

specifies, and provides a limitation. So I think that Senator Witek's amendment should go the direction of the others that she has offered. Good discussion has been generated, and with that having occurred, I think we ought to deep-six this amendment, but not Senator Witek. I enjoy more than ever having her around. I need somebody to kick around.

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Time.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: She is not listening to me, so I thought I'd get all those punches in and she would not respond. She still didn't get it.

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Thanks, Senator Chambers. Senator Robak.

SENATOR ROBAK: Thank you, Madam President, members of the body. Most of my questions by this time have been answered, most of them from Senator Jones's question. Senator Chambers, you are not going to hear a sob story because I love the way I grew up, and it was brought to me very vividly when I attended Grandparents' Day at my grandchild's school just last week, and we had to compare the way we grew up as opposition to the way they grow up today. And I wouldn't trade those experiences with anything, Senator Chambers, not one thing. I love the way I grew up, it was wonderful, and I am only sorry that the grandchildren, my grandchildren and everybody else's grandchildren can't enjoy those experiences that I was fortunate enough to have. But I do have some questions, because I guess I might not have been listening too closely, for Senator Bohlke please.

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Senator Bohlke.

SENATOR ROBAK: And, Senator Bohlke, just for my own information, you stated that postsecondary education means community colleges or perhaps that last year of college maybe just two hours or how many hours that recipient needs to gain a college education, is that right?

SENATOR BOHLKE: That's correct.

SENATOR ROBAK: And then somebody said, I forget what Senator said, that that department might sign a contract and say that if this is that goal of that recipient, and they need this college degree, and its their goal and their heart's desire, they will
