

what it is they're reading. I will not accept it. But here's what you'll notice. You don't see Senator Pirsch and Senator Witek come in here and talk about the billions of federal dollars derived from taxpayers' money which sends millions of dollars to Nebraska farmers as welfare. I've never heard Senator Witek or Senator Pirsch stand on this floor and say down through all of the years of discussion of parity, giving of subsidies, price supports, pay not to produce crops, that farmers have become self-sufficient. They've never said it has created self-sufficiency. It has created absolute and total dependency, but they never stand up and say take away those billions of dollars. No, attack the poor children by saying you hurt them by putting food in a plate which otherwise would be empty. All these big shots with all this livestock that they want to feed at a very low rate and in some cases no rate on public property and there are politicians who go to Washington to seek that. I have yet to hear a whimper on this floor about giving over to those special private profit-making interests free run of this federal land which supposedly in theory belongs to all of us. They don't talk about that. When they stand up on the floor and condemn people who cannot find a job for not working, do you ever see them stand on the floor and condemn farmers for getting money for not planting? John Wayne was great at that. He had big old farms out in California and he hated Mexicans. He hated them and he talked against them being on welfare and asked why won't they go to work and earn the money that they're given. And they asked why won't he plant crops to earn the money that they give him? So don't condemn me for receiving money for not working as long as you get money for not planting and you get a lot more. But do they talk about that? No, they gave John Wayne what was called the Medal of Freedom, the highest medal this country can bestow on a big moocher and sponger. And I'm going to serve some articles around to you all showing the millions of dollars that farmers in Nebraska are getting from the federal government and it's far more money than this state sends to Washington. So we're talking about welfare, meaning some people in society are given money by the government that is derived from the taxes of others in society. Let's talk about it all. But you know farmers who are getting these handouts and you dare not cross them. But there is nothing, and there is no interest off limits to me when we're talking about people saying gimme, gimme, gimme. And those people who buy houses getting tax breaks on their mortgage which means that other people are paying taxes to underwrite...
