

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Sure.

SENATOR VRTISKA: They can appeal and say we don't think that you're right and they then can have the right to come and be heard as well as an individual.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Yes, they have standing in the commission and then they have the right to appeal if they don't like that.

SENATOR VRTISKA: And the last question, I hope I can get this in and you can answer, and that is, somewhere in here did you identify, and I haven't had time to look, did you identify what the qualifications of these individuals who are going to serve have to be? Or do they have to have certain qualifications?

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Yes. And I would refer you to Section 4 that starts on the bottom of page 3 about the type of people, the qualifications that we're going to do, and then you will also. I have an amendment coming which I'd like to put in there that talks about...

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Time.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: ...additional training. I'll...we'll visit with that...

SENATOR VRTISKA: Okay.

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Thank you, Senator Vrtiska. Senator Robinson.

SENATOR ROBINSON: Madam President, members of the body, I couldn't help but think about that one comment you made, Senator Kristensen, about all the boards of equalization being very diligent and you know that...and, of course, that makes...so what you are saying is Senator Cudaback and Senator Vrtiska and Senator Engel were very diligent people when they were on their county boards and that really makes me feel good because knowing that they were very diligent in their endeavors down there. I do have a few more questions though, Senator Kristensen.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: There's exceptions to every rule.

SENATOR ROBINSON: Okay, good, I like that comment. If you look at Vrtiska out there, that's all right, that's all right. One question that I didn't get around to asking, who do you think
