

the other five people are going to be. And to me, I would like to have the discussion of how I feel about the possibilities of amending the United States Constitution...he wants to go, don't let him tell you he doesn't...and I want them to know when they go and are asked to vote on this, Mike Leavitt says that this is what they are going to be discussing, I am sure Senator Withem I think has admitted that this was discussed, Senator Wesely, anybody. They called this big conference of states meeting in Washington because they are in a big panic because seven states have voted it down, and they are trying to see if they can regroup and make sure they get this through in enough states. So they had this big discussion in Washington this last weekend, and they admit that these are the things that was discussed, these are the amendments that are going to be proposed. In Mike Leavitt's own words, this is the first one that is going to be proposed. Now if you are not going to be there, what is wrong with instructing...

SENATOR CROSBY: One minute.

SENATOR WITEK: ...the delegates from Nebraska that we are not going to allow them to propose or approve that amendment. All...they can still bring back any kind of a piece of paper they want to bring back with any kind of discussion on there that they want to have to this body. I am just saying, since you are on a whole brand new process that they are creating here, be involved in it a little bit, and put some of your ideas into it, and instruct our delegates, since we are not going to be there. Hopefully, you will adopt this amendment. It is going to be proposed and it will give you an opportunity to instruct our delegates how you feel about it. Thank you.

SENATOR CROSBY: Thank you, Senator Witek. Senator Chambers, on the Witek amendment.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Madam President, members of the Legislature, Senator Witek said I may have a little more trouble stepping into the role of Sir Galahad than some might, and she is correct. Usually I am stepping on instead of into. But, Senator Witek, the thought of me going to that convention would cause me to do a play on another Knight's name. I would become Sir Laughs-a-lot, and I have no intention of participating at a conference such as this. Some people have said it is not my, or some person, it is not my job to preside over the dismemberment of the British Empire. And I don't know whether anybody said
