If the petition be for the enactment of a law, it shall be signed by seven percent of the registered voters of the state, and if the petition be for the amendment of the Constitution, the petition therefor shall be signed by ten percent of such registered voters. In all cases the registered voters signing such petition shall be so distributed as to include five percent of the registered voters of each of two-fifths of the counties of the state, and when thus signed, the petition shall be filed with the Secretary of State who shall submit the measure thus proposed to the electors of the state at the first general election held not less than four months after such petition shall have been filed.~~

The same measure, either in form or in essential substance, shall not be submitted to the people by initiative petition, either affirmatively or negatively, more often than once in three years. If conflicting measures submitted to the people at the same election ~~be~~ are approved, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall ~~thereby~~ become law as to all conflicting provisions. The constitutional limitations as to the scope and subject matter of statutes enacted by the Legislature shall apply to those enacted by the initiative."

votes which were cast for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition. The distribution of the registered voters signing a referendum petition shall include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes which were cast for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state. ~~Petitions invoking the referendum shall be signed by not less than five percent of the registered voters of the state, distributed as required for initiative petitions, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State within ninety days after the Legislature at which the act sought to be referred was passed shall have adjourned sine die or for more than ninety days. Such petition shall set out the title of the act against which the referendum is invoked and, in addition thereto, when only a portion of the act is sought to be referred, the number of the section or sections or portion of sections of the act designating such portion. When the referendum is thus invoked, the Secretary of State shall refer the same to the electors for approval or rejection at the first general election to be held not less than thirty days after the filing of such petition.~~

When the referendum is invoked as to any act or part of act, other than emergency acts or those for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, by petition signed by ~~not less than~~ registered voters equal in number to at least ten percent of the ~~registered voters of the state distributed as aforesaid~~ number of votes which were cast for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition, distributed so as to include signatures equal in number to at least five percent of the number of votes which were cast for President at the general election next preceding the filing of the petition from each of at least two-fifths of the counties in the state, it shall suspend the taking effect of such act or part of act until the same has been approved by the electors of the state."

~~III-4~~ XVIII-7 "~~The whole number of votes cast for Governor at the general election next preceding the filing of an initiative or referendum petition shall be the basis on which the number of signatures to such petition shall be computed.~~ The veto power of the Governor shall not extend to measures initiated by or referred to the people.

A measure initiated shall become a law or part of the Constitution, as the case may be, when a majority of the votes cast ~~thereon~~ on the measure, and not less than thirty-five ~~per cent~~ percent of the total vote cast at the election at which the ~~same~~ measure was submitted, are cast in favor ~~thereof~~ of the measure, and the measure shall take effect upon proclamation by the Governor which shall be made within ten days after the official canvass of ~~such~~ the votes. 1. Insert the following new section:

"Sec. 2. Section 77-202.03, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1995, is amended to read:

77-202.03. (1)(a) A properly granted exemption of real or tangible personal property, except motor vehicles and real property used for cemetery purposes, provided for in subdivisions (1)(b) and (1)(c) of section 77-202 shall continue for a period of four years if the affidavit required by subsection (2) of this section is filed when due. The four-year period shall begin with years evenly divisible by four.

(b) A properly granted exemption of real property used for cemetery purposes provided for in subdivision (1)(c) of section 77-202 shall continue for a period of ten years. At the end of each ten-year period, the county board may renew the exemption for another ten years without reapplication. This subdivision shall apply to applications granted after August 25, 1989.

(2) In each intervening year occurring between application years, the organization or society which filed the granted exemption application for the real or tangible personal property, except motor vehicles and real property used for cemetery purposes, shall file an affidavit with the county assessor before January 1, on forms prescribed by the Property Tax Administrator, certifying that the ownership and use of the exempted property has not changed during the year. Any organization or society which misses the January 1 deadline for filing the affidavit may file the affidavit by July 1. ~~for 1993 and by February 1 for all subsequent years.~~ Such filing shall maintain the tax-exempt status of the property without further action by the county and regardless of any previous action by the county board to deny the exemption due to late filing of the affidavit. Upon any such late filing, the county board may assess a penalty against such organization or society of ten percent of the tax that would have been assessed had the affidavit not been filed for each calendar month, or fraction thereof, after the January 1 in which the affidavit was filed.

(3) Prior to January 1 of any application year, a new application shall be filed with the county assessor as provided in section 77-202.01.

(4) If any organization or society seeks a tax exemption for any real or tangible personal property, except motor vehicles, acquired after January 1 of any year or converted to exempt use after January 1 of any year, the organization or society shall make application for exemption on or before August 15 of that year as provided in section 77-202.01. The procedure for reviewing the application shall be as in sections 77-202.01 to 77-202.07, except that the exempt use shall be determined as of the date of application. The exemption shall continue for the same period and under the same conditions as if it had been granted on an application which had been filed in accordance with subsections (1) and (2) of this section and section 77-202.01.

(5) In any year, the county assessor or the county board may cause a review of any exemption to determine whether the exemption is proper. Such a review may be taken even if the ownership or use of the property has not changed from the date of the allowance of the exemption. The review shall follow the procedure set out in section 77-202.02. If it is determined that a change in exempt status is warranted, the procedure for hearing set out in section 77-202.02 shall be followed. If an exemption is denied, the county board shall place the property on the tax rolls retroactive to January 1 of that year if on August 15 of that year the property no longer qualifies for an exemption.

(6) During the month of September of each year, the county board shall cause to be published in a paper of general circulation in the county a list of all real estate in the county exempt from taxation for that year pursuant to subdivisions (1)(b) and (1)(c) of section 77-202. Such list shall be grouped into categories as provided by the Property Tax Administrator. A copy of the list and proof of publication shall be forwarded to the Department of Revenue.".

(Amendments to E & R amendments, AM7139)
1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following sections:
"Section 1. The Legislature finds and declares that the potential impoundment of a motor vehicle operator's license for failure to pay child, spousal, and medical support is an effective technique for the enforcement of support orders, particularly for non-wage-earning and self-employed license holders who are not in compliance with such orders. It is the intent of the Legislature:
(1) To encourage the use of proven techniques for the enforcement of support orders;
(2) To encourage such license holders to comply with their legal obligations and to add to the tools available for the enforcement of support and visitation orders; and
(3) In situations within the department's authorization, to allow the Department of Social Services to communicate to individuals, who are not in compliance with a support order, the potential for impoundment of their motor vehicle operator's license under section 2 of this act.

