

all. How do you know whether you're going to do it well until you embark upon it? And if once having embarked upon it you're not doing it well, you're supposed to do it not at all. But the first part said, once it's begun don't leave it till it's done. So there's an inherent contradiction but as a child you listen to the rhyme, it sounds appealing to the ear; but there's a logical inconsistency. And, Senator Lindsay, the point that I'm getting across to you the best that I can is I'm unwilling to let this tiger go. We have been discussing it. We have been battling on it and people have gotten upset because it has taken time when everybody knew it was going to take time. And I want those who have amendments coming up in case you adopt Senator Lindsay's all-out retreat motion, I'm going to add amendments to those provisions, so if people have their heart set on an easy ride for the bills they want to attach to this one, they need to get prepared because we're just going to take time on other things instead of this particular amendment. But maybe somebody would like a change of scene because I'm told the next...the next bill deals with sex. And as I read some of the language, it talks about genital area, groin, inner thighs, buttocks, breasts, sexual behavior, past sexual behavior, that ought to liven up everybody, reproductive organs, touching by the victim of the actor's sexual or intimate parts. I don't know if this is going to go into the movie that children are not supposed to see, but anyway the actor's intimate parts are to be touched so maybe we do need to move on to something else. But I assure you that the time is going to be taken one way or the other and I'm with Senator Pirsch in being willing to stay here until midnight or however long it takes. Now I don't know at what point Senator Lindsay will leave the field in abject humiliation by invoking cloture but he probably will. Poor Senator Witek had worked hard to get her amendment added to the Senator Lindsay amendment. And I was listening downstairs, I pay attention, county attorneys and people from the Attorney General's office explained to her what had happened and members of her staff and said, but, wait, you don't know what it is you've gotten involved in. And when she looked and saw what she had been involved in, she said, horrors, and her face probably turned as crimson as the beautiful dress with the black trim that she's wearing. And she said, I've got to do something to correct this and that something is to sacrifice that which is dear to me on the altar of defeating Senator Lindsay. I never knew that Senator Lindsay was such a villain. He doesn't even look like that to me standing there in his pinstripe shirt, tie, all akimbo, just leaning on the pillar minding his own business and
