

SENATOR BRASHEAR: Well, Senator Chambers, my copy has a comma after "storage", so I'm separating storage from warehousing.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: All right. Well, what would be the difference between storage of the kind that I'm talking about and warehousing? In other words, are these terms of art so that they are mutually exclusive, warehousing can be a form of storage, and storage can take place in warehouses. So where would the line be drawn? If a person did not label his or her business warehousing, then how could you establish that what they're doing is warehousing?

SENATOR BRASHEAR: I'm not going to...I'm not going to suggest to you that I'm an authority. But I do believe these are terms of art. Storage is where tangible personal property of some kind, it reposes for the purpose of reposing there solely. In other words, it's being held. When we talk about warehousing we're talking about such tangible personal property which is being warehoused for the purpose of future distribution. I mean you don't warehouse forever. You may store for a very long period of time. You don't generally warehouse for that length of time.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Could you store until the end of time or until the twelfth of never, conceivably, if we're talking about storage alone?

SENATOR BRASHEAR: Conceivably you could, but in that instance it might involve a great deal of money. The bill would be enormous.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Could a coffin in the ground be considered storage?

SENATOR BRASHEAR: It depends upon your point of view.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: (Laugh.) Thank you. Members of the Legislature, I am going...oh, here's what I want to ask you, Senator Brashear, and this was not a part of what you discussed. But in terms of the funding, this $6 million that I have mentioned is not going to be placed in the fund at one time. Do you agree with that, that there will be two infusions, based on the way the bill is drafted?