Sec. 2. In any proceeding when a court has ordered a parent to pay, temporarily or permanently, any amount to the clerk of the district court for the support of a minor child, the court in enforcing its support order may use its contempt powers. Such contempt powers include ordering the impounding of a motor vehicle operator's license as specified by the court and ordering that the license holder not operate a motor vehicle during the period of impoundment. An abstract of the court record impounding a motor vehicle operator's license under this section shall be transmitted to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Sec. 3. Section 42-364.15, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, is amended to read:

~~42-364.15.~~ In any proceeding when a court has ordered a parent to pay, temporarily or permanently, any amount to the clerk of the district court for the support of a minor child and in the same proceeding has ordered visitation with any minor child on behalf of such parent the court shall enforce its visitation orders as follows:

(1) Upon the filing of a motion which is accompanied by an affidavit stating that either parent has unreasonably withheld or interfered with the exercise of the court order after notice to the parent and hearing, the court shall enter such orders as are reasonably necessary to enforce rights of either parent, including the modification of previous court orders relating to visitation. The court may use contempt powers to enforce its court orders relating to visitation. Such contempt powers include ordering the impounding of a motor vehicle operator's license as specified by the court and ordering that the license holder not operate a motor vehicle during the period of impoundment. An abstract of the court record impounding a motor vehicle operator's license under this section shall be transmitted to the Department of Motor Vehicles. The court may require either parent to file a bond or otherwise give security to insure his or her compliance with court order provisions.

(2) Costs, including reasonable attorney's fees, may be taxed against a party found to be in contempt pursuant to this section.

Sec. 4. Original section 42-364.15, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, is repealed.".

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 96007

DATE: January 22, 1996

SUBJECT: Constitutionality Under Neb. Const., art. III, § 24, of LB 915.

REQUESTED BY: Senator Stan Schellpeper
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Don Stenberg, Attorney General
L. Jay Bartel, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested our opinion on two questions regarding the constitutionality of LB 915. LB 915 proposes to amend the Nebraska County and City Lottery Act {the "Act"} by expanding the definition of "lottery." Presently, a "lottery" under the Act is defined to mean "a gambling scheme in which: (a) The players pay or agree to pay something of value for an opportunity to win; (b) Winning opportunities are represented by tickets; . . .," and winners are determined either "{b}y a random drawing of tickets differentiated by sequential enumeration from a receptacle by hand whereby each ticket has an equal chance of being chosen," or "{b}y use of a game known as keno. . . ." Neb. Rev. Stat. § 9-607(1) (Cum. Supp. 1994). LB 915 would amend this definition of lottery to provide a third method of determining winners, broadly stated as being "{b}y some other method based on an element of chance;. . . ." LB 915, § 1. The bill also proposes to eliminate the prohibition in § 9-607(2)(a) against lotteries including "any gambling scheme which uses any mechanical gaming device, computer gaming device, electronic gaming device, or video gaming device. . .," and to remove such devices from the definition of "gambling device" under Neb. Rev. Stat. § 28-1101(5) (Supp. 1995).

Your first question is"{d}oes Article III, Section 24 permit the Legislature to authorize the use of mechanical, computer or video gaming devices as permissible methods of conducting a lottery simply by striking language which prohibits the use of these methods based upon the reasoning of {Video Consultants of Nebraska, Inc. v. Douglas, 219 Neb. 868, 367 N.W.2d 697 (1985)}?"

Recently, in Op. Att'y Gen. No. 95085 (November 17, 1995), we concluded that the Legislature may not enact legislation to permit the use of "slot machines" or other "electronic gaming devices" under the constitutional grant permitting the Legislature to authorize "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises. . . the proceeds of which are used solely for charitable or community betterment purposes." We stated as follows:

> Under Article III, § 24, the Legislature is precluded from authorizing "any game of chance or any lottery or any gift enterprise" except as provided in the Constitution. In our opinion, "slot machines" or other forms of "electronic gaming devices" fall within the category of "games of chance" prohibited by the Constitution, and not "lotteries" which the Legislature may sanction under its authority to permit "lotteries, raffles, and gift enterprises" whose proceeds are used for charitable or community betterment purposes. Accordingly, "slot machines" or other "electronic gaming devices" may not be authorized by the Legislature absent an amendment to the Nebraska Constitution.

Op. Att'y Gen. No. 95085 at 2.

In our recent opinion, we discussed at length the Nebraska Supreme Court's decision in Video Consultants. Op. Att'y Gen. No. 95085 at 10-12. As we stated, this case "involved only issues of whether the video gaming activities at issue constituted a 'lottery' or involved use of unlawful 'gaming devices' as those terms were defined by the Legislature; no issue was raised as to whether the video gaming activity was a permissible form of 'lottery' under the Constitution." Id. at 15-16. Thus, we stated that "the crucial issue" {one which was not addressed in Video Consultants} was "whether 'slot machines' or other electronic gaming devices are forms of 'lotteries' which the Legislature may authorize for community betterment purposes under art. III, § 24, or whether 'slot machines' or other 'electronic devices' are 'games of chance' which the Legislature is prohibited from authorizing under art. III, § 24." Id. at 16-17. We concluded, of course that "slot machines" or other "video or electronic gaming devices" (which we defined to include traditional "slot machines" or video devices based on a slot machine theme, and video or electronic devices based on games such as poker, blackjack, dice, or other forms of gambling) constitute "games of chance" prohibited by the Constitution, and not "lotteries" which may be authorized by the Legislature for charitable or community betterment purposes.

In response to your first question, we do not construe the Video Consultants case to stand for the proposition that, consistent with art. III, § 24 of the Constitution, the Legislature may authorize the use of video or electronic devices to conduct gambling activities which constitute "games of chance," as opposed to "lotteries, raffles, or gift enterprises," merely by adopting legislation to authorize such devices. The issue is not, as you have phrased it, whether the Legislature may constitutionally authorize the use of video or electronic devices in the conduct of a "lottery;" rather, as we explained in our prior opinion, the issue is whether the gambling activity to be conducted by use of the video or electronic devices involves an impermissible game of chance, as opposed to a permissible lottery. In our view, slot machines, video or electronic devices based on a slot machine theme, or video, computer, or electronic gambling devices based on games such as poker, blackjack, or dice, constitute "games of chance" which the Legislature may not authorize under art. III, § 24. While the amendment to § 9-607 under LB 915 proposes only to allow a "lottery" under the Act to include methods where winners are determined "by some other method based on an element of chance," and to remove the prohibition against the use of mechanical, computer, electronic, or video gaming devices, we believe it is clear that these changes could not, consistent with art. III, § 24, authorize the conduct of activities constituting "games of chance," or the use of video or electronic devices to conduct "games of chance." To the extent the proposed amendments to § 9-607 and 28-1101 are intended to authorize "games of chance," and the use of video or electronic devices to conduct what are, in fact, "games of chance," and not permissible lotteries, such would violate art. III, § 24.

