

complicated things. I also want to make sure that they have some continuing education requirements, and will continue to do that. That's part of this amendment, and, finally, the last one is that the commission can suspend or remove an assessment official from office for failure to comply with any of those. It is really what we discussed earlier. That is similar to the remedy that is now possessed with the State Board of Equalization and the Department of Revenue, although it has never been exercised, it is certainly one that they have the opportunity to use, and these people will be in the best situation to do that. Obviously, the major part of this, this amendment, is that removal power; it's the knowledge of complex industrial properties; and the ability to have some continuing education; on the staggered basis of the terms as well. I don't believe that this amendment should cause you great heartache anywhere, given the questions we've had before. With that, I'd urge the adoption of this particular amendment.

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Thank you, Senator Kristensen. Senator Hall, to speak to the Kristensen amendment.

SENATOR HALL: Thank you. Madam President and members, Senator Kristensen, would you respond to a question?

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Senator Kristensen.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Yes.

SENATOR HALL: I apologize, I just got a copy of the amendment.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: No, you are fine.

SENATOR HALL: Was it passed out?

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Yes, it was, Senator. I made a mistake yesterday in filing it and I didn't get it printed, so it got put out today.

SENATOR HALL: I am sorry. I couldn't...I still can't find it but explain to me again, if you would, I understand the...I have no problem with the term of the members and how they expire, and that change. What do we do, on page 4, line 7, where we include complex industrial properties, and mass appraisal techniques? Can you walk me through that and tell me what that does?
