concern with dealt with the ability of the commission, and I'm trying to think, on reassessing a class or subdivision of a class.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Okay. I lump...

SENATOR WESELY: One minute

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: I lump that into the...what I call sort of the proportionality of the remedy amendment. In other words, if you had a small...and maybe I'm wrong. But one of the questions I think (inaudible)...

SENATOR HALL: Is that the subsequent amendment that's coming up?

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: No, that's part here...

SENATOR HALL: Okay, could you point to that.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: ...and it goes to, I think you said if you had to make a small change in a subclass, or that was the only problem, could they go ahead and do the whole county and thus invoke all that expense for the entire count. And that's the reason I put it in and talked about that relief is adequate to resolve the dispute and not excessive compared to the problems to be addressed.

SENATOR HALL: Okay, can you walk me through that in relation to the green copy or the committee amendments, which ever one we're working from here, for purposes of...let's...so I can see how it's going to read.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Okay, if you go to the committee amendments and...

SENATOR WESELY: Time, sorry. Senator Lindsay, you're next.

SENATOR LINDSAY: Thank you, Mr. President. I would yield to Senator Hall, if he needs the time.

SENATOR KRISTENSEN: Senator Hall.

SENATOR HALL: Thank you, Mr. President and members. Thank you, Senator Lindsay. Senator Kristensen, could we continue?