Your second question is "whether the Nebraska Constitution permits the conduct of a lottery by the use of video or electronic gaming devices by the enactment of statutory language stating that a lottery may be conducted 'by some other method based on an element of chance.'" Again, the issue is not whether the Constitution prohibits the use of video or electronic gaming devices in the conduct of a "lottery;" rather, as we have stated, the issue is whether the gambling activity constitutes a permissible "lottery," as opposed to a prohibited "game of chance." The Legislature's power to define terms is limited because the Legislature may not, under the guise of definition: (1) abrogate or contradict an express constitutional provision; or (2) establish a definition which is unreasonable or arbitrary. See Natural Gas Pipeline Co. v. State Bd. of Equal, 237 Neb. 357, 377, 466 N.W.2d 461 (1991) (Grant J., concurring); State ex rel. Meyer v. Peters, 191 Neb. 330, 215 N.W.2d 520 (1974); Moeller, McPherrin & Judd v. Smith, 127 Neb. 424, 255 N.W. 551 (1934). The Legislature may not employ its definitional power to defeat or circumvent the Constitution. MAPCO Ammonia Pipeline Co. v. State Bd. of Equal., 238 Neb. 565, 431 N.W.2d 734 (1991). Thus, the Legislature may not constitutionally adopt a definition of "lottery" which purports to authorize "lotteries" for charitable or community betterment purposes which, in fact, constitute prohibited "games of chance." To the extent the amendment proposed by LB 915 is construed as an attempt to authorize "games of chance," and the use of video or electronic devices to conduct what are, in actuality, "games of chance," it would violate art. III, § 24.

Very truly yours,

"Section 1. All applicants for the first issuance of any certificate or permit to teach, counsel, supervise, or administer in elementary or secondary schools in this state shall file a complete set of fingerprints with the Commissioner of Education or the Nebraska State Patrol unless the applicant has been a resident of Nebraska for at least five years immediately preceding such application

Sec. 2. Upon request by the Commissioner of Education, the Nebraska State Patrol shall undertake a search for criminal history record information relating to an applicant described in

The criminal history record information check shall include information concerning the applicant from federal repositories of such information and repositories of such information in other states if authorized by federal law. The Nebraska State Patrol shall issue a report to the Commissioner of Education and to the applicant which shall include the criminal history record information concerning the applicant.

Sec. 3. The Commissioner of Education may deny issuance of a certificate to any applicant who has a felony conviction or any misdemeanor conviction involving abuse, neglect, or sexual misconduct. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

DATE: January 25, 1996

SUBJECT: Application of the County Levy Limits and Requirements for a Vote of the People Contained in Neb. Rev. Stat. § 23-120 (Supp. 1995) to Certain Proposed County Renovation Projects and Resultant Proposed Legislation

REQUESTED BY: Senator Mike Avery
Nebraska State Legislature

Dale A. Comer, Assistant Attorney General

In your opinion request letter, you indicate that there is some concern in your district about a proposed four million dollar addition/renovation to a courthouse, evidently for Sarpy County. You state that county officials do not believe that this renovation project need be presented to the voters of the county for approval, so long as the bond levy for the project is spread out over several years so that no more than one million dollars is levied by the county for the project in any one year. This position is apparently based upon certain language in Neb. Rev. Stat. § 23-120 (Supp. 1995). Since you have now prepared legislation directly related to this matter, you have posed several questions to us concerning the situation and your proposed bill.

You first ask whether the course of action contemplated by the county where the four million dollar levy for the renovation project is spread over four years without a vote of the people is "appropriate under Neb. Rev. Stat. 23-120 or any other relevant statutes."

Section 23-120 is the only statute which we have found which pertains specifically to requirements for a vote of the people in connection with the issuance of bonds for the construction/renovation of a courthouse by a county. That statute provides, in pertinent part:

> (1) The county board shall acquire, purchase, construct, renovate, remodel, furnish, equip, add to, improve, or provide a suitable courthouse, jail, and other county buildings and a site or sites therefor and for such purposes borrow money and issue the bonds of the county to pay for the same. * * *
> (2) No levy exceeding . . . (b) one million dollars in counties having in excess of one hundred thousand inhabitants and not in excess of two hundred fifty thousand inhabitants, . . . shall be made within a one-year period for any of the purposes specified in subsection (1) of this section without first submitting the proposition to a vote of the people of the county at a general election or a special election ordered by the board for that purpose and obtaining the approval of a majority of the legal voters thereon.

(Emphasis added).

Statutes are not open to construction as a matter of course, and in the absence of any contrary indication, statutory language is generally to be given its plain and ordinary meaning. Weiner v. State ex rel. State Real Estate Commission, 214 Neb. 404, 333 N.W.2d 915 (1983). In keeping with that premise, when the words of a statute are plain, direct, and unambiguous, no interpretation is necessary or will be indulged to ascertain their meaning. Rosse v. Rosse, 244 Neb. 967, 510 N.W.2d 73 (1994). It seems to us that the language in § 23-120 highlighted above is plain, direct and unambiguous. It allows counties of the size at issue in this instance to levy up to one million dollars in any one year for the payment of bonds issued in connection with the construction/renovation of a courthouse without a vote of the people. Consequently, we believe that, under § 23-120(2), the county referenced in your opinion request letter could construct a renovation project costing four million dollars without a vote of the people, so long as the county's tax levy for payment of costs connected with that project did not exceed one million dollars in any one year period.

Subsequent to your initial opinion request, you sent us a second letter in which you posed additional questions concerning the project and tax levy at issue. You enclosed a copy of LB 1377 with that correspondence, and informed us that you have submitted that bill for debate this legislative session. LB 1377 would add the following language at the end of Subsection (1) of § 23-120:

> Any project which has an estimated cost that exceeds the levy limit prescribed in subsection (2) of this section shall first be approved by a majority of the registered voters of the county at a general election or at a special election called by the county board for such purpose.

You ask, "{d}oes this new wording force the counties to bring such projects {with a total cost above the levy limits in § 23-120} to a vote of the people?"

We believe that the language which you have proposed for § 23-120 in LB 1377 is generally consistent with your apparent intent to require a vote of the people in instances where the total cost of a construction/renovation project for a county courthouse exceeds the appropriate levy limits set out in § 23-120(2). In that regard, we suggest that you take steps, both in the committee process and in the floor debate on LB 1377, to clearly state your intent in introducing the bill and your intent as to how its provisions should be applied. Those steps with respect to the creation of legislative history will further strengthen your purpose to "force the counties" to submit certain construction/renovation projects to "a vote of the people."

Finally, you ask, "how does the fact that a county has any general fund bond indebtedness (in any amount) impact the situation?"

