apartment at the Sky Park. And as I...one of the first times I went into Sky Park, a fellow opened the door for me and he introduced himself, said I'm Bill Tallichet and he said you're Senator Jensen. And this was even before the swearing in which told me that he had already read up, and he said I'm a sergeant at arms over there and he said I'd be glad to help you in any way that I can, and it was just so reassuring to have a helping hand, somebody that you could talk to, somebody that if I was lost, and I was many times the first week or two, to say, Bill, where do I go? What am I supposed to do and he would just put his arm around me and say head this way or I'll take you or whatever. And it's really fitting that this morning we just take a few minutes to remember a man like Bill, and like many of you've said, he was a humble man and really didn't desire recognition, but yet it is good that we can take this time and reflect on a man's life. And so I just want share that with you and it is only when you leave this earth, you only have the memories that are left behind, and certainly as has been said very many times, but really it is apropos for Bill that someone can say well done, good and faithful servant. Thank you.