There are several provisions of Nebraska constitutional and statutory law which limit the amount of the tax levy which may be imposed by a county. For example, Art. VIII, § 5 of the Nebraska Constitution generally provides that counties may not assess taxes which exceed, in the aggregate, fifty cents per one hundred dollars of taxable value as determined by the county assessment roles, without a vote of the people of the county. Neb. Rev. Stat. § 23-119 (Cum. Supp. 1994) also generally tracks that constitutional prohibition. In addition, Subsection (3)(c) of § 23-120, the statutory provision which is the focus of your opinion request, provides that:

> In no case shall the levy of taxes made by the county board for all purposes, including the taxes levied pursuant to this section, exceed in any one year the sum of fifty cents on every one hundred dollars of the taxable value of all the taxable property of the county.

It seems to us that if a particular county has a general fund bond indebtedness that requires a certain county tax levy each year for debt service, that tax levy would have to be considered along with any new levy under § 23-120 in determining whether the particular county had reached its constitutional and statutory levy limit. If, in fact, the new levy under § 23-120 resulted in a total aggregate county levy in excess of the statutory and constitutional levy limits, a vote of the people for permission to exceed those limits might well be separately required even if a vote of the people was not necessary under the applicable portion § 23-120.

Sincerely yours,
DON STENBERG

AMENDMENT - Print in Journal

Mr. Lynch filed the following amendment to LB 106:
AM2904

(Amendments to Final Reading copy)

1. Insert the following new sections:

"Sec. 2. Sales and use taxes shall not be imposed on the gross receipts from the sale, lease, or rental of and the storage, use, or other consumption in this state of building and plumbing materials annexed to real estate by a contractor, plumber, or repairperson.

Sec. 4. Section 77-2702.05, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1994, is amended to read:

77-2702.05. Contractor, plumber, or repairperson shall mean any person who performs any repair services upon property annexed to, or who annexes property to, real estate, including leased property, and who, as a necessary and incidental part of performing such services, annexes property belonging to him or her to the real estate being so repaired or annexed. Contractor or repairperson shall not include any person who incorporates live plants into real estate except when such incorporation is incidental to the transfer of an improvement upon real estate or the real estate. ~~The contractor or repairperson not electing to be taxed as a retailer shall be considered to be the consumer of such property furnished by him or her and annexed to the real estate being so repaired or annexed for all the purposes of the Nebraska Revenue Act of 1967. The contractor or repairperson:~~

~~(1) Shall be permitted to make an election that he or she will be taxed as a retailer in which case he or she shall not be considered the final consumer of property annexed to real estate except when the transfer of the annexed property is incidental to the transfer of an improvement upon real estate or the real estate;~~

~~(2) Shall be permitted to make an election that he or she will be taxed as the consumer of property annexed to real estate, will pay the sales tax or remit the use tax at the time of purchase, and will maintain a tax-paid inventory; or~~

~~(3) Shall be permitted to make an election that he or she will be taxed as the consumer of property annexed to real estate and may issue a resale certificate when purchasing property that will be annexed to real estate. Such person shall then remit the appropriate use tax on any materials when withdrawn from inventory for the purpose of being annexed to real estate at the rate in effect at the time and place of the withdrawal from inventory.~~

~~The provisions of this section shall not excuse any person from the obligation to collect sales tax on retail sales of property not annexed to real estate or from the obligation to pay the sales tax or remit the use tax on tools and other materials consumed that are not annexed to real estate.~~

~~The Department of Revenue shall not prescribe any requirements of Nebraska sales revenue, percentage or otherwise, restricting any person's election. Any change in an election shall require prior approval by the Tax Commissioner.~~

~~Any change in the election shall, if filed on or prior to the fifteenth of the month, become effective at the beginning of the following month or, if filed after the fifteenth of the month, become effective on the first day of the next succeeding month. Any person who changes his or her election and becomes a contractor or repairperson shall pay the tax on all property in inventory which may be annexed to real estate at the time of making the change in election except when such contractor or repairperson elects to purchase inventory with a resale certificate. Any person who changes his or her election and becomes a retailer shall not be entitled to a refund but shall receive a credit for the tax paid on property in inventory at the time the property is sold. The credit shall be applied against the tax collected on sales of such property.~~

~~Any contractor or repairperson who has not completed and~~

~~filed an election as required in this section within three months after beginning to operate as a contractor or repairperson shall be considered a retailer for all periods until an election has been made.~~

Sec. 7. Section 77-2702.14, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1994, is amended to read:

77-2702.14. (1) Retailer shall mean:

(a) Any seller engaged in the business of making sales subject to tax under section 77-2703 or in the business of making sales subject to tax under section 77-2703 at auction of property owned by the person or others. Retailer shall mean, in the case of sales at auction when the person collecting the proceeds of the auction is not the auctioneer or an agent or employee of the auctioneer, the person collecting the proceeds of the auction, other than the owner of the property, together with his or her principal, if any, and retailer shall not include the auctioneer in such case; and

(b) ~~Every person who has elected to be considered a retailer pursuant to subdivision (1) of section 77-2702.05; and~~

~~(c)~~ Every person operating, organizing, or promoting a flea market, craft show, fair, or similar event.

(2) Retailer shall not mean:

(a) Any person who leases or rents films when an admission tax is charged under the Nebraska Revenue Act of 1967 or railroad rolling stock interchanged pursuant to the provisions of the federal Interstate Commerce Act;

(b) Any person engaged in the business of furnishing rooms in a facility licensed under the provisions of Chapter 71, article 20, in which rooms, lodgings, or accommodations are regularly furnished for a consideration or a facility operated by an educational institution established under Chapter 79 or Chapter 85 in which rooms are regularly used to house students for a consideration for periods in excess of thirty days; or

(c) Any person making sales at a flea market, craft show, fair, or similar event who does not have a sales tax permit and who has arranged to pay sales taxes collected to the person operating, organizing, or promoting such event.

Sec. 8. Section 77-2702.16, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1994, is amended to read:

77-2702.16. Sale for resale shall mean a sale of property to any purchaser who is purchasing such property for the purpose of reselling it in the normal course of his or her business, either in the form or condition in which it is purchased or as an attachment to or integral part of other property. A sale for resale shall include a sale of property ~~to a contractor or repairperson electing to be taxed as a retailer under subdivision (1) of section 77-2702.05, to a contractor or repairperson being taxed as the consumer of property and electing a tax-free inventory under subdivision (3) of section 77-2702.05, or~~ to a purchaser for the sole purpose of that purchaser renting or leasing such property to another person, with rent or lease payments set at a fair market value, or film rentals for use in a place where an admission is charged that is subject to taxation under the Nebraska Revenue Act of 1967 but not if incidental to the renting or leasing of real estate.

Sec. 9. Section 77-2702.23, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1994, is amended to read:

77-2702.23. (1) Use shall mean the exercise of any right or power over property incident to the ownership or possession of that property, except that use shall not include the sale of that property in the regular course of business or the exercise of any right or power over property which will enter into or become an ingredient or component part of property manufactured, processed, or fabricated for ultimate sale at retail. ~~Use specifically shall include the annexation of property to real estate or the withdrawal of property from inventory, which inventory is subject to sales tax under the Nebraska Revenue Act of 1967 or would be subject to the sales tax under the act except for an election under section 77-2702.05, for annexation to real estate or to improvements upon real estate without regard to the fact that such property is manufactured, processed, or fabricated prior to annexation or that such real estate and improvements may subsequently be sold as such.~~

(2) Except for a transaction that is subject to sales tax under the Nebraska Revenue Act of 1967, use shall not include the keeping, retaining, or exercising of any right or power over property for the purpose of subsequently transporting it outside the state or for the purpose of being processed, fabricated, or manufactured into, attached to, or annexed to other property to be transported outside the state and thereafter used solely outside the state.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

DATE: January 31, 1996

SUBJECT: LB 69; Authority of County Boards Over the Election Commissioners in Those Counties Where the Election Commissioners are Currently Appointed by the Governor

REQUESTED BY: Senator Kate Witek
Nebraska State Legislature

Dale A. Comer, Assistant Attorney General

You enclosed a copy of LB 69, which you introduced and which is currently pending before the Legislature, with your opinion request letter. You then posed the following question to us with respect to that bill, "{i}s LB 69 necessary to give the county board authority or oversight powers over the election commissioner in those particular metropolitan counties where the commissioner is appointed by the Governor?" For the reasons discussed below, we believe that the answer to your question is "yes."

In 1994, you asked us a similar question. In that instance, you wished to know whether the election commissioner in counties over 50,000 in population was "responsible" to the Governor or to the county board under LB 76, a substantial revision of the election laws before the Legislature at that time. In our Op. Att'y Gen. No. 94008 (February 9, 1994), we responded by noting that, under LB 76, the election commissioners at issue were "responsible" to the Governor, in the sense that the Governor had authority under the bill to remove those election commissioners for specified misconduct or incompetence. LB 76 was subsequently enacted by the Legislature and approved by the Governor on April 15, 1994. The sections of the bill which allowed the Governor to appoint election commissioners for counties having a population over a certain level and to remove those commissioners for specified misconduct remained intact, and are codified at Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 32-207 and 32-214 (Cum. Supp. 1994), respectively.

Among other things, your LB 69 would amend § 32-207 so that the election commissioners in counties over 100,000 inhabitants who are currently appointed by the Governor would be appointed by the county board. In addition, LB 69 would amend § 32-214 to allow the county board to remove election commissioners in those same counties for specified misconduct. To the extent that having the power to appoint and remove the election commissioners currently appointed by the Governor is synonymous with having "authority or oversight powers" over those officials, we believe that LB 69 is "necessary" to bring about that result in light of the current statutes.

Sincerely yours,
DON STENBERG
Attorney General

AM7182

1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following new sections:

"Section 1. Sections 1 to 13 of this act shall be known and may be cited as the Sex Offender Registration Act.

Sec. 2. The Legislature finds that sex offenders present a high risk to commit repeat offenses. The Legislature further finds that efforts of law enforcement agencies to protect their communities, conduct investigations, and quickly apprehend sex offenders are impaired by lack of available information about individuals who have pled guilty to or have been found guilty of sex offenses and who live in their jurisdiction. The Legislature further finds that state policy should assist efforts of local law enforcement agencies to protect their communities by requiring sex offenders to register with local law enforcement agencies as provided by the Sex Offender Registration Act.

Sec. 3. (1) The Sex Offender Registration Act shall apply to any person who on or after the operative date of this act:

(a) Pleads guilty to or is found guilty of:

(i) Kidnapping of a minor pursuant to section 28-313, except when the person is the parent of the minor and was not convicted of any other offense in this section;

(ii) False imprisonment of a minor pursuant to section 28-314 or 28-315;

(iii) Sexual assault pursuant to section 28-319 or 28-320;

(iv) Sexual assault of a child pursuant to section 28-320.01;

(ix) Attempt, solicitation, or conspiracy to commit an offense listed in subdivisions (1)(a)(i) through (1)(a)(viii) of this section;

(b) Enters the state and has pled guilty to or has been found guilty of any offense in another state, territory, commonwealth, or other jurisdiction of the United States that is substantially equivalent to the offenses listed in subdivision (1)(a) of this section; or

Sec. 4. (1) Any person who becomes subject to the Sex Offender Registration Act shall register with the sheriff of the county in which the person resides or is temporarily domiciled within five working days of becoming subject to the act.

information to the sheriff in the new jurisdiction where the person is relocating and would be required to register within five working days of the receipt of the new address.

(3) Each sheriff shall forward all written information, photographs, and fingerprints obtained pursuant to the act to the Nebraska State Patrol within five working days. The Nebraska State Patrol shall maintain a central registry of sex offenders required to register under the act.

Sec. 5. (2)(a) When sentencing a person for an offense listed in subdivision (1)(a) of section 3 of this act, a court may also determine if the person is a sexually violent offender. When making its determination the court shall consider evidence from experts in the field of the behavior and treatment of sexual offenders.

(b) If the sentencing court determines that a person is a sexually violent offender, the person shall be required to register under the Sex Offender Registration Act until the sentencing court determines that the person no longer suffers from a mental abnormality or personality disorder that makes the person likely to engage in a sexually violent offense. Such determination shall not be made until ten years after the date of discharge from probation, of parole, or of release from incarceration, whichever date is most recent.

(c) In addition to complying with the annual verification requirements in section 6 of this act, a person determined to be a sexually violent offender shall verify the registration information every three months after the initial registration date.

(d) For purposes of this section:

(i) Mental abnormality means a congenital or acquired condition of a person that affects the emotional or volitional capacity of the person in a manner that predisposes that person to the commission of a criminal sexual acts to a degree that makes the person a menace to the health and safety of other persons; and

(e) The address of the person's current residence and place of employment.

(2) For the duration of the registration period required by the act, registration information shall be verified annually within thirty days after the anniversary date of the person's initial registration date. To properly verify, the following shall occur:

(a) The Nebraska State Patrol shall mail a nonforwardable verification form to the last-reported address of the person;

(b) The verification form shall be signed by the person and state whether the person still resides at the address last reported to the patrol; and

(c) The person shall mail the verification form to the patrol within ten days after receipt of the form.

(3) If the person fails to complete and mail the verification form to the patrol within ten days after receipt of the form, the person shall be in violation of this section unless the person proves that he or she has not changed his or her residence address.

(2) The petition shall be filed in the district court of the county in which the petitioner was convicted of an offense listed in section 3 of this act. If the petitioner was convicted in another state, the petition shall be filed in the district court of the county in which the petitioner resides. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

DATE: February 2, 1996

SUBJECT: Legislation Authorizing the Director of the Department of Environmental Quality To Suspend Remedial Actions Involving Leaking Underground Storage Tanks

REQUESTED BY: Senator Jerome Warner
Nebraska State Legislature

WRITTEN BY: Don Stenberg, Attorney General
Timothy J. Texel, Assistant Attorney General

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding the administrative decision of the Director of the Department of Environmental Quality ("Director") to indefinitely suspend remedial actions required under the Leaking Underground Storage Tank ("LUST") program at 659 petroleum-contaminated sites. In particular, you stated that "the {Program Evaluation} committee would like to know whether you believe it would be advisable to enact legislation specifically authorizing the director to take such action." (emphasis in original). You explain that the committee is considering legislation to address issues raised by its evaluation of the LUST program.

We addressed a number of issues involving the Leaking Underground Storage Tank program, and in particular the Director's authority pursuant to the Petroleum Remedial Action Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 66-1501 to 66-1530 ("Remedial Action Act"), in a previous opinion. See Op. Att'y. Gen. No. 95083 (October 27, 1995). A review of the contents of Opinion No. 95083 may at least partially address the issue about which you requested advice. One question addressed in Opinion No. 95083 was whether the Department has any flexibility, once reimbursements approved exceed the amount in the Petroleum Release Remedial Action Cash Fund ("Cash Fund"), to utilize the Cash Fund in any manner inconsistent with the requirements in Neb. Rev. Stat. § 66-1523(4) (Cum. Supp. 1994). Section 66-1523 requires reimbursements normally to be paid in the same order in which they are submitted to the Department.

The Department interprets the provisions of Neb. Rev. Stat. § 66-1529.02(1) (Cum. Supp. 1994) as providing an exception to the normally chronological order requirement for reimbursements under § 66-1523(4). This interpretation is based on the Director's determination that certain sites pose a danger to public safety or the environment. In Opinion No. 95083, we agreed with the Department's interpretation of the provisions of § 66-1523(4), when read in conjunction with § 66-1529.01(1).

Whether it would be advisable to enact legislation specifically authorizing the Director to indefinitely suspend cleanup projects required under the Petroleum Products and Hazardous Substances Storage and Handling Act, Neb. Rev. Stat. §§ 81-15,117 to 81-15,127, or the Remedial Action Act would depend largely on the purposes which the Legislature wishes the aforementioned Acts to achieve.

Pursuant to its duty to administer the provisions of the above Acts, the Department has interpreted the statutes dealing with remedial actions and reimbursements as allowing suspension of remedial actions when the Cash Fund becomes insufficient to meet outstanding reimbursement claims submitted by petroleum tank owners and operators. If the Legislature supports this interpretation, no action would necessarily be required to allow the Department to continue operating in accordance with its understanding of the statutes involved. When the Legislature does not enact legislation to alter an administrative agency's interpretation of a statute, the courts have construed the Legislature's decision not to alter the agency's interpretation as lending support to the agency's position. The Nebraska Supreme Court has held that an administrative agency's interpretation of a statute over which it has enforcement authority is not controlling, but considerable weight will be given to the construction, particularly when the Legislature fails to take steps to change the agency's interpretation. Omaha Public Power Dist. v. Nebraska Dept. of Revenue, 248 Neb. 518, 529, ___ N.W.2d ___ (1995). See also McCaul v. American Savings Co., 213 Neb. 841, 331 N.W.2d 795 (1983). We note, though, that a statute specifically providing such authority, as opposed to mere acquiescence, provides a much clearer indication of the Legislature's intentions for an administrative agency or a court to follow.

Conversely, if the Legislature does not agree with the Department's interpretation of the statutes regarding suspension of cleanup sites, legislative action may be required in order to change the Department's current actions and provide the Director with guidance as to how the Legislature wishes the Department to handle the difficulties presented by the Cash Fund's inability to provide immediate reimbursement to all owners and operators with approved but unpaid reimbursement claims.

As we pointed out in Opinion 95083, although we agree with the Department's interpretation and believe it is a reasonable reading of the current statutes, it is not clear whether the Department's interpretation would be upheld should a challenge be brought in court. When read separately, there appear to be discrepancies between the provisions of § 66-1523(4) and § 66-1529.02(1). Legislative action providing more specificity regarding the Director's authority to indefinitely suspend remedial actions at contaminated sites when the Cash Fund becomes insufficient to supply reimbursements for approved remedial actions would presumably clarify any ambiguities and remove much of the uncertainty regarding the Director's authority to take such actions.

Sincerely,
DON STENBERG
Attorney General

The identification inspection required by this subsection shall include examination and notation of the current odometer reading and a comparison of the vehicle identification number with the number listed on the ownership records, except that if a lien is registered against a vehicle and recorded on the vehicle's ownership records, the county clerk shall provide a copy of the ownership records for use in making such comparison. If such numbers are not identical, ~~or~~ if there is reason to believe further inspection is necessary, or if the inspection is for a

An interested person may have a cause of action to recover on the bond for a breach of the conditions of the bond. The aggregate liability of the surety to all persons having a claim shall not exceed the amount of the bond.

(3) At the end of three years after the issuance of the bond, the holder of the certificate of title may apply to the department on a form prescribed by the department for the release of the bond and the removal of the notice required by subsection (4) of this section if no claim has been made on the bond. The department may release the bond at the end of three years after the issuance of the bond if all questions as to the ownership of the vehicle have been answered to the satisfaction of the department unless the department has been notified of the pendency of an action to recover on the bond. If the currently valid certificate of title is surrendered to the department, the department may release the bond prior to the end of the three-year period.

NOTICE: THIS VEHICLE MAY BE SUBJECT TO AN UNDISCLOSED INTEREST, BOND NUMBER .....

(2) For any sanitary and improvement district, persons whose ownership or right to vote becomes of record or is received after the date specified pursuant to subsection (1) of this section may vote upon establishing their right to vote to the satisfaction of the election board. At the first election and at the election held two years after the first election, any person may cast one vote for each trustee for each acre of unplatted land or fraction thereof and one vote for each platted lot which he or she may own in the district. When ownership of a platted lot or unplatted land is held jointly by two or more persons, whether as joint tenants, tenants in common, limited partners, members of a limited liability company, or any other form of joint ownership, only one person shall be entitled to cast the vote of such property. The executor, administrator, guardian, or trustee of any person or estate interested shall have the right to vote. No corporation, estate, or trust shall be deemed to be a resident owner for purposes of voting for trustees. Should two or more persons or officials claim the right to vote on the same tract, the election board shall determine the party entitled to vote. Such board shall select one of their number chairperson and one of their number clerk. In case of a vacancy on such board, the remaining trustees shall fill the vacancy on such board until the next election.

(3) The election commissioner or county clerk shall hold any election required by subsection (1) of this section by sealed mail ballot by notifying the board of trustees on or before July 1 of a given year. "Section 1. Section 81-829.43, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, is amended to read:

81-829.43. (1) In addition to disaster prevention measures as included in the state, local, and interjurisdictional disaster plans, the Governor shall consider on a continuing basis steps that could be taken to prevent or reduce the harmful consequences of disasters. At his or her direction, and pursuant to any other authority and competence they have, state agencies, including, but not limited to those charged with responsibilities in connection with flood plain management, stream encroachment and flow regulation, ~~weather modification,~~ fire prevention and control, air quality, public works, land use and land-use planning, and construction standards, shall make studies of disaster prevention-related matters. The Governor, from time to time, shall make recommendations to the Legislature, local governments, and other appropriate public and private entities as may facilitate measures for prevention or reduction of the harmful consequences of disasters.

(2) The appropriate state agencies, in conjunction with the state Civil Defense Agency, shall keep land uses and construction of structures and other facilities under continuing study and identify areas which are particularly susceptible to severe land shifting, subsidence, flood, or other catastrophic occurrence. The studies under this subsection shall concentrate on means of reducing or avoiding the dangers caused by any such occurrence or the consequences thereof.

(3) If the state Civil Defense Agency believes on the basis of the studies or other competent evidence that an area is susceptible to a disaster of catastrophic proportions without adequate warning, that existing building standards and land-use controls in that area are inadequate and could add substantially to the magnitude of the disaster, and that changes in zoning regulations, other land-use regulations, or building requirements are essential in order to further the purposes of this section, it shall specify the essential changes to the Governor. If the Governor upon review of the recommendation finds after public hearing that the changes are essential, he or she shall so recommend to the agencies or local governments with jurisdiction over the area and subject matter. If no action or insufficient action pursuant to his or her recommendations is taken within the time specified by the Governor, he or she shall so inform the Legislature and request legislative action appropriate to mitigate the impact of disaster.

(4) The Governor, at the same time that he or she makes recommendations pursuant to subsection (3) of this section, may suspend the standard or control which he or she finds to be inadequate to protect the public safety and by regulation place a new standard or control in effect. The new standard or control shall remain in effect until rejected by resolution of the Legislature or amended by the Governor. During the time it is in effect, the standard or control contained in the Governor's regulation shall be administered and given full effect by all relevant regulatory agencies of the state and local governments to which it applies. The Governor's action may be appealed, and the appeal shall be in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act.

Sec. 2. Section 81-829.45, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, is amended to read:

81-829.45. The state Civil Defense Agency shall keep continuously apprised of weather conditions which present danger of precipitation or other climatic activity severe enough to constitute a disaster. ~~If the agency determines that precipitation that may result from weather modification operations, either by itself or in conjunction with other precipitation or climatic conditions or activity, would create or contribute to the severity of a disaster, it shall direct the officer or agency empowered to issue permits for weather modification operations to suspend the issuance of the permits, and thereupon no permits may be issued until the agency informs the officer or agency that the danger has~~

The director may require any insurer which is authorized to do business in the state, which is a member of an insurance holding company system, and which is not subject to registration under this section to furnish a copy of the registration statement, the summary specified in subsection (3) of this section, or other information filed by such insurer with the insurance regulatory authority of its domiciliary jurisdiction.

The director shall disallow such a disclaimer only after furnishing all parties in interest with notice and opportunity to be heard and after making specific findings of fact to support such disallowance.

(12) The failure to file a registration statement or any summary of the registration statement thereto required by this section within the time specified for such filing shall be a violation of this section.".

LEGISLATIVE BILL 1122. Placed on Select File as amended.
E & R amendment to LB 1122:
AM7183

1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following new sections:

"Section 1. Section 77-202.01, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1995, is amended to read:

77-202.01. Any organization or society seeking a tax exemption provided in subdivisions (1)(b) and (1)(c) of section 77-202 for any real or personal property, except motor vehicles, shall apply for exemption to the county assessor before January 1 of the year for which the exemption is sought on forms prescribed by the Property Tax Administrator. The county assessor shall examine the application and recommend either taxable or exempt status for the real property or tangible personal property, except motor vehicles, to the county board of equalization on or before February 1 following.

Any organization or society which misses the January 1 deadline for applying for exemption may apply prior to ~~February~~ July 1 to the county board of equalization for a waiver so that the county assessor may consider the application for exemption. The county board of equalization shall grant the waiver upon a finding that good cause exists for the failure to make application by January 1. When the waiver is granted, the county assessor shall examine the application and recommend either taxable or exempt status for the real property or tangible personal property, except motor vehicles, to the county board of equalization and may assess a penalty against the organization of ten percent of the tax that would have been assessed had the waiver been denied for each calendar month or fraction thereof for which the filing of the application for waiver missed the January 1 deadline.

The changes made to this section by this legislative bill apply to applications filed for 1996 taxes and all years thereafter.

Sec. 2. Section 77-202.03, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1995, is amended to read:

77-202.03. (1)(a) A properly granted exemption of real or tangible personal property, except motor vehicles and real property used for cemetery purposes, provided for in subdivisions (1)(b) and (1)(c) of section 77-202 shall continue for a period of four years if the affidavit required by subsection (2) of this section is filed when due. The four-year period shall begin with years evenly divisible by four.

(b) A properly granted exemption of real property used for cemetery purposes provided for in subdivision (1)(c) of section 77-202 shall continue for a period of ten years. At the end of each ten-year period, the county board may renew the exemption for another ten years without reapplication. This subdivision shall apply to applications granted after August 25, 1989.

(2) In each intervening year occurring between application years, the organization or society which filed the granted exemption application for the real or tangible personal property, except motor vehicles and real property used for cemetery purposes, shall file an affidavit with the county assessor before January 1, on forms prescribed by the Property Tax Administrator, certifying that the ownership and use of the exempted property has not changed during the year. Any organization or society which misses the January 1 deadline for filing the affidavit may file the affidavit by July 1. ~~for 1993 and by February 1 for all subsequent years.~~ Such filing shall maintain the tax-exempt status of the property without further action by the county and regardless of any previous action by the county board to deny the exemption due to late filing of the affidavit. Upon any such late filing, the county board may assess a penalty against such organization or society of ten percent of the tax that would have been assessed had the affidavit not been filed for each calendar month or fraction thereof for which the filing of the affidavit is late. The changes made to this subsection by this legislative bill apply to affidavits filed for 1996 taxes and all years thereafter.

(3) Prior to January 1 of any application year, a new application shall be filed with the county assessor as provided in section 77-202.01.

(4) If any organization or society seeks a tax exemption for any real or tangible personal property, except motor vehicles, acquired after January 1 of any year or converted to exempt use after January 1 of any year, the organization or society shall make application for exemption on or before August 15 of that year as provided in section 77-202.01. The procedure for reviewing the application shall be as in sections 77-202.01 to 77-202.07, except that the exempt use shall be determined as of the date of application. The exemption shall continue for the same period and under the same conditions as if it had been granted on an application which had been filed in accordance with subsections (1) and (2) of this section and section 77-202.01.

(5) In any year, the county assessor or the county board may cause a review of any exemption to determine whether the exemption is proper. Such a review may be taken even if the ownership or use of the property has not changed from the date of the allowance of the exemption. The review shall follow the procedure set out in section 77-202.02. If it is determined that a change in exempt status is warranted, the procedure for hearing set out in section 77-202.02 shall be followed. If an exemption is denied, the county board shall place the property on the tax rolls retroactive to January 1 of that year if on August 15 of that year the property no longer qualifies for an exemption.

(6) During the month of September of each year, the county board shall cause to be published in a paper of general circulation in the county a list of all real estate in the county exempt from taxation for that year pursuant to subdivisions (1)(b) and (1)(c) of section 77-202. Such list shall be grouped into categories as provided by the Property Tax Administrator. A copy of the list and proof of publication shall be forwarded to the Department of Revenue.

Sec. 3. Original sections 77-202.01 and 77-202.03, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1995, are repealed.

Sec. 4. Since an emergency exists, this act takes effect when passed and approved according to law.".

AMENDMENT - Print in Journal

Mr. Maurstad filed the following amendment to LB 1050:
AM3250
(Amendments to Standing Committee amendments, AM3077)

1. Insert the following new sections:

"Sec. 34. (1) The Legislature finds and declares that:

(a) The Tax Equity and Educational Opportunities Support Act is based on the premise that funds available to school districts should not be solely based on a district's local property tax base; and

(b) School districts' ability to retire bonded indebtedness for purposes of capital construction of school facilities is virtually entirely based on their individual local property tax base.

(2) It is the intent, purpose, and goal of the Legislature to create a system of financing the retirement of bonded indebtedness of school districts which will:

(a) Increase the equalization of financial support for bonded debt retirement by provision of state assistance taking into consideration the needs and accessible resources of school districts relative to debt retirement;

(b) Reduce the reliance on property tax for the retirement of school district bonded indebtedness; and

(c) Minimize the adverse effect on the general fund state aid equalization process embodied in the Tax Equity and Educational Opportunities Support Act.

Sec. 35. For purposes of sections 34 to 39 of this act:

(1) Adjusted valuation has the meaning found in section 79-3803;

(2) Average daily membership has the meaning found in section 79-3803;

(3) Data year means the school fiscal year immediately preceding the year in which the school bond state aid is to be paid;

(4) Department means the State Department of Education;

(5) Eligible school district means any public school district but does not include any Class II, III, IV, V, or VI school district in which a high school has fewer than fifty students enrolled in grades nine through twelve and which is within fifteen miles of another public high school;

(6) Scheduled debt retirement payments means the amount required to be paid, by fiscal year, in principal and in interest for the retirement of school district bonded indebtedness incurred pursuant to Chapter 10; and

(7) School bond state aid shall mean the amount of assistance paid to a district pursuant to sections 34 to 39 of this act.

Sec. 36. Beginning in school fiscal year 1997-98, a portion of the funds appropriated for distribution as allocated income tax funds shall be used to support the public school system by assisting qualifying school districts in the retirement of new or existing bonded indebtedness incurred pursuant to Chapter 10. The total amount provided as school bond state aid in any fiscal year shall not exceed ten percent of the total appropriation of funds appropriated for distribution as allocated income tax funds for that fiscal year.

Sec. 37. Beginning in 1997, no later than June 1 of each year eligible school districts may submit an application for assistance under sections 34 to 39 of this act to the department. Such application shall include the scheduled debt retirement payments for which the district is seeking assistance, as well as any other information the department requires to administer such sections. School districts not submitting an application prior to such date shall not be eligible for assistance pursuant to such sections for the ensuing fiscal year.

Sec. 38. Using the data certified by eligible school districts pursuant to section 37 of this act, the department shall calculate each district's school bond state aid pursuant to sections 34 to 39 of this act and shall certify the ensuing fiscal year's assistance to each eligible school district no later than July 1. Such amounts shall be distributed in a single payment on the last business day of September of each year. Such certified school bond state aid amount shall be shown as budgeted non-property-tax receipts and deducted prior to calculating the property tax request in the district's debt retirement fund budget statement as provided to the Auditor of Public Accounts pursuant to Chapter 13 and section 79-3815.

Sec. 39. (1) The department shall calculate each eligible school district's adjusted valuation per student by dividing the district's adjusted valuation from the data year by the district's average daily membership from the data year.

(2) The department shall calculate the state average adjusted valuation per student by dividing the unduplicated statewide total adjusted valuation in the data year by the statewide total average daily membership in the data year.

(3) The department shall calculate an assistance factor for each eligible school district by comparing that district's adjusted valuation per student to the statewide average adjusted valuation per student. A linear transition shall be used such that (a) any school district with adjusted valuation per student of one-half the state average adjusted valuation per student or less shall be assigned a factor of forty percent, (b) any school district with adjusted valuation per student equal to the statewide average adjusted valuation per student shall be assigned a factor of twenty percent, and (c) a school district with adjusted valuation per student of two times the state average adjusted valuation per student or more shall be assigned a factor of zero percent.

(4) The department shall multiply each eligible district's assistance factor calculated pursuant to subsection (3) of this section by the district's scheduled debt retirement payments for the ensuing fiscal year to arrive at each district's preliminary school bond state aid amount.

(5) If the total preliminary school bond state aid calculated pursuant to subsection (4) of this section exceeds ten percent of the total appropriation of funds appropriated for distribution as allocated income tax funds for the ensuing year, the department shall prorate each eligible district's school bond state aid by multiplying each district's preliminary school bond state aid by the same prorate factor.".

2. On page 22, line 9, after "act" insert "and as school

3. On page 24, after line 11, insert the following new subsection:

"(4) For calculations beginning with school year 1997-98, the department shall reduce the allocated income tax funds calculated for each district pursuant to this section proportionately such that the total amount paid as allocated income tax funds for the school year does not exceed the total amount appropriated for distribution as allocated income tax funds less the amount calculated as school bond state aid pursuant to sections 34 to 39 of this act.".

4. On page 70, line 21, strike "37" and insert "43".

5. Renumber the remaining sections and correct internal references accordingly.
